Program of Atomic Warfare Defence Scheduled For Militia Says Kitching

A modern training program with emphasis on atomic warfare defence will be inaugurated for West Coast militia units within a few months, Brig. George Kitching, CBE, DSO, said here Monday night.

Brig. Kitching made the announcement after he had made an informal inspection of the 120th troop of the 5th West Coast Harbor Defence Bty, RCA (M).

"With the atomic era before us we must prepare ourselves to play our part," he said adding that "within a few months the modern militia units can expect a modern training program in atomic defence to be launched."

He said that at the moment the militia, the police and the fire department were the only civilians who are disciplined and could be depended on for immediate relief or protection in the event of an atomic catastrophe. They would be the first groups the civilian population would call upon should an aggressor drop an atomic weapon in the Prince Rupert area.

MUST BE TRAINED

Brig. Kitching said that it is for this reason the coast militia units must be trained in atomic defence.

"We must be prepared at all times with the proper knowledge to fulfill its proper role with the community."

He said that in terms of modern warfare, Prince Rupert would need an area that extended to Port Edward in order to withstand an atomic blast. In comparison he said, the army would have 1,000 men where 20,000 were normally concentrated.

"The concentrated areas are a thing of the past and the population must spread out," he said.

Brig. Kitching also said that Prince Rupert can expect a
