Bear for Punishment

ALASKA'S GIANT Kodiak bear plays rough, but the people who run the Bronx Zoo have found the perfect toy for him. It's an aluminum beer barrel, which in his playful moments he can bang, bounce and generally maltreat without serious damage. Having seen barrels (filled) being tossed around trucks, we can understand why brownies have turned to those rugged, attractive containers. Another reason, of course, is that aluminum is an excellent protector for food and drink, preserving their purity and flavor indefinitely. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Well-Known Rupert Couple Pledge Vows in Edmonton

Of wide interest in Prince Rupert was a recent wedding ceremony in Edmonton in which Marjorie Doreen Leeman became the bride of John William Finley.

Both principals are of Prince Rupert, the bride daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Leeman, 215 Fourth Avenue East, and the groom son of Mrs. C. H. Finley, 323 Eighth Avenue East.

The Rev. Delivering concrete by blow-pipe

You have seen concrete pouring down a trough from a mixer. Can you imagine this heavy, wet mixture being carried by a blast of air through a 6-inch steel pipe—blown up more than 200 feet, blown around corners, along the level or straight down for 1600 feet.

When Inco engineers decided that there would be advantages in using concrete instead of wood as supports in many parts of the Creighton mine they had to find a way to transport the wet concrete from the mixer to the working locations.

A continuous blast of air from the mine's high pressure system is used to carry hundreds of tons of concrete through the intricate mine workings. With new methods such as this, Inco is continually improving the efficiency of its mining operations.
