Strength By DAVE McINTOSH

Canadlan Press Staff Writer OTTAWA (CP) — The 'army's strength has fallen to its lowest point since

A defence department spokesman says army strength at the end of May--latest figure available—stood at 46,684.

This is about 1,000 less than at Dec. 31, 1956, 500 less than at Dec. 31, 1955, and about 2,800 less than at Dec. 31, 1954.

In March, 1952, during the defence buildup brought on by the Korean War, the army's strength stood at 49,278 compared to 35,-000 at the same date in 1951.

Wily Mr. Dale as Defender Beats Unbeatable Contract Today

The test of a fine defender lies in his ability to ferret out ways to beat unbeatable contracts. If that, sounds contradictory, see how wily old Mr. Dale defeated today's contract.

His opening lead was the jack of spades and Mr. Abel properly played low from dummy and won in his own hand with the king. Since he was not sure of the location of the ace of spades, it appeared to him that he had to bring in three diamonds tricks to make his contract. So he led the dummy's king, returned a small diamond and finessed the jack.

Mr. Dale won with the queen. He decided there was no way to beat three no trump by straight, normal play. As you sec, he was quite right. Mr. Abel had four club winners, three diamonds, the spade already won and the ace of
