! A N INSTITUTION in our midst which we are in-To clined to take for granted but which is one of the few things that merits the description of "in-Mispensable" is our hospital.

It is inconceivable that this community could exist as such without its hospital. But until we have some personal reminder of its need, most of us probably never give it a thought.

There is nothing wrong in this. A modern and Well-run hospital such as ours is more likely to maintain that standard if public interference is kept to a minimum. At the same time the direction of its affairs is a community responsibility, which is carried out through the election of a board of directors representing those whom the hospital serves.

Fortunately, Prince Rupert has not lacked capable citizens willing to serve in this capacity, but the interest of the broader public in electing them is less satisfactory. Why this should be so is a mystery, for all that is entailed is membership in the hospital association at the cost of one dollar.

Considering that approximately 3,400 patients any one of whom might be you or a member of your family—are treated at the hospital each year, it is an extremely small price.

It is a small price also in view of the fact that the hospital has served Prince Rupert since 1910 and has grown into one of the finest for any city of its ble to control.

There are some major problems ahead for the for sure, whether the test nuclear Employees of the MacMillan hospital and it will be the duty of the board to solve explosions which have been carthem. Its finances are of urgent concern and there are important matters of expansion and equipment to be settled. On Friday elections to the board are to be held, so that in actuality the settlement of these problems depends on what happens then. A board that represents the considered opinion of many is likely to have more success than one to which nobody has given much thought.

On Monday, memberships to the association for this year will close. It is the duty and privilege of all those interested in having a good hospital to join, so their voice can be heard.
