DAILY EDITION

Monday, August 10, 1914.

It would appear that Germany has got off on the wrong foot. Her first play evidently was to induce Britain to stay out of the war. Then she likely banked heavily on Italy remaining true to the Triple Alliance. Now it turns out that those plans went wrong. Britain is already making strides for her throat and Italy has declared her neutrality, if indeed she will not join her foes. It would appear, therefore, that Germany is practically facing the world all alone, or with the assistance only of Austria-Hungary. Nevertheless she has mighty forces at her disposal, and she will put up a great struggle before she is overcome as overcome she will be. unless there is something radically wrong with all the rest of the world.

The existence of a European war is sure to throw a large number of men out of employment. As long as construction work proceeds in Prince Rupert, we are likely to feel the pinch much less than many other places less fortunately
