He can afford the extras that make life more enjoyable.

He works for Imperial Oil. And pay at Imperial is a good return for good work, at botter than average rates.

For instance, in British Columbia Imperial's average pay is 28 percent higher than the average for B.C. based on the Dominion Bureau of Statistics nine-industry composite.

His pay cheque is regular, uninterrupted by seasonal shutdowns.

And there are many other good things at Imperial such as: generous annuities---sickness bonesits---medical and surgical benefits -survivor benefits and group life insurance—employee training—and university scholarships. And all those are reasons...
