ANOTHER RAID ON GERMAN DIRIGIBLE SHEDS

GREAT BRITISH VICTORY
SAYS TIMES CORRESPONDENT

GERMANS HAVE EVACUATED TRENCHES, LEAVING MANY DEAD—ALLIES GOING FORWARD.

(Special to The Daily News—9:30 A. M.)
London, Oct. 9.—A Times correspondent to the south of Aisne says that at one centre a most important British victory is now complete. The Germans have been evacuated their trenches, leaving many soldiers dead. It is not altogether true to say that the battle of Aisne is over even now, but in the past few days considerable areas have been deserted by the Germans and great wedges of the Allies' forces have been thrown forward.

RUSSIAN TROOPS MAKING
NIGHT RAIDS ON THE ENEMYSEVERAL PLACES RUSSIANS HAVE INFLICTED LOSS ON THE GERMANS, WHO ABANDONED RAPID FIRING GUNS IN THE RUSH TO GET AWAY.

(Special to The Daily News—10:30 A. M.)
Petrograd, Oct. 9.—(Official.)—Communication from general headquarters says the fighting on the East Prussian frontier was continued on October 7th, with the same ferocity. In spite of human reinforcements all their attacks have been repulsed in the town of Wirallen, Russian Poland, and Philipoff.
By a night assault the Russian troops captured the village of Kamamka, in the forest of Masalski, at Zena, West Rachtka. The Russians in a night attack surrounded a German detachment, which was partly exterminated, others being dispersed, abandoning many rapid firing guns.
The Russian troops also captured the town of Biala. In the other regions there is nothing important to report.

BRITISH TRADE RETURNS ARE SURPRISINGLY GOOD

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, Oct. 9.—Trade returns today indicate surprisingly little decline as the result of war. Trade today is in many ways surprisingly better than in 1913. The cotton trade is the one suffering severely. Germany's four neutral neighbors, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden, have increased their coal exports from Britain by 50 per cent.

INDIAN TROOPS
PHYSICALLY FIT AND IN GOOD SPIRITS

(Special to The Daily News—1 P. M.)
London, Oct. 9.—The medical report shows that the Canadian troops landed in good health and in good spirits.

VON KLUCK'S ARMY
HAD NARROW CALLWas in Dangerous Position Week Ago and Almost at Mercy of Allies.

Bordeaux, Oct. 7.—Minister of War Millerand stated today that only the steady arrival of heavy reinforcements had averted disaster for the army of General von Kluck and the entire right wing of the German army.

He said that early in the week the forces of von Kluck were in desperate straits and part of them had been forced to withdraw from advanced positions to a point northeast of St. Quentin by a raid of French cavalry.

General von Kluck, Minister Millerand said, had called for reinforcements, but their arrival was delayed and they came only in time to prevent a general withdrawal of the German troops.

AMERICAN CONSUL
FOR PRINCE RUPERTLocal Barrister Has Received the Appointment—Of Importance
Now That Road is Completed.

Mr. I. N. Linnell, of the law firm of Williams & Manson, has been appointed American consular agent for the City of Prince Rupert. For the last year or two there have been a number of applications for the position, as it was known that upon the completion of the road the position would be an important one. Mr. Linnell made application for the position in 1911, just after his arrival in the city, and a few days ago received word from Mr. Robert E. Mansfield, consul general at Vancouver, that the American department of state had ratified his appointment. Mr. Linnell will leave in a few days for Vancouver to sign up the necessary papers in connection with the appointment.

ANTWERP FIERCELY BOMBARDED
BY QUARTER MILLION GERMANSENEMY MAKING DESPERATE ATTEMPT TO CAPTURE CITY—
BRITISH MARINES WITH HEAVY ARTILLERY LANDED TO ASSIST BELGIANS—LANDED NEAR OSTEND.

(Special to The Daily News—9 A. M.)
London, Oct. 9.—A big British expedition was reported today to be rushing to Ghent's relief from the west of Antwerp. It was said to consist of a naval detachment and an artillery force with heaviest calibre guns and was assumed to have been landed on the Belgian coast at or near Ostend. The Germans are redoubling their efforts to capture the city and are much more numerous in the vicinity than had been supposed. The estimates place them as high as 250,000. Antwerp was subject to fierce bombardment throughout last night. The shells from the German 16 inch guns fell early this morning in the Place Verte, close to the cathedral. Fierce fighting has taken place for two days around Lille. The Germans lost more than 2,000 men and up to this morning had not succeeded in occupying Lille.

BRITAIN IS TOLD TO EXPECT A LONG WARGerman Resources Not Yet Exhausted—Defence Will Be Strongly Maintained.

London, Oct. 6.—The military expert of the Times says: "However much we may bend back the Germans' right wing and relieve Antwerp and whatever confidence we have that the shock of the Russian masses in the east will prove decisive, we must not entertain the slightest illusion regarding the hard and trying conditions which await all the Allies in the future in operating against Germany reduced to the defensive. "Germany is still united. Her resources grow atop. All her might is in arms, all her arsenals are working at full pressure. Her fleet will strike when the hour comes, probably in co-operation with the army.

"The line of the Aisne, when forced, may prove to be only one of many similar lines prepared in the rear of it. It may take a very long time for the Allies to compel Germany to feel a weakness. It therefore devolves upon the Allies to look forward to a long war."

DAILY EDITION

Friday, Oct. 9, 1914.

The war has come to the stage where it is even losing a great deal of its popular interest. The forces in North France seem to balance each other so well that there is little progress on either side. Indeed, as far as the press despatches go, the same headings and results of a great deal of the news items could be kept in type for alternate daily use. The Russians are practically held up in East Prussia, and in Galicia the big fortress of Cracow is in their way. Most of the interest now centres at Antwerp, where the Germans are making a desperate attempt to take the city.

The story of the restoration of public credit in London after the financial crash caused by the war reads like magic as it is told in the war number of "The Round Table." The sudden crash left about 300,000,000 pounds of discount paper in the hands of the banks, payable from every country 'neath the sun. The usual intricate relations of capital made it suicidal to allow any great creditor to go "broke." The moratorium and the government currency saved the day. The British government guaranteed the liabilities of the banks so that their three hundred millions were at once set free for use. Getting down to last analysis, of course, that guarantee is worth as much and no more than the chances of the British to win, but the world seems very willing to accept that guarantee. In other words, the most telling factor in the world's credit today is the British fleet, for without the force to protect and to compel the promise of any government would not count for much.

This action of the British government has almost restored financial affairs to normal conditions. The greatest possible leniency is shown toward all concerned. In Canada the government took a somewhat similar action. The banks already with vast liquid resources were greatly strengthened by practically declaring a private moratorium in their favor. How they retaliated toward the people is shown by the agitation for the reform of the Bank Act which has taken place all over Canada. The Toronto World is taking a leading part with a series of strong articles in denunciation of the conduct of the banks since war was declared.

CANADIAN TROOPS HAVE 30 CHAPLAINS

Must Assist Wounded as Well as Preach—Rev. John Pringle of Yukon Fame Among Them.

Quebec, Oct. 5.—Over thirty chaplains will accompany the Canadian expeditionary force to England in charge of Major R. H. Steacy, divisional chaplain. The duties of these men will be by no means confined to those of spiritual advisers, as they will be called upon to administer to the welfare of the troops to which they are attached in various capacities. "There will be no fancy men among the chaplains," said Major Steacy today. "If any man shirks his duty at the front he will be sent back. There is no doubt that many of those who are going with the troops will never come back again, as their place will be in the firing line or at least close enough to it to be of assistance to the wounded."

The following are the chaplains who will go with the Canadian troops to the front. Major R. H. Steacy, divisional chaplain; Rev. Captains Barton, Victoria, B. C.; Payne, Moose Jaw; Wells, Minnedosa; Woods, Winnipeg; Beattie, Winnipeg; Whittaker, Morden, Man.; Piper, Thorold, Ont.; Ingles, Toronto; Moffatt, Toronto; Scott, Quebec; Fortier, Quebec; Greenshaw, Toronto; Doe, Windsor; Frost, Pontypool; Beatty, Cobourg; Gordon, Ottawa; Bruce, Ottawa; Cornett, Buckingham, Que.; Almond, Montreal; Silvester, Montreal; McGreer, Montreal; O'Leary, Quebec; Ambrose, Bidford, N. S.; Pringle, Sydney, N. S.; Marner, Sydney, New York; Ensley, Pembroke, Ont.; Workman, Montreal; Jollicœur, Valcartier, and Arts of Belgium.

PASSING EVENTS

Emperor William has already, in his unbending insolence, annexed Belgium to his dominions, and has notified the United States post office department that all letters for Belgium must be addressed "Belgium, Germany." This indicates pretty clearly what was in the mind of this unscrupulous autocrat when he violated a sacred pledge by his invasion of Belgium. These added indignities heaped upon a little state which refused to be coerced into doing wrong will only help to fill up the cup of iniquity, for which a bitter atonement will have some day to be made.

In the battle of Mons the British were outnumbered by three to one. Yet not a single British gun was taken except those shattered by explosive shells or those of which the horses were all killed.

The Kaiser had let it be known that he would value the surrender of a British army more than the capture of Paris. He is not likely to have either gratification except in his distorted imagination. It is now recognized that so far from being a negligible quantity it was the British troops which saved the situation at Mons.

It has been announced that Canada will send nearly ten thousand more men on the first contingent than was asked by the British war office. This means that 31,200 officers and men and 7,700 horses were transported to Britain, instead of a division of 22,500 men, which was the original plan of the government. It also means that every officer in training has been taken abroad, which has caused great rejoicing among those who expected to be rejected. Every man in camp who was physically fit for active service was sent with the first contingent.

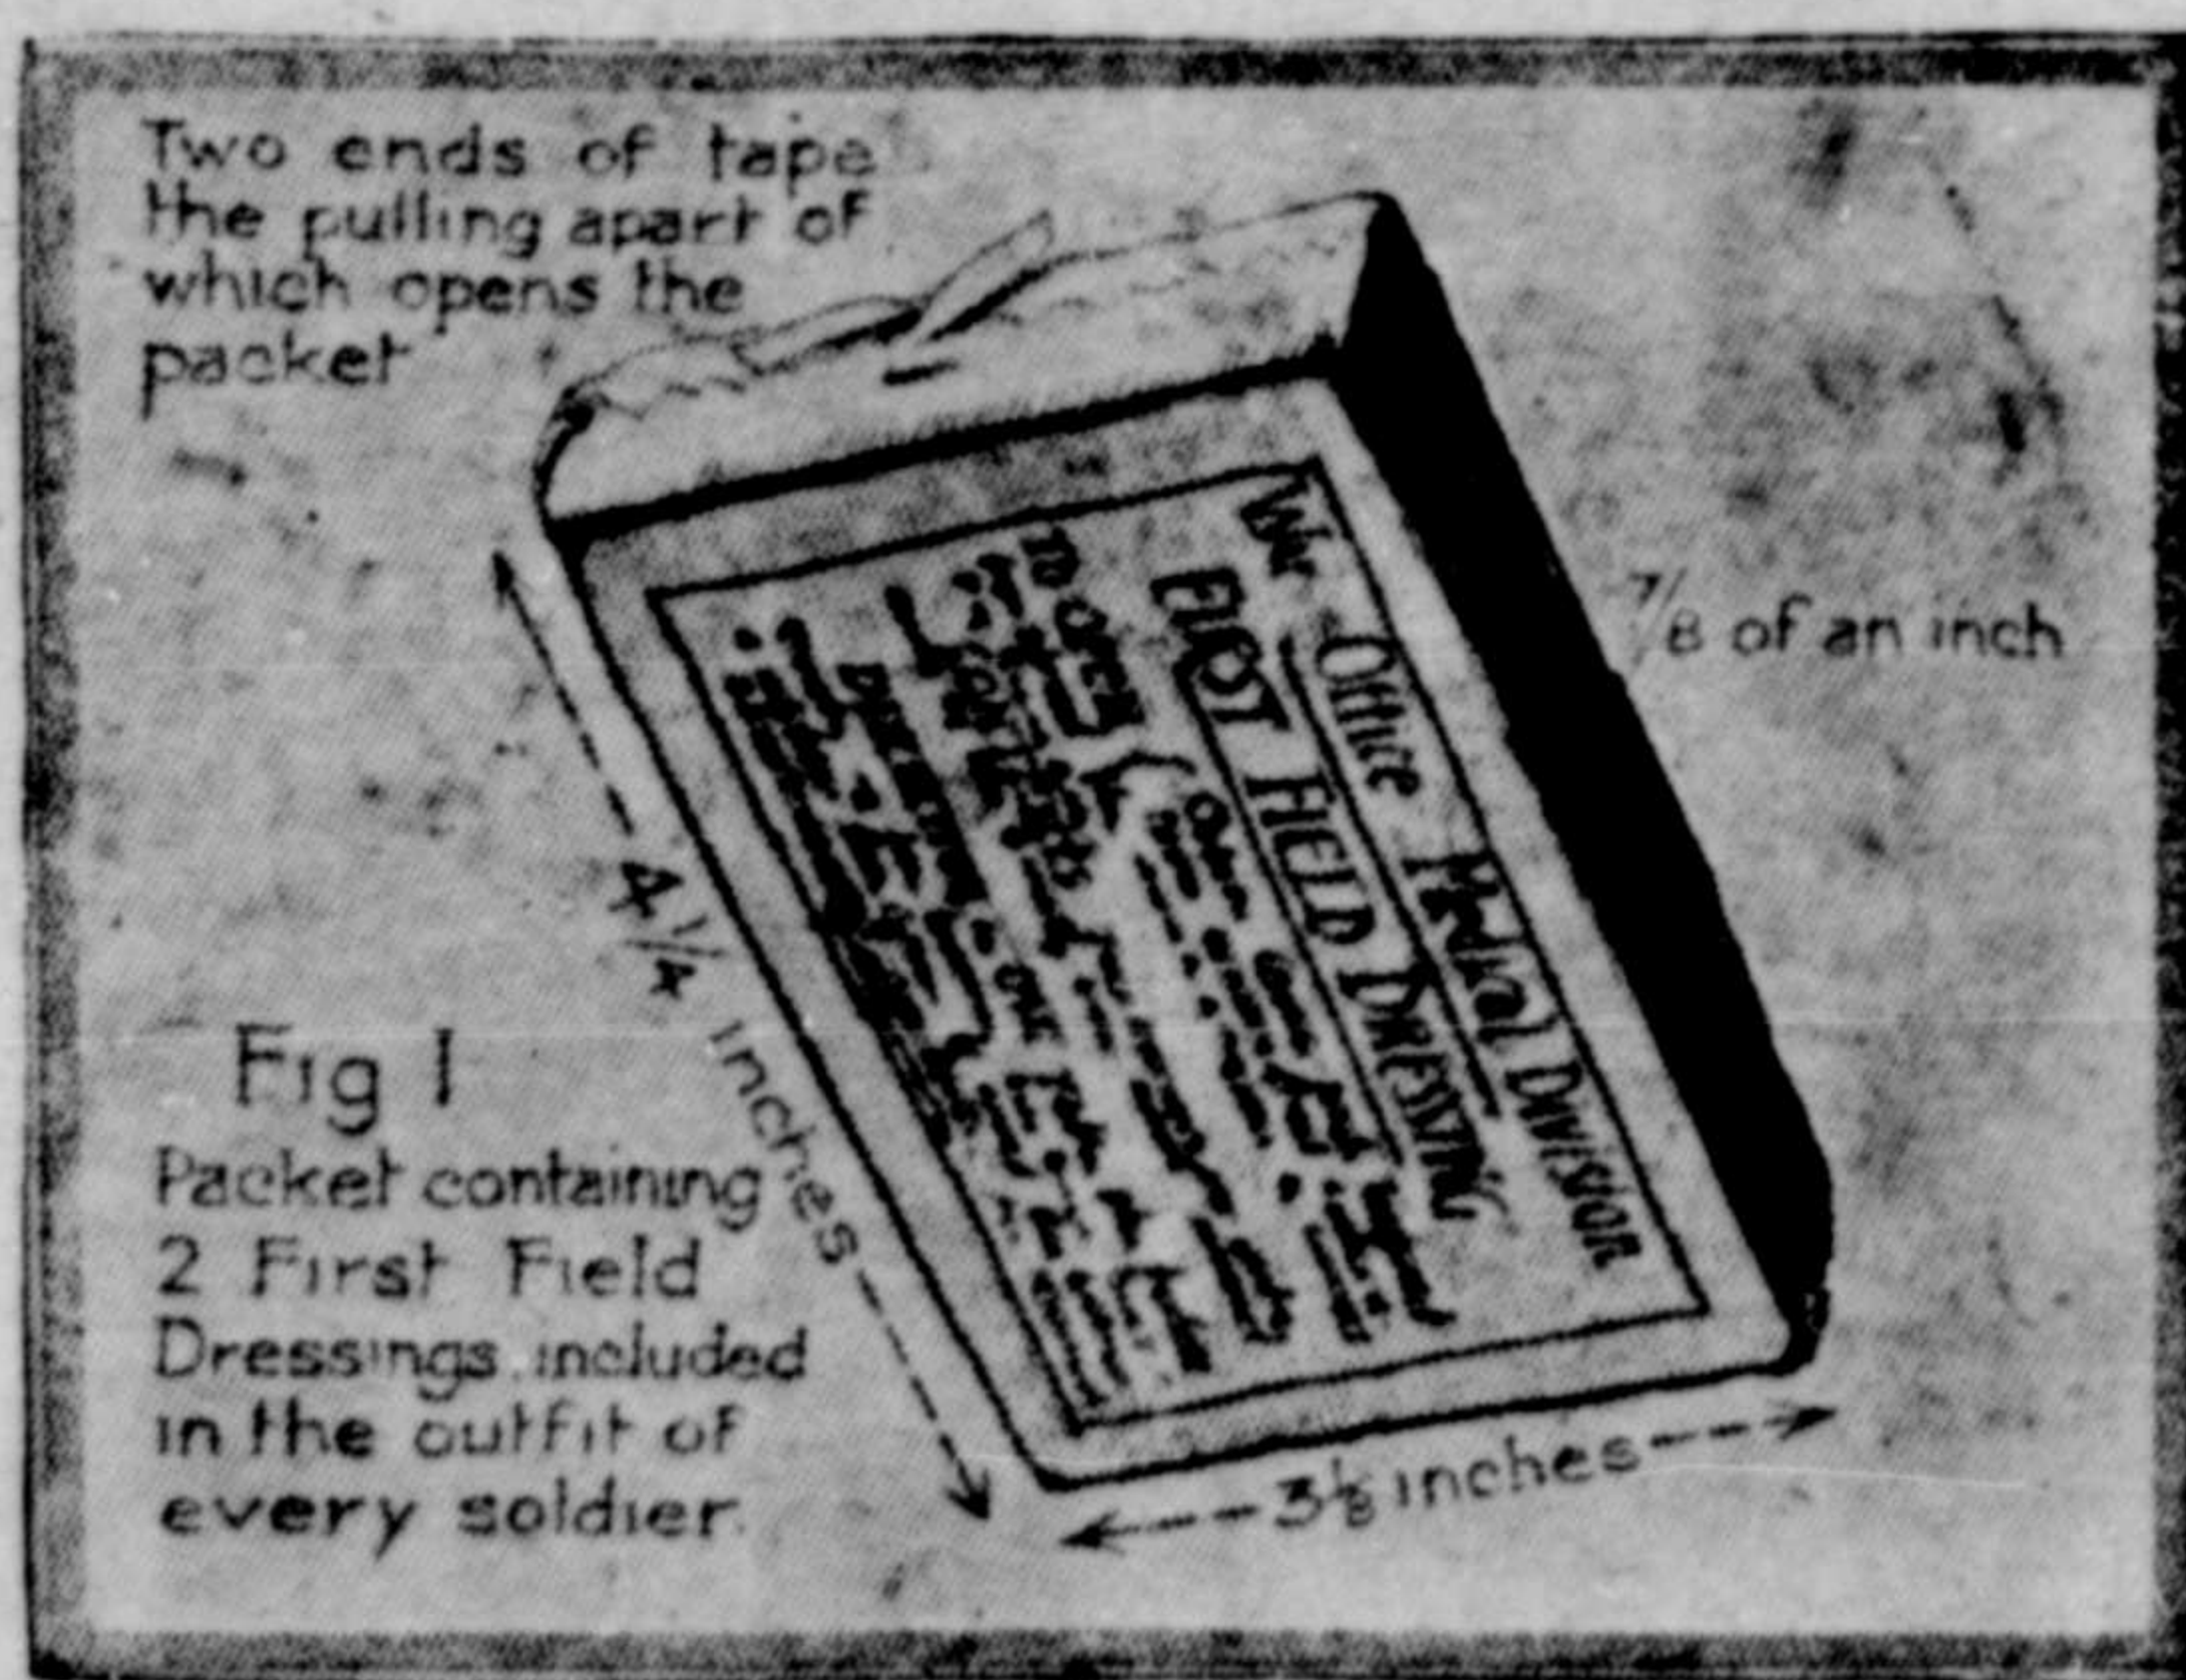

In an interview at Antwerp the King of the Belgians expressed his firm conviction that war was not an incident. The Serbian tragedy was a mere pretext. Any other incident might have served as well. To the knowledge of His Majesty the war had been deliberately prepared. It was the direct outcome of the reactionary spirit of brutal militarism prevailing among the ruling caste and especially among the immediate entourage of the Kaiser. He had many opportunities in his travels and his intercourse with prominent Germans to observe the growing insolence and aggressiveness of the military caste and had been driven to the conclusion that a new and perilous power had gained ascendancy in Berlin and that an attack on the part of Germany was to be expected.

The British training ship Fishguard II, formerly the battleship Erebus, founded during a gale in the English Channel on September 17th, 21 members of the crew being drowned, among them 14 boys undergoing special training.

The result of the elections in the Commonwealth of Australia having been in favor of the Labor party, Mr. A. Fisher has formed a new labor cabinet, which will now proceed to carry on its advanced program.

The Germans on September 18 bombarded and set on fire the famous Cathedral of Notre Dame at Rheims, notwithstanding a great Red Cross flag was flying from the spires indicating that it was being used as a hospital for wounded soldiers, among whom were 150 wounded German prisoners of war quartered in the Greek Chancel. German shrapnel came through the windows and roof, killing four nuns who were attending the wounded and three prisoners. The cathedral, which is said to be ruined, was begun by Bishop Alberic de Humbert in 1211, and was completed in just 100 years. It was built to replace the earlier cathedral built by Hincmar, which was destroyed by fire in 1211. Both were on the site of the basilica where Clovis was baptized by St. Remigius. The plan of the structure and the building of the apse are attributed to the architect Jean d'Orbais. The great entrance doorway, with the gallery above containing the forty-two statues of kings of France, was chiefly the work of Robert de Coucy and was added at the beginning of the fourteenth century. It was in the present cathedral that Joan of Arc, after the victories of the French army, stood beside the dauphin on July 17, 1429, holding the sacred banner in her hand, when the dauphin was crowned King Charles of France. A statue of Joan of Arc by Paul Dubois was placed in front of the cathedral in 1906.

AFRAID SHE WAS DYING

Suffered Terribly Until She Took "Fruit-a-tives"

SE. JEAN DE MATHA, JAN. 27th. 1914.
"After suffering for a long time with dyspepsia, I have been cured by 'Fruit-a-tives'. I suffered so much that I would not dare eat for I was afraid of dying. Five years ago, I received samples of 'Fruit-a-tives'. I did not wish to try them for I had little confidence in them but, seeing my husband's anxiety, I decided to do so and at once I felt relief. Then I went for three boxes and I kept improving until I was cured. While sick, I lost several pounds, but after taking 'Fruit-a-tives', I quickly regained my weight. Now I eat, sleep and am completely well—in a word, I am completely cured, thanks to 'Fruit-a-tives'."

CAN GERMANY BE STARVED OR MUST SHE BE DEFEATED

HOW ECONOMIC PRESSURE WOULD ACT—FRENCH AND GERMAN HAVE ALREADY LOST FLOWER OF ARMIES—RESULT LIES WITH BRITAIN AND RUSSIA.

The confident prediction of Lord Kitchener ten days ago that the tide had turned, and that victory lay ahead, had substantial facts upon which to rest. The Allies are supreme on every ocean and sea except the Baltic. They are able to move troops at will, and have already transported huge armies to France, where the German pressure is greatest. This command of the sea has been used, and is still being used, to strip Germany and Austria of their trade and commerce. Germany was second only to Britain in the world's carrying trade. Her mercantile marine has disappeared from the high seas, and only a few enterprising German commerce destroying cruisers have kept her flag flying on the ocean. All this has been secured with the loss of eight British warships and slightly over two thousand lives. Germany and Austria could be overcome in time merely by continuing the pressure of the blockade and of non-intercourse, but the cost to the Allies would be too great, for they would not only have to maintain their fleets in the North Sea and the Mediterranean, but they would have to keep great armies upon all their land frontiers and secure the assent of Holland, Italy, Denmark, Norway and Sweden to the policy of non-intercourse.

Economic pressure thus applied would be a very slow process. The interruption of the foreign trade of the United Kingdom, and especially of the importation of food, would bring Britain to her knees in less than six months. It would probably take two or three years to secure the same result in the case of Germany and Austria. The war, therefore, in its final phase must

SOLD FOR A DOLLAR A PIECE

Hundred Injured Horses Sold at Valcartier at Bargain Prices.

Quebec, Oct. 7.—Of the 8,000 horses that were in Valcartier camp before the contingent moved out, about 200 remain. These 200 are the sick and injured of the animals that were brought here to be shipped to the front. Many of them are in a shocking condition, and as a result of a stampede a few days ago nearly 100 were so badly injured that they have been sold for $1 each.

"How did your car get smashed up that way?" asked the native. "We were on pleasure bent," sobbed the truthful joyrider.—Buffalo Express.

INDIAN GURKHAS HOW THEY FIGHT

A large percentage of the Indian troops who will be employed in the war are Gurkhas, infantry soldiers, whose superiors in fighting do not exist. In the early days of the East Indian Company they were hostile to the British and attacked them on several occasions. With the Treaty of Segauli, signed in 1814, the territorial limits of the Gurkhas were clearly defined. They now form a very important factor in the Indian Empire and supply its army with the infantry so renowned for its loyalty and courage. The first test of their fidelity occurred in the Indian mutiny, when they rendered invaluable service to the British forces. Throughout the Afghan wars and the frontier campaigns they increased their reputation and maintained it throughout the international war of 1900 in China, when the British became involved and sent a military contingent to the front. In physique the Gurkhas are diminutive, yet stocky and well proportioned. They bear an instinctive hatred for cavalry, whose horses they are adept at hamstringing. In addition to the ordinary equipment of the soldiers, they carry a number of weapons peculiar to their race, particularly a broad curved saber and a quoit shaped weapon, the outer edge of which is exceedingly sharp, and often effective when the weapon is hurled, quoit fashion at an enemy. The Gurkha troops number over 20,000. In religion they are Hindu, and they are of Mongol descent, their ancestors having intermixed with the aborigines of Nepal, the state which they now inhabit and of which at one time they were supreme owners.

PEOPLE STARVED AND HOMELESS

Picture of Ruin and Desolation in Belgium Brought by Member of Parliament—Savagery of the Germans.

London, Oct. 5.—Mr. J. H. Whitehouse, member of parliament from Lanarkshire, who has returned from a tour around Antwerp to assist in relief measures, brings a graphic picture of the desolation of Belgium.

To supplement the defences of Antwerp, he said today, hundreds of thousands of trees had been cut down and houses destroyed, so the enemy would find no cover for attack. Another part of the country had been flooded, the damage of these precautionary measures totaling $50,000,000. Termonde, a city of 16,000, has been systematically destroyed, he said. A blind woman and her daughter, groping among the ruins, were the only persons remaining in the once beautiful town. The remainder of the population, he was told, had fled in all directions. Some had reached Antwerp, but a great number were wandering about the country, panic stricken and starving. Many were already dead.

"What had happened at Termonde," he went on, "was similar to what had happened in other parts of Belgium under the military occupation of Germans. The result is that conditions have been set up for the civilian population throughout the occupied territory of unexampled misery."

"Sometimes when a town has been bombarded the Germans have withdrawn and the civilians have returned to their homes, only to flee again at the renewed attack. A case in point is Malines, which, on Sunday last, as I was about to try to reach it, was again bombarded."

"The inhabitants were then unable to leave, as the town was surrounded, but when the bombardment ceased there was a great exodus."

"The whole life of the nation has been arrested. Food supplies which would ordinarily reach the civilian population are being taken by the German troops for their own support. The peasants and poor are without the necessities of life, and conditions of starvation grow more acute every day. Even where there is a supply of wheat available the peasants are not allowed to use their windmills owing to the German fear that they will send signals to the Belgian army."

"We are, therefore, face to face with a fact which has rarely, if ever, occurred in the history of the world—an entire nation is in a state of famine, and that within a half day's journey of our own shores."

This war has not been given a name yet. Why not call it the War of the Censors?

FRENCH EXACT BLOODY REVENGE FOR SEDAN

London, Oct. 6.—During the strategic retreat of the Allies southward from the Belgian frontier, the French troops exacted from the Germans bloody revenge for the French defeat at Sedan 44 years before.

On this same battlefield, according to the Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail, the Germans suffered one of the worst defeats of the invasion. They were led into a trap which cost them thousands of men, he says. The French could have held their position indefinitely, but strategy required them to continue falling back with the remainder of the Allies along the line. Here is the story of the second battle of Sedan as told to the correspondent:

"The French general ordered his troops to fall back across the river and take up a position on the opposite heights. The bridges were mined, but were left standing in order to deceive the Germans into thinking that the French were retreating hastily. The ruse succeeded. The Germans advanced across the bridge in close formation. When several German regiments had crossed the French blew up the bridges and the French artillery started firing at 100 German columns, which retreated hastily to the river only to find the bridges gone."

"The French advanced with quick fire and the merciless slaying continued until dusk. The Germans threw down their arms and attempted to swim the river and were drowned. At nightfall the French brought up searchlights and continued the work of carnage."

"The artillery threw shells at the rate of dozens of rounds a minute into the German ranks and varied its tactics by throwing incendiary shells into the forest where part of the German force had taken refuge. The burning woods lit up the whole front for fifteen miles."
