

Worth of PTA to Community Theme of King Edward Panel

The Parent-Teachers' Association — a worthwhile asset to School in spending on the community, stressed the way by which PTA helped community and discussion, which took place at the King Edward PTA regular monthly meeting, Tuesday.

Prior to the main discussion, Mr. O. R. Green, program committee for King Edward PTA reviewed the background of Parent Teacher Organizations, of which there are 100 groups in C. alone.

Mrs. A. Logan, president of the Prince Rupert PTA Council outlined the part PTA's play in the home. Mrs. Logan pointed out that there are many projects and classes available to parents. She said, "Mrs. Logan said, create better relationship between parent, teacher and school."

"The child is influenced by the attitude of parents towards the school and since the child loves, respects and admires both parents and teachers, it would do well for them to know each other," Mrs. Logan said.

"It is the aim of the PTA to get all parents to become members," she concluded.

Mr. M. Tracy, King Edward vice-principal who spoke on behalf of the school, said a big factor was "the direct contact." Although PTA teachers have a chance to meet parents ten times a year, they should not only cater to members but should try to know the parent of every child in school, Mr. Tracy said.

"There again parents must attend the meetings in order to familiarize themselves with changes," he said, adding that material assistance by the school from the PTA, was always greatly appreciated.

Mr. E. Bartlett, program committee for King Edward PTA, outlined the part PTA's play in the home. Mrs. Logan pointed out that there are many projects and classes available to parents. She said, "Mrs. Logan said, create better relationship between parent, teacher and school."
