Canadian Trade Criticised

A PPARENTLY some quarters in the U.S. take a jaundiced view of the export trade in agricul-Laral products that Canada is doing with countries Inder Soviet influence. Evidence of this is seen in the following article that appeared in U.S. News jund World Report:

The Canadian government is underwriting wheat sales to Poland and Czechoslovakia, Hungary is reported ready to buy Canadian wheat, too,

Canadian butter is being sold at a loss to Ezechoslovakia.

Ottawa regards dumping of such surplus prodjiets in Exstern Europe as legitimate. Ottawa has protested U.S. dumping of agricultural surplus in the free world as interfering with normal trade. Dther members of the British Commonwealth, such as New Zealand and Australia, haven't liked U.S. actions, either.

Poland buys 10 million bushels of low-quality Canadian wheat at market prices. Cost, including Treight, is about 19 million dollars. Poland makes a down payment of 3 million dollars. Remainder is Financed by loans from Canadian banks guaranteed by the Canadian government. Loans are to be repaid by Poland within one year. Apparently, Poland puts up no collateral.

A similar deal is reported with Czechoslovakia. Here the amount is 5 to 10 million bushels of wheat and the loan is also guaranteed by Ottawa.

Canadian butter is being sold to Czechoslovakia for 37 cents a pound. The Canadian "support" price for butter is 58 cents. And the wholesale price for Butter sold to Canadians is 62 cents. So the Czechs will get this butter for a lot less a pound than the gaverage Canadian pays in the grocery store.

Several attempts have been made by American icitizens to sell surplus butter from U.S. government istocks to the Soviet bloc. But export licenses have mever been granted.

Clapping of Hands

THEY ALSO serve who only sit and clasp their hands. Many people get little other chance to express their pleasure than in clapping their hands stogether. This may be done quite loudly without being considered a social error. Even a well-modullated "bravo" is permitted, although whistling is generally frowned upon. Standing to clap makes a good impression; usually nobody is looking, howlever. Some hand-clappers manage to get a superior sound into it, as though they were doing him-whoigets-clapped a favor.

The Roman with his thumb up is the most celeibrated example of this, but he really was doing a favor to the entertainer. The average hand-clapper of these times has less influence, especially if he lquits in embarrassment when he notices others laren't clapping. A good time not to clap is at a rest In music. Clapping is fairly sure to be well received towards the end of a dinner at home.

Revived by an inhalator squad, the lad will watch his dog receive the 1955 Ren-La Ration award later this month in Chicago. She also will receive a $1,000 U.S. bond, a gold leash and collar, and a year's supply of dog food.
