ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PRINCE RUPERT BRANCH OF THE WOMEN'S AUXILIARY

The annual meeting of the Prince Rupert branch of the Women's Auxiliary took place in St. Andrew's Church on Friday, commencing at 2:30 p.m., 26 members being present. Miss Enoch, president of the branch, presided over the meeting, and the meeting was opened by the litany and prayers of the W. A.

Reports of the secretary, treasurer and Dorcas secretary were read and it was reported that the past year had been one of splendid effort and resulted in the raising of $1,000 for the funds of the Women's Auxiliary, which had been apportioned out to meet the needs of the church and to fill the different pledges taken by the branch. The secretary for the year, Miss Enoch, presented a report of the work done during the year, and received commendation for her many excellent papers during the year.

The report of the president of the Women's Auxiliary, Miss Du Vernet, and superintendent of the junior branch, Miss Enoch, were read and their work also commended. A very good report of the work done during the year and received great commendation from the president, and a hearty vote of thanks to the members.

Among the correspondence was a letter from Miss Deane of the Ridley Home at Metlakatla thanking the members for the support given by them during the year. It was decided, therefore, that the work undertaken should be the making of complete outfits for two girls in the home. The members were emphatic in their opinion that all support should be given to this institution which lay at our doors, and a pledge was therefore undertaken that the branch would pay for the outfit of one child in the home each year, $100 being necessary for this purpose.

The great regret of the president and members of the branch, Mrs. Ford stated that she found it necessary to resign her position as Dorcas secretary. She had done such splendid work in that department that the meeting was with one accord a most hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Ford, which was presented to her by the president, Mrs. Rix, together with remarks appreciative of her devoted services.

The resignation of Miss Enoch as superintendent of the junior branch was also most reluctantly accepted by the president, who expressed the feelings of the meeting when she extolled the value of Miss Enoch's services in this most important branch of the work. In the election of officers it was found difficult to fill Miss Enoch's place and the matter had to be left over.

The following officers were elected for the year: Hon. president, Mrs. Du Vernet; president, Mrs. Rix; first vice-president, Mrs. Jenks; second vice-president, Mrs. Gambie; treasurer, Mrs. McIntosh; recording secretary, Mrs. McCoskrie; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Duncan; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. Hart; box secretary, Mrs. Holland; delegates, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Dowling; substitutes, Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Homer; literature secretary, Mrs. Collison; president Girls' Auxiliary, Miss Du Vernet.

Upon the conclusion of the usual business an interesting ceremony took place, Mrs. McCoskrie being made a life member of the Women's Auxiliary. In conferring this honor the hon. president, Mrs. Du Vernet, referred to Mrs. McCoskrie's splendid record in this country, commencing in the mission field on this coast in 1895 and continuing at the present time in the W. A., and paid great tribute to the value of her work in the organization. Mrs. Du Vernet's remarks were supplemented by Mrs. Rix, who expressed her personal appreciation of Mrs. McCoskrie's services, and the diploma of life membership was presented amid the hearty applause of the meeting. The members were particularly pleased to have this opportunity of showing their recognition of Mrs. McCoskrie's work for it is to her unselfish and untiring efforts that much of the success of their past undertakings has been due, and she possesses in a marked degree the happy faculty of inspiring her helpers with enthusiasm and loyalty.

The President in her final address thanked the members for the loyal support given her during the few months she had been among them and hoped it would be continued throughout the present year. In closing the meeting a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the President.

Upon the conclusion of the meeting the Communion Service was administered by Bishop Du Vernet, assisted by Canon Rix, and in the course of the service the Bishop gave a short but interesting address on the Awakening of China.

DAYS OF CHIVALRY HAVE NOT DEPARTED

Newsy Refused to Take Another Boy's Job Until Had Chance to Make Good

If any one fears that the "heroic age" is past all he has to do is to make a close study of the budding manhood of Prince Rupert. Indeed the whole moral stamina of our age can be best seen in the character of our children, and of this the "newsies" who bring your papers to your doors are a splendid example.

The News has had occasion to chastise some of its delivery boys for irregular service, and on a recent day one of the youngsters was to be "canned." A little red-headed Scotch laddie was offered the "post" and agreed to the terms, but when he discovered that it was at the expense of the other boy's job he said, "No, I'll not do anything so mean as all that. Give him another chance and if he can't make good I'll take it then." Needless to say the second chance was granted, much to the delight of the other "kid." So long a country continues to turn out youngsters of that type there is little need to worry about the future generations. There is surely in that boy some of the stuff of which heroes are made.

BRIBERY AND CORRUPTION CHARGE AGAINST ARMY MEN

London, Jan. 19.—Charges of bribery and corruption in connection with the canteen supplies furnished to the British army is the subject of an investigation at Bow Street police station. The formal complaint includes eight officers and eight civilians. The crown prosecutor is maintaining that the evidence shows a persistent receipt of bribes by military men from the civilian defendants, gifts being handed them to influence contracts and to prevent complaints about the high prices.

OFF ON A JAMBOREE LOST HUNDRED BUCKS

Railway Camp Cook Found Ruptured a Good Place to Drop His Wad

Thomas Richmond is a cook at D. A. Rankin's contract near Burns Lake. He came down last Thursday for a holiday and Friday morning he started out on a jamboree with $375 in his pocket. That evening he ended up with $1.40 and a complaint to the police that he had been touched.

Richmond left $200 with the Savoy barkeeper and then bought several bottles of wine for a number of friends he had met. He also hired an automobile and scattered some $50 among the residents of Comox.

In the afternoon he landed at the Empress, where he says he was put to bed by a couple of alleged friends. He woke up to find himself being rolled by William George, according to his evidence.

George, he claims, took $100 out of his pocket book. He saw him do it. Then he jumped out of bed, got to the door and told George to stay quiet until he called an officer, or he would "knock his block off."

While he was holding the door calling for an officer the manager of the hotel and a man named Ross appeared. The latter, he says, knocked him down and choked him.

Then Richmond laid the complaint to the police. He gave his evidence in court this morning.

The case was adjourned to allow George to get counsel. It will come up tomorrow again.

$15 for Throwing Stones

Mike Pieri, an Italian, was disturbing the peace of Comox Avenue last evening. He was caught throwing rocks at Bertha Schwartz' residence. This morning he appeared in police court and Officer Hamblin gave evidence of the stone throwing. Pieri, through an interpreter, put up the defence, that Bertha had pulled a 12 gauge revolver on him. The magistrate imposed a fine of $10 and costs. The interpreter gets $3.

Big Schools of Herring

Some tremendous schools of herring are being caught now. On Saturday a big school was seized just off the government wharf and several scow loads taken from the net. The catch was a harvest for the gulls. At one time as a scow load was being taken to the cold storage the craft was invisible for the cloud of gulls about it. The local photographers got several good pictures of the fish and the birds.

ANDERSON SUICIDES ON WAY TO ASYLUM

Was in Charge of Provincial Police—Jumped Off Prince Rupert

Axtel Anderson, a Swedish laboring man, jumped over the Prince Rupert on Saturday when the steamer was off Point Atkinson. He was drowned.

Anderson was demented. Some time ago he disappeared from his work up the line and was later located wandering around Inverness. Ten days ago he was brought to the city jail, where he was examined by Dr. Tremayne and declared insane. He was committed to the New Westminster asylum, and Constable Dooittle left with him on Friday morning.

While lodged in jail here Anderson twice attempted suicide. Once he was caught choking himself with a cord around his neck. Another time the other prisoners gave the alarm that the man was trying to choke himself with a handkerchief.

A despatch from the Prince Rupert stated that Anderson had shortly after four o'clock on Saturday afternoon crawled through a porthole to the upper deck and then jumped overboard. The alarm was instantly given and life preservers thrown him, but although one fell right beside him, he refused to grab it.

The body sank before a boat could be lowered.

BIG METEOR FALLS INTO MASSETT INLET

Made Violent Commotion in the Water but No Damage Resulted

A blazing meteor, with a tail of fire several yards long, dropped from the heavens into Massett Inlet between 9 and 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The celestial visitor was seen by a large number of people, but only for a fraction of a second. It was going some in its descent, and probably weighed many tons. It fell into the inlet at a point near the old wharf, west of the Massett sawmill, and its impact with the water made a tremendous noise, huge columns of water shooting up on all sides. Some eye witnesses aver that just before it struck the water the meteor burst into small particles. As the water is quite deep at that point it is unlikely that any dredging operations will be undertaken to secure portions of the meteor.

It is said that the fall of meteors in the north is a very unusual occurrence, although frequent enough in southern climes. The tropical winter Graham Island is now enjoying may have had something to do with the visit.—Masset Leader.

DAILY EDITION

Monday, Jan. 19, 1914

It is to be hoped that the powers behind the mayor will be the salvation of Prince Rupert. These men without doubt have the welfare of the city at heart, and they will no doubt continue to use their influence to that end.

The first thing they should turn their attention to is the electric power situation. A new hotel will soon need additional power and under the present conditions that need cannot be supplied. There is no use to hope for a large sale of bonds within the present year and steps should be taken immediately to arrange for some temporary service. The suggestions made with regard to getting power from the Gold Storage Company or from the dry dock should be looked into. The suggestion was also made by several opponents of the late bylaw that the Hydro-Electric Company should treat with the city at its gates without any agreement. It is well known that the said company will proceed with their plant and although power is sure to cost more in that way than under a set agreement, yet we would be fortunate to get it even at an advanced price. If that company will deliver power here at any reasonable price within a year they should be encouraged to do so.

Failing all these other avenues of assistance, it might be well to consider putting in an additional unit at Cow Bay. It is better to pay $200 per horse power than not to be able to buy at all. It will be a decided knock to this city if next fall overtakes us with only half the power required.

There will be a considerable time pass before we are able to tackle the developing of our power by water. It would be madness to put the first money we can get into an electric plant when there is a crying need for water, sewers and streets.

In the meantime the efficiency of the Woodworth Lake power should be demonstrated. According to all reports it can only be a temporary power at best. Why not start with an adequate stream? Let Woodworth Lake be our water supply but let us proceed to Warks Channel for our power. The government has reserved that power so far for the city and there is no tangible reason why it should not be granted immediately. The powers behind the throne in Rupert are Conservatives, and surely they can induce a Conservative government to grant such a reasonable request.

REV. DR. THOMAS CROSBY ENDS HIS EARTHLY LABORS

PIONEER METHODIST MISSIONARY, WHO WAS RESIDENT OF B.C. FOR THE PAST FIFTY-TWO YEARS, IS DIED AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Rev. Dr. Thomas Crosby, for 52 years a resident of British Columbia and the pioneer Methodist missionary in the province, passed away at his home in Vancouver last Tuesday night. All the members of his family were present at his bedside. He had been ill for the past seven months and since Thursday last has been in a state of coma.

Dr. Thomas Crosby was one of the notable figures in the Methodist church of British Columbia. He was born in Yorkshire, Eng., in 1840 and came to British Columbia in 1862, laboring continuously among the Indians as a missionary until six years ago, when, due to failing health he was superannuated.

It was a long and tedious journey to reach this province in the early days. The route which Dr. Crosby took when he left Ontario in 1862 was by rail to New York, thence by steamer to the Isthmus of Panama, which he crossed by railroad. A passage in a boat up the west coast landed him at Victoria in February of that year.

In his zeal for his work among the Indians Dr. Crosby had borrowed sufficient money to pay his passage to this coast and worked in the lumber camps for a considerable time after arriving in order to pay back the loan. Later he taught school for a time.

Work Among Indians

The venerable missionary inaugurated the work among the Indians of this coast. The chief mission is at Port Simpson, where a home for Indian girls is established, known as the Crosby Girls' Home. Many missions were opened by Dr. Crosby at different points along the coast, some being at Prince Rupert, the mouth of the Naas River, Bella Coola and Skidegate. At the latter place, as recorded in the log of the "Glad Tidings," the first mission boat of the Methodist church, Dr. Crosby once preached for five hours. In those days the appropriation for the mission work was so small that it was necessary for the crew of the mission boat to augment their allowance by towing logs part of the time.

As a recognition of his services among the coast Indians Victoria University in Toronto conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1906. His work along the coast has been memorialized by naming the present mission boat of the church the SS. "Thomas Crosby." In 1897 Dr. Crosby was elected President of the B. C. Methodist Conference.

Two records have been written by this pioneer missionary, one "Among the Ankenomenuns" is the record of his experiences and activities during the first twelve years spent on this coast. A recent book, published by the Macmillan Company, and which has not yet been distributed, deals with his later work as missionary. The title of this latter book is "Up and Down the

TUNNELS COMPANY MAY GIVE STEWART NEW LEASE OF LIFE

ANNUAL REPORT OF BIG UNDERTAKING WHICH WILL MAKE PORTLAND CANAL MINES PROFITABLE

Below will be found the annual report of the Portland Canal Tunnels, Ltd., which has just been submitted by General Manager Elmendorf to the annual meeting at Victoria:

Today the main working of the Portland Canal Tunnels, Ltd., is in a distance of approximately 2,870 feet, and the drills are still extending the big bore. The tunnel will be continued through the Richard Second claim of the Portland Canal Mining Company's ground and probably on to the O. K. The Number One drift on the Lucky Boy ground of the Glacier Creek Mining Co. is in a distance of 50 feet and the vein is now showing up promisingly with bunches of galena coming in. The Number Two drift on the Melba claim, owned by the tunnel company, is also in 50 feet and this vein is showing a good deal of iron. The vein is a wide one and it is the hope of the management that it will shortly narrow and form an ore body. The development in the extension of the main tunnel and the two drifts is going forward at the rate of 300 feet per month.

more than 50% of the first cost should be charged off at this time. The same proportion, at least, applies to the salary of the manager, as his services have been largely along the lines of acquiring property for the company and assisting in the general conduct of its policy and administration. With a proper allowance for these items the cost will approximate $20,000 per foot. When consideration is taken of the facts that we pay the best of wages, $4.00 per day for miners and muckers, and all other employees in proportion, and that the men are very well fed, this figure is a low one.

Starting on the Riverside, the tunnel extends on a South 70 deg. East course a distance of 420 feet. Continuing, it passes through 750 feet of the Jennie, a claim of the Tunnels Company. Thence through 1,110 feet of the Lucky Boy, owned by the Glacier Creek Mining Company. It then enters the Melba, of the Tunnels Company, and its course is slightly altered to South 81 deg. East. From there to its present face (January 1st, 1914) a distance of 533 feet, it follows along the Melba-Lucky Boy line, actually in the former but in touch with the latter claim. It is about 85 feet from the present face to the end of this line at which point the tunnel will enter the Richard II, a claim of the Portland Canal Mining Company.

About 1,540 feet from the portal of the tunnel the "greenstones" (Bear River Formation) were left and the argillites (Bitter Creek Formation) entered. The contact was dry, tight, and showed but little evidence of mineralization of any sort. From then to the present time the tunnel has continued in this latter formation. At 1,897 feet a vein of quartz, fairly well mineralized with pyrrhotite, was entered. This vein is very well defined and, where cut, is 11 feet wide with a course of South 58 deg. East and dipping 65 deg. to the southwest. Some galena, the first seen in the tunnel, was found in the vicinity of this vein. The point of intersection of this vein with the Fissure Zone will be one of interest when it is reached by the drift from the tunnel. After passing through this vein considerable calcite was seen. In fact, all over the tunnel, through the argillites, small veins of quartz and calcite occur and these often carry pyrite and pyrrhotite mineralization and, in rare cases, a little galena and blende.

At 2,285 feet from the portal the Fissure Zone was entered. First came a zone of "graphitic shales" 20 feet in thickness. This was a veritable coal mine in appearance, black and shining, the polished "slickensides" showing proofs of the motion and pressure along this line. Then about 40 feet of rather barren argillites were passed through and the vein, which we call Number One, was reached. This and the band of graphitic shales roughly coincide in both strike and dip, South 7 deg. East and dipping 45 deg. to the west. While the work was proceeding in the No. 1 vein there was some doubt as to its exact definition as a number of included dykes rendered the formation difficult to classify. Now that it is passed, the boundaries are well defined and show a width of 100 feet. The gangue is quartz and calcite and everywhere the characteristic brecciated structure is apparent. This breccia is a feature of the veins in the workings of the Ben Bolt and Jumb., the Portland Canal Mining Company, the O. K. Fraction, the Portland Wonder, the Glacier Creek Mining Company and the Stewart Mining and Development Company, both within and outside of the ore bodies. It consists of small veins of argillite and porphyrite, of varying size, completely included in the quartz and calcite, and sometimes in the ore itself. The vein, at this point, showed but little mineralization, its ores being pyrite and a little galena. Specimens from this ore ran 3.6 to 5.6 oz. silver per ton and a trace of gold. My first view of this vein produced the impression on me that it was too wide, too scattered, for an ore body at the point where it is exposed in the tunnel. It is entirely normal, except for its great width, and shows all the characteristics of this and the other veins of the series, outside of the ore bodies. We know that ore does occur both north and south of the tunnel in this vein and, while it would have been most satisfactory to have developed an ore body at the point it was reached, still our future operations would have been the same in that event as now become necessary. In the report of April 14th, 1913, this statement occurs: "When the vein is reached by the tunnel, drifting north or south on it, or both, or further cross-cutting to the other veins, must be decided upon and this decision will be largely influenced by the disclosed conditions." On December 27th, 1913, drifting to the north into the Lucky Boy claim was begun, starting from station 27 about 2,343 feet from the portal of the tunnel. On January 1st, 1914, this drift was in 24 feet and this work will be pushed as any round may open up ore.

For 150 feet beyond the No. 1 vein the formation was practically featureless. At 2,600 feet the No. 2 vein was entered. This is 40 feet in width with strike and dip nearly coincidental with those of the

No. 1 vein and the hanging wall of the Fissure Zone where cut by the tunnel. It is very strong and local, largely white quartz breccia with but little mineralization. Some pyrite is scattered through the quartz and a little galena was found. A sample of this slightly mineralized quartz 1.4 oz. silver per ton and .02 oz. gold, not at all important in itself except as showing some value even in the poorly mineralized ore. On December 22nd, 1913, drifting to the south on the No. 2 vein was begun from station 30 about 2,638 feet from the portal of the tunnel. This has now progressed 27 feet (Jan. 1st, 1914) and the showing at this point is most promising. This drift should be certainly continued to ore and it does not look as if it would be far to go. It will continue for about three hundred feet in the Melba claim and then, if further extended, enter the Richard II.

The tunnel will be continued whenever work at that point will not interfere with the drifting in the Lucky Boy and Melba drifts. It is often advantageous to have three faces in which to work two machines, mucking may be going on in one while the machines are drilling in the other two, and there are other considerations. The tunnel work will be made secondary, for the time being, to the drifting, as it is manifest that there is more probability of opening ore by the latter means. The face of the tunnel, 175 feet beyond No. 2 vein, looks promising for the cutting of another vein and, judging from the distance between them on the surface another is nearly due. Three more veins, at least, are included in the Fissure Zone and the tunnel must be ultimately driven across them. Added importance has recently been given to this plan of cross-cutting by the discovery of ore of very good grade ($40.00) on the surface of the O. K. Fraction and in a vein which seems, from its location, not to have been found elsewhere.

The Portland Canal Tunnels, Ltd., owns ten mineral claims with a total acreage of 391. These claims are well located with reference to the Fissure Zone, covering the extension of the veins on their dip. At the tunnel level both the No. 1 and No. 2 veins should continue in Tunnels ground on their southerly course for 4,000 feet after passing through a corner of Richard II, a claim of the Portland Canal Mining Company. Four of these claims were acquired by purchase and the others were located. All are entered for Crown grant, and paid for, and late information is to the effect that there is no question as to the title.

Practically all of the underground work of the Company to date has been what is known as "dead work." In driving the tunnel there was a possibility of cutting veins unknown on the surface, but it was a very remote one. Blind veins are rare in such a formation and the country as a whole, and particularly this locality, has been well prospected.

The Fissure Zone and two veins were found in practically their calculated positions. It would have been most fortunate had we entered ore bodies in these veins but it is obvious to anyone at all acquainted with the nature of ore deposits that the chance for any unknown portion of a vein 8 feet by 10 feet in size to carry ore is extremely small. The No. 1 vein, where cut by the tunnel, is 600 feet deep on this dip below the Richard Cut, the nearest surface working. Conditions there could not reasonably be expected to continue downward for that distance. In fact, the assumption of "ore shoots" (vertical, rather than horizontal, extensions of ore in the vein), in this particular locality, is unwarranted. Actual developments show lenticular masses of ore, rather long than deep, and usually in the narrower parts of the veins, as the prevailing form of occurrence. Ore of pay grade has been found within the Fissure Zone upon every mining claim from the Lucky Seven on the south to the Sunbeam on the north. This covers a distance of nearly 15,000 feet. Erosion has been extensive and recent. A section between the south end of the Portland Canal Mining Company's property and the bed of Glacier Creek shows a difference in elevation of 2,500 feet. This great gash has been cut by nature's forces down through the Fissure Zone and there is almost no surface oxidation where ores outcrop. Such conditions afford excellent facilities for accurate study of the formation. The only conclusions I am able to reach are that any section of the veins may contain ore but that such ore is most likely to be found where the veins are not too wide. With known ore to the north and south of the tunnel and the veins encountered entirely normal, as to physical condition and position, it would seem that there should be no question as to the nature of future operations. Drifting, preferably on both veins, should be energetically pushed until ore bodies are reached. At the same time, the tunnel should be continued across the Fissure Zone, when such work can be done without interfering with the drifts. We may still be fortunate enough to cut the veins ahead in ore and, in any event, they will be ready for development later.

No review of our operations would be even moderately complete without a reference to our superintendent, Mr. Lloyd C. White has shown himself tireless in attention to his duties and entirely competent. It is largely due to his care and ability that the costs have been kept down to what I consider a very low figure and that not a single accident of consequence has happened to any employees since the work began.

Yours truly,
W. J. ELMENDORF,
Manager.

Three Mighty Forces Close Linked

Have you ever noted how an audience yawns in the face of an uninspired speaker?

On the other hand, have you noted how an audience will lean forward and grasp the chair arms when the speaker reveals enthusiasm?

Enthusiasm is the buoyant expression of truth. To impart belief in anything, a man must believe it deeply himself. We call such a man an enthusiast.

This applies to the written word also---particularly to advertisements. When the manufacturer really believes in his wares, his enthusiasm will almost inevitably find expression in Advertising. And enthusiasm will be contagious—his audience—the readers of the newspaper—will, figuratively speaking, "lean forward and listen intently."

To be convincing an advertisement must convey an unmistakable impression of enthusiasm. This it will only do when the article advertised has inherent worth.

Thus we have:

Sincerity -- Enthusiasm -- Advertising:
Three mighty forces, close-linked.

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper. If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumsden Building, Toronto.

G. T. P. Wine Action

Judgment for the plaintiffs was given by Judge Schultz in the action brought by the Grand Trunk Pacific Steamship Company against Messrs. Krause Bros. (the Asbestos Manufacturing Company). The defendants shipped some asbestos to the B. C. Fisheries at Aliford Bay. The goods were sent f. o. b., but the company did not collect at Aliford Bay from the consignees, but subsequently, in accord with its regular practice, billed the consignors. The defence was that the bill of lading was silent on the question of prepayment. The B. C. Fisheries, since the delivery of the merchandise, became insolvent. His honor held that the clause in the Bill of Lading Act, which the defendants relied upon, was not inimical to the plaintiff's claim and awarded judgment in the terms of the pleading.

WOMEN ARE PAINTING FLOWERS ON FACES

Pictures of Horses and Elephants Also Are Seen on Countenances of Russians

Paris, Jan. 18.—Fashionable Russian women are now painting flowers on their faces, declares Sergius Diaghilev, of Moscow. Diaghilev says:

"The fashion was started by Nathalie Goutcharoff, the most celebrated woman painter in Russia. The princesses and other titled women can be seen in St. Petersburg and Moscow, not only with flowers, but with horses and elephants painted on the sides of their faces, foreheads and necks in ultramarine blue.

"Nathalie asserts this softens the lines of the face. Now that pearls are so dear, the women are having imitations painted on their necks. The effect is striking."

LOSS ON GREAT LAKES WORST IN HISTORY

Total Fifteen Wrecked, Eighteen Sank and One Burned

The year just closed was the worst for marine losses in the history of the Great Lakes. The loss to boats during the season will run close to $6,000,000, the largest amount recorded in one season, as well as the largest loss of life.

The greatest disaster of the season occurred on Sunday, Nov. 9, when the great lakes were swept by the worst storm in history, 254 persons going to their death and many steamers being lost. During the year fifteen steamers were wrecked, eighteen sank and one burned to the water's edge.

MAETERLINCK SAYS TANGO IS ONLY SILLY

High Churchmen of Paris Reprove Those Who Participate in Rique Dance

Paris, Jan. 18.—Maurice Maeterlinck, commenting on the tango today, said:

"I consider the moral aspect of the question a secondary matter, but I find fault with the tango because it is not graceful and is silly."

Interdicts were published today by the Archbishop of Sens and the Bishop of Poitiers. The former says: "The tango already is reproved by simple honesty and Christian sentiment." The latter says: "All dances are dangerous, but the tango is the most daring of all. Are we returning to paganism and its shamelessness?"

Frozen - Pipes Don't follow the old expensive methods of thawing pipes. It costs more than the pipes are worth. I have just received a new device for thawing pipes by electricity. You don't have to open up your pipes. Just turn the current on and in three minutes the frost is gone. THAW BY ELECTRICITY Harry Hanson The Reliable Plumber Second Ave. near McBride Street PHONE 489
