THE UNKNOWN PITCHER—John Weiss of Brooklyn, N.Y., has what is one of the most unusual jobs in the world of sports. He is a pitcher for the Philadelphia Phillies who does nothing but batting-practice pitching. He is not on the regular Phils' roster nor does he go to their spring training camp. He does travel with the team during the season. Welss comes to the ball park, pitches batting practice, then showers and watches the game from the stands.
