

BRITISH AND JAPANESE AFTER GERMAN CRUISERS

NAVAL DISASTER OFF COAST OF CHILE IS CONFIRMED--MONMOUTH LOST WITH ALL ON BOARD

ALLIED FLEETS MAY AVENGE SINKING BRITISH CRUISERS

IT SAYS BATTLE IS NOW IN PROGRESS OFF COAST OF CHILE--SINKING OF GOODHOPE AND MONMOUTH SEEMS NOW CERTAIN.

Joint fleet of British and Japanese warships are believed to have engaged the German cruisers which fought the British a few days ago off the coast of Chile. The result of the fight is not known.

The loss of the Monmouth and Goodhope seems to be certain.

London, Nov. 6.—It is officially announced by the Admiralty that the British cruiser Goodhope took part in an engagement with the Germans off the coast of Chile Sunday. As a result she foundered.

It is believed the British cruisers Monmouth, which the Germans sank, ran ashore. Battleship Canopus, it adds, was not present at the time of the fight.

Paris, Nov. 3.—An official report issued later in the day by the Graf von Snee said that the German fleet engaged with the British consisted of the cruisers Scharnhorst, Gneisenau, Leipzig and Dresden.

The British were the cruisers Goodhope and Monmouth and the transport Otranto. The action lasted nearly one hour, the report said, "and it was only discontinued at nightfall. The British were forced to retreat. The Goodhope was so badly damaged that she was unable to resist, and could only escape protected by the darkness. Between her funnels the result of the big explosion could be detected.

The Monmouth, under identical conditions, tried to escape, but was followed by a small cruiser and sunk with a few shots.

"Owing to the hurricane that was blowing, no boats could be lowered, and consequently there was a terrible loss of life. It is supposed that the Goodhope and the Otranto, which were badly damaged, were able to make their escape owing to their speed in the darkness.

"The Germans suffered little or no damage."

"Only two men wounded were reported in the Gneisenau's crew."

British Ships Outraged
In naval circles here it is said that the action took place twenty miles off St. Maria Island, whence the flashes of the guns could be seen, but no detonations heard.

The Germans opened fire at 9,000 metres and the British when they came within 6,000 metres of the enemy. They had already been badly damaged. The Monmouth received a terrible broadside, according to the officials, and this, combined with the hurricane, soon resulted in her sinking.

The Good Hope escaped on fire, but shortly afterwards a terrific explosion was heard, and her loss is considered certain.

The Glasgow escaped to Talcahuano, badly damaged. The Germans declare that the British fought heroically, but that their artillery was ineffective. It is believed here that the Britishers were attacked by the complete German flying fleet.

Armed transports and the cruisers Leipzig and Bremen are keeping watch off Talcahuano to capture or sink the Glasgow should she attempt to escape. If the Glasgow does not come out of the harbor it is said she will be dismantled and interned.

The German fleet will leave here tomorrow. Its destination is not known. It is reported that a powerful Anglo-Japanese fleet is on its way to South Pacific waters.

All British steamers in ports in this vicinity are remaining at anchor temporarily as the result of the naval battle. The Gneisenau and Scharnhorst were perforated in various parts by shells during the battle, but the injuries they sustained were of no consequence.

The Bremen is a small cruiser of 3,200 tons, and is a sister ship of the Leipzig.

Valparaiso, Nov. 3.—Admiral Graf von Snee, commander of the German fleet in Pacific waters, arrived here this morning and made the following report concerning a naval engagement with British warships at sea off Coronel last Sunday evening:

"On Sunday, November 1, between 6 and 7 o'clock in the evening, during a heavy rain and rough weather off Coronel, we sighted the British men-of-war Goodhope, Monmouth and Glasgow and the armored cruiser Otranto.

"An engagement ensued immediately. All the ships opened a brisk cannonade with all their artillery.

"The Monmouth was sunk, and the Goodhope, after a great explosion on board, took fire. Her subsequent fate is unknown, owing to the darkness having set in.

"The Glasgow and the Otranto also were damaged, but the darkness prevented our obtaining knowledge of life extent of it.

"Our ships, the Scharnhorst and Nurnberg, were not damaged. The Gneisenau had six men wounded. The rest of our ships also were undamaged."

Sinking of Monmouth.
Santiago, Chile, Nov. 3.—All hands are reported to have perished when the British cruiser Monmouth took her plunge beneath the sea after thirty minutes of fighting with the Germans off Coronel, according to advices received here.

The battle was terrific while it lasted. As darkness gathered the Goodhope seemed to be on fire, following a terrible burst of flame

SECTIONAL VIEW OF AISNE VALLEY SHOWING GERMAN TRENCHES.—On the north bank are the trenches and covered ways of the Germans with their heavy artillery at the back disposed in quarries. The field artillery is throwing its shells with a flat trajectory, while the howitzer shells, one type of which have been nick-named the "Jack Johnsons," sail in a great semi-circular sweep over the river. from her, which seemed to indicate that an explosion had occurred on board.

The Glasgow is reported to have arrived in a badly damaged condition in Coronel Bay. The Otranto escaped to Puerto Montt. The German ships arrived in Valparaiso today to take on board coal and provisions. They will leave tomorrow morning, having suffered no mishap. Only a few men of the German crews were wounded. The battle has caused a tremendous sensation here.

THE GERMANS URGE FRENCH TO ABANDON GREAT BRITAIN

Offers of Peace Sent From German Socialists to Their Comrades in France.

Bordeaux, Nov. 4.—German peace proposals have been conveyed to France by members of the German Socialist party. The German government invited the German Socialists to act as intermediaries and the latter accepted the task. They gave the message of their government to certain Socialists in Holland who in their turn transmitted the offer to the members of the French party.

The German Socialists tried to convince their French comrades that Germany had no quarrel with France. They portrayed Britain as the real enemy of France and argued that England had incited France and Russia and Belgium to go to war against Germany in order that those three countries should fight Britain's battles against her mortal enemy, Germany. The negotiations were commissioned to influence French opinion and through French Socialists, to believe that France would profit by leaving Britain in the lurch at this stage of the war and concluding a separate peace with Germany.

The French Socialists emphatically refused to support this peace movement. In no circles is the feeling against Germany more bitter than among the leaders of extreme French Socialism.

HOW BATTLESHIPS FOLLOW EACH OTHER IN FOG.—In order to keep the straight battle line formation during a fog when the ships are invisible, a line is thrown from the stern of one battleship to the bow of the one following supported on the surface of the water in the centre by a barrel.

GREAT WORK DONE BY LITTLE MONITORS

They Go Right Up Rivers and Get After Enemy in Effective Manner.

London, Nov. 6.—The Daily Telegraph's Dover correspondent says: "The work done by the British monitors and shallow draught vessels is playing a more and more important part in the fighting along the coast. These boats make frequent raids up the canals and rivers, striking unexpected and disconcerting blows into the very heart of the enemy's forces. On many occasions the boats got to such close range that the crews were able to employ rifle fire against the enemy.

"The speed of the ships always enabled them to get out of the way before the Germans can place artillery advantageously against them."

MR. AND MRS. LEN BELL LOSE THEIR DAUGHTER

The death occurred at about noon today of the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Len Bell. She had been ill for a few days but was expected to recover. Much sympathy will be felt for the sorrowing parents, who are very popular in the city.

PRINCE RUPERT HALIBUT AT MONTREAL CLUB

The following letter speaks for itself:

Mr. T. C. Chalmers, Agent, Prince Rupert, B.C.,

Dear Sir,—Our president, Mr. Pullen, has sent me the enclosed menu card of the Canada Club, Montreal, October 21, from which was served Prince Rupert halibut and has suggested that I pass it on to you.

I may say that the halibut served by the Canada Club at Montreal on October 21 was from Refrigerator Car No. 2026 which was consigned to Hatton & Co., Montreal, by the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co., and which left Prince Rupert on the morning of October 14, arriving at Montreal 7 a.m., October 20. I am sure this will be of interest to our friends in Prince Rupert and you might finally hand the menu card to the manager of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co.

Yours truly,
F. NORMAN,
Superintendent.

The bill of fare is a good deal like all other bills of fare, but when it comes to the fish we read, "Prince Rupert Halibut, fried, 50 cents," and no doubt the club patrons got good value for their money.

MOSLEMS ARE NOT WITH GERMANY

Attitude of Younger Element in India Made Plain by Spokesman.

Calcutta, Nov. 3.—The best test of the attitude of the younger school of Moslems in India is the opinion of Mohammed Ali's Delhi paper, The Comrade: "If any cause can be ours," it says, "it is the British, and if Germany counts on us she is mistaken. It would be bad business also for Turkey to lavish on Germany the lives, energies and resources she needs for her own quarrels, since Germany never spared any for her when she was beset by still greater perils.

"We do not wish to be cynical, but self-preservation is the first law of nature, and nature is inexorable and ruthless in punishing disobedience to its decalogue. Germany has done nothing as yet for the Turks to deserve the sacrifice of a single man, much less a street riot in a single town or village by Moslem sympathizers of Turkey with a view to embarrass their own government. We do not in the least mean to insult the intelligence of Turkey, and to convince her of it we frankly confess that, whether her choice is peace or war, the consequence will be hers, not ours, since she must exercise her own judgment and surrender it to none."

TSING TAU HAS BEEN SURRENDERED

Tokyo, Nov. 7.—Tsing Tau's supposedly impregnable German fortresses have surrendered to the Japanese and British forces. This is given out officially by the Japanese war department.

GERMANS IN RETREAT ABANDONED THE YSER

Amsterdam, Nov. 6.—It is now obvious the Germans have abandoned their attempts to cross the Yser. The Belgian troops occupy both banks of the river. The Germans are retreating eastward in large numbers.

CANADIAN MIDSHIPMEN:

Four Graduates of Royal Naval College on the Goodhope.

Halifax, N.S., Nov. 4.—Two natives of this city and two other maritime province lads are midshipmen on the Goodhope. The Halifax boys are A. W. Silver, son of H. S. St. Clair Silver, and W. A. Palmer, son of Lieut. Frederick A. Palmer, R.C. The other maritime province boys are M. Cann of Yarmouth and C. W. Lady of Halifax, who is signalling officer on the Goodhope. Midshipman Palmer's last letter received here was written on September 16, when the Goodhope was off the coast of Uruguay, and the letter reached Halifax via London, three weeks ago. Midshipman Silver was heard from a week ago, but the letter was six weeks coming and the place at which it had been mailed was not specified. These four Canadian midshipmen are all graduates of the Royal Canadian Naval College, Halifax.

PROHIBITION ADHERENTS CLAIM A VICTORY

Seattle, Nov. 4.—Eight hundred and eighty precincts in the State of Washington, including 290 in King County, give 77,069 for prohibition and 76,191 against it. The eight hour law has been defeated, this is admitted in all quarters. Every other issue is overshadowed by the prohibition question. Candidates are overlooked in the general campaign, and only reports of the results on the prohibition measure are attracting attention in Seattle.

PRACTICAL PATRIOTISM IS MESSAGE OF THE BISHOP

A CALL TO THE SPECULATOR TO TURN A PORTION OF HIS LAND LOOSE FOR CULTIVATION THAT FOOD MAY BE HAD FOR BRITAIN'S ARMIES.

To the Editor The News:
 After the splendid outburst of patriotism which rightly accompanied the sending to the front of our soldiers it is somewhat hard for us to settle down and realize that those of us who remain at home have also a great duty to perform for the British Empire.

EDITORIALS

Four mounted regiments will be mobilized immediately in Canada. This fact is significant. It means that the Empire needs all the men available to prepare for the spring campaign. There is not likely to be much active campaigning during the winter and at any rate the forces in the field already are probably sufficient for a defensive fight. In the spring, however, the Allies must carry the war into the enemy's camp. It is good tactics, too, to fight Germany for the first year defensively. By the end of that time her resources will be thinning out. If the Allies can then double their forces they ought to be able to quickly force her to her knees.

ernmental authority, in commerce, in industry, and in all that is involved in militarism has not been faithfully followed.

It is because the Empire has faithfully and studiously avoided all these mistakes that her sons in all parts of the world are now ready to give their lives for the defence of her institutions. It is for her freedom that her sons are prepared to fight. It is because British common sense has not been led astray by the misdirected enthusiasm of our few Kaiser Williams that we now have a country every citizen is eager to defend. It is hatred and wholesome fear of the autocracy which must always be part and parcel of military rule that is inspiring the British in all parts of the world to unite in the suppression of the autocrat. Our strength is in the worthiness of our cause, and an imitation of the unworthy would have brought national weakness. We make the response of a free people strong in our freedom, not a mechanical fighting organization burdened to the endurance point with its own weight.—Toronto Globe.

Some contemporaries seem to think it a terrible oversight and unpardonable dereliction that the British government did not plan to have gun foundations built by private citizens at vantage points in Germany. They seem to feel that we have been negligent in failing to overrun Germany and other nations with spies, and that public duty has been shirked because every young man has not been pressed into the army and made to spend three years of his life learning the details of war. It is urged as a grave defect that the British and Colonial parliaments have not created another central Parliament; in short, that pernicious example of Germany in government. A regrettable mistake is reported from South London. A thoroughly patriotic man was sat upon by a Cockney crowd for declaring that the Kaiser was a Nero.

London, Nov. 7.—"They won't attack past 400 yards. Their courage has as yet failed them. They are too discreet to take chances with the British infantry." Thus a reservist in the Bedford writes to his wife. Mentioning the capture of two Maxim guns from the enemy, the writer continues:

"So we have not quite so many guns to face. Wherefore give thanks, and know that we shall soon be at home again with just one more war over. I will not moralize on such an assertion as that I feel sure peace will soon be proclaimed.

"After all this hard fighting, marching through mud and rain, sleeping little and sleeping rough, I shall need reevivizing. Guess how I could appreciate a bed when I tell you that I have not slept without by clothes since I left home on August 5."

During courtship she expects him to be all heart, but after marriage she is satisfied if he is all pocketbook.

Possibly the explosion of the theory that two can live as cheaply as one is responsible for a good many divorces.

A man can always count upon his wife to agree with him if he doesn't want her to.

empors who are trying to do something at farming, though discouraged by being crowded so far back.

In the Citwangool Valley I found some Alberta farmers lately arrived with horses and wagons and farm implements eagerly seeking to get some land reasonably near the railway, but they discovered to their sorrow that thousands of acres in this fertile valley are held by syndicates who, while they have done nothing to improve the land since they acquired it from the government, want a price for it beyond the reach of the ordinary farmer.

During the war no more patriotic action could be done by those holding land for speculation than for them to make a little sacrifice and offer at least every other quarter section at a low price to men who will pledge themselves to cultivate it. The speculator in being patriotic and helping to settle the country would in the end attain what he is now missing by his selfishness.

No more patriotic investment of money could be made at this time than in paying men to clear land in our fertile valleys. This would give employment to many now out of work and help to increase the resources of the Empire.

It is not too soon for hundreds of non-producers to begin to plan how they can become producers. Even the holder of a vacant town lot could make it produce something.

In this part of the province the period of railway construction is practically over. The period of colonization should now begin in earnest.

The curse of this region for the last seven years has been the "booming" of townsites. One blessing of the war has been the knocking of these townsites on the head. Surely we can now plainly see that the country back of these "paper" towns must first fill up before there can be a healthy growth.

When the blow first fell it seemed to stun us all but now with a new spirit of practical patriotism, sobered and steadied by the financial strain upon us, let us "fall in" and move forward to do our duty in developing our country and supporting our Empire.

"March on, we shall gain the victory,
 "We shall win the day."
 Yours faithfully,
 F. H. DU VERNET,
 Bishop of Caledonia.

A POSITIVE CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

Hundreds of People Have Found "Fruit-a-tives" Their Only Help

READ THIS LETTER

Superintendent of Sunday School in Toronto Tells How He Cured Himself of Chronic Rheumatism After Suffering for Years.

35 DOVERCOURT ROAD, Oct., 1st, 1913.

"For a long time, I have thought of writing you regarding what I term a most remarkable cure effected by your remedy 'Fruit-a-tives'. I suffered from Rheumatism, especially in my hands. I have spent a lot of money without any good results. I have taken 'Fruit-a-tives' for 18 months now, and am pleased to tell you that I am cured. All the enlargements which have not left my hands and perhaps never will, but the soreness is all gone and I can do any kind of work. I have gained 35 pounds in 18 months'.

R. A. WAUGH

Rheumatism is no longer the dreaded disease it once was. Rheumatism is no longer one of the "incurable diseases". "Fruit-a-tives" has proved its marvellous powers over Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago—in fact, over all such ailments which arise from some derangement of stomach, bowels, kidneys or skin.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 75c. or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

SUNDAY MORNING SERVICE AS SEEN ON THE BATTLEFIELD

CORRESPONDENT WRITES OF THE EARNESTNESS DISPLAYED—SERVICE LOOK STRANGE TO ONLOOKING FRENCH PEOPLE.

"There is one military function of our army that they do not have in the French forces, and that arouses considerable though respectful curiosity among the French people who live in the neighborhood of the Great English base camps that exist in France just now," writes Mr. G. Ward Price, the Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail, "and that is Sunday morning service. Familiar though the scene is in England, it takes on an added significance here on foreign soil.

A Martial Pulpit.

"It is 10 o'clock on Sunday morning. From the far-stretching camp regular columns begin to march to the place on the open ground where stand already three drums draped with a Union Jack that makes a brilliant splash of color against the grass and among the yellow-brown uniforms. Round this martial pulpit the soldiers form a hollow square, facing inwards towards the chaplain, who, with cassock and surplice and stole fluttering oddly in the breeze, stands by the piled drums.

"There is something incongruous about his dress that is hard to locate at first until you notice that it is his boots, thick-soled, stout campaigning boots, with puttees above, which, seen now and then under the hem of his cassock, make against it a curious contrast of clumsiness with grace.

The General and Staff.

"Close to the chaplain stands the general with a little group of officers of his staff. When all the troops have marched into position and stand there at ease he gives a glance round and then turns his eyes to the chaplain. Immediately the first words of the Morning Prayer, read in a strong, manly voice, ring out—well known and yet sounding so strangely here, and half their sonorous resonance lost in the open air.

"Bareheaded and with faces bowed the men follow the words reverently, and there is a note of sincerity in the gruff bass 'Amen' such as not many churches hear in peace time.

A vigorous Address

"Then came the Psalms, read in alternative verses by chaplain and congregation. And then a brief, vigorous address—not a sermon, in the sense of a religious essay, but the simple, earnest words of a strong, earnest, sympathetic man speaking to men who are going, many of them to wounds and death, all of them to perils and hardships. Sometimes the men are ordered to sit down on the grass for this address, but their attention does not flag for all that.

"It is not only now, with the great elementary issue of life and death hanging so close over the head of every one of them, that these things begin to take on new values. They have been thinking, these private soldiers, whose language can sometimes almost scorch the barrack-room—and there are a lot of things, some of which they hardly understand, that they want to hear about. The chaplain knows it. He has studied the heart of the soldier, and he knows that without flinching it is nevertheless made a little more impressionable the neighborhood of a death that cannot be denied.

Khaki Host Sings

"Then there are more prayers and the Benediction, for which every head is bowed, and then, on the note given by the band, if there is one, the whole khaki host rolls out in its deep bass voice of unison the first verse of 'God Save the King.' There is a thrill at that moment that completes rather than effaces the gentler emotions that have gone before. And the French people standing in an interested group a little distance away take off their hats instinctively."

ADJUSTMENT OF CREDIT CONDITIONS

British Representative Confers With New York Stock Exchange Committee.

New York, Nov. 7.—Sir George Paish, representing the British government, who has been in Washington for more than the past fortnight consulting with treasury officials and bankers from various sections of the country relative to an adjustment of credit conditions between this country and Great Britain, held a conference here with the committee controlling the affairs of the New York Stock Exchange.

Sir George, it is said, outlined to this committee his views on the economic aspects of the war as affecting England and America, and particularly with regard to the reopening of the various exchanges in this country. He was of the opinion that resumption of business by our exchanges should be effected as speedily as possible. He thought that many of the obstacles recently in the path of financial and commercial progress had been removed and he said he saw infallible signs of restoration both here and in England. Sir George told the committee he believed that liquidation of our securities by Eng-

Sir George said he was still without definite information as to when the London Stock Exchange would reopen, but his latest advices were to the effect that all the leading financial institutions in England were working in concert with the London exchange toward that end.

Apropos of Sir George's visit, the Stock Exchange committee was petitioned by a strong group of members asking the advisability of requesting all banks having Stock Exchange loans to declare a moratorium on such collateral for a period of ninety days after the opening of the exchanges.

GERMAN CROWN PRINCE IS REPORTED AS DEAD

Washington, Nov. 6.—A private letter received by a young woman in Washington from a young lieutenant in the German army refers to "the funeral of the crown prince."

The letter came to the attention of state department officials when its recipient asked the American government to undertake to transmit a reply for her to the lieutenant, to whom she is engaged to be married. The letter made only a casual reference to the funeral, speaking of the big crowds which poured out to see it.

A week ago dispatches from London also reported the receipt there of private letters from Germany saying the crown prince had been buried.

Wisdom is merely common sense in an uncommon degree.

Time is Money—"I suppose waiting for an inspiration is the hard part of writing short stories?" "No; waiting for the cheque."

Lord Nelson—Old England's Great Naval Hero

WITHOUT Horatio Nelson, England would have been invaded and perhaps conquered by Napoleon. At Trafalgar he smashed forever the French Emperor's hope of creating a naval power. Never was man more idolized and beloved—not only by all of England's people who breathlessly awaited news of his telling victories, but by every man of his fleet. A true Anglo-Saxon, he detested tyrannous powers and legislative usurpations of every kind. He was particularly opposed to prohibitive enactments governing the diet of his men, who, like him, enjoyed Barley-Malt brews, even as their fathers did for countless generations before. Good beer, according to Lord Nelson, has ever been good food. Budweiser Beer for 57 years has been the product of an institution holding the highest ideals known to the ancient art of brewing. The output, due to Quality and Purity, has increased every year until 7,500 men are daily required to keep pace with the public demand. Budweiser sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles.

"SPARTACUS."

"Spartacus," George Kleine's latest masterpiece in animated photography, photodramatically and delectably tells of historic, tragic and romantic events attendant upon the revolt of the gladiators against Roman domain. It will be the attraction at the Westholme Theatre for two nights commencing Wednesday, November 11th.

The interesting historical occurrences on which this motion picture classic is built are seasoned with a flavor of romanticism that cannot fail to suit the taste of the most fastidious devotees of the photodrama. It deals charmingly with the unfaltering love of Spartacus, gladiator and Thracian prince, for the daughter of the Roman consul, Crassus, the marvelous virility of the erstwhile barbaric potentate having fascinated and enamored her. His overpowering love for her proved no greater than that of the woman. It eventuates in her successful efforts to save him from a terrible death in the arena—that of being torn to pieces by lions. The perishing in his stead of a jealous rival who had conspired to bring Spartacus to the tragic death that was meted out to him is an episode both dramatic and sensational that holds the spectators spellbound, but carries with it no feeling of repulsion—the horror of the arena atrocity being lost in the exultation of the spectators that Spartacus was saved and restored to the arms of his devoted sweetheart.

Gladiatorial combats in the presence of morbid thousands, who are portrayed enthusing over the agonized suffering and martyric deaths of the Titans of the short sword and shield, keep the interest of the spectators at a feverish pitch. Shambles resultant from the sanguinary clashes between the Romans and the arena fighters and the perilous escape of the gladiators from their rendezvous when hemmed in by the Romans are so realistically and vividly visualized on the screen as to thrill all the beholders.

This photodrama, as have been all its predecessors presented by George Kleine and which it is declared to outrank as an absorbingly interesting attraction, was produced by a famous Italian company. Its masters of pantomime and expression such as only the Italian school creates delineate this gripping and thrilling narrative with its aura of fighting and romance in such a dramatically powerful manner that at times it is with difficulty that the illusion of the camera is maintained.

THREE MILLION SUFFER HUNGER

Ambassador Page Cables Appeal to the People of the United States.

New York, Nov. 2.—Three million women and children in Belgium now are suffering actual hunger, according to a cablegram from Walter Hines Page, received here today by Norman Hapgood of the committee of mercy.

"I hope you are in a position to buy and ship immediately a boat-load of food to the American consul at Rotterdam under a neutral flag," reads the cablegram. "He is the local agent of the international commission of relief, to whom consignments are shipped. I hope the committee of mercy will do our country the honor to send a cargo of food quickly to the worst stricken three million women and children in the whole world, who are now suffering actual hunger. Cable answer."

Ambassador Page calls attention, in his message, to the fact that England had forbidden the export of foodstuffs and all must come from America.

"This does not call for the sending of money to England," reads the message.

"No food can be bought anywhere in Europe."
