Fighting Fleet of France to Guard the Mediterranean; Russia's Battleships the Baltic, While Britain's Navy Will Take Care of the North Sea

(Special to Daily News.)

Paris, Sept. 12.—The recently negotiated Franco-Russian naval convention and the older Anglo-French convention relating to the Mediterranean seaboard are to be brought into practical operation within a few days, when the French fleet, which has hitherto had headquarters at Brest, is to be permanently transferred to Toulon.

This naval move gives France complete control in the Mediterranean over any possible combination of the Triple Alliance, and will leave to England the defense of the North Sea, while Russia guards the Baltic Sea.

Experts point out that with the Russian fleet in the Baltic the strength of the British fleet will be materially increased against any contemplated German attack, while the English Channel is considered to be sufficiently defended by the numerous fleets of destroyers and submarines stationed on both the French and English coasts.

ANOTHER BIG UNIT FOR THE DRY DOCK

The contract has just been let to the Lester W. David Co. for the lumber for the second unit of the G. T. P. dry dock. The second unit requires four and a half million feet, whereas the first unit, for which the Lester W. David Company is furnishing the material, requires only about four million feet. The total of the two awards is the largest lumber order placed in the north, according to Mr. Burroughs, local manager of the company.

SHIPYARDS ON THE PACIFIC? WHAT ABOUT PRINCE RUPERT? AGITATION IS ON RIGHT NOW

(Special to Daily News.)

Vancouver, Sept. 12.—The Board of Trade meeting tonight arranged to take steps to secure ship building yards for the Pacific coast. Mr. Bushby advocated government aid in the construction of steamers and objected to all vessels needed for Pacific coast fishery protection purposes being built in the United Kingdom. Other public bodies in British Columbia will be asked to co-operate to secure government assistance.

CHANGES IN FOOTBALL RULES AS INDICATED IN 1912 GUIDE

With the coming of another football season candidate for school and varsity elevens, new men and seasoned veterans alike, are busily engaged in studying the new rules and familiarizing themselves with the changes made by the football rules committee at its mid-winter session. A glance over the new guide readily shows in detail the changes that have been brought as indicated by the following tabulation:

First—Playing field, now 110 yards in length, will be shortened to an even 100 yards. This change in itself is not vital, but it is made in order to make possible on small grounds an extension of territory in which the forward pass may be used.

Second—A zone of 10 yards' width beyond the goal lines is established. A purpose of this is to provide ample space for execution of the forward pass, and scoring on a pass made across the goal line into this zone is permitted.

Third—The number of "downs" to gain 10 yards is increased from three to four.

Fourth—The value of a touchdown is increased from five points to six points, the goal from touchdown and other scores standing as at present.

Fifth—The 20-yard zone, in which the present rules now provide restrictions to interfere with the forward pass, is eliminated so that the restrictions will apply now to any part of the field.

Sixth—After a touchback the ball will be put in play from the 20-yard line instead of the 25-yard line.

Seventh—On a kick-off the ball, instead of being put in play in the centre of the field, will be put in play from the 40-yard line of the team kicking off. Taking into consideration the shortening of the field and this change in the rules, the kick-off is lengthened by five yards.

Eighth—The field judge is eliminated; the head linesman hereafter will keep time and be judge of the offside plays in the line of scrimmage.

Ninth—The number of men allowed on the side lines, now three, will be reduced to one for each team.

Tenth—Provision will be made that a bounding ball cannot score a legitimate goal.

Eleventh—The interval between the first and second and the third and fourth periods is reduced from two minutes to one minute.

BRITISH COLUMBIA FIRST AND BEST

(Special to Daily News.)

Victoria, Sept. 12.—Of all the successes of British Columbia exhibits at Canadian fairs none is so noteworthy as those at the great Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto. In its progress across the Dominion the exhibit, which was arranged by W. J. Brandrith, has been taking prizes, and the culmination to these tributes to the superiority of the products of this province came today when the Hon. Price Elfrison, minister of agriculture, received word that the provincial exhibit as a whole had been awarded a gold medal, offered by the exhibition for the finest display of products of any province in the Dominion.

FLEET OF FAST LINERS FOR S. AFRICAN RUN

Capetown, Sept. 12.—The South African government has taken advantage of the opportunity afforded by the mail contract, which has just been negotiated by Sir D. P. de Villiers Graaf, in London, to make new and important arrangements regarding the South African contribution to imperial naval defense.

There is every indication that the union has decided to follow the lead of Canada and to provide a fleet of fast armed liners, which will be convertible into naval auxiliaries capable of holding the eastbound trade route in time of war.

This is suggested by the announcement that the new contract provides for the complete replacement of the existing union castle fleet, during the currency of the contract, by bigger and faster steamers, following Sir D. P. de Villiers Graaf's recent secret conferences with Mr. Churchill, whereat the subject of armed liners was discussed.

It is anticipated that the money contribution for the navy will be withdrawn, and that the saving thus affected will help to make up the difference between the old and new contract price. The arrangement is likely to be received very cordially in South Africa, where it is fully realized by Dutch and English alike that the present contribution is wholly inadequate.

It is understood that the imperial authorities are fully satisfied with the arrangement.

THE SILVER SKEENA

A Great Find of Silver and Copper Ore on the Skeena River, Omineca District, Kitseelas, B. C.

A find of rich copper-silver ore was recently made on the Skeena River by American miners headed by D. A. Condor, M. D., who started on a tour around Kitseelas one month ago for the purpose of finding mineral. Copper at 58 per cent., silver at 400 ounces, lead at 16 per cent., has been unearthed on the Wells group of peerless claims. These are situated 18 miles from Skeena River proper on Gold Creek. A ledge 14 feet wide carrying a mean average of 300 ounces in silver on the "Anon" is uncovered. These deposits are an indication of the ores of this section. This district is comparatively unknown to the Canadian and British public, but these recent discoveries of silver, gold and copper will no doubt interest the mining world and bring to the fore British Columbia as a producer of the precious metals. No country possesses the advantage of British Columbia from a miner's standpoint. The transportation facilities of the Skeena River and Grand Trunk Pacific Company make the shipping of ore easy from the district, which will make famous to the Empire the ores of the Silver Skeena.

ALLEN PLAYERS TONIGHT

Show Will Be "Merely Mary Ann"—Comedy Pure and Simple.

The bill to be put on this evening by the Allen Players is one that should prove one of the most pleasing and attractive in their entire repertoire. "Merely Mary Ann," the famous comedy by Israel Zangwill, in which Eleanor Robson starred for three years, has a distinct charm of its own, only to be found in the work of this great writer. It is a comedy pure and simple with just that touch of heart interest that lifts it above the realms of farce, leaving an impression that one has witnessed a picture of life as it is today, the cheery and bright side uppermost, with the inevitable seamy side merely suggested in the most subtle way possible. The play affords opportunity for excellent acting, and all the characters are well cast. From all indications there will be another full house this evening. The bills for the future evenings of the engagement include "Sweet Nell of Old Drury," a costume piece that was the furor of both continents when it first was produced a few seasons ago.

LICENSE BOARD HELD MEETING

At a short session yesterday afternoon of the License Board, at which only the Mayor and Dr. J. P. Cade were present, there was an application for a wholesale license from the Silver Springs Brewery of Victoria. After cogitating over the matter for a short while, the two commissioners decided to put it to the vote, when the Mayor voted one way and Dr. Cade the other, and the application was refused. George Sutherland, who has had an application for a bottle license before the board for some time, asked to be allowed to withdraw it. Permission was granted.

CAREER OF BULL MOOSE TO THE WEST

(Special to Daily News.)
Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 14.—Col. Roosevelt's journey across the continent is complete today. Nine days after leaving Oyster Bay he reached Puget Sound and put in a day each at Seattle and Tacoma. Late tonight he started on his way again to swing down the Pacific coast before turning eastward. In his address he attacked the Democratic party and said that victory for that party meant "enthronement of bosses each in his own state."

PROFITABLE USE FOR MINING EXPERT.

A capital story is related by the Financier (London) of a syndicate, with a capital of $2,000, which, having been formed to acquire options in Nigeria, despatched an engineer to inspect a property it had obtained the right to purchase. Within a few weeks of his arrival, the following cable was received: "Property absolutely valueless. Coming home." As may be imagined, this caused considerable disgust, but the chagrin soon changed to joy when a further cable was received, announcing that the engineer had been eaten by cannibals. He was insured for $3,000, and out of this sum the shareholders were paid their first and final dividend of 150 per cent. It is to be hoped that the publication of this story will not have the effect of causing a great run on mining engineers, with the object of sending them, heavily insured, to inspect and report on properties in countries where they are likely to be regarded as additions to the visible food supply. At the same time there are some that might be spared; and there is a moral to the tale, indicating that even the most worthless of us may have his uses.—Canadian Mining Journal.

DIDN'T NOTICE IT IN RUPERT.

Says the Toronto Globe: "The already high cost of living will almost inevitably be increased during the coming winter as a result of the great loss caused by the excessive rains of the past few weeks. The northern hemisphere has been thoroughly drenched by rain at the very time when sunshine was most needed for the ripening and harvesting of grain and roots. In the Northern States and in Canada, on this continent, and in Britain, France, Germany and the Scandinavian countries, the loss must have amounted in the aggregate to hundreds of millions of dollars. The universality of this season's rains indicates that a cycle of wet summers may have begun." Prince Rupert is quite prepared to delight in a cycle of summers such as the one just passing away with its few welcome showers. If the rest of the world is afraid of being drowned out, cheer up, there's still Rupert ready to take all the incomers who can pour down on Kaien Island to dodge the downpour elsewhere.

A TRIFLE, BUT STILL TROUBLESOME.

Canada imports much from the United States, and Prince Rupert particularly imports even a heavier proportionate amount than other centres. Reciprocity was refused by the people of Canada, though not by the people of Prince Rupert. It is still necessary to pay duty on articles you import, and to go through the Customs department routine, which protects the Dominion from the smuggler's nefarious trade. In Prince Rupert, accustomed as the citizens are to the lack of street cars and of various trouble saving luxuries, there is room for improvement even under existing customs conditions. The present Customs department arrangement necessitates the trotting of the hapless recipient of dutiable or even only imported and duty free goods first from the express office, where he finds the goods have been announced as arrived in Rupert; second to the customs house, where he signs a receipt for the goods, of which he has still not even seen the outside package, and third to the wharf customs office, where the parcel, big or small, is held until the uptown customs office clearance is presented for it. Not much to trouble about, perhaps, and the customs house officials in both offices are polite and obliging as can be. But still, mightn't there be some plan for transferring the small packages at least, which are subject to customs regulations, to one central office where the consignee could pay the charges and get the goods delivered without need for further travel?

WHEN SHOULD A MAN MARRY INTERESTING VIEWS ON A MOST IMPORTANT MATTER

What is the best age at which to marry, and why? These questions of world-wide interest and importance were answered by Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman, L. L. D., F. S. S., one of the delegates to the International Eugenics Congress at Newark, N. J.

Incidentally, Dr. Hoffman, who occupied the position of statistician to the Prudential Insurance Company of Newark, N. J., exploded what he described as the most popular fallacies that have ever prevailed regarding successful marriages.

"My experience and observation," said Dr. Hoffman, "have convinced me that the best ages of marrying are between 23 and 26 for men and women alike. I have no faith in the theory that there should be a wide disparity between the age of the man and the woman.

"My reason for fixing on between 23 and 26 as the ideal marrying ages for both sexes are, roughly, these:

"The man and the woman are then, so far as marriage is concerned, at their best physical, mental and moral development. Their hereditary traits are now dominant. On the other hand, the twig has been bent or the temperament has been moulded in the form it will probably retain, with a little modification, for life.

"On the other hand, they are both sufficiently plastic and malleable to readjust themselves and become mutually complimentary to one another. In other words, the man is willing to sacrifice himself to the happiness of the woman and the woman to the happiness of the man. This is one of the essential conditions of real marriage. Perfect co-ordination is another.

"A boy or girl of, say 18, quite apart from other considerations, cannot be expected to know his or her mind. This point, I think requires no elaboration. At the same time I should like to state with all possible emphasis that every man of 25 or thereabouts who is earning his living and wishes to marry should be permitted to do so, provided only that he and his prospective partner are healthy.

"The woman of a man's choice has no right whatever to demand that he shall be earning a certain number of dollars a week before he enters into wedlock with her. I strongly deprecate these so-called 'marriages of convenience.' Moreover, no restriction should be placed—within reason, of course—on the number of children. No marriage is perfect or satisfying if there are no children as the outcome.

"Men particularly who are over the age of 30 and wish to marry, do so at their peril. At this age or over a man is generally so strongly individualized, that too often in courting a wife he is only courting disaster.

"That phrase, 'incompatibility of temperament,' so frequently heard today in connection with unfortunate marriages, means in many cases simply that the tastes and temperament of the man or woman, or both, were too hardened and fixed to promote a successful union.

"Again, a marriage celebrated after 30 tends to become an affair rather of friendship than anything else, and this, in my opinion, is by no means all, or anything approaching all, that marriage should signify. Although I confess I have no facts to bear out my contention on this point, observation leads me to think that the sudden appearance on the scene of 'affinities' of both sexes frequently follows these 'over-thirty' marriages.

"And now let me just touch on the question of successful marriages. There was never a greater fallacy than the popular belief that a really successful marriage is necessarily a happy one. Indeed, I consider that marriage is still incomplete which does not know sorrow, loss, disappointment, awe, and even death.

"The sterling value of sorrow has never yet been properly recognized. Some day grief, deepening, broadening, chastening, cleansing, liberating grief will come into her own.

master of the original baronet. Stoner—Usher to Victoria.

Probably the man who, next to Sir Charles Cust, most powerfully influences King George, is a man who is seldom heard of and is known to but few outside of the royal circle. He is the Hon. Henry Julian Stoner, familiarly known as Harry Stoner, groom-in-waiting and gentleman usher to Queen Victoria, and he has been in attendance upon King George for the past eleven years.

Number three in this "tea cabinet" is a famous sportsman, Lord Ribblesdale. He forms a link between King George and Mr. Asquith, the prime minister, for he married Miss Charlotte Tennant, daughter of Sir Charles Tennant, and sister of Miss Margo Tennant, now the wife of the Premier.

the scene of elaborate party receptions, is also close to King George and holds the position of personal aide-de-camp.

Hyde—Lover of Canada.

Lord Hyde is undoubtedly the most popular society man in London. He is the future Lord Clarendon and before his marriage to a sister of Lord Somers seven years ago was looked on as the greatest catch in society. Canada has enchained his imagination and he plans to take up land and live most of the year round near where the waters of Britain's greatest dominion, Impressionable English society women are grieving over the possible loss of their darling "Bertie," as Lord Hyde is called by his intimates, while those young sprigs who see in him a modern Beau Brummel, the best of dressers and a recognized authority on manners and conduct, are casting about in desperation for a new model.

These seven men—including Lord Kitchener—are the men whom King George delights to call his "pals." They are in almost daily and some of them hourly attendance upon him. They know his every thought and aspiration. And through a study of their characters it is possible to gain an insight into that of the British Monarch.

ERNEST L. HEITKAMP.

Lord Ribblesdale has been a royal favorite under three monarchs. Queen Victoria thought highly of him and appointed him lord-in-waiting and master of the buckhounds. The latter post was done away with on the Queen's death because of the opposition of the public to the cruelty connected with this so-called "sport."

Lord Ribblesdale gives an intensely interesting account in a book entitled "The Queen's Hounds and Stag Hunting Recollections," in the front of which is a splendid likeness of the peer, riding crop in hand, painted by Sargent.

Lord Ribblesdale was Liberal whip in the House of Lords, and in a position to keep his fingers on the pulse of the body politic, and King Edward frequently called him into consultation at critical moments, especially in the latter years of his life. He is extremely tall, has been called the handsomest man in the House of Lords and has an old world, distinguished manner that King Edward hit off well when he dubbed him "The Ancestor."

LOVAT OF THE ARMY

If Lord Ribblesdale represents sports in the king's "inner cabinet" and Sir Charles Cust the navy, Lord Lovat might be said to represent the army in the frequent absences of Lord Kitchener. He will always be remembered for his part in the Boer war, when he organized at his own expense the famous Lovat Scouts and led them against the enemy in South Africa.

It was long feared that he was going to remain an old bachelor and aspiring Mayfair mothers angled for him in vain for some years. Just as they were about to give him up in despair he met the Hon. Laura Lister, daughter of Lord Ribblesdale, and proposed to her at almost their first meeting. His name is Simon Fraser and he is leader of the great clan Fraser. He owns more than 180,000 acres in the north of Scotland and Beaufort Castle, one of the finest estates in the land. He has more than a score of shooting boxes on his property and for many years he has derived a splendid income from their rental.

Lord Lovat is thick set, dark, silent man, greatly respected but little known in the House of Lords, where he holds the record for brevity of speech. He is the owner of considerable land in South Africa, which he has tenanted with men and women from his Scotch estates, and when he does speak in the upper house it is to give some first hand knowledge of that part of the world. He once made a speech of no more than 16 words.

VANE-TEMPEST OF SOCIETY.

Society, surely one of the more important phases of English life, supports the two remaining members of the Buckingham Palace Cabinet. They are Lord Herbert Vane-Tempest and Lord Hyde, both famous breakers of hearts.

Lord Herbert is a younger brother of the powerful Marquis of Londonderry, both being sons of the fifth holder of the title. The present marquis, who is one of the leading members of the Unionist party and whose great Park Lane house is frequently

And 99 out of every 100 unprejudiced people will tell you THE DAILY NEWS is the home paper of Prince Rupert.

Advertisers also tell us and will tell you that results obtained from publicity carried in the columns of this paper have exceeded by far those obtained through any other newspaper published in Prince Rupert

The successful business man today is the one who advertises judiciously, who chooses the medium most generally read by citizens of a community; a business man who does not look upon an expenditure for advertising as an expense, but, on the contrary, as an investment.

This type of business man you will generally find in the front ranks of his profession, turning his dollars daily and moving his goods rapidly—and all through the liberal use of newspaper publicity.

Try advertising as an investment, if only for a short time, and watch your business grow.

Let our solicitors call and explain why The News is the best medium through which you should inaugurate your initial campaign.

Miss Verna Felton and the Allen Players Present "Zaza" with Success.

Belasco's famous "Zaza" was staged last night, for the first time in Prince Rupert. The Allen Players carried the play, and Miss Verna Felton took the lead. Tense and thrillingly dramatic scenes characterize this play, and there is work and to spare for the leading woman. Miss Felton filled the part with splendid effect, her realization of the tempestuous personality of Zaza thoroughly satisfying her audience, which thronged the pretty Westholme Opera House.

Like many dramas to which the term "masterpiece" is applied, the plot of Zaza is simple as any unhappy love story. A passionate, uneducated girl of genius as an actress, thinking to spurn love as a half-burnt cigarette, hurls herself into the very grip of the most violent abandonment of passion for a worthless wealthy brute. Zaza almost literally leaps into love with Bernard Dufresne. Man of the world merely, he takes every advantage of the girl's intense affection for him. He does not marry her. He is married already. She does not know, does not even dream that her idol is mud. So the old story works out to the inevitable bitter end of discovery and heart wrung distress for Zaza.

As for last night's presentation by the Allen Company, the work of the players one and all was conscientious, and the intensity of the strong passages was well upheld. Touches of humor brightly brought in furnished reaction after the tenser scenes. Mrs. P. R. Allen as Zaza's quaint old bibulous Aunt Rosa with her parrot-perch bonnet really achieved some artistic triumphs in interpretation of a distinctly human part. Mr. George Zucco, who played Bernard Dufresne, is an old timer almost in Rupert, having been here with at least two previously visiting stock companies, and his work last night in a role which well suited his powers was good. As Cascart, Mr. Raymond Ripley, in his most earnest passage, rather too faithfully "recited" his words. Otherwise, he acted well. As Toto, Miss Jean Patterson played the little girl part in manner that made the audience forget, except in passing flashes, the fact that Miss Patterson is out of the short frock stage of development. Alice Moore, in the care of Miss Etta Farnsworth was a good interpretation. Florianne as interpreted by Miss Gladys Hudars was effective. Others of the cast each filled his or her part satisfactorily.

Staging of the play was the best yet seen in Prince Rupert by any stock company. The first act was very well staged and the idea of a theatre scene within a theatre had its inevitable effect in interesting the audience. Last but not least, the work of the quaintly garbed Royal Hungarian orchestra was a source of real enjoyment to all interested in musical novelty with excellence. The Hungarian string orchestra with their pizzicato twitteringly tuneful instruments, playing all the favorite airs, old and new, will find friends in Prince Rupert.

That the boys had better be careful now the girls have been reminded how much a miss thinks a mere man matters.

That the engagement season is now on. Next announcement momentarily expected.

That the article on "When Should a Man Marry?" may help some.

That the poll-parrot style of roof adornment is liable to become popular in Prince Rupert.

That one small boy went home honestly believing both the old birds were as live as the one underneath.

That one that in a Mabel remark is plenty, but it's hard to avoid two in this one and keep consistent.

That those new slickers look like lasting a long time today. Hooray!

That that's all. Good afternoon!
