How hot does a team have to get to catch San Francisco Seals, Vancouver Mounties may well be asking themselves today. It would be a legitimate question—an understandable lanient. The second-place Mounties have won seven straight Pacific Coast League games, including Friday night's 3-2 victory over Sacramento. In so doing they have moved exactly one-half game closer to the leading Seals, who maintained their edge with a 12-6 victory over Los Angeles their eighth against two losses in 10 games.

In other games Friday night Seattle topped Hollywood 2-1 and San Diego downed Portland
