REGULATING THE HOURS OF LABOR.

Some discussion took place at Monday week's meeting of the council in regard to having inserted in all city contracts a clause calling for an eight hour day and fixing the rate to be paid for such a day. The number of hours per day a man shall work can safely be left to the individual to settle in most cases and in the others for his union to wrestle with the question. There may be instances, however, where the interference of constituted authority may work to the benefit of the laborer and here is a possible instance.

The United States Steel Corporation is about to be incorporated in Ontario and will set up an industrial city of its own near Sarnia. A United States commission that has been making an investigation of labor conditions recently reported that this corporation is working its hands at its immense plant at Pittsburg twelve hours a day for seven days in the week. Twelve hours a day is too long for any man to work, especially at such hard labor as that of an iron foundry. Eight hours is deemed sufficient in any civilized state except that of Pennsylvania, and it must be assumed that the iron workers of that state are powerless to change their conditions. Therefore, before Ontario grants incorporation to this immensely powerful concern it would be perfectly proper to insist upon some assurance that the twelve hour day is not to be introduced in Canada.

But, as before stated, this is a kind of wrong that usually rights itself, and probably soon after these Pittsburg slaves get rooted in Canada they will take on a new manhood in keeping with their new surroundings and be able to demand decent treatment. They will read of their fellows in the English ship building yards who, having fought for and won an increase of wages amounting to nearly 20 per cent., are now refusing to work more than four eight hour days a week and in consequence Great Britain has to build some of her battleships in France. The air of Canada will be found to be too free and independent for the transploration of Pittsburg conditions, under which Carnegie robbed the workers of so much wealth that he now has difficulty in getting rid of it.

Two German doctors claim to have discovered a means of weighing ghosts. Premier Borden should borrow their scales and weigh his emergency.

LIGHTNING CREEK MAY BE BONANZA

Yielded Millions of Gold Soon After the Fraser and Cariboo Stampedes.

Lightning Creek, Cariboo district, which yielded millions of dollars of gold in the sixties, is soon likely to be the scene of extensive mining operations.

Mr. W. M. Ogden of Stanley, B.C., owns a group of claims on the creek which he bonded to Mr. Mackenzie Urquhart of Vancouver a year ago and on which it is understood, an important strike was made a few days ago. Mr. Ogden has arrived in Vancouver for the purpose of conferring with Mr. Urquhart in regard to carrying on hydraulic operations this season.

The outlook for the production of a large quantity of placer gold is regarded as very encouraging. Exploratory work, carried on continuously since last June, has led to the discovery of an ancient channel covered over by erosion of the mountains during the course of ages. This channel has been drifted on as well as tested at various points by shafts sunk from the surface. Gold was found everywhere, it is said.

Mr. Ogden has been engaged in placer mining in the district for the past 18 years and has made and lost half a dozen fortunes. "Bill," as he is known to all the old timers, hails from Vankleek Hill, Ont. He brought out news to the coast that the Cariboo Brotherhood, an order of pioneers established last autumn, is flourishing. Lodges have been established at Stanley, Quesnel and Ashcroft, and it is proposed to do likewise at Lytton, New Westminster and Vancouver. Mr. Ogden is member of the lodge at Stanley and wears the characteristic emblem of the brotherhood, a miniature gold pan of beautiful design.

"Is that so? Then I think it is an excellent idea. Certainly in this case," replied the judge.

TETE CACHE BOOZE KING BACK IN JAIL

Judge Says It Is an Excellent Idea that No Appeal Can be Made

Vancouver, April 26.—J. G. Hopper, the man who was sent to jail for twelve months by Magistrate Jewitt at Tete Jaune Cache for being in possession of two trunks full of whiskey, had his sentence altered by Mr. Justice Murphy this morning to a fine of $300, or in default, twelve months in prison.

Mr. E. D. McTaggart, who appealed the case for Hopper, wanted the sentence quashed, or a light sentence imposed.

"Nothing of the kind. I will give him the maximum the law allows me to," replied Mr. Justice Murphy. "I think it is a serious matter for a man to have two trunks full of whiskey in a construction camp. It leads to murder in the wilds and all kinds of trouble. You should live there for a while, as I have done, to find out what it means. If I am wrong, the court of appeal can set me right."

"Unfortunately, there is no appeal from your lordship under the liquor Act," replied the lawyer.

"Is that so? Then I think it is an excellent idea. Certainly in this case," replied the judge.

The "World" Libel Suit
Vancouver, April 26.—By the verdict of a special jury, the action for alleged libel brought by Mr. L. D. Taylor of the "World" against the Vancouver Daily Province, has been decided in favor of the defendant. The jury, being judges of the law as well as of the facts in a libel suit, there is no appeal from this verdict.

They may gag Parliament but the Press is still free.

DOCTORS POISONED

Ptomaines in Chicken Salad Served in New York Hospital

New York, April 26.—The physicians on the staff in Bellevue Hospital are holding an investigation to find out where the chicken came from that was made into salad for yesterday's luncheon and poisoned the whole staff with ptomaine.

Every doctor became ill before night. Several suffered seriously. None was able to make his round of the wards. Nurses had to attend the patients alone today.

A few of the doctors have begun to recover from the effects of the poison. Others are still laid up and under medical treatment.
