With full Masonic rites the remains of the late Dr. J. O. Reddie, pioneer of Prince Rupert and most deeply respected resident, will be interred tomorrow afternoon. The deceased was a member of the Tsimpsean Lodge, A. F. and A. M., under the auspices of which order the obsequies will be carried out. Kerr, pastor of that church, while the consignment will assemble in the Presbyterian Hall at 1:30 p. m. The interment will take place at the new cemetery at Fairview, Messrs. Hayner Bros. having charge of the arrangements. There will be a very large gathering of old timers and all citizens, for Dr. Reddie was a man well liked by all who knew him.

Q. C. I. MAN IS MARRIED IN RUPERT

At the Presbyterian manse on Wednesday evening Mr. Clarence Percival Johnston and Miss Ida Graham were united in marriage, Rev. F. W. Kerr officiating. Both young people are well known and very popular residents of Queen Charlotte City. Miss Graham since coming to live with her sister has been one of the real favorites in the town, winning the respect of everyone by her quiet and dignified demeanor, always lending her aid in social and religious work. Mr. Johnston is an old student of Queen's University, beginning his medical course, but leaving it to come to his excellent ranch at Queen Charlotte. The happy young couple leave tomorrow evening for their home, where a warm welcome awaits them on every hand.

THE G. T. P. MAY SOON SELL SECTIONS 3 AND 4

There is a strong impression in real estate circles today that the G. T. P. propose to soon put on the market Sections 3 and 4 of the townsite. It was stated that G. U. Riley, the land commissioner, was expected shortly in connection with the matter. Interviewed on the subject today, Mr. D. H. Hays remarked simply that he had advised the sale of these sections shortly, but that there is nothing definite to give out on the matter as yet.

POUNDED BY THE KEEPER OF THE POUND

A slight difference of opinion between two well known citizens of Prince Rupert, both hailing from the Emerald Isle—Paddy Farrell and Tom O'Brien, the city pound keeper—resulted in a visit to the police court this morning of the two principals. After a little airing of the matter before his worship Magistrate Cars, when it transpired that reflections were cast by Mr. Farrell upon the pound keeper in his professional capacity, causing the latter to hand him a pugilistic poke, affairs were arranged by the city official contributing one dollar to the civic fund. The corral of stray canines expressed the opinion that the price of satisfied honor was ridiculously low and left the precincts of the court of law with a beam upon his countenance.

DYING GENERAL'S MESSAGE

The late General Booth's last message to Salvationists through out the world was: "His promises are sure, if you believe."
He spoke his final intelligible words on Sunday, when he said, "Don't worry; let me die. I want to go to Heaven."
The general's dying grief was that he never had a reconciliation with his son, Ballington, from whom no word of sympathy or interest has been received.

IMPORTANT PASSENGERS BY RUPERT

Mr. Poole and Mr. Overmere, of the U. S. Steel Corporation, were passengers on the Rupert this morning. They are up to look over the sit of the new dry dock, as they have extensive steel contracts for that structure, as well as several steel bridges on the G. T. P. between here and Hazelton.

SNATCHED 2000 FEET ALOFT THEN HURLED TO HIS DEATH TERRIBLE TRAGEDY OF AIR

Special to Daily News
Flint, Aug. 30.—In the presence of hundreds of persons 14-year-old Chester Betts was accidentally caught in the guy rope of a balloon today and carried 2,000 feet into the air before he became untangled and was hurled to his death. He crashed against the roof of a barn and was still alive when the spectators reached him, but he soon died.
The tragedy occurred at the county fair. When the balloon shot upward many persons thought the youth dangling at the end of the rope was a dummy. Heroic efforts of the balloonist to rescue the boy soon disclosed the truth. The aeronaut, in peril of his own life, was seen working desperately to pull the dangling form to the trapeze. The weight of the boy almost dragged him over, too, and his strength was taxed too much to get the lad into safety before the rope untwisted.

The victim at first made a brave struggle to maintain his hold on the rope, but the increasing height from the ground as the balloon soared upward seemed to paralyze him with terror and he slipped helpless to his doom. As he fell the balloon leaped aloft almost out of sight, and drifted rapidly away in the upper current, to descend a considerable distance off. The aeronaut was himself almost overcome with distress at the mishap, which he could not help.

INHUMAN CONDUCT OF PARENTS

Stratford, Aug. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. William Bugg, of Blanchard township, are committed for trial on charges of failure to provide the necessities of life for their 5-year-old son, who was seized at his home almost dead from starvation and ill treatment. Bail for the prisoners was refused.

A SOCIETY EVENT IS BRIDGE PARTY IN THE AGNEW RESIDENCE

A very delightful bridge party, attended by a number of Prince Rupert's leading society people, was given at the residence of A. W. Agnew, on McBride street, last evening. The party was given by Mr. and Mrs. William Agnew, who have been on an extended visit to their son, Mr. A. W. Agnew, before leaving for Victoria, in which city Mr. Agnew Sr., who has been a life long resident of Montreal, has purchased property and intends in the future to reside. The large room which is to be used as the drafting office of Messrs Ritchie & Agnew upon their leaving their present offices on Second avenue, was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the walls being draped with flags, quantities of evergreens and baskets of beautiful flowers surrounding the room in great profusion.

The invitation list included the following: Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. McMaster, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McIntosh, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pillsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Bullock-Webster, Dr. and Mrs. Tremayne, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Angus Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Roberson, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ritchie, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. OPPOSED TO C. P. R. SCHEME OF FINANCE

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 30.—The Union of Canadian Municipalities, at their annual session, published a resolution opposing the government's permitting the Canadian Pacific Railway to increase its capital stock by sixty millions, alleging that the money was taken with the idea of keeping the earnings on C. P. R. common stock under 10 per cent, with a view to preventing the operation of the road and the freight and passenger rates from coming under government control, as provided for in the original agreement with the Dominion.

Campa's followers are camped fourteen miles west of the camp. Another force is reported to be riding in from the east. The camp is well provisioned. Refugees are flocking here on special trains. H. C. Beaucamp, general manager of the Transvaal Mine, reports the mines looted by rebels. J. S. Hunter, the store manager, was held for ransom, which was paid and the Americans arranged for an armistice. Assistance was asked for the Federal troops at Agua Prieta, opposite to Douglas, and was refused.

PRINCE RUPERT VS. HAZELTON.

By today's train there left for the up river mining city a company of Prince Rupert stalwarts and their staunch supporters, bound on athletic business, and with the athletic reputation of Prince Rupert in charge. Old Hazelton has something of a pull over Prince Rupert as far as baseball is concerned, because Hazelton has always had the greensward level and velvety for the boys of the Hazelton ball team to practice on, and of course they know their field. But pluck is characteristic of Prince Rupert's athletes, and with local laurels to their credit they will acquit themselves nobly in the interior. That they will receive a good welcome is certain. Hazelton has ever displayed toward Prince Rupert feelings and an attitude of the most sportsmanlike, sending down courteous challenges with fair offers of share in the gate, and always being only too anxious to have the Prince Rupert boys up there to match skill against skill.

LONDON PAPER ON PANAMA.

The Daily Express in an editorial argues that the action of the conference committee on the Panama Canal bill in dropping the clause regarding ocean trade ships fails to remove the British objection while the coastwise clause is retained. The newspaper adds: "Indeed, it is hard to avoid the suspicion that the former clause, which was added after the British protest was lodged, was inserted in order that by dropping it an air of sweet reasonableness might be given to the original vexation."

RUPERT TO MAKE HOLIDAY.

Long looked forward to by every citizen more or less, Labor Day is now due, and the Labor Day week-end begins today. It is on occasions like this that Prince Rupert proves the magnificence of the city's surroundings for recreation. There are dozens of picnics planned for Monday, and many camping parties are starting today for farther away beauty spots. "The bush is full of them," to quote the western idiom. Camp where you please, you will find new charm, new amusement and adventure. Porcher Island parties will be fishing, clam digging, crab hunting, cuttle fish capturing, sea bathing and racing on fair white sand. Round the island parties will shoot rapids and dwell amidst loveliness of scenery unsurpassed. Rambling parties ashore will hunt and fish and spend strenuous health giving days and wonderful, still nights in the magic of the primeval bush. Prince Rupert is a centre of one of nature's most wonderful wildernesses of beauty in B. C.

THE RAILWAY AND THE CITY.

Towns first grew out of the social instinct of the race, but whether they continued and flourished or withered away like leaves of a summer depended upon traffic. In the old world traffic did not always obey natural laws, but was drawn into this channel and that by various considerations. It is mostly traffic, obeying the simplest laws and following the line of least resistance that has determined the location of towns and cities in Canada. Outside of a few of the older cities, the centres of population in Canada have followed the railways, which in turn have followed in most cases the line of least resistance through the areas of greatest productivity. The average Canadian town, up to a certain size, is utterly dependent upon the railroad. The Canadian Pacific Railway threatened to make the grass grow on the main street of Port Arthur and did it, although that is now a flourishing town again. But in the interval the railway established Fort William. Brockville is said to have received a "staggering blow" because the Grand Trunk is taking its five hundred employees and its pay roll of three hundred thousand dollars a year to Prescott, not far away. A railroad can not only make but also unmake a town. The man who would buy lots in what promises to be a great railroad terminal should consider also the possibility of the terminal proving one day less desirable than some other point near by, to which the railway might remove its benign influence.—Canadian Colliers.

The young wife, refused a new hat, bitterly complained that she had a lot to put up with. "Yes," replied her husband, "and if you knew how little I have to put up with you would not ask for me to put up with a new hat."

WHY BRITISH GIRLS HAVE BETTER MARRIAGE CHANCES WHEN THEY ARE EMIGRANTS

Nearly as Many More Women Than Men in Britain as There Were Dollars at the Government Lot Sale—Exact Number at the Last Calculation Was 1,179,276

There cannot be too many good women for the good of the world, but there may be too many for the good of the women. Our laws are at the present time based on the supposition that the place of every woman is in the home, where she should use her influence for the betterment of the race, and of the world, into which she is bringing new lives. This sounds very nice, if it suits your ideas, but every once in awhile the man who compiles the Blue Book bobs up with some very disconcerting figures. Back of his book is the old tradition that figures cannot lie, and his figures upset the arguments dear to many who are blocks in the march of progress.

No Husbands Available.

According to the official report of the 1911 census of England and Wales, the first volume of which was issued recently as a Blue-book, there are 1,179,262 women who have no chance of finding husbands.

The varying matrimonial chances of girls in various districts are shown in a table of the sex proportions at the time of the census.

At midnight on Sunday, April 2, 1911, there were:

Females 18,624,884

Males 17,445,608

Excess of women 1,179,276

This gave precisely 1,068 females to each 1,000 of male population, which, by a remarkable coincidence, was the exact preponderance ten years before.

The districts where the proportions were highest and lowest were:

	Females.	Males.
East Sussex	1,256	1,000
Monmouthshire	908	1,000

The proportions of women to every 1,000 men in other countries are:

Norway	1,069
France	1,033
United States	943
Australia	926
New Zealand	896
Ceylon	888
Canada	886

The chances, therefore, of every girl emigrant finding a husband in the colonies are much better than those of the girls in East Sussex, where more than 25 per cent. of the women are doomed to either remain single or marry widowers.

The comparative criminal statistics of the sexes show that women are much more law-abiding than men. There were only 139 women in the prisons to every 1,000 men, while in the certified reformatory industrial schools the proportion was 278 to 1,000. In the lunatic asylums there were 1,140 women to 1,000 men, while in certified inebriate reformatories and retreats there were on the census night only 304 women out of 1,357 inmates.

Decline in Towns.

Although the entire population of the United Kingdom had increased from 41,458,721 in 1901 to 45,211,888 last year, there had been a notable decline in the rate of growth of many large cities and towns.

1901	4,536,267
1911	4,521,685

Decrease 14,582
 This, as the official report points out, is a good rather than a bad sign. It means that improved means of transportation are taking the workers further afield.

Of the 97 towns with 50,000 or more inhabitants, all have increased except Halifax, Aston Manor, and Hastings, while Southend tops the list with a growth of 117 per cent. in the decennial period. The next three largest increases were in Ilford, Ealing and Acton.

The density of the population has increased from 558 per square mile in 1901 to 618 in 1911, each person now representing just over an acre, while if the population were spaced out all over the country, each person would be 76 yards apart. A hundred years ago they would have been 143 yards apart.

London, of course, is the most thickly populated area, there being 36,680 persons to the square mile. Middlesex comes next with 4,848, then Lancashire with 2,554, while Radnorshire is last with only 48 people to the square mile.

FACTS REGARDING FUSE: LITTLE POINTS THAT MIGHT SAVE THE LIVES OF MANY POWDERMEN

Reasons for the Variation of Speed in Ignition of Shots Fired by Fuse---Shots That Explode Too Soon and Shots That Hang Fire---How Care of the Fuse Can Help

It is important that time fuse should have a uniform rate of burning, and in almost all blasting operations the fuse used is assumed to burn in a regular and uniform manner. When fuse has been subjected to such conditions as to produce acceleration or retardation in its rate of burning it becomes dangerous. Acceleration of the rate of burning increases the liability of a shot going off before the miner has left the face; retardation increases the chance of the flame in the fuse progressing so slowly that the miner will be injured by a delayed shot when he returns to the working face. All conditions that bring about any marked change in the rate of burning of fuse are dangerous, and from a study of the list of accidents in mines and quarries each year injury and loss of life are seemingly often brought about by such conditions.

Special Investigation.

The question has been recently investigated by Messrs. W. O. Snelling and W. C. Cope, of the staff of the United States Bureau of Mines, whose report is eminently informative. The conditions that are believed to be most active in bringing about either a retardation or an acceleration in the rate of burning of time fuse are classified under effects due to: (a) pressure; (b) temperature; (c) moisture; (d) mechanical injury. Under ordinary conditions nearly all types of fuse show great uniformity in their rate of burning. Practically all types of fuse examined by the investigators had a total variation in their rate of burning under normal conditions of less than 20 per cent., and all would have passed under the allowance of "no variation greater than 10 per cent. above or 10 per cent. below the average rate of burning."

Effect of Pressure.

Under the influence of pressure practically all types of fuse are subject to wide variation in their rate of burning. Such pressure as can readily be produced by the confinement of the gases evolved by the burning fuse itself is sufficient to increase the normal rate of burning from 92½ seconds per meter (28.2 seconds per foot) to 21 seconds per meter (6.4 seconds per foot). Thus, even confinement will cause fuse to burn from three to four times as rapidly as its normal rate. In experiments made with fuse confined by stemming of various kinds wide variations in the rate of burning were noted, and whenever lengths of fuse are confined by stemming or other materials impervious to gas, a sufficient length of fuse should be used to allow for the increased rate of burning due to the pressure produced by the evolved gases.

High Temperature.

High temperature causes a marked retardation in the rate of burning of fuse, and storage for even a short period of time near boilers, or wherever the temperature may be high, is sufficient to cause "misfires" or to retard the rate of burning of the fuse so much as to greatly increase the liability to "holdbacks," delay shots, etc. It is probable that many of the difficulties that are sometimes encountered in regard to fuse burning too slowly and causing delayed shots are due, in part at least, to such fuse having been kept in too warm a place. Fuse that is not intended for use in wet places (cotton fuse, etc.) does not suffer marked change in its normal rate of burning by reason of the effect of high temperatures, whereas the more completely water proofed types of fuse show increasingly great effects from heat. Even exposure to comparatively low temperatures for considerable lengths of time causes marked retardation in the rate of burning of such fuse, and exposure to a fairly high temperature for even a short length of time may cause certain types of fuse to burn from three to five times as slowly as their usual rate. To insure the best results, fuse should always be protected from extremes of temperature.

Climatic Effects.

Climatic conditions affect to a considerable extent the rate of burning of the less waterproof types of fuse. Damp fuse burns more slowly than normal fuse, and fuse that has been wet and then thoroughly dried tends to burn at a rather slow rate, and may even cause delayed shots by smouldering for a considerable time. Fuse containing several wrappings of tape saturated with tar or asphalt resists moisture to a considerable extent, and may be used for firing shots under water, provided the fuse is not allowed to remain too long a time in contact with water before the shot is fired.

It is, of course, evident that when these waterproofed types of fuse do become wet, through storage for a long time in a damp place or through exposure to water after the protecting layers of asphalt or gutta percha are mechanically abraded or injured in any other way, they are more difficult to dry out than are other types of fuse, and are more liable to burn at a rate slower than the normal rate.

Bruised Fuse.

Fuse that has been subjected to actual mechanical injury, particularly to hammering or pounding, or the blows of falling rock, etc., has a greatly increased rate of burning, and sometimes burns so rapidly as to be almost instantaneous in its action. The mere bending, coiling and twisting of fuse, such as would be brought about by forcibly placing within a bore hole a length of fuse considerably greater than the depth of the bore hole, does not produce any marked change in the rate of burning, but pounding or direct abrasion of fuse greatly increases that rate. Fuse that has been injured by severe abrasion or by too great pressure from any cause should not be used in any work where adjustment of the rate of burning is desired.

Only Safe Way.

As a final summary it may be stated that ordinary fuse may under some conditions burn as fast as three seconds per meter (one second per foot), and under other conditions it may burn as slowly as 745 seconds per meter (227 seconds per foot). The former rate is more than 200 times as fast as the latter, and each is widely removed from the normal rate of burning of similar brand of fuse. Hence, the condition and past history of any roll of fuse is an important matter, and in mining and blasting operations the safety of the miner demands that only fuse that has been carefully stored and kept from unfavorable conditions shall be used.—Canadian Mining Journal.

The GURNEY-OXFORD is an efficient RANGE

A business is kept up-to-date because it means a difference between profit and loss. The successful business uses such modern time-and-labor-savers as typewriters, adding machines and electricity. Woman's work in the home is also a matter of profit and loss. If she has improved and modern tools, she gains time and leisure and better results. If she has old-fashioned ideas to contend with, she loses energy and effort and peace of mind

The Gurney-Economizer is the greatest single improvement ever devised to simplify cooking. It regulates the fire and heat of the oven with one direct motion. The heat of the fire is distributed by a scientific arrangement of flues that keeps the oven uniformly heated. The grates hold the fire on the least possible surface.

The Gurney-Oxford Range is a most efficient piece of household furniture. It puts the kitchen on the same labor-saving, up-to-date basis as a successful business.

ANOTHER SUCCESS FOR AMATEURS

Last night at the Westholme Opera House a large and appreciative audience witnessed the regular Friday night amateur performance. That the entertainment offered by this popular and up-to-date little theatre is pleasing to the public is evidenced by the increasing patronage accorded. The excellent orchestra, first class pictures and pleasing variety of the addition of the performances given by local talent always ensure a big turnout on Friday evenings.

The several turns put on last evening by Messrs. Whitley, Stowell, Eviitt, Corkingdale and Prescott, the latter appearing for the first time in the city as a soloist, rendering "The Rosary" upon the euphonium in finished style, were received with loud applause by the audience. The turns were all of a high class classical order, relieved by a popular comic song in character by C. V. Eviitt in his well known inimitable style.

Altogether the show was highly successful, and with the efforts of the amateurs to get up some new, up-to-date sketches and musical turns promised in the near future the Friday night performances are assured of receiving the support of the Prince Rupert public even in a larger measure than they have in the past.

BUSY HOUR AT THE WHARF ON FRIDAY

There were four big boats strung along the G. T. P. wharf yesterday shortly after noon, giving an appearance of things doing, very gratifying to Prince Rupertites in view of the number of strangers there are in town. The C. P. R. steamer Princess Mary arrived from the south about the same time as the reliable old Camosun, the two G. T. P. boats, Prince John and Prince Albert, where also on the scene shortly afterward from their scheduled trips to the islands and Granby Bay.

MERELY MABEL REMARKS

That it makes no difference if he does keep the pound, they gotta quit kicking our dog catcher aroun'.

That of course that loitering left off residence had got to go and stbp just in the way of the guests at last night's society party.

That any unoccupied houses found wandering about Prince Rupert after dark in future will be taken to the pound.

That since the government sale Section Two has begun to get quite aristocratic, too, in value.

That a treasure hunting expedition to Kaien Island instead of Cocos Island would probably pay better.

That nobody saw the one and only at the Westholme amateur show last night, but he was there in spirit.

That everybody's doing it. What? Praying for a fine Labor Day.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION CONSIDERED

Woodstock, Aug. 30.—N. U. Rowell, leader of the opposition, today addressed a meeting on the question of workmen's compensation and announced that his party would support the government if it brought down a good measure, but that if that were not forthcoming the opposition would introduce the desired legislation. He favored a state collective plan similar to that of the State of Washington.
