RAILWAY COMMISSION SEEKING A BASIS FOR FREIGHT RATES

DOMINION COUNSEL SETS OUT ACCEPTED AND REJECTED THEORIES BEFORE COMMISSION—ARE WEST- ERN RATES EXCESSIVE?

Ottawa, June 23.—Mr. Bicknell, when the railway commission met this morning, outlined in a general way the scope of the western rates enquiry as the Dominion counsel understood it. The intention of counsel for the commission, he said, was to lay before the board all the information possible in order to help the commission to come to a proper conclusion. The original order was to find out whether the western rates were excessive. This has been their stand from the first and they have refused to be drawn away from this position. The want of any specific theory as to what was a questionable rate made the subject difficult. How to decide or ascertain what was reasonable was a problem. There was nothing to guide counsel or the board on the point in Canada; in the United States considerable progress in laying down principles for rates had been made. There were four or five different theories and he did not believe it was impossible to get down to basic principles. Rates, he said, had largely been an evolution in this country, as well as in the United States. Mr. Bicknell said that they did not propose to adduce any evidence in regard to classifications. That question, for the purpose of this enquiry, they did not believe was relevant. There was a principle of fixing rates according to the value of the service rendered. It was held that where the value of goods increased largely when brought from one place to another the railroads should secure some of the profits. There was another principle that railroads should charge all the traffic can bear. Both these theories, he thought, could be dismissed.

ENGLAND NEVER LOST MONEY ON CANADIAN CIVIC ISSUES

NO GREAT WEIGHT ATTACHED TO HORNE-PAYNE'S OBSER- VATIONS, AS THOSE QUALIFIED HAVE FAITH IN CANADIAN CITIES.

London, June 23.—Judging by today's cables, there seems to have been some excitement, especially in Winnipeg, over the recent statements in London regarding the financial standing of Canadian municipalities. The indignation which is said to exist has evidently been aroused through Mr. Horne - Payne's speech. The Canadian Associated Press, however, is unable to learn of any attempt by Canadian railway, bank and commercial interests here to boycott Canadian municipal securities. Mr. Horne-Payne's statements are regarded here as quite singular and biased.

There is, however, a very general feeling in the London market among Canada's best friends that Canadian cities generally, and certain ones in particular, should, for the time, at any rate, limit their commitments to strictly necessary undertakings.

It would be invidious to mention names, but there is not the least doubt that two Canadian cities of the second rank have created larger floating indebtedness than any other cities in the Empire outside of Great Britain.

All the same, it is a fact that London has practically never lost money by investments in municipal securities and there is no Canadian city today, in the opinion of those in London best qualified to know, which is not perfectly good for its obligations. They must, however, take the future into account and if certain cities do not exercise greater care, both as regards amount and method, they will certainly bring trouble on themselves and on the whole situation. Mr. Horne-Payne's orations, it may be added, do not always carry much weight, although his ability is unquestioned.

WHAT ARE RIGHTS OF HOTEL KEEPERS

In Matter of Selling Liquors with Meals in Other Than the Customary Hours.

Charged with selling liquors between the hours of 10 o'clock Saturday evening and 7 o'clock on Monday morning, S. A. Corley, one of the proprietors of the Royal Hotel, appeared in court this morning before Magistrate Carrs. The case is really a test case as to the rights of hotel men to sell liquors with meals at other than ordinary meal hours. The great point to be determined is, in short, when is a meal not a meal.

W. E. Fisher undertook the prosecution and L. W. Patmore the defence. The witness summoned for the prosecution was Chief Vickers, who stated that on Saturday evening last about 11:30 he had seen several men in the dining room of the Royal Hotel consuming beer and other liquors. He also saw dishes and the remains of food before them.

Mr. Corley, when placed on the stand, declared that he had always turned down men who asked for a drink without food and that he never served a meal of less than 25 cents' value. It was therefore most improbable that any of those who at any time bought food and liquor desired the liquor only, as it would mean an outlay of 40 cents to get a 15-cent drink. The strict orders that he had always given to his staff were that a man must order food, and if he wanted a drink with it he could get it, but not otherwise.

He had, he said, been in the habit of selling liquors with food during the hours prohibited for selling it in the bar since last February, when he had been notified by Mr. Peters, the city solicitor, that a change in the Liquor Act made this permissible.

Mr. Patmore pointed out that the whole case hinged on the section of the act which ruled that the regulations concerning early hours and Sunday closing do not apply in the case of liquors served with regular meals.

Mr. Fisher said: "My point hinges on the question whether these people on Saturday evening were getting regular bona fide meals. I think that the regular meal hours would only include the time of the hot dinner, from 11:30 a. m. to 8 p. m., and could not be held to include the short order service which extended from 6 a. m. to 1 a. m. the following morning."

Mr. Patmore contended that a

TEACHERS TARDY IN GETTING TO SCHOOL

Trustees Declare That This Neg- ligence Can Be No Longer Tolerated by Them.

At the meeting of the board of school trustees last night several members commented upon the circumstances coming to their notice of teachers being late in reaching school, and it was felt by all the members that such negligence should not be tolerated. Measures will be taken to ensure punctuality in the future. Discussing the teachers generally, it was the feeling that the staff was up to the average, yet that there were weak points in it. Steps will be taken to remedy these.

Miss Mercer sent in her resignation, designing to spend the next year at home. In her letter she thanked the board and Principal Hunter for the courtesies extended to her and expressed the hope that she should be able to return to teaching she might be favorably considered.

A communication was read from the department that there was no need of asking for temporary certificates from outside teachers, as there was an abundant supply of qualified teachers in the province.

The superintendent of education announces that the schools of the province will close for the holidays on Friday next instead of on Monday.

The guests numbered a hundred. The King in proposing the President's health referred to the cordial relations between France and England as a great factor in the preservation of European peace. President Poincare responded in the same strain.

meal was always a meal, if it was reasonably substantial. Magistrate Carrs deferred a delivery of his decision until Friday.

VISITORS WERE DELIGHTED WITH SCENERY ALONG G.T.P.

Cold Storage Plant Visited Last Evening---Excursionists Were Given Hearty Cheers as the Boat Pulled Out En Route to Alaska

It is a safe bet that no delegation that has ever visited Prince Rupert and district has carried away better impressions of the climate, the people, the scenery and the possibilities than those that were made upon the excursionists from Seattle who left about nine o'clock last night to continue their forty-day trip to Alaska and the Yukon. The excursionists' satisfaction with the entire day's entertainment was expressed in their beaming countenances and there was plainly evident feelings of regret at leaving as the commodious steamer Jefferson pulled away from the wharf.

The main feature of the sojourn at Prince Rupert was the trip by special train over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway to Terrace, one of the new towns of British Columbia that undoubtedly has a bright future before it. Nearly the entire party took advantage of the opportunity to get a glimpse of the unequalled mountain and river scenery that has so recently been opened up to tourists by the new transcontinental railway. A reception committee representing the City Council and the Board of Trade of Prince Rupert met the excursionists at the wharf shortly after their arrival in the morning and extended a hearty welcome to the city. Among those who accompanied the party on the trip to Terrace were Acting Mayor Naden, Ald. McCaffery, F. G. Dawson, F. H. Mobley, G. W. Nickerson, H. F. McRae, W. Fisher, D. C. Whiteford, J. Lorne McLaren, J. H. Rogers and Mesdames Dawson, Mobley and Whiteford.

A. E. McMaster, general agent of the G. T. P. also accompanied the excursionists to Terrace to see that nothing was wanting to make the trip a thoroughly enjoyable one.

The duties of the reception committee were by no means onerous, the visitors being of a most sociable and congenial type. While the formality of introductions was carried out as far as was possible it was not strictly adhered to. All were out to enjoy themselves and before the train was beyond the yard limits it was like one jolly party with no strangers aboard. The run to Terrace was made in good time with only one or two stops, the splendid service and the excellence of the road bed being the subject of many complimentary remarks. The grandeur of the scenery was however a revelation to the large majority of the visitors. The Skeena, famous for its wealth of salmon and swollen to abnormal proportions, was greatly admired as its waters in an angry mood rushed along the rocky shore on which for the greater part of the distance travelled the railway is most substantially constructed. On the opposite shore at the mouth of the river the fishing villages, Essington, Claxton, Carlyle and Balmoral, with their buildings mostly white stood out prominently against the massive mountains rising high above them. Farther on the river becomes narrower and the mountain scenery absorbed the whole attention of the excursionists. In the three hours' run there was not a dull moment as the constantly changing scenes kept everyone engaged. While the large majority of the visitors are much travelled people, they were unanimous in their praises of the magnificent scenery along the route.

The excursionists were given a hearty welcome by the residents of Terrace, who are justly optimistic as to the future of that place as a distributing centre for the immense area of fertile valley land that is tributary to it. The townsites is an ideal one and the terraced benches of land have a commanding view of the valley and the mountain ranges surrounding it.

Mr. Gordon, proprietor of the hotel, had prepared a special

OUR VISITORS FROM SEATTLE.

Few things could be better for Prince Rupert than that such a party of prominent men as we had with us yesterday should visit this city and make some acquaintance with it and with its tributary country. People may gain some idea of a place by reading of it, but to obtain a complete idea of it they must see it for themselves. And nothing could be more as we desire than that a number of men who have distinguished themselves by their different commercial and professional careers should come to Prince Rupert and see it under the most favorable auspices. It is one of the best advertisements we could get, and good advertising is at the root of all success in every line of business, whether public or private.

A WELCOME TO ALL BRITONS.

A point which we wish to press home is that as the settler from the United Kingdom is incomparably the best that Canada can desire to secure, Canadians should be more alert to recognize that his point of view must of necessity be different from ours. Things which we take for granted he may regard as strange. Methods of work which to us are almost second nature, to him are likely to be novel. Social usages which to us are only natural, may to him seem difficult to understand. The majority of us would feel ourselves as much out of place in England if we went there to work for a living as any Englishman ever felt himself to be here. Let us not forget that the Englishman who comes to live in Canada thinks he is coming to his own people, only to find that there are unexpected differences. We want in Canada all the English settlers we can get, and it would be wise policy on our part to endeavor to grasp the point of view of these people, and as far as lies in our power render their assimilation easier than it often is. Of course, the Englishman who is going to live in Canada must conform to Canadian ways if he desires to make a success of his life here; nevertheless, let us not forget that he is almost a stranger in a strange land, and let us endeavor to make him feel at home.—Victoria Colonist.

JAMES J. HILL.

GREATEST RAILWAY MANAGER OF WORLD IS A CANADIAN

Such men as Shaughnessy, McNeill, Mackenzie, Chamberlin, Van Horne and other big railway men easily rank with America's best providing James J. Hill is placed in a class by himself. He is the greatest of all American railway men, and it is interesting to know that he is a Canadian. Outside of this he is something of a philosopher; a keen observer and a ready speaker. At a banquet given at Ottawa on the 13th by the government to visiting New York bankers, Mr. Hill said: "Whatever may be the fate of the movement among the nations in favor of peace, those whose mother tongue is English will never again take up arms against one another."

PARCELS POST FOR CANADA NEXT YEAR

Railways and Express Companies Likely to Offer Obstruction to Scheme at First.

The parcels post is now bound to become an established fact in Canada. Against that system the railways and express companies may offer obstruction, but the amazing submission to corporation extortion which has characterized the people of Canada for decades is ended. The great benefits that the parcels post has conferred on United States shippers who have made use of it is proved by the pleas of the express companies that it is interfering with their business. As was expected, after the first popular manifestation of satisfaction, some complaints are being heard of the service. The post office investigating committee of the United States congress heard some of these complaints at a meeting in New York.

What appears to be proved is that small dealers in the rural districts have not taken the trouble to make the most effective use of the parcels post system. Some of the objections urged mainly by those interested in the mail order business were in respect to the zone system, the parcels post stamps and the rough handling of packages. It does not follow, however, that a more efficient detail of practice may not remedy these minor faults. At any rate, the opposition of the express companies was to be expected. The parcels post system will, in the course of time, be extended in the United States. It is certain to have general application in Canada.—Winnipeg Telegram.

HAD BARELY TIME TO PACK HIS KIT

Lieutenant Fortier Called from Ship Lillooet to Join Survey Ship Minto at Halifax.

Vancouver, June 19.—Lieutenant R. L. Fortier, who has been for some time on duty on the Dominion government survey ship Lillooet, was in the city for an hour or two yesterday and after hurried greetings and farewells took the C. P. R. express for the east. Fortier has been for three years in the government survey work on this coast and previous to that time he was in the service of the C. P. R. on the Empress liners. The Lillooet was at work around the Queen Charlotte Islands when Lieutenant Fortier got the word to go at once to Halifax and there report on the Dominion government survey ship Minto, which is outfitting for a season's work in Hudson Bay.

Lieutenant Fortier had literally only a moment's notice in which to pack his kit and get by launch to Prince Rupert to catch the steamer for this port. He is a son of Mr. L. M. Fortier, of the Department of the Interior, Brandon, Man. He was born in Brandon, but he says that he always had a call for the sea though he never saw a great body of water until he was well into his teens.

IMPROVED WATER SUPPLY

On Ambrose Avenue Would Cost Seven Hundred Dollars.

The only way to improve the water supply of the residents on Ambrose Avenue would be to install a cast iron pipe from the main line. This would cost at least $700 and when put in, would not be a part of the permanent system. Such was the report made to the City Council Monday evening.

As money was not available for the work, which would in any case be temporary, it was laid over for the present.

GRAHAM ISLAND COAL

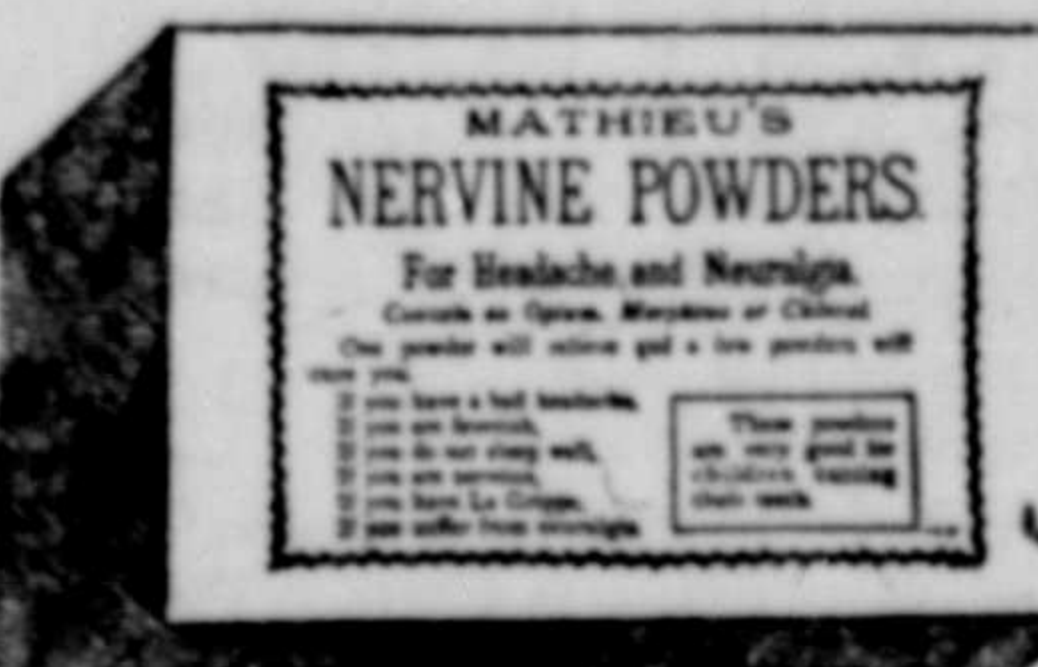

Members of Coal and Timber Syndicate Return from Yakoun.

W. H. Armstrong and A. Morrison of Vancouver, who are heavily interested in the Graham Island Coal and Timber Syndicate, are stopping in this city waiting for the Princess Mary to take them back to Vancouver. They have been spending some time on the Yakoun River, where the coal prospectors are at work. The syndicate has had prospectors there since August, 1911. There are at present from fifteen to twenty men in its employ on the place. Reports from the prospectors are favorable, and Graham Island may look forward to coal mining as the big industry of their island, says Mr. Morrison.

The crow perches between the Central and Separate schools at Goderich and keeps up a running fire of conversation on local topics.

TALE OF THE TAIL OF A BEAR
WANTED FOR SAINTS' REST ZOO

FAMOUS ANIMALS ALREADY SECURED—SAINT JOSEPH MAKING A PILGRIM'S PROGRESS IN SEARCH OF A BEAR WITH A LONG TAIL.

As before stated in the News, which ready money is the keynote. As a great French philosopher once remarked: "L'argent parle toutes les langues de tout le monde." So the saint answered the Indian, in the latter's native Chinook:
"What is the sum you request for the animal?"
"Nika tikkee ten dollar."
Now, although always wearing a soft look of meditation that matched his aureole, at this moment the saint's memory was flooded by the business proclivities for which he had previously been famed when a member of the mundane world. So he softly whispered:
"Nika tikkee lottach quinim dollar, nika tikkee, nika mam-mook okook tenas bear."

"I will present you with five, my friend, and take the animal." But Lo, with a nay-nay-Pauline shrug of his shoulders, passed on his way in stolid silence. In the refectory that evening, when the saints were filled with good things and good thoughts, Saint Joseph sighed and at last found courage to ask the abbot, Saint James, if a small bear, no larger than Saint Pussey, would not be dear at ten dollars. The abbot thoughtfully responded that that would depend. Thereupon Saint Joseph related his adventure with the Indian, and ventured to ask upon what the price of so small a bear depended.

"Upon his tail," was the sententious reply. "Our dearly beloved brother should study the works of Nature more closely and base commercialism not at all. But if the tail of the animal in question was as long as that of our Saint Pussey, then the poor Indian could use the sum named for good purposes and our Rest secure one more unique zoological specimen." Upon these the other saints clamored for speech, and it being vouchsafed by the abbot there followed a discussion. This resulted in a resolution that Saint Joseph be authorized to purchase "a bear" with a tail at least five inches long.

If you should chance to see a man walking meditatively along, with hat thrown back and forehead bulging with thought and other things, whose left thumb is wrapped around with a tape measure—that man is St. Joseph searching for a bear with a good long tail for the Saints' Rest zoo. Lo and behold, a poor Indian boy with a little black bear—a unique specimen with which to form a Happy Family in the menagerie.

"Mika tikkee buy okook black bear; all same klooch tenas kitten?" asked the Indian.

In English what he said was: "Would you like to buy a small black bear which is as tame as a kitten?"

But the saint, of course, had no need of any interpreter, for, by a special dispensation of Providence, saints and aborigines understand all the tongues in

Jogging Laziness into Activity

The merchant whose business lags in the summer has himself to thank.

To slacken the selling pace in the hot season—to lessen Advertising activity—indicates a resignation which has no place in modern business.

If we think we cannot keep our business booming in summer time, we surely will not.

What a jolt it must have been to the fur trade, when the first mid-summer fur advertisement was run in a daily paper! Now many fur stores are following the example of that progressive fur man who dared to believe that fur sales need not go down as the mercury goes up.

Energy, linked with Advertising, has turned the month of January into the biggest selling season for white goods. Advertisements of a high stimulative power, combined with a disregard of "seasons," have opened up automobile selling two months earlier than was once thought possible. Advertising has started Christmas shopping early in October instead of the middle of December.

Advertising rises superior to seasons and thermometers. The right kind of Advertising strikes a responsive cord in human nature—and human nature is the same in August as in December.

Advice regarding your advertising problems is available through any recognized Canadian advertising agency, or the Secretary of the Canadian Press Association, Room 508 Lumsden Building, Toronto. Enquiry involves no obligation on your part—so write, if interested.

BATTLED WITH FIFTY RIOTOUS MEXICANS

Plucky Patrolman Makes Brave Fight and Rescued One of His Prisoners

(Special to The Daily News.)
San Diego, June 24.—Patrolman Max Brown was attacked by two Mexicans with knives last night and nearly lost his life. But he had managed to handcuff them when a crowd of fifty Mexicans attacked him and after a tough battle managed to rescue one of his prisoners. With the other Brown fled into a restaurant and barricaded himself and prisoner. But the mob completely wrecked the building and rescued the other man. Brown, who was laid by the fallen debris, they fortunately did not find.

PORTLAND FESTIVAL A MAGNIFICENT SIGHT

P. W. Anderson Tells of His Visit to City During Gala Week of Roses.

"Although I had a most enjoyable time in Portland, I am glad to be once more in Prince Rupert," declared Mr. P. W. Anderson to the News yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson returned on Monday on the Princess Sophia from a long visit to Portland. Mrs. Anderson has been away since March 22. Mr. Anderson himself, although intending to be away but a week, was so delighted with Portland that he stayed there nearly a month.

He was fortunate enough to be in Portland during the Rose Festival, which lasted from June 9 to June 15. "On the Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of that week the city was a very garden of roses. Fifty thousand outsiders came to Portland to see the magnificent spectacle. There were delegations present from San Francisco, Los Angeles, Spokane, Tacoma and Seattle," said Mr. Anderson. "It was a sight which I am most pleased to have seen."

Portland has not been affected by tightness of the money market, as have the other cities of the coast, says Mr. Anderson. The reason for this is that its wealth is self-contained. The bulk of the loans are made by citizens, and the interest stays in the locality. Altogether Portland is a very fine and progressive city.

Mr. Anderson's mission south was more in the nature of a business trip. He has been for some time a firm believer in the probability of oil being discovered on Graham Island, and has been quietly corresponding with financial people with a view to getting them interested in his proposition. He was able to meet the representatives of one of the largest corporations in the United States, and he feels confident that the result of his interview will be followed up with active development of these properties.

GIFT FROM THE VISITORS

Handsome Mementoes from the Seattle Chamber of Commerce.

Before leaving last evening the Seattle visitors presented to the Board of Trade a framed address signed with the names of the members of the Alaska department of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce. It is a beautiful piece of engraving, showing the different offices in the department, topped with a gilt excursion badge. They also presented a map of Alaska, at the foot of which appears Prince Rupert as the natural distributing centre for the Alaskan trade. The board will apply to the City Council for permission to have these souvenirs hung in the council chamber of the city hall.

RIVER FLOOD

John Manson, the road superintendent, and Assistant Engineer E. G. Baxter, of the Provincial roads office, went up country on the excursion train yesterday by special permission in order to inspect the extent of damage done by the floods. The bridges at Terrace and Kitsumkalum have been swept away. There was a report of damage also to the bridge at Copper River, but this is declared to be without any foundation, as the bridge there was sound yesterday afternoon. The river is reported to have risen nine feet above sea level, and to be at the highest point it has reached for the last seventeen years.

SLEUTHING AS A HABIT

To the sleuth sleuthing becomes a confirmed habit and is applied to matters little as well as big. For instance, a hornet visited the police office yesterday to hunt for some of the sugar the drunks cough up. This was all locked up in the safe, so the hornet hummed a little, just to hide his disappointment, and aviated himself away.

Before he did so, however, Detective Bailey had sprinkled a sheet of paper on which the hornet alighted to look around for the sugar with finger print powder. When Mr. Hornet left without showing his sting (card) Mr. Bailey took his microscope and examined the prints. These spelled out the address of the gentleman, and Mr. Bailey walked across the street and found that the yellow striped, convict garbed gentleman had built himself a beautiful home under the eaves of the new library, and that both he and his large family were at home. Under these circumstances discretion was the better part of valor and the hornet family was left undisturbed.

A. M. Manson and D. H. Morrison, who were delegates from Tye Lodge to the meeting of the Provincial Grand Chapter, A. F. & A. M., returned this morning on the Prince George.

A. J. Morris returned on the Prince George this morning. Mrs. Morris will remain for a few weeks longer visiting friends in Seattle and its vicinity before coming back to Prince Rupert.

J. Sedgwick Cowper, formerly of the Daily News and now of the Vancouver Province, leaves next week for London as special correspondent of the Province.

Mrs. Du Vernet entertained charmingly at the tea hour yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss McIntyre, whose marriage with the Rev. Mr. Potter takes place tomorrow evening. The hostess received in a smart gown of green taffeta, and was assisted by her daughter, Miss Du Vernet, in a pretty frock of cream figured marquisette, relieved with touches of green and brown. The guest of honor had a graceful costume of brown satin, trimmed with Irish lace, a brown flower laden hat, faced with pale pink satin. The drawing room was bright with a profusion of spring flowers and potted ferns. Mrs. W. E. Williams poured at a tea table prettily decorated with yellow and blue irises. Mrs. E. C. Burch served strawberries and cream and Miss Martin and Miss Denison handed the refreshments. The guests included Mrs. H. B. Cambie, Mrs. Lamont, Mrs. Homer, Mrs. Ford, Mrs. Cade, Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. McIntosh, Mrs. Hobin, Mrs. McNicholl, Mrs. O'Neill, Mrs. Brown, Miss Enoch, Miss Holby, Miss Mercer, Miss Kathleen Jennis, Miss Sylvia Jennis, Miss Grant, Miss Chapman, Miss Johnstone, Miss Milligan, Miss Clifton, Miss Alice Carrs, Miss Phyllis McCoskrie and Miss Ryder.

Augustus Ross was fined $10 or ten days for being drunk and disorderly.

VISITORS WERE DELIGHTED BY SCENERY ALONG G. T. P.

luncheon for the party and handled the large crowd to the satisfaction of all. Chicken, cold meats and tasty salads were served in abundance, but the features of the menu which were a real treat were the salmon and the lake trout that were most deliciously prepared. For the trout much credit is due to James Gatt, Charles Harrison and E. M. Jacobs, manager of the Hot Springs hotel at Lakelse Lake. Owing to the destruction of the bridge that leads to the Lakelse district these men had to go to Copper City, several miles up river, to cross and only arrived at Terrace with the speckled beauties at the same hour as the train pulled in with the visitors. Not one of the trout weighed less than two pounds and thirty-three were caught in one hour, all from Lakelse Lake. Mr. Gordon was the recipient of many congratulations on the excellent spread and the good service.

The return trip was made in good time, reaching Prince Rupert at 6 p. m., everyone enthusiastic over the beautiful scenery of the Skeena and the well constructed railway that winds its way along the precipitous shores.

The reception committee were the guests of the excursionists for dinner on board the Jefferson, after which a visit was made to the cold storage plant operated by the Canadian Fish and Cold Storage Co., Ltd., where the visitors were courteously welcomed and given a vivid idea of the magnitude of the fishing industry adjacent to the city. After spending half an hour going through the buildings the Jefferson returned to the G. T. P. wharf with the reception committee. Final farewells were said and the visitors were given hearty cheers from the large gathering of citizens on the wharf as the boat pulled out with its jolly crowd of excursionists, bound for Alaskan ports.

The citizens of Prince Rupert should consider themselves highly honored with the visit of such a representative gathering of citizens from the United States. In addition to leading business men of Seattle, there were included residents of San Francisco, New York, Boston and other large centres. There were also in the party some prominent newspaper men and journalists, who will, through their publications, tell to the world from personal observation something of the wealth of forest, sea and mine as well as the agricultural possibilities that in the very near future will make Prince Rupert one of the most important ports on the Pacific coast.
