A number of the victims are unknown owing to the danger of approaching the immense pits resulting from the collapse of sidewalks and roadways.

G. T. P. DEV. CO. CHANGED TOWNSITE

Action Concerning Moving of Smithers Tried in Supreme Court

Victoria, June 16.—An action of considerable interest on account of the wide discussion of the location of the Grand Trunk townsite and divisional point, Smithers, came before Chief Justice Hunter for trial in the Supreme Court last week. Leon Benoit, of Winnipeg, sued Gale and Williams for representing that a certain lot sold to him by the defendants was adjoining land purchased by the Grand Trunk for a townsite, to wit, Smithers. A sum of $2,000 was involved. The plaintiff obtained judgment for a rescission of the agreement. Evidence by commission was given by the Grand Trunk Land Commissioner at Winnipeg, G. E. Hyley, that the townsite of Smithers was originally intended to be located on the site adjoining the lot in question in this action, but that the railway later changed its mind and located the town 12 miles distant. H. B. Robertson was acting for Benoit, and A. D. Crease for the defendants. The defendant Williams is now Grand Trunk agent.

SWELL SUIT CLOTHES WON IN BOYS' CONTEST

The monthly drawing of the Daily News for the News Boys' Contest took place yesterday. For every five papers sold a ticket is given and a drawing for the lucky number takes place once a month. The winner is given a swell new suit of clothes. The suits are procured from the Acme Clothing House, the only store in the city that makes a specialty of the boys' department. "Billie" Martin was the winner this time. He is a son of Mr. W. B. Martin, of Martin & McGowan, the well known plastering firm. The next drawing takes place on July 15th. We need a few more smart boys to sell The Daily News. Every boy makes a good profit in the sale of papers as well as having a chance at a new suit of clothes each month.

FULL HOUSE REPORTED ON PRINCESS ALICE

The Masons of the South are coming North in full force. The Princess Alice sailed last night with a full house, 200 passengers being aboard. There were 150 men and 50 ladies. Besides these twenty-five are reported to be coming on the Prince Rupert. Mr. Lee Baker, secretary of the local committee, received a wire this morning containing the above facts. Everything is in readiness to receive the visitors except the weather which is somewhat threatening after a long period of unbroken brilliancy.

Telephone Building Site

At the conclusion of the Council meeting last evening Alderman Dybhavn made a verbal report to the effect that the Board of Works committee had decided that the Fifth Street site was better for the new telephone building than the site excavated by the city hall. He said the only objection was that they would not be able to give the police more quarters. The City Solicitor remarked that that was absolutely necessary. The Mayor said it was something they should not be in a hurry about. He would rather see all the city buildings together on Fulton Street. Ald. Morrissey objected to the site by the city hall because it would shut off some valuable city property. The question was sent back to the committee to report on again. All Masons and their ladies are invited and urged to attend the entertainment provided in connection with the programme arranged for the three day visit of Grand Lodge, June 17th, 18th, and 19th: Welcome at wharf, ball, reception and tea for ladies, picnic, etc. No further invitation or tickets will be printed for the ball, or for other events. All of the Fraternity are welcome and are expected to attend. Programmes may be obtained from Lee L. Baker, Secretary of Reception Committee, at office of West-ehaver Bros., Second Avenue and Third Street 138-40

DID LOWEST TENDER GET COAL CONTRACT?

Committee Says Yes and Others Say Nay—Mayor is Dissatisfied

Rogers & Alberts had a communication before the City Council last evening complaining that the lowest tender for city coal did not get the award. The tender asked for 500 tons steam coal. Rogers & Alberts quoted $7.25 for nut, $6.75 for No. 1 pea, and $6.50 for No. 2 pea. The Pacific Cartage quoted $7.30 for nut and $6.65 for pea. Mr. Rogers claimed the city is using twenty-five per cent pea and seventy-five per cent nut as a combination and even if they took the highest price pea coal their tender was lowest on the combination. Ald. Dybhavn and Ald. Montgomery moved the letter filed. The Mayor asked explanations. Ald. Dybhavn said the superintendent had figured out the percentage of coal most advantageous to use and decided the Pacific Cartage tender was lowest. Ald. Montgomery confirmed this statement, saying the superintendent's verdict was accepted. The Mayor said he did not like the way the committee was being carried on. He had not been called to the meeting and when he had asked about this coal tender he was told it had been awarded. He had intended suggesting that the lowest tender for each size of coal be awarded the portion on which they were lowest. He had been kept in the dark. The argument then dropped and the letter was filed.

THAT SUNDAY POOL QUESTION UP AGAIN

Ald. Montgomery Resurrects the Issue That Appeared to Have a Sudden Death

Some months ago the City Council after a hearty fight in which the city clergymen took part, passed a resolution favoring Sunday pool and requesting a bylaw to be prepared and submitted to the Council. That was the last heard about it and rumor said that word had come from the Tory headquarters to kill the Sunday pool agitation. Last evening at the City Council meeting Ald. Montgomery resurrected the issue. Apparently something has gone wrong with the way it was fixed. The big alderman asked the Mayor what had become of the bylaw. The Mayor said it was in the hands of Ald. Kerr, the chairman of the Licence and Health Committee. Ald. Kerr was not present at the Council meeting so a notice under the procedure bylaw will be posted, demanding the bylaw.

GOVERNMENT GEOLOGIST LEAVES FOR OIL FIELDS

Will Spend Summer With Party of Five Studying Coal and Oil Deposits on Graham Island

Mr. J. D. MacKenzie, in charge of a party of five, left last night for Queen Charlotte Islands to resume his work which he began last summer on the Geological Survey. It is the intention first to investigate the coal basin extending northward from Camp Wilson to Masset Inlet. Later he will examine the property being prospected for oil on the West Coast of Graham Island. Last summer a careful examination was made of the coal areas in the vicinity of Camp Robertson, Yakoun Lake and Skidegate Inlet, during which the structure, thickness and economic value of coal seams were studied. The reports will be published in the summary report to be issued in September.

Shaffer and Woods, bakers, appeared in police court this morning charged with wilful destruction of property and Shaffer is also charged with forgery. Tony Christiansen laid the information. Tony built a new oven for the firm and has $1,000 coming from it in payment. He claims the firm built a big fire in it for the purpose of blowing it up. He also charges Shaffer with having signed his brother's name to a document. The case was taken to police court in order to get information laid. The hearing will be later.

JOHNSON FOUND NOT GUILTY JURY DID NOT LEAVE SEATS

RAY O'REILLY FOUND GUILTY OF JAIL BREAKING—NO BILL AGAINST TINGLEY OR McDONALD—CRIMINAL CASES WILL FINISH TODAY

There was just one case tried and finished at the assize court yesterday afternoon. Gus Johnson was acquitted and the jury didn't leave their seats to bring in their verdict.

Grand Jury Returns

During the afternoon the grand jury returned a "no bill" against Tingley, and a "no bill" against Donnelly charged with theft. Two true bills were brought in against O'Reilly for theft and jail breaking.

Rex vs. Johnson

August Johnson was charged with attempting murder upon Alfred Wright.

Gus Johnson, John Wright and John Valeri were partners in a cabin. They were all working on the G. T. P. as a section gang. Wright decided to leave and divided the grub, taking one-third. He and his brother spent that night in another cabin a quarter of a mile away. The following morning they went to Johnson's cabin to get some cooking utensils which they had forgotten. In the quarrel that followed Johnson took a gun and fired. The bullet went through the wall and Alfred Wright was hit.

The jury were: George P. McGill, foreman, W. J. Greer, E. D. Harris, Chas. T. Heward, E. Kinsick, W. J. Kennough, R. B. Entwistle, James Hunter, Hugh R. Johnson, V. F. G. Gamble, W. Kelly and Henry W. Miller. John W. Wright told of having had a quarrel and fight on the evening of January 3rd. Johnson had ordered him to take his stuff out. Wright said he would get even with Johnson over a letter. Later he fought in the cabin, and Johnson had hit witness with a lamp. Witness was lying on the bed and pinned Johnson to the wall with his feet. Another man came and separated them. The jury did not leave their seats following morning they went for the cooking utensils and Johnson would not give them to him. Witness threatened to break down the door. Johnson then got the gun and shot. Witness was on the door step when he heard the shot. He saw smoke come through the logs and then his brother Alfred Wright gave a groan and fell with a bullet through his face. Afterwards Johnson helped to carry the wounded man to shelter. Johnson remarked "My God, I have a heart like anyone else; I did not mean to kill him." Wright admitted in cross examination that he was working on the section gang and Johnson was foreman. He had tried to get his brother a job with Johnson. He said he did not suggest that Johnson fire Valeri and take on his brother. When Johnson refused to employ the brother, witness said "all right, I'll quit." During the two days after witness quit work and before he left Johnson's cabin they had had some "crazy talk in which threats were made." Alfred Wright, in telling the story of the morning of the shooting, said that he did not hear the prisoner repeating the rifle, but his brother told him he heard it. He warned his brother to get away from the door. In cross examination he said Johnson had thrown the lamp at his brother and not hit him with it twice as his brother had testified. John had threatened to break the door down. John Valeri who lived with Johnson and Wright, said the prisoner had fired a shot the night before into the air to scare the Wrights after they had gone away to keep them away. When Alfred Wright was shot the next

METHODISTS MAY HAVE LADY PREACHERS

(Special to The Daily News)
Winnipeg, June 16.—The Methodist conference recommended to the General Conference the advisability of opening up the way for women to become ministers of the Methodist Church.

Grand Jury Busy

The grand jury presented a true bill against Willence for fraudulently obtaining passage on the G. T. P.

His Lordship instructed the grand jury that they had the privilege of visiting the public institutions and enquiring into all things affecting the general welfare and health and protection of the citizens. This includes fire protection and sanitary conditions.

"Should we visit clubs?" enquired one juror. "It applies more to public buildings," cautioned His Lordship. "This privilege is a very necessary adjunct to the administration of justice."

Trials Postponed

In chambers this morning application was made in the Philpot vs. Beatty for a commission to take evidence of Beatty and Frank Evans in Toronto was refused. Application for postponement of the trial was granted to take place pre-emptorily at the next assize.

Application for postponement of the trial of Burroughes vs. Harrison was granted, costs to the plaintiff.

PRINCE RUPERT BRIEFS

H. S. Clements, M.P., is expected in the city in a few days. He is coming through from the East over the G. T. P.

R. J. Foreman, late of the Canada Railway News Co., left last evening for Masset to look after his interests there.

The big arch for the Masons is being erected today. It will be trimmed and ready for the arrival of the visitors tomorrow.

The G. T. P. are again opening their service to Priestly, Mile 337, tomorrow morning for both passengers and freight. Part of this has been out of commission for a little time on account of some landslides which have been remedied.

The city engineer has reported the clearing for the pole line completed and work started on the post holes. About 80 holes are to be dug. The tramway from Shawatians Lake to the power house is about complete. The excavation is proceeding favorably and work excavating the tail race will start next week.

The G. T. P. extended their service from Smithers through to Priestly again today. This is the point to which the service was running before the trouble with the floods. As yet there is no service between Priestly and Prince George but that will probably soon be established. The ballasting train is operating all along the line between Smithers and Prince George.

DAILY EDITION Tuesday, June 16, 1914

The solution of the fisheries question is one that will only come through a series of experiments. For years the people have been clamoring for independent licences and now that they have come even to a limited extent, they are found to be impracticable under existing conditions. In most cases the white men who have secured licenses will only ply their trade for a couple of weeks when the fishing is good.
The cannery that depends on them will be out in the cold for the rest of the season. Consequently the canners who are in business to get results prefer the Japs who stay at the job. As a result the Indians must go to make room for the white brother who only wants to fish a portion of the time.

The intention of the Government is to increase the independent white licences year by year and by this means hope to eliminate the Jap. Unless conditions improve this would mean the ruination of the business, as most of the white men now offering haven't proved their adaptation to the work.
Of all the licences issued this year only a small portion of them own their own nets and boats. The rest buy from the canneries on credit. Perhaps the first day they are out, through inexperience, they lose their net in a snag and the cannery must foot the bill.
Prince Rupert's future depends largely on the fish, and fish we must have. If the white man cannot get the fish then the yellow man will have to do it for him.

It is not necessary, however, to arrive at that conclusion.
There is another solution to the problem. Of course it goes without saying that there are a number of white fishermen in this district who are making good and others who would do similarly if they were allowed in spite of the fact that many who take to the calling do so only as a shift. There is a dearth, however, of fishermen who have the business in their blood. These should be induced to come in. The Eastern fishing banks and the maritime countries of Europe are full of them. Conditions here, too, are very attractive and if the proper steps were taken it would not be hard to induce them to come in.

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier wanted farmers to people the great Prairies he sent his agents to secure them and he made conditions so popular that a flood of emigration started in. That is just what should now be done on this coast. We should go after those fishermen and induce them to come in. In order to do that the foolish regulations now in force should be done away with. We should not expect a man to sit down for three or five years until he has become a citizen of the country before a fishing licence would be granted him. It should not be a condition of his getting a licence that his name is on the voters' list or indeed that he has paid his dollar to the Conservative Association. Suffice it that he is a fisherman and wants to fish.

For the solution of so important a question the people should unite. It is foolish and suicidal to use it for political purposes. If the Government papers have any influence they should discuss the issue instead of snapping back at the incontrovertible facts as published by The News. "In the multitude of council there is wisdom," and all the light that can be brought to bear on it should be allowed to shine forth.

THE SWEEPSTONE-TWEEDALE ENGAGEMENT

To Open at the Westholme Opera House This Week

Dancing in its various modern form is still the craze the world over and in order to satisfy the general curiosity on this subject the management of the Westholme Opera House have secured the engagement of two of the most popular artists in this line, Miss Sweepstone and Mr. Tweedale, for one week commencing Wednesday, June 17th.

Many new dances, including the Maxine, Matheche and Argentine Tango will be performed.
Miss Sweepstone is also an accomplished solo dancer and on her first appearance next Wednesday will perform her famous Gipsy Dance in costume.

Fine motion pictures will be shown between the dances and an exceptionally strong bill is promised.

Price Holds Good

At the Council Meeting last evening the Mayor stated that the manager of the Westholme Lumber Company had stated to him that the company would accept any portion of the lumber required of the 250,000 feet tendered on at the tendered price. If any of the by-laws in the estimate were not passed it would not effect his tender.

Ald. Morrissey asked that Mr.
Albert send the city a letter to that effect.
The Mayor wanted the order placed for the amount now required but the City Solicitor advised against it until the money was secured.

The finance committee was given power to act in the matter.

Redeeking Bylaws Postponed

EASTERN CAPITALIST HAS FAITH IN RUPERT

Came Here With Intention of Entering Foundry and Machine Business but Found Big G. T. P. Plant Covering Field

Mr. James Clarke, head of the Sydney Foundry and Machine Co. of Sydney, Nova Scotia, is in the city, having made a tour of all the country and towns across the continent.

Mr. Clarke says that were he a young man there is no other place in Canada where he would prefer locating to Rupert. He has more than the ordinary enthusiasm for the place. He has a conviction that it is one of the best points in Canada.

Mr. Clarke has been around among the business houses and frequently enquired how the condition of trade was. In some cases he was met by a grudging discontent much to his surprise.
His reply, however, was that with such a magnificent future immediately before us everybody should be optimistic. Optimism was the heart of success.

Mr. Clarke had thought of going into the foundry business here, but on enquiry found that the Grand Trunk Pacific would be a keen competitor and thought there would be considerable time before two shops would be required. He also considered the fact that his entering the business would seriously affect the small machine shops, and as the business was not a necessity with him, he decided not to enter the field. He had also decided to approach the City Council for concessions but under the circumstances will not do so.

Big Brush Fire

A brush fire, which started on the drydock site back of the ball grounds, crept up the hill yesterday afternoon and grew to serious proportions. Several trees were burned. The fire department out and besides drenching the ground with water they cut down several burning trees. About two hours later they were called out again to the same spot as the fire had started again. The second time the boys succeeded in getting it thoroughly out. The fire got quite close to the houses on top of the hill but no damage was done.

The best place in the city to lunch or dine is the Royal Cafe.
The service and the menu can always be depended on. 126tf

A lecturer one torrential night addressed an audience which might have been much larger without taxing the seating capacity of the hall. Naturally he was willing to curtail his address, and, having reached what he considered the psychological moment, said: "I'm afraid I've kept you too long." Whereupon a voice replied, "Go on, it's still raining."

LAST SIGNATURES OF PROMINENT SALVATIONISTS.

The above is a photo of a postcard mailed at Rimouski, just a few minutes before the Empress went down. It was sent by E. P. Grey, prominent newspaper sketch artist, and member of the Territorial Staff Band, to his fiancée in Toronto, and will be a valuable and treasured memento. The last thing they did before retiring to their cabins that fatal night was to sign the postcard on which Mr. Grey, who was lost, had sketched his own picture. Of those who signed the card, 33 were drowned and 14 were saved, as follows: Lost—Commissioner David M. Rees, Colonel S. Maidment, Brigadiers W. S. Potter and Walker, Major H. Findlay, Adjutants E. THE ROMANCE OF THE TIN CAN
 --HOW IT BEGAN ITS HISTORY

FIRST SEALED PRODUCTS USED IN ENGLAND—ENGLISHMAN BEGAN MANUFACTURE IN BOSTON HUNDRED YEARS AGO — FILLS BIG PLACE TODAY

A century ago a young man named William Underwood, living in Boston, made some pickles and jam, put them into glass bottles, and offered them to the American people. The American people wouldn't have them. Why eat Underwood's messed-up stuff, when, in due season, they could get nice ripe plums and cherries and currants, and such things, out in the yard? This was in 1819, and there was no canning industry. Tin cans themselves were unknown; but over in England the art of preserving in hermetically sealed bottles was a new invention. Underwood was an Englishman, and had worked in one of the new preserving factories over there. Things at first looked pretty black for young Bill Underwood in Boston. He didn't know that he was making industrial history, but he argued with Boston, and Boston still refused to buy. Our great-grandfathers came out plainly and told him that, as Americans, they never would eat their dinner out of a bottle!

An Appeal to the Captain So young Underwood, father of the vast American canning business of today, sadly hunted up the captain of a ship sailing for India or China. "If you will take along a consignment of my sealed foods," he said, "I believe you can sell them to British army and navy officers over there. I'll divide the profits with you."

The Raid on Tomatoes
 Two men, Underwood and Kestell, were the explorers and adventurers in the early canning days, and in some respects Underwood seems to have led. In 1828 he announced "preserved milk," and in 1830 he originated our common brand of canned fruits known to the trade as "pies." Soon afterwards he obtained some "love-apple" seeds from Europe.

Your grandfather can tell you that the love-apple was simply our present genial friend the tomato. Our grandmothers thought it was poison. But Underwood planted the seed somewhere near Boston, raised some love-apples, and preserved them in bottles.

A sensation in canning circles! Who would want to eat that slop-sour mess called "tomato sauce?" "Pizen!" It was bad enough when Underwood offered it in bottles; but when he put it in tins—great Caesar!

This is a changeable world, sure enough. Today the United States eats close to 350,000,000 cans of tomatoes a year. Tomatoes lead everything in the vegetable-canning industry.

We come to the modern era with some small appreciation, perhaps, of the men who made canning so great a business that almost every family in the land leans heavily upon it for sustenance, and so great that our American grocery stores sell $600-people would be out on the land, scratching the earth for a living. But the equivalent of a can of peas, corn, or tomatoes would cost the producer ten times what he pays at his grocery today. The canning industry is a mighty economy, and the biggest conservator of food ever discovered.

Cans Make Great Cities
 Except for the canning industry, our present great cities must inevitably have been small cities—the great reason that a great city could not be fed without the help of the canners.

If you question this statement look at New York. The metropolis consumed last year, at retail valuation, about $150,000,000 worth of canned foods, exclusive of the vast quantities bought by the big hotels at wholesale. In all the list of New York's food items there is only one that exceeds this. Meat and meat foods aggregated $176,000,000. The milk consumed at retail was worth $64,000,000; butter, $58,650,000; eggs, $45,000,000; bread $45,000,000; sugar, $28,000,000. You will see that milk, eggs, and bread amounted to just a little more than the canned foods.

It is a difficult proposition, even now, to feed New York; the great city is always on the ragged edge of a famine. Its spectre looms up whenever there is talk of a big labor strike, or when a snowstorm hems the tremendous town in.

A Mighty Economy
 It is relatively as difficult to feed Chicago or any other big city. Without canned foods these cities would never have become half as big as they are. The

It is estimated that fifty per cent of all the fruits and vegetables of the United States would go to waste except for the canneries. And through this industry it is possible to save the over-production of a fat year for the famine that may come another year. It is possible to rush supplies from one section of the country to another in time of emergency, or from neighbor to neighbor in sudden need.

The people of this country (U. S.) demand three billion cans of food a year; so perhaps it would not be stretching the truth to conclude that the men we have met in this narrative, in passing acquaintance, are the men who have built the greatest utility industry of the age.

In the Letter Box

Pictou, Nova Scotia
 To the Daily News,
 Prince Rupert, B.C.
 Sir.—Although residing for a time in this beautiful old city, we still keep in touch with the doings of Rupert, our home, and anything that pertains to it is of deep interest to us, and especially its reputation. The people here are keenly alive to its rapid growth and many advantages. They also watch its moral tone. Is it a place fit for children and young people? Is this last great city being built on the solid rock of true principles that will stand for all time? I hope so but the temperance people must arise.

I was astonished and grieved to read the item in a recent copy of The News that a brewery site was being sought and about to be built on. The water, it said, was a little too dark for their purpose but the devil will find a way to lighten it so as to darken more souls.

Surely the people of Prince Rupert will not allow those unscrupulous men to go ahead, who care nothing for a human body or soul if they put so many dollars in their pocket. Do not plant a brewery with all its attending evils and influences in the midst of our now hopeful city.

I also saw in our old friend The News how rapid is the increase in the number of our little ones whom God sends to keep the world sweet and wholesome with their innocent lives prostrating his love divine. Who can say how many victims are claimed directly or indirectly by that glaring evil which if allowed to locate will dim all hope of ever having a dry town.

If a half of the money now spent on liquor in Rupert went into playgrounds for our young people or parks with swings, sand heaps, flowers, trees, and other things which are the requisite of childhood, can any one guess how splendid they might be? I lately heard of a woman who after the foundation for a brewery was laid canvassed the town with the result it was never built.

People of Rupert, think of our homes and do not allow this add-on devil to come among us.

RIDGERTOWN, ONT., May 21st, 1913. "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of Rheumatism. It was the only medicine that made any impression on me. I was a terrible sufferer from Rheumatism. I was laid up for four winters with Sciatica and Muscular Rheumatism, and was completely crippled. Some neighbor of mine told me that "Fruit-a-tives" helped him, and I started in to take them. In the London hospitals the ailment of the patient when he is admitted, is denoted by certain letters, such as "T.B." for tuberculosis. An American doctor was examining these history slips when his curiosity was aroused by the number on which the letters "G. O. K." appeared. He said to the physician who was showing him around: "There seems to be a severe epidemic of this G. O. K. in London. What is it, anyhow?" "Oh, that means 'God only knows,'" replied the English physician.

morning, Johnson was in bed. He picked the rifle up and aimed it at the woor. The gun then went off. Witness had also quarreled with John Wright. He said John Wright had taken an axe with him into the buik house when the first quarrel had occurred. Witness said Johnson never repeated the rifle as John Wright said he did before the shot was fired which wounded Alfred. When the gun went off Johnson did not have time to get it up to his shoulder like a man should, Johnson at times acted as though he was afraid of John Wright.

John Russell, constable at Priestly, said the prisoner had said he was sorry he shot Wright; he did not mean it; he intended shooting into the logs.

The Defence

Before the defence started His Lordship asked the jury if they wanted to hear any more evidence. The jury did and the prisoner was put in the box. In his story of the shoot he said he had never shot a gun before. When he picked it up that morning it was with the intention of shooting into the back wall to scare them. The gun went off accidentally.

At the conclusion of the addresses to the counsel and Judge, the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty without leaving their seats.

Rex vs. Ray O'Reilly

The first case up this morning was that of Ray O'Reilly, charged with theft and breaking jail. The jury was composed of Jos. Howe, foreman, Thomas Bramley, H. G. Belgerson, Daniel Jabour, Alex. McRae, G. S. Fitzmaurice, N. Demers, F. Pratt, Everard Kissick, J. S. Laurensen, James Hunter and J. R. Morgan.

Wilhelmena Roleaux gave evidence to having lost canned goods and tobacco from her store on Second Avenue and finding the furniture and curtains saturated with coal oil and a piece of candle burned to the floor. Entrance had been gained through a basement window. She identified the goods which were found in Reilly's shack.

F. J. Roberts and Constable Shiels gave evidence of having discovered the stolen goods in the shack used by Reilly.

A. H. Bailey, warden of the city jail, told of having put Reilly in the kitchen under lock. The following morning the prisoner was gone and also the lock. After Reilly was re-arrested he told where to find the broken lock and the lock was found.

Constable Tom Parsons told of the recapture and arrest at Terrace.

The prisoner had no counsel and offered no defence.

W. E. Fisher was crown prosecutor.

His Lordship in charging the jury said the Crown must prove its case. They had only showed that Reilly went up to the shack where the stolen goods were found. There was no evidence to show that he took the goods there. Also there was another man in the shack. The constables were justified in making the arrest. He was placed in the kitchen. There is no doubt but any of you may have done the same thing he did.

"Trusting some cake and bread to a man who lives in a box car is a pretty high standard of morals to hold up."

"On the first charge I don't think there is much doubt as to what you should do. On the jail breaking charge there is no defence."

The jury returned in a few minutes with a verdict of not guilty of stealing but guilty of jail breaking.

On the charge of stealing a gun and other articles another jury was chosen.

Constable Parsons of Terrace told of arresting Reilly near Terrace and finding Reilly in possession of a gun, ammunition, hat, razor, knife and sundry articles, which had been stolen from a rancher.

Louis Banville, the man who lost the goods, lives at Thames. His cabin is a short distance from the road. He had been away for two weeks and on his return found the house broken open and many articles stolen.

The prisoner gave evidence in his own behalf, stating that he had met a man on the tracks who claimed to be a trapper with a stake and gave him the goods, saying he didn't want to carry it.

On cross examination, he denied ever having been in jail. He admitted having told some people as a joke that he was wanted for murder. He never committed arson; he had been in the United States navy but had never committed a murder. Witness admitted writing a letter to Montrose, Virginia, since he has been in jail here. He did not write it to the authorities saying he preferred to stand trial on a charge there rather than here; he did not remember who he wrote to or what he had said.

The court adjourned at 12:30.
