Naturally, Mr. Masters did not overruff at trick four. Instead he discarded the eight of diamonds. Mr. Abel then played the hand wide open, banking everything on a 3-3 trump split. He led three rounds of spades, ending with dummy's king.

But on the third round Mr. Dale showed out, dropping a diamond. After that the contract was hopeless as the club suit could not be brought in. Mr. Masters was the only player at the table who had a trump left! and Mr. Abel could win only one more trick, the ace of hearts.
