GREAT PUGILIST'S WHITE WIFE DIES IN SADDEST POSSIBLE MANNER BY HER OWN HAND

SPLENDID PROSPECTS OF THE HIDDEN CREEK MINE, GRANBY, PORTLAND CANAL

On July 25th, the Granby Consolidated M. S. & P. Co.'s copper mines at Phoenix, Boundary district, shipped about 4,500 tons of ore, which is said to be very nearly if not quite a record.

Recently the output of the Granby Consolidated M. S. & P. Co.'s big mines at Phoenix reached an aggregate of 8,000,000 tons of ore.

Mr. T. P. Graves, vice president and general manager of the Granby Company, considers that at the Hidden Creek mine, situated on Observatory Inlet, near Portland Canal, the company has a property that will surpass the company's Boundary district mines, both in tonnage of available ore and its value.—Canadian Finance.

Mr. Ledwidge was full of praise for the great advances this city has made since his last visit, and Prince Rupert is assured of prominent place in the forthcoming special number.

CHINK WAS FINED FIFTY

In the police court this morning the seventeen Chinamen, headed by Lee Bo, surrendered to their bail and appeared before this worshipful Magistrate Carrs to answer a charge of having opium in their possession. #### "PRINCE RUPERT---CANADA'S PACIFIC PORT OF PROGRESS"

Official Publicity Pamphlet of the Board of Trade Makes Good, as These Letters Received by the Secretary Will Prove

To J. Lorne McLaren, Esq.,
Secretary Board of Trade,
Prince Rupert B. C.

Dear Sir: With reference to the recent publication by the Board of Trade of booklet "Prince Rupert."

I sent a copy of this booklet to Mr. W. P. Hinton, our general passenger agent, and I am now in receipt of his letter, which reads as follows:

"As stated to you verbally, I think this book is excellently prepared; in fact, is the first publication of a reasonably convincing nature which I have seen of Prince Rupert. The booklet is prepared on proper lines, and I think as a result of this educational policy you will find that far different views will be held by those who have access to the information than have generally prevailed heretofore."

Yours truly,
A. E. M'MASTER, General Agent.

Sept. 13, 1912.

In a letter addressed to The Daily News office and dated September 7th, 1912, F. H. Mobley, president of the Board of Trade of Prince Rupert, says:

"I have pleasure in expressing the thorough satisfaction of the Prince Rupert Board of Trade with its official publicity pamphlet for 1912, entitled 'Prince Rupert, Canada's Pacific Port of Progress.'"

A second edition of the booklet has been ordered to meet the demand for it for publicity purposes by the Board of Trade and the Real Estate Exchange of Prince Rupert.

PRESENCE OF COAL AND IRON ON THE PACIFIC COAST MEAN IMMENSE PROSPERITY HERE

Groundhog Has the Coal, Queen Charlotte Islands and Mainland Mountains Have the Iron---Prince Rupert Will Have the Industries as the Days of Development Proceed

The greatest of national assets are coal and iron. It is these that are mainly conducive to industrial supremacy. England, Lord Ramsey asserts, will have exhausted her coal supplies in two hundred years, calculating on the present rate of production alone. Without coal England would not only cease to be the greatest manufacturing country in the world, but she would be out of the race altogether. Much may, however, happen in two hundred years, and the problem and its solution will concern more immediately succeeding generations. Long before, however, any such catastrophe can occur from the cause mentioned the whole trade conditions of the world may be changed by events now developing.

Among these are the building of the Panama Canal and, more momentous still, the awakening of China. In a paper on the subject of "International Coal Competition," contributed recently to the Canadian Mining Institute, Mr. Allan Greenwell, editor of the Colliery Guardian, it was shown that if the natural course of trade is allowed free play, a country will inevitably produce for itself and for other countries that in which it has the greatest relative advantage (or least disadvantage). If this product be coal, it will tend toward monopolizing the production of coal, and to causing the countries which previously produced it to direct their labor and capital toward the production of something else in which they have an advantage. Again, "the value of a commodity is a matter of supply and demand; so if a country possesses an unlimited supply and can export cheaply a commodity for which there is a considerable demand, it may be said to be on the high road to commercial prosperity." It is a fundamental law that a coal driven industry tends to follow the fuel, and not the fuel the industry. Thus a country possessing an unlimited supply of cheap coal can send out its surplus coal to fetch raw materials.

RUPERT'S FIRST HOLD-UP CASE

Joe Simmons, a colored man, was arraigned before Magistrate Carrs this morning in the police court on the serious charge of holding up at the point of a huge 45-calibre, six-chamber revolver two men of the names of Robert Partridge and Charles McDonald and extracting from them money to the amount of $55. The affair took place at the Empress Hotel in the early hours of the morning of the day before yesterday, but it was some little time before the authorities were able to locate the accused. The man under arrest has been following the calling of a shoe shine artist here. After a short preliminary hearing the case was adjourned until tomorrow morning.

(Special to Daily News.)

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Mrs. Jack Johnson, white wife of the world's champion pugilist, attempted to commit suicide tonight in a room over her husband's cafe on the South Side, by shooting. She was removed to a hospital and physicians thought she might recover. Johnson is with her at the hospital.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—At an inquest into the death of Mrs. Jack Johnson, the championship pugilist said not domestic trouble but worry and nervous breakdown had caused the act. He said that after his fight with Jeffries he himself was a physical wreck. Rather than let the public know, his wife nursed him for a year to health.

"ROAD IS NOW IN OPERATION AS FAR AS HAZELTON." WHAT? NOT YET, NOT YET, BUT SOON

The Grand Trunk Pacific party, consisting of the president, E. J. Chamberlin; A. W. Smithers, chairman of the board of directors; W. P. Hinton, general passenger agent, and other officials, has returned from a western inspection tour extending as far as Prince Rupert.

Mr. Smithers and Mr. Chamberlin both expressed satisfaction with the work done on the coast section of the G. T. P., except that acute labor shortage is still delaying matters seriously. The road is now in operation as far as Hazelton, a distance of 175 miles, and a satisfactory service is being provided between the two centres.—Canadian Finance.

DIVIDEND PAYING MINES OF BRITISH COLUMBIA ARE THESE, WITH MORE TO FOLLOW

It is interesting to note that several British Columbia mines are now dividend paying, while two or three others are likely to come into the dividend ranks very shortly. The best showing made for years was made in the period from June 9th to July 15th. It was as follows, according to Mr. E. Jacobs, of Victoria:

June 9—Dividend on 2 1/2c a share on 2,000,000 shares, paid by the Standard Silver-Lead Mining Company, Slocan, $50,000.

June 29—Dividend of 50c a share on 120,000 issued shares, paid by the Hedley Gold Mining Company, Similgamen, $60,000.

July 1—Dividend of one shilling a share on 120,000 shares, paid by the Le Roi, No. 2, Ltd., Rossland, say, $29,400.

July 9—Dividend of 2 1/2c a share on 2,000,000 shares, paid by the Standard Silver-Lead Mining Company, Slocan, $50,000.

July 15—Dividend of 15c a share on 591,709 issued shares, paid by the British Columbia Copper Co., Ltd., Boundary, $88,756.35.

Total of profits distributed in six weeks, $278,156.35.

The foregoing statement by no means shows the total of earned profits—only the proportion that quite recently has been divided among the shareholders in the several companies appearing on the above list.

The first shipment of ore from the Red Cliff mine, Portland Canal district, consisting of 511 tons, to the Tacoma smelter, gave a gross return of $15 a ton in copper and gold. A second shipment of 750 tons was forwarded last week.

OUR SENTIMENTS EXACTLY.

Another of our visitors from the motherland has delivered himself of an interview in which he expresses his grave doubts of the loyalty of the Liberal party in Canada—oblivious apparently of the insufferable insolence of his action. Canadians are delighted to see English public men here as visitors, but they do not welcome oracular opinions from them upon Canadian political questions about which they know nothing.—Manitoba Free Press.

BOARD OF TRADE BOOKLET.

Comments by W. P. Hinton, general passenger agent of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, upon the Board of Trade's latest publicity book are quoted in this issue. Those who have studied the report of the Board of Trade in the pages of the booklet itself will note that the thought of publicity occurs right in that report, in which the retiring president, Alf. Morris, recommends that a committee be appointed to go into the matter. A small committee was appointed. The first step it took was to have President Morris' report printed and published in brochure form. The committee then went boldly into the bigger scheme, though they felt that finances were slender. They did their best with the powers they had at hand in Prince Rupert to help. Thrashing out their harvest of opinions, they reduced the whole matter to one kernel idea: "Contrast Rupert as it was with Rupert as it is, and tell the facts." Then they left the rest to The Daily News.

HOW THE DAILY NEWS HELPED A BIT.

The Daily News did its best, too. This office prides itself some on its powers to turn out good printing. The mere descriptive writing of so splendid a subject as Prince Rupert's progress is child's play to any sort of scribbler. But the typographical excellence of the booklet is worth noticing. Any printer or publisher will tell you, if your experience with such matters is not intimate, that the typographical perfection of the booklet is in itself one of the best advertisements possible for the City of Prince Rupert. The place where such good, clean printing can be done is not a backwoods camp, but a real rising city. The Daily News doesn't want to brag of its typesetting boys too loud, for they don't like it. But as for the printing of that booklet, as the old English critic said, "By God, 'tis good, an' if you like it you may!"

WAGES AGAINST COST OF MATERIALS.

While salaries and wages paid out by industrial establishments of Canada during 1910 were $240,494,996, the materials employed cost $600,822,791, making a total of $841,317,787. As the value of the products was $1,164,695,032, it follows that the returns to the owners of the industries amounted roughly to $323,377,215, being upon an invested capital of $1,245,018,881. This works out so that the gross rate of income is about 26 per cent., which, however, makes no allowance for depreciation. A decade ago the corresponding rate was a little under 23 per cent. Capital invested is well on to three times what it was a decade ago, but the number of employees has only increased 50 per cent., indicating, among other factors, a greater relative use of specialized mechanical processes. The wage scale has risen from an average of $330 per worker a decade ago to $470 in 1910, which has pretty well kept pace with the rise in living expenses during the same period.—Canadian Finance.

HOW THEY PAY THEIR MAYORS OVER IN THE OLD COUNTRY

Some Receive Large Sums to Defray the Expenses of Maintaining the Dignity of Their High Office—Many Receive No Remuneration at All

There has been discussion many times over the question of the Mayor's salary in Prince Rupert at present, and little has been gained by it. An idea exists amongst many old country men in the west and in Rupert that the mayors of old country cities do not receive salaries at all. This, however, is not quite the case. Some of them do.

An American municipality recently asked for a consular report on the salaries of mayors in British cities of moderate size, and the following information was elicited:

The English city nearest in population to the foregoing number, as far as my investigation went, is Newcastle, the mayor of which receives $2,500 per annum. Additional remuneration is sometimes given to cover expenses on exceptional occasions.

There is also an annual allowance of $750 for horses and carriages.

The population of Dublin (in each instance I am following the British census of 1901) is 290,000. The lord mayor of Dublin for some time received about $18,000 a year, but in November, 1910, this salary was reduced to about $8,000 a year.

Bradford, with a population of 280,000, makes no allowance for its lord mayor. On exceptional occasions appropriations are made, but no portion of the same is ever used personally by the lord mayor.

Bristol, with a population of 328,000, allows its mayor $5,000 annually and $600 toward defraying the expenses of a private secretary. The cost of the upkeep of the municipal coach, men's wages and livery are defrayed directly out of the public funds.

Edinburgh, having a population of 313,000, allows its lord provost, corresponding to a lord mayor of an English city, the sum of $5,000 a year.

Sheffield, with 380,000 people, allows nothing whatever to its chief municipal executive. A special committee has recently been appointed to examine into this question and to report as to the desirability of providing some remuneration.

Leeds, with a population of 429,000, Belfast with 348,000 and Hull with 193,000, make no allowance for the remuneration of their mayors or lord mayors, as the case may be. In Hull, however, at the time of the coronation of Edward VII, an allowance was made to the lord mayor of $10,000.

terial, which it manufactures cheaply by means of its cheap coal, markets the surplus and accumulates wealth.

The building of the Panama Canal will reduce substantially the cost on the carriage of raw materials to the Canadian west. It will also considerably enlarge the available markets for our western coals. By the first, manufacturing may become possible; by the second, a large surplus may be profitably mined for export. Mr. Greenwell sees no reason why the enormous coal resources of British Columbia and Alberta should not, "when the time arrives," be developed to an equal extent with those of the United States. The time is rapidly approaching. He, meanwhile, quotes Jevons to prove that it is a commercial impossibility for any country to secure or maintain a manufacturing supremacy on coal drawn from far distant fields and the manifest corollary to this conclusion is that there can be no real or lasting inducement to a country to develop its coal supplies in order to foster a manufacturing industry in another country, especially if it can organize such an industry itself. Eventually, as Mr. Greenwell states, competitive manufacturing industries must be carried on in the neighborhood of the coal supplies, and the surplus production of the latter employed for navigation purposes in fetching the raw materials and in distributing the manufactures.

The coal resources of the Canadian west are, therefore, destined to become one of the chief factors in the creation of new industrial domination on the Pacific. Such development will be of prodigious advantage to the British Empire. On the other hand, we can regard with less complacency the imminence of a competition that within the present century will at any rate make itself felt in the markets of the world, and may eventually be revolutionary in its effects, causing the pendulum of trade to swing in entirely different directions to that of today. According to Mr. Thomas T. Read, formerly professor of metallurgy at the Imperial Pei-Yang University at Tientsin, China not only possesses enormous resources of iron, but her coal resources in point of quantity are comparable with those of the United States, while in quality they are in general of higher grade. Thus the amount of lignite is comparatively small, and the proportion of anthracite to bituminous is relatively larger than in the United States.

The present production of coal in China is not much greater than that of Canada (about fifteen million tons annually); the iron production is approximately 0.5 lb. per capita per annum as compared with a per capita production in the United States of 600 lb. per annum. But China is awakening. Her people are as initiative, if not quite as adaptable as the Japanese. They are infinitely more industrious, more conscientious, more painstaking. Like the Japanese, the Chinese are now sending students to acquire the knowledge and methods and sciences of Western civilization. In less than a quarter of a century Japan remodelled her entire industrial and social systems. The change from feudalism to modern conditions of life represents in European countries an evolution covering 500 years. In the first test of strength between East and West, the former was signally victorious. That the equilibrium of trade has been less distributed than it has by the introduction of the factor of Japanese competition is due to two causes, the natural resources of the country in coal and iron are relatively unimportant, and the labor while cheap is of low efficiency.

The development of China will no doubt, take longer; but when the day arrives when she has mastered the secrets of the west, when she turns to account her natural wealth—resources that lying dormant through the centuries, have been thus conserved while those of European nations have been largely drawn upon,—when she competes for the trade of the world and brings to bear therewith that shrewdness and untiring patient industry and skill that are racial characteristics, then, indeed, will the white race have difficulty in maintaining its own.—The Canadian Mining Journal.

HORSESHOES OF ROPE ARE THE LATEST FROM GERMANY

The Germans are providing city horses with rope shoes to prevent their slipping on asphalt and wood block pavements. These shoes were first manufactured some 25 years ago, but it is only during the last decade that the industry has grown to large proportions.

Various forms and shapes of shoes are used. Some are open at the back, like an ordinary horseshoe. Others are closed, and very often, besides being closed, there is a bridge or cross-piece joining the two sides. When this is the case the bridge is constructed like the rest of the shoe, and in order to strengthen the bottom, and especially to make the nail holes more secure, the walls of the groove are sometimes re-inforced by braces.

The space in the centre of the shoe is often covered over with various kinds of inserts to protect the frog from injury. The latest novelty, which has been adopted by the royal stables, is the insertion at the back of the shoe of a block of wood into which stiff bristles have been driven. This is an additional preventive against slipping. When the ground is covered with snow a special ice plate is inserted in its stead.

It is customary to use special nails with long heads in attaching the shoes to the hoof. When the long headed nails are used, it is possible to drive them in and to extract them without taking out the rope. These nails, which are driven between the outer side of the groove and the tarred rope, also help to hold in the rope. The tarred rope wears down simultaneously with the rest of the shoe, and it is only on rare occasions that the rope must be withdrawn and new inserted. This change can be made with removing the shoe. The average life of a rope horseshoe is six to eight weeks.

HEALTH MAXIMS.

By George Wharton James.

Get plenty of sunshine. Shut up a dog in a cellar and he will die of consumption in six months or less. Refuse to work in a room that does not get the direct rays of the sun, or, if your work compels you to remain in such a place for a while, use every free moment to be out in the sunshine. Walk out in the sunshine on every possible opportunity, exercise, breathe deep, breathe long, play, let your children play, eat, take a nap, do anything and everything you can out in the sunshine, and you will be that much nearer perfect health.

Windows up! Doors open! Let in the fresh air whenever and wherever you can. You can't

all. You can't be temperate with them, any more than you can be a temperate liar or thief. Abstain, for that is the only temperance. But eat good food temperately. Exercise temperately. Dance temperately. Walk temperately. Read, write, talk, do everything good with temperance.

Laugh every chance you get. Laughter is better than medicine. Throw physic to the dogs, take a laugh instead of a pill. Swallow a pun instead of a dose, and write down a good joke in your note book instead of the name of a new nostrum, or the address of a clever physician. Laugh and grow fat.

Laundry Helps.

Ironing between buttons on a thin blouse is likely to tear off these little fasteners, but if the blouse is placed on a folded Turkish towel the buttons will sink into the towel and the spaces between them be ironed beautifully smooth.

Another good plan is ironing handkerchiefs is to begin at the middle, because when the edges are ironed first the middle of the handkerchief is apt to swell up, making it difficult to smooth the whole properly.

The fading of colored articles is due often, not to the washing, but to the ironing. Irons that are too hot are used directly on the material, and this will more quickly fade delicate colors than any amount of washing. Be sure that the article is evenly dampened and that the iron is only hot enough to smooth the wrinkles properly by firm, even pressure, and you will have no more trouble from fading. Skirts should never be ironed across the gores, but up and down.

Audience at the Westholme Again Entertained by the Allen Players—This Time in "Merely Mary Ann."

The Allen Players at the Westholme Opera House last evening presented that most delightful of comedies, "Merely Mary Ann," the work of one of the greatest of English contemporary dramatists, Israel Zangwill. From the moment that the curtain went up the audience were captured, and the play went through with snap and vim. The play, dealing with the life of a little orphan lodging house slave, wrenched from the happy country life of the peaceful English village and at an early age introduced to the sordid surroundings of life in a cheap London lodging house, at the beck and call of the various lodgers, was a perfect picture. Miss Verna Felton in the leading part of "Merely Mary Ann" captivated the audience from the moment she appeared on the stage, showing that marked versatility as an actress in her power to portray such a widely different character from that of "Zaza," the music hall artiste, in which she achieved such a triumph the evening before, which has established her as one of the leading young actresses of the west today. Mr. George Zucco, the leading man, in the part of Laurence, the embryo musical composer, struggling against adverse fate and the obtuseness of musical publishers, was excellent, and his scenes with "Merely Mary Ann," the little slavey, who falls desperately in love with her magnificent "lion," held the attention of the audience every moment they were upon the stage. Mrs. P. R. Allen as the London lodging house keeper, with her multifarious troubles, combining the bringing up of her daughter as a young lady and the attending needs of her several lodgers, some of whom certainly required watching, was to the manner born and presented as fine a piece of character acting as could be seen on any stage. Mr. Biron Eagan as Mr. Peters, Laurence's old time college chum and now prosperous business man, gave a breezy and finished rendering of the part, whilst Miss Etta Farnsworth as the old lodging house keeper's daughter Rosie, destined to become a fine lady, played a small part capably, being a splendid foil to the slatternly little slavey, "Merely Mary Ann." Space forbids a more extended notice of the several other characters, which were all ably sustained by the clever cast, the whole play being a perfect picture of a phase of modern life, staged and produced in a fashion never so far attempted in a Prince Rupert theatre. Special mention must be made of the two songs charmingly rendered by Miss Gladys Hudars during an interlude, which were received with rounds of applause. The Hungarian orchestra again rendered delightful music of an uncommon kind that has a distinct charm and seems to grow on one; nor must one forget a very important member of the cast drawn from the amateur ranks—Dick, the canary—who made a great hit, not being a bit nervous and perfect in his words.

CHAMPION "JONAH" IS POOR RALPH

"I am going to ask the courts to change my name to Jonah Jinks. I'm the champion hard luck man of Missouri, and that's the limit."

This was the wail in Kansas City the other day of Ralph Dennison, a travelling man, who, with his head swathed in bandages, bemoaned the luck he experienced in a "sky limit" poker game here. Just as Dennison was about to rake in the biggest pot of the evening the ceiling gave way, and a chunk weighing 75 pounds struck him on the head.

"Can you beat it?" Dennison moaned. "All my life I've wanted to hold four buttons and a rattler. And the first four cards the dealer gave me after an hour of play were aces. Everybody had good hands and stood for several rounds. Then when I was called down came the ceiling. I wonder what became of the pot? I had $13,000 worth of property razed by a Kansas tornado;

ELECTRICAL CURRENT IS NEW FOOD

If a man is hungry, give him electricity. If he asks for bread or beefsteak, put him in an electric chair and turn on the current.

This paradoxical method is recommended by Professor Bergonie, of Bordeaux, who has just been telling his medical colleagues at a course at Nimes for the advancement of science of the curious results of his experiment. According to the professor, food can be replaced by electricity as nourishment for the human system. Low tension and high frequency electric currents (that is, such currents as one gets from an induction coil or from the instruments often seen at fairs, which are used to pass currents through persons holding the terminals) passing through the body, he says, have the same effect in producing interior warmth as meat and bread, with this advantage over food, that they do not tax the digestive organs.

These currents can be employed, he claims, without the slightest deleterious effect. Professor Bergonie says his treatment will prove invaluable in cases of invalids, who will be able to assimilate energy in electric form. "In many cases I have observed that my electrical treatment led to a notable increase in weight."
