FRIDAY, JULY 12

THE RESULTS IN SASKATCHEWAN.

Protest was made by the Conservatives against the assertion by the farmers of Saskatchewan of the very obvious fact that a vote for "Borden and Haultain" is a vote for the forces that defeated reciprocity.

From the point of view of the supporters of the government it is unfortunate that the farmers of Saskatchewan possess so much intelligence as to have still an eye to the solid diet which was refused them in September last. A sufficient length of time has elapsed since September to reveal to the people of Saskatchewan, as well as to others in the west, the extent of the loss which they sustained by the defeat of reciprocity, and their resentment is being unmistakably manifested.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR MAYORS.

At the recent conference of chief magistrates of the cities in one of the Middle Western States, the suggestion was made that a training school be established for mayors so that the cities over whose affairs they preside may be saved the expense of some of their costly blunders.

Prince Rupert cannot as yet fairly charge any of her mayors with having been guilty of making tremendously costly blunders, and yet it is difficult to estimate the amount of the numerous far-called items of loss that a city suffers through the effect upon its municipal life of an inefficient executive. While even a well intentioned amateur mayor is puzzling out problems of administration a young city may be losing time, losing prestige, and losing money. A training school for mayors would be a good thing. At present the only training schools for mayors are the cities themselves which need the mayors' services, and the process of training is expensive to the cities.

SOUND SENSE FROM SEAWARD.

It is the bane of every small community that the people find fault with the government, officials, one another and things in general, if things do not turn out just as they want them. Everybody appears to know everybody else's business and this thing and that is considered wrong. In the large centres, where men are busy all the live long day attending to their own business, and work overtime to make both ends meet, there is little bickering and the next door neighbor does not know what is going on, and cares less. Let all work together for the general good. Bickerings and backbiting never obtained anything that could be considered beneficial. Let the petty grievances take care of themselves, and work with a will to advance the community, which also means the advancement of the individual.—Queen Charlotte Islander.

Thronged with eager and anxious buyers all day, and everybody more than well pleased and satisfied with the prices and quality of goods shown, even with the army of extra clerks employed it taxed us to the utmost to wait on the trade at times, but we are willing that this should be as we must get rid of the stock by the 15th of August.

PREMIER R. L. BORDEN MAKES NOTABLE ORATION IN LONDON

ENUNCIATES WITH MARKED ELOQUENCE THE EVIDENT SPIRIT OF THE GOVERNMENT'S NAVAL POLICY AND RISES TO UNWONTED HEIGHTS OF RHETORIC.

Following are further details of R. L. Borden's epoch making speech in London at the Colonial Institute:

"We have the mandate of the Canadian people to discuss matters of great imperial concern. In advance of discussion it is not to be expected that I should make any announcement as to our co-operation in naval defense. It is a trite saying that the naval supremacy of the empire is the very breath of its life and without which it cannot possibly endure. It also seemed to us that this supremacy can only be maintained by one united navy. Our ideal is one king, one flag, one empire, one navy powerful in days of stress or peril to vindicate the flag and maintain the empire's existence.

Two Considerations.

"There are two considerations before us. The first touches possible immediate gravity under existing conditions. The other touches the more difficult and more complex question of co-operation in the empire's defense upon the high seas. The second of these considerations raises in concrete form the question of the future constitution of the organization of the empire. Canada Not Adjunct.

"It is of sufficient moment to emphasize our view that any great dominion undertaking to share upon any permanent basis in the sea defense of the empire must have some voice in the policy which shapes the issues of war or peace. Canada does not propose to be merely an adjunct even to the British Empire; she faces the future today with a proud spirit, conscious of her problems but equally conscious of her ability to solve them.

Mistress in Her Own.

"Watchful and patient of her resources, she is determined they shall be developed in the interest of her people. Mindful of her opportunities and responsibilities, she is resolved to play her full part in maintaining the unity of empire in promoting its influence for the cause of civilization and of humanity and for peace among nations."

Referring to Canadian French loyalty, Borden said that there are no better, worthier or more loyal subjects of His Majesty than those who are represented by his colleague, Mr. Pelletier.
