THE FOUR-MINUTE BARRIER for the running of the mile has been shattered twice within two months—and in both cases the same man, Chris Chataway, "the Red Fox of Oxford" was the pacer. Here, Chataway paces Australia's John Landy (left), as the latter does the mile in an amazing 3 minutes, 58 seconds in Turku, Finland. Landy's mark cut 1.4 seconds off Roger Bannister's world record. Chataway was right behind Bannister at Oxford in May when the British track star became the first man to crash the mark. For a fellow who drinks and smokes and breaks the rules of training, Chataway manages to keep in the shadow of the fastest men on earth.
