

Rupert Curlers Tied for Second

Prince Rupert representatives in the University of British Columbia curling league tied for second place in the current round-robin event Saturday night, defeating the Foster rink of Vancouver 8-5.

The win gives the Rupert rink a three-win, two loss record for the new year.

Rink captain, Russel Morrison said this morning in a wire:

"If play continues this way we stand a good chance of making the playoffs for the whole year league play."

Starting off Saturday night's game with a two ender, the Ruperts kept the lead all the way.

Majority of points were gained in two and three enders.

Skip Jim Bateman and third George Henry played an exceptionally good game making approximately 90 per cent of their shots, Morrison said.

At The CURLING CLUB

By BOB RUDDERHAM

During the latter half of last week, we have had the play-offs for the Gordon's Hardware Trophy and I couldn't help but note the improvement the average players have shown since the new rink was made ready for curling.

Gone are the days of the rolling "runner" and the over use of the guard. Now the game has progressed to the quiet chomp and lie game and the players are playing more with draw weight and the houses are being filled with rocks. There are few runs where a guard 15 feet from the rock being guarded, is of any use and on every sheet a draw shot can be made to any rock in any spot on the ice with either turn so it is only natural that the players have improved somewhat.

One of the best played games so far this year for my money was the game between Tom Inkster and Dom Dominato. Dom scored a five-end late in the game to go one up going home.

He then got the shot rock nicely protected but Tom came up with a perfect draw shot to the four foot circle to count one and tie the game. The game then went into the extra end. This time Inkster had the shot rock protected and Dom's nice try with his last rock failed to dislodge it.

Another good game was between Jack Laurie and Jack Lindsay. While Lindsay held a small lead during the game up to at 9:15 on Tuesday night. The Cook Trophy competition is also underway now so don't be confused as to what ice the game is to be played upon. Ice 5 small lead during the game up to at 9:15 on Tuesday night.

MOTOR MAIDS

Angry, Upset?
Don't Drive!

By Jeanne Smith,
Dodge Safety Consultant

"IF YOU'RE KEYED UP" angry or upset about household or office problems don't get behind the wheel of your car.

That's the advice of Dr. Elmer Siebrecht, professor of psychology at Seattle Pacific College, who believes that emotional upsets cause 80 to 90 percent of driving mishaps.

Through his study of auto accidents, and their causes, he concludes that the upset driver often lets good judgment and driving ability go right out the car window. Instead, the emotionally distressed motorist may use dangerous, excessive speed in an attempt to leave frustration behind.

Most people are subject to emotional upsets and frustration during the course of everyday living, Dr. Siebrecht claims. Whether these will be reflected in driving actually depends upon the driver's personality.

The even-tempered, well-adjusted and mature person seldom has accidents or violates traffic rules he says.

Those subject to anxieties and moods lose their emotional bearings only occasionally, but when this happens, according to Dr. Siebrecht, they're apt to miss traffic signals, fail to look before turning or forget to signal. Preoccupation is a definite driving hazard.

The majority of accidents, he claims, are caused by people who are chronically at odds with the world. Many of them suffer from anti-social disorders which make them very unpleasant characters — both on and off the highway.

Remember When

Joe Louis pounded out a 15-round decision over Arturo Gatti of Chile at New York 17 years ago last Saturday. It was the Brown Bomber's ninth successful defence of the world heavyweight title, a record he stretched to 25 victories before his first retirement in 1948.
