REDUCED INSURANCE RATES FOR RUPERT

Local Board Agents Have Been Fighting for Lower Insurance

The report of A. W. Ross, representing the B. C. Mainland Underwriters Association, who inspected the city on behalf of the board companies last summer, has just been received. It deals with all phases of the insurance problem, and in some instances the statements are not fairly put, and the recommendations are extreme. The book of ratings, however, has been revised and considerably lowered, which is the main feature.

The revision places the mercantile section on an average of 7 per cent., but as the rates are all specifically made on each building, it is impossible to get at the general percentage of reduction. The saving to premium payers, however, will be considerable.

This lowering of rates has been fought for by the local agents for some years and they are now beginning to accomplish results.

patronage during the past year

Looking backward from the threshold of 1914 we cannot but congratulate ourselves on the splendid increase of our out-of-town business during 1913. Therefore, on account of the staunch support and this display of confidence in our service, we must thank our many out-of-town friends for their patronage during the past year. We do not claim that our service is perfect beyond mistakes, for where so many hands are employed small errors in despatching orders are bound to occur. These, however, when brought to our notice, are rectified with the utmost haste and care, while we are particular that our customer shall suffer no loss. We trust that each of our customers will interpret this message as directed to them personally. To all we send sincere wishes for a happy New Year.

SECTIONAL VIEW SHOWING THE POSITIONS OF THE DUNGEONS AND PARTS OF THE WHITE TOWER

Public may pentrate new parts of the Tower. Further portions of the Tower of London are to be opened to the general public. The portion which is shortly to be thrown open is chiefly the basement section of the Tower, which consists of three large rooms separated by enormously thick walls. This basement portion contains the cell of Guy Fawkes and also the little space in which Sir Thomas Moore was confined. Both these will now form entrances to the Little Ease, the famous dungeon in which Jewish money lenders and others were confined at times in the middle ages. The two large apartments, which at present contain guns, were possibly occasionally used for torture rooms, but were not regularly used for this purpose. The upper portion of the Tower has been elevated in the above drawing in order to show the disposition of the lower rooms. The positions of the cell of Sir Walter Raleigh, the chapel crypt, the chapel of St. John, and the various armories are also indicated. The present public eentrance is shown on the extreme left.
