TWO KILLED IN POLISH RACE RIOT AT BENTON-SQUAMISH INDIANS AGREED TO SELL RESERVE

ALL INDICATIONS POINT TO A MOST SUCCESSFUL FAIR

The opening of the Prince Rupert exhibition will take place promptly at 10 a. m. at the entrance to the Industrial building, when President J. H. McMullin will receive Hon. Price Ellison, minister of agriculture and lands, who will perform the dedicatory ceremony. It is expected that Mayor Pattullo and William Manson, M. P., will also say a few words. Following the addresses the massed school children will sing. The busiest centre in the city today is on Sixth avenue, where an army of men is busily engaged in getting everything in readiness for the opening of the exhibition tomorrow. The Auditorium, which during exhibition week is known as Industrial Hall, is being transformed into a place of beauty. Several tables have been built the entire length of the building for display of flowers, and other articles of interest. Along the sides of the building are located booths for various exhibitors. Just east of the Industrial Hall is the vegetable tent, which is already nearly filled with a display of vegetables as good as to be found at a county fair the best agricultural sections of Canada. Among those making most creditable showings is Mr. Miller of Kitsumkalum. There also a splendid exhibit from the Okla Coola and another from the Okley Valley. Exhibits are coming in so fast that additional space is likely to be required. East of the vegetable tent is the poultry tent, which is all ready to receive the exhibits, and a good display is expected. West of Industrial Hall is the fishery tent, next to that a building in which minerals will be shown, and adjoining that the live stock tent and the dog tent. At the extreme west is being erected a building with 600 feet of floor space specially for the exhibit of Gustave Gervais, which promises to be one of the most interesting features of the fair. A special tent will be put up for exhibition of the man eating shark brought to the city yesterday by Captain Selig of the fishing boat Minera. This monster of the deep was captured in Portland Canal by Captain Selig and his assistants. It is twelve feet in length, seven feet in circumference and weighs 1,200 pounds. It took over three hours to land it. The shark is today at the plant of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Company, where it will be frozen for exhibition purposes. With such an attraction Prince Rupert is not going to be behind any of the fairs in rare specimens of the animal world. The city is today thronged with visitors who have come early and hundreds more are expected by special trains and boats. All that is necessary to make the fair a success is the continuance of the fine weather of today.

BODY OF OLD RANCHER FOUND AFTER FOUR DAYS' SEARCH

MYSTERIOUS END OF OSCAR SODERBERG NEAR HIS CABIN FOUR MILES FROM HAZELTON—FOUL PLAY IS SUSPECTED

After four days' search, the body of Oscar Soderberg, an old rancher, was found near his cabin, four miles from Hazelton, on Wednesday afternoon. The circumstances suggest that death was the result of foul play. On Sunday, Fred Hagen, a friend of Soderberg, not having seen the old man in town for some days, went to the ranch to see that all was well. He found the cabin and storehouse locked, while many of the chickens which were shut up, were dead. Hagen at once informed the police, and Constables Grant and Russell, with others, began a search, which did not end until Wednesday, when Hagen found the missing man's body in the brush near the cabin, where it had lain for ten days. Coroner Hoskins ordered an inquest, which was held on Thursday evening, with the following jury: J. M. MacCormick, chairman; J. W. Campbell, Alex. Hisholm, Chas. V. Smith, R. J. Cook, Wm. Grant. The medical evidence given by Dr. Wrench showed that the dead man had sustained two wounds on the head, either of which was sufficient to cause death, one being a punctured wound at the base of the skull. A minor wound

A CROWDED HOUSE WELL ENTERTAINED

"The Mikado," an Old Favorite, Was Enthusiastically Received—"Sergeant Brue" Tonight

If it were possible to add to the favorable impression made by the opening performance of the Pollard Juvenile Opera Co. on Saturday evening, the presentation last night of "The Mikado," a comic opera that has stood the ravages of time remarkably well, undoubtedly had that effect. Throughout the evening, and particularly in the second act, the audience, which completely filled the cosy theatre, was kept in roars of laughter. That the company is more thoroughly trained and consists of more genuine artists in their line than any other company that has visited Prince Rupert is beyond question. The record they have made in the first two performances is sufficient to assure crowded houses throughout the entire engagement.

Teddie McNamara, in the role of Ko-Ko, the lord high executioner, was a whole show in himself and one or two of his local hits put the audience in convulsions of laughter. N. Pearce as Knee-Ban, umbrella bearer to the Mikado in a silent role was extremely clever, his make-up and his general bearing causing intense amusement. The popular trio "Three Little Maids from School" was one of the prettiest songs in the first act. Queenie Williams as Pitti-Sing is a winsome little lady and was the greatest favorite in last night's performance. Patti Hill as Yum-Yum appeared to splendid advantage in her various numbers. She has a remarkably sweet voice and an attractive manner. The principals were well supported by the company and the choruses were well sung and received with enthusiasm. In the second act Teddie McNamara had to respond to repeated encores to the old favorite, "Oh, Willow, Tit-Willow." The bill for tonight is "Sergeant Brue," regarded by many as one of the best that will be put on during the entire engagement.

THE IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL OF MAYOR GAYNOR OF NEW YORK

ESTIMATED THAT ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND PEOPLE TOOK PART IN THE FUNERAL PROCESSION TO OLD TRINITY CHURCH.

(Special to The Daily News.) New York, Sept. 23.—Business was practically at a standstill in the city all the forenoon of yesterday in honor of the funeral of the late Mayor Gaynor. All the downtown business houses and offices were closed and many buildings heavily draped with crepe. Around the city hall, where the body lay in state, there was an immense crowd from an early hour, and when the funeral cortege started punctually at 11 o'clock all the streets along the line of route were occupied with throngs of spectators. The route was up the Bowery to Fourteenth, through Union Square to Broadway and down that famous thoroughfare to the equally famous Old Trinity Church. Sixteen hundred police lined the route. Wall street and the church yard was one mass of people, admittance to the church being by ticket only. Bishop Greer preached an impressive funeral sermon and the services were full choral.

After the funeral probably one-half the hundred thousand people who formed the funeral procession accompanied the remains to their last resting place in Greenwood cemetery. William Jay Gaynor was born on a farm near Whitestown, N. Y., in 1851. He had to help the family there in his struggle for existence, and in this fight he had to take time for his own education. He was graduated from the Whitestown seminary, went to Boston to teach school and afterward studied law in the office of Ward Hunt of Utica. In 1873 Gaynor went to Brooklyn and became a newspaper reporter. Two years later he was admitted to the bar. From that time until his death Mr. Gaynor lived in the midst of continual political warfare. He started it with an attack on the lawless saloons in Flatbush, a section of Brooklyn. Ten years later he led a successful fight against the so-called McLaughlin ring in Brooklyn. His battle against John Y. McKane, boss of Sheephead Bay and Coney Island, attracted nation-wide attention. McKane died in Sing Sing. Gaynor was elected a justice of the supreme court of New York in 1893 on a nomination given him by Republicans and Independent Democrats. He was re-elected in 1907, but resigned to accept the nomination of mayor of New York City, to which he was elected in November, 1909.

The electric light and power committee recommended to the council last night the extension of the light service along Eleventh street and also to Manson Way on First avenue, the first at a cost of $270 and the latter at a cost of $370. Alderman Maitland thought there were many outlying points needing lights that should be first considered, and he did not see why the committee should recommend the lighting of Eleventh street and the whole Seal Cove end of town be neglected. Alderman Leek replied with some warmth that there was more traffic on Eleventh street in one hour than there was in a day in the outlying district referred to by Alderman Maitland. Alderman Maitland responded that there were no houses on Eleventh street to justify the expense, while at Seal Cove there were sixteen houses that were entitled to be served with lights. Alderman Leek said there were at least twenty or thirty men who would be benefited by lighting on Eleventh street. Alderman Dybavn said there was a great and growing traffic from the waterfront to the part it was proposed to light on Eleventh street, which he considered justified the extension at once. There was also the question of finance, the cost of extension to the outlying section mentioned by Alderman Maitland being larger than could be expended under the present estimate, while the report of the superintendent showed that there was still enough left in the estimates to cover the cost of the proposed extension. The mayor agreed that it would not cost anything like as much to give the proposed extension as to give those suggested by Alderman Maitland. They would reach those outlying districts in time but could not do everything at once. He thought a bylaw would have to be submitted at the end of the year to the electors as to what the council could do in the matter of electric light extension. The report was then adopted.

QUESTION OF EXTENSION OF ELECTRIC LIGHTING DEBATED

AFTER DISCUSSION COUNCIL ADOPTED RECOMMENDATION FOR EXTENSION OF LIGHTING SYSTEM TO ELEVENTH STREET AND TO MANSON WAY.

The electric light and power committee recommended to the council last night the extension of the light service along Eleventh street and also to Manson Way on First avenue, the first at a cost of $270 and the latter at a cost of $370. Alderman Maitland thought there were many outlying points needing lights that should be first considered, and he did not see why the committee should recommend the lighting of Eleventh street and the whole Seal Cove end of town be neglected. EARLY CLOSING BILL FOUND ULTRA VIRES

City Solicitor's Opinion That the Business Men Must Agree Among Themselves.

The bylaw fixing an hour for the closing of all business houses was brought into question at the meeting of the council last night, and a written opinion was read from the city solicitor that the bylaw was ultra vires and could not therefore be enforced. It was for that reason he had made no attempt to proceed against violators of the bylaw when requested to do so. The bylaw would not stand the test of the courts. The only way in which early closing could be made effective was by the business men agreeing among themselves on the subject. Alderman Maitland: Then is the intention of the council to repeal this bylaw and allow merchants to keep open at all hours if they like? The mayor replied that the present bylaw did not prevent this. Alderman Sutherland then gave notice of a motion to repeal the early closing bylaw.

COLD STORAGE EMERGENCY.

There is a story told of a Chicago cold storage egg. Once upon a time a western bachelor purchased a case of cold storage eggs for winter consumption. On one of the eggs he found written a message asking the purchaser to communicate with the girl who had packed this particular egg and suggesting that such communication might lead to matrimony. The western bachelor wrote to the address given and offered his heart, hand and name. The reply came back in due course. "Too late; I was married four years ago and have two children," she wrote. Perhaps there is an analogy to be drawn with Mr. Borden's "emergency." It was fresh packed a year ago. It is a little addled now, but still "an emergency."

Possibly two years hence it will still be doing duty as a "strictly fresh, new laid emergency." But the country is hardly likely to offer its heart and hand to the packer, Mr. Borden, then, on the strength of the message on the label.

MORE PARTY MEANNESS.

Last year the postmaster general wiped the name of "Graham" off the post office map. The name was given in compliment to the then minister of railways to the junction point of the National Transcontinental and the G. T. P. branch to Fort William. Mr. Pelletier for obvious reasons didn't like the name and had it changed. Once upon a time Mr. Pelletier dismissed a Grit postmaster who had been dead several years.

AERIAL DEFENCE OF BRITISH COASTS RAPIDLY ESTABLISHED

STATIONS FOR AIRSHIPS AT ALL IMPORTANT POINTS—AIR COMMITTEE A PERMANENT SUB-COMMITTEE OF IMPERIAL DEFENCE.

The aerial defences of the coast, particularly on the eastern side, are being developed by the admiralty with considerable energy, says the London Standard. Since the first naval air station was established in the Isle of Grain, at the mouth of the Thames and Medway, on December 31 last, several other stations have been brought into existence, those now "in commission" being as follows: Calshot, at the entrance to Southampton Water; Isle of Grain, covering the dock yards at Sheerness and Chatham; Harwich, Great Yarmouth, Firth of Forth, covering the new naval works at Rosyth; Cromarty, where extensive naval and other developments are in progress. In addition to these, the erection of a number of other stations has been decided upon.

The air committee, which is a permanent sub-committee of the committee of imperial defence, is actively engaged in co-ordinating the work of both branches of the Royal Flying Corps, with the result that the naval and military wings are working in such close co-operation as to be almost interchangeable. The advisability of this is obvious, since under these conditions the military wing would be able to assist the navy in offensive work on hostile coasts, while in defensive work the two would naturally be called upon to work together.

Other places at which naval air stations are to be established are Cleethorpes (on the Humber), Scarborough, Dundee, Dover and Scapa Flow, and other places will be added as the resources at the disposal of the admiralty increase. The navy now possesses between eighty and ninety qualified pilots and although the number of machines is lamentably small, deliveries are being made with considerable rapidity.

The depot ship of the naval air service, the light cruiser Hermes, in which three seaplanes and the necessary launching and recovering apparatus are carried, has gone to Scapa Flow, in the Orneys, where experiments of great importance will be conducted with the object of ascertaining the value of the seaplane for attacking warships of the smaller classes, and the accuracy with which missiles can be dropped from them.

The war office has now decided to order the second squadron of the Royal Flying Corps to Ireland, states the Dublin Evening Mail. This squadron consists of twelve aeroplanes, and is due to arrive in Ireland at an early date. Their camping ground will be at Limerick and Birr, and the squadron will be engaged under service conditions in the Irish military manoeuvres. It is believed to be quite possible, adds the report, that the arrangement, at present temporary, may be placed on a permanent basis.

NOT COLD FEET AT ALL

Everett Kissick Merely Showed Good Discretion.

Warren Kissick thinks the paragraph The News published from the Whitehorse Star yesterday was not written with a knowledge of the full facts in the case. He has a letter from his brother Everett which shows that the latter has no cold feet in regard to his trip to Chisana, but is using admirable discretion. When he arrived at Whitehorse he found the season too late and instead of bulling it through like so many stampedees did he will await the freeze up. He has a thousand pounds of provisions and a good outfit and says in his letter that he will be among the first to go in over the winter trail.

2. That in addition to the two launch race prizes there is also the speed cup (won last year by the Evelyn), which is awarded to the boat making the best time over the course, irrespective of handicaps.

3. Entries from out-of-town competitors will be received for all the events (except the two handicaps) up to the day of the race.

The approximate distances for the rowboats and canoe races will be 400 yards, finishing at the Rowing Club, by the Government wharf.

Prince Rupert launches competing who have not already had their handicaps taken are asked to arrange with Messrs. Chapple and Hemmel to have this done at the earliest opportunity.

Thanking you in anticipation of your extending to us the courtesy of your columns, I am Yours faithfully, A. S. A. VIDLER, Secretary.

BRITISH PREMIER DOES NOT LIKE LETTER OF LOREBURN

SAYS CONSENT TO PROPOSALS OF A CONFERENCE WOULD BREAK UP PARTY AND ALIENATE IRISHMEN—CARSON'S NEVER SURRENDER ORY

London, Sept. 20—Premier Asquith is freely stated in government circles to be more than annoyed at the intervention of Lord Loreburn in the Irish Government controversy without any previous hint to himself.

While he continues desirous of receiving any suggestion of practical policy which would tend to reassure and safeguard Ulster Protestantism, he holds that as the cabinet has placed their plan fully before parliament and the country, any alternative for an amended plan should be made equally clear.

He will not consent to the idea of a conference unless some preliminary basis for a settlement which are more definite than any Unionist in a responsible position has yet put forward. If he did indeed so consent the fight-

PROVING BIG COAL SEAMS ON MORICE

Prince Rupert Syndicate's Property Showing Up Well—Several Large Seams of Fine Coal.

An apparently reliable report is to the effect that the diamond drill on the Morice River coal field has demonstrated the continuance of the big seams, having bored through seven feet eight inches of coal at a depth of 734 feet. The drilling is being continued to prove the consistency of the formation by locating the other seams which were found in previous borings on other sections of the property.

The importance to the district of the results obtained by Messrs. Jefferson and Dockrill and A. J. Beaudette, the mining engineer who is associated with them, can hardly be overestimated. It is now apparent that the Prince Rupert Coal Syndicate has an exceedingly valuable property, the exploitation of which cannot fail to bring them large returns.—Omineca Miner.
