(Special to The Daily News.)
London, Dec. 14.—It has been officially announced that the British submarine, B-11, under the command of Lieutenant Commander Holbrook entered the Dardanelles, diving away under the mine fields, torpedoed and sank an old Turkish warship, the Mesoudieh, and returned undamaged. The Mesoudieh is an old ship. She was completed in 1876. Her tonnage was 9,120, and her speed 17 knots. She carried two 9-inch guns as well as a number of smaller ones. Her officers and men numbered 600. The submarine was fired upon by the forts and pursued by the destroyers and was compelled to remain nine hours under water. A number of German officers went down with the Mesoudieh.

HUNTER SHOT AT A MAN-- THOUGHT IT WAS A DEER

Three young fellows went out yesterday to the vicinity of Shattatons to hunt for deer. After traveling in the woods till about 12 o'clock one of the party noticed the crouched form of some creature in the thicket and after watching it for a minute or so took a shot at it. The cries with which he was greeted showed that his victim was a man—one of his own party. The rest of the party was not far away and they were soon on the scene. After examining the wound it was soon found that it was not serious. It took effect in the muscles under the shoulder and had not entered deep into the body. He was able to walk down the mountain to the boat and is now in the hospital doing well. The injured man is Karl Holmberg, blacksmith at the drydock.

Ottawa, Dec. 14.—The rumor is persisting here that there will be a federal election called before the proposed session of Parliament. #### CELESTIAL REPARTEE.

A City Hall employee sends the story of an office holder who was one of a party that attended the funeral of a Chinaman on a recent Sunday. He took a great deal of interest in the queer services at the grave, and noticed that, among other things, a roasted duck was left there by the departing mourners. Calling one of the "Chinks" aside, he asked: "Why did you leave that duck on the grave? Did you think the dead man will come and eat it?" "Yeppee," replied the Boxer sympathizer—"altee samee as white dadee man come out and smellee flowers."—Ex.

Ottawa, Dec. 14.—The War Office has asked the Militia Department to send an additional seventy-five trained nurses to England as soon as possible. All the nurses sent over with the first contingent are busy and more are required. As the department has received no less than 2,000 applications from nurses desirous of accompanying the second contingent, no difficulty will be experienced in complying with the request of the War Office.

The extra batch of seventy-five will not wait for the second contingent, however, but will go forward at an early date.

SERVIANS TAKING ADVANTAGE OF GREAT AUSTRIAN DEFEAT

HAVE ALREADY TAKEN 45,000 PRISONERS AND STILL SMASHING THEM—AUSTRIANS WILL HAVE TO EVACUATE BELGRADE WHICH THEY TOOK TEN DAYS AGO.

(Special to The Daily News.) Nish, Dec. 14.—The Servians are following up reaping the full advantage of their crushing defeat of the Austrians. They have already taken 45,000 prisoners and are still smashing the Austrians backward. The Montenegrins have also attacked the retreating Austrians and taken a large number of prisoners. The invaders will likely have to evacuate Belgrade, which they took ten days ago.

Nish, Dec. 14.—A Servian official says the Servians are advancing successfully in the direction of Belgrade and Milonovatz. The enemy is retreating southeast of Obrenovatz. The Servians have captured an additional 2,000 men and a number of guns.

RENEWED ATTACKS REPULSED BY ALLIES

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, Dec. 14.—The Germans yesterday made another attack on the Franco-Belgian lines. In this, as in the former, they were unsuccessful. The French have made an important advance at Le Pétre.

MANY CANADIANS TALK THIS WAY ABOUT OUR PARTIES

Although one of the applicants for citizen's paper who appeared before Chief Naturalization Examiner John Speed Smith, yesterday, says the Seattle P.-I., did not understand clearly the question, "What kind of government have we?" there was a grim ring of truth in his final answer that left no doubt as to his views at least: "We have a democratic form of government," he replied to Mr. Smith's question. "Have we always had a democratic form of government?" pursued the examiner. "No, sometimes we have a republican form of government," answered the applicant. "What, in your opinion, is the difference between the two?" was the next question.

The applicant thought deeply before answering. Then, suddenly, the solution occurred to him. "When we have a republican government we all have money and when we have a democratic government we don't," was his earnest reply. He got the papers.

EDITORIALS

There appears to be no doubt but that the Dominion government intends to appeal to the country by February next. Dispatches from Ottawa tell of the beginning of a campaign of speeches by Cabinet ministers all over Canada, presumably to assist recruiting. This is too thin a reason altogether for it is well known that the only trouble in Canada is that half the men who want to serve cannot get a chance. There must be another reason, therefore, for this activity among the Cabinet ministers. The Premier, Bob Rogers and J. D. Hazen are already very active in the Maritime provinces and it is said that some of them will shortly visit the West. It is also stated that the coming session of Parliament will not assemble till early in February, all of which goes to show that the government expects to hold a short session and endeavor to secure a snap judgment from the people.

Speaking from an Imperial point of view, it is anything but patriotic to convulse the country with politics with serious business on hand and especially since the government has over another year to run. From a political point of view the government would be playing right into the hands of the opposition to force an election at this time. In the first place, many of the government's strongest supporters, both press and lay, have denounced it in the strongest terms and there is good reason for believing that when the Governor-General was approached he refused to countenance it. It must also be remembered that while it might be unwise to change the Imperial government while war is on it is quite different with the Canadian government, which has nothing to do with the conduct of the war but to do as they are told from London, and both parties in Canada are pledged to a support of that policy. A change in the Canadian government would therefore not affect the Imperial situation at all, and Conservatives will make a mistake if they depend too much on this.

The war, therefore, has nothing to do with the government's chances of re-election. Looking over the whole field, it can be safely assumed that the odds are greatly in favor of the Liberals returning to power under the popular leadership of that great patriot and statesman, the Rt. Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The first year or two of the Laurier administration saw one bye-election after the other falling into the hands of the Liberals. An immediate change could be seen all over the country. How different it has been since the Borden party came into power. In the first place the election was won by a fluke over American annexation, which all parties now agree was absurd. Then the majority of the bye-elections since have gone so badly against the government that they have been afraid for many months to risk another. The country, too, realizes that there is not one big man in the whole ranks of the government, while the opposition benches are filled with men who are giants in intellect and achievement.

There is no doubt but that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is a far bigger man today than he was even at the head of the government. Big men are made bigger by adversity and Sir Wilfrid has shared in this. The people of Canada did not realize until they lost him what a great man they had at the head of their affairs. This is one of the reasons why the bye-elections have gone against the government. The personality of Sir Wilfrid Laurier has so far outshone the leaders of the Borden government that most of the people of Canada still look up to him as leader. Besides this Sir Wilfrid has the advantage of an able body of colleagues whose names are household words all over Canada. When the Rockefeller Foundation wanted the biggest man they could lay hands on to study the world's industrial question they went straight to the Laurier Cabinet and secured the Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, ex-Minister of Labor. If the greatest men in a country should be in charge of the government then Sir Wilfrid and his colleagues should be put back in power at the first opportunity—and they will.

GREAT BRITAIN HAS A VOICE IN MATTER

No Definite Disposition of Kiauchau Has Yet Been Made—Must Await End of War.

Washington, Dec. 12.—The statement by Baron Kato, the Japanese foreign minister, in the Diet, that Japan had made no promise to any country to return Kiauchau to China, attracts much interest in official circles here. Secretary Bryan would not comment, and referred inquiries to statements already made.

When Japan delivered her ultimatum to Germany demanding the evacuation of Kiauchau, the statement was published that the territory would be returned to China. That, it was later pointed out, was upon the supposition that Germany would comply with the terms of the ultimatum and voluntarily turn over the territory. However, as Japan was put to a general military campaign to get possession of Kiauchau one contention now in the Japanese mind is that the original pledge was not binding.

After the entry of Japan into the war, Count Okuma, the Premier, in reply to an inquiry, announced that Japan had no intention of securing territorial extensions as a result of the war. Kiauchau was not specifically mentioned, although it might have been inferred that it was included. It may be stated authoritatively that while Japan has not formally undertaken to surrender Kiauchau, she has by no means officially committed herself to its retention. Practically, it has been decided that this question must await the end of the war for its answer, because to diplomats it would not only seem to be prudent in view of the uncertain issue of hostilities, but for the reason that Japan realizes that her allies may properly claim a voice in determining the future of those possessions. The fact that Great Britain participated actively with her troops and ships in the capture of Kiauchau is referred to as supporting that position.

URGES BARS UPON HINDUS BE REMOVED

London, Dec. 11.—The Morning Post's Sydney correspondent says that Colonial Secretary Harcourt has answered the Australian government's communication relating to the entrance of Indians into the British dominions, stating that the support offered by the princes and people of the Indian empire shows a strong war feeling in India, and indicates that the embargo of Indian natives to Canada and Australia should be removed.

Among the papers forwarded by Mr. Harcourt is the statement made by Lord Hardinge, Viceroy of India, at the opening of the Legislative Council in September, where it is stated that it has been decided to negotiate with the colonial governments, they with strong Imperial instincts "will meet us in no niggardly spirit, provided we on our side, show a readiness to meet them half way."

EX-ARMY OFFICERS ARE SOUGHT AFTER

The Canadian military authorities have received through His Royal Highness the Governor General an important notification from the Army Council, London, regarding the mobilization for the war of ex-officers of the British regular and territorial forces.

The Army Council has reason to believe that there are several ex-officers of the regular and territorial forces between 25 and 40 years of age residing in Canada who have not joined the Canadian contingent but who would rejoin their old corps. The Army Council is prepared to offer such persons, including retired officers of the special reserve and ex-militia officers, if certified medically fit, temporary commissions for the duration of the war. Free passage to and from Great Britain and an allowance of 30 pounds sterling made for provision of uniform and one of 7 pounds 10 shillings for camp kit.

The Origin of the Cocktail.

Who invented the cocktail? Some bartender? A bon vivant? Or was its discovery the result of a drunken frolic?

The cocktail was invented by Mrs. Elizabeth Flanagan, widow of an Irish soldier who fell in the service of the American army during the revolution. After her husband's death, Mrs. Flanagan became an army sutler, following a troop of Virginia horse under Colonel Burr. In the winter of 1779 she took up quarters with the troop in a place called Four Corners, on the road between Tarrytown and White Plains, N. Y., near the demesne of John D. Rockefeller. There Mrs. Flanagan set up a hotel which soon became the rendezvous of the "swells" of that day. One day the hostess surprised her guests by announcing a new drink—the cocktail—supposed to have been named after the blending of colors in the tail of a game cock.

HE HAD DESIGNS ON NEWFOUNDLAND

Kaiser Knew its Value as a Base for Attacking Canada.

London, Dec. 12.—Germany's designs on Newfoundland, as disclosed in the Canadian Gazette, is much discussed here. The Daily Chronicle notes how busy the German spies have been in the ancient colony, which strategically commands the eastern entrance to Canada. That experience of Mr. Thomas Cantley, general manager of the Nova Scotia Steel Company, when visiting the Krupp Works, shows that the Krupp government, know every detail of the island's potential usefulness as a military base for terrorizing and possibly invading Canada. The question arises, how far St. Johns is being used as a spy center.

WOMEN'S STYLES TO BE MODEST, CONSERVATIVE

Toledo, Ohio, Dec. 14.—The style committee of the National Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Association will decree that the tight skirt must give way to fullness below the waist line. The association so decided at its 25th annual convention. The coats and skirts are to be shorter, and almost entirely there will be a tailor-made season for 1915, for America. In working out the styles the ideas is to have more sense in the fashions. All is modest and conservative, foreign suggestions of color or style being eliminated. George W. Forster, of Cleveland, was elected president.

TRADE UNIONISM AND THE WAR-- SOME UNPATRIOTIC CHARGES

PRESIDENT TRADES UNION CONGRESS OF BRITAIN VISITING CANADA TO RAISE FUNDS FOR BELGIAN TRADE UNIONISTS.

Shortly after the outbreak of war, reference was made in these columns to a resolution presented to the Trades and Labor council of Sydney, Cape Breton, protesting against the formation of a city regiment, because, in the words of the resolution, such a step would lead "to the abuse of militarism." To the credit of the Sydney Council the resolution does not appear to have been adopted, but the significance of the matter is that this idiotic resolution was evolved at a date which coincides with, or immediately followed, the visit to Sydney of the president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

A meeting of labor men was held in Montreal early in November, and was addressed by J. Sedden, the president of the Trade Union Congress of Great Britain, who claimed with accuracy, to represent three million British trade unionists. The object of the meeting was to raise funds for the benefit of the trade unionists of Belgium, an object sufficiently laudible it might be thought to engage the sympathy of Canadian trade unionists. Mr.
Sedden must, therefore, have been rather unpleasantly astonished when the president of the Trades and Labor Council of Canada arose in the meeting and—the writer quotes from the Montreal Star—"made a sweeping arraignment of Sir Edward Grey as being equally guilty with the Kaiser for the war." Fortunately, however, the president of the Trades and Labor Council of Canada is not a Canadian—being, distressing to admit, a Scot from Edinburgh—nor does the clumsily-named and high-sounding organization of which he is the president represent Canadian unionists.

A prominent Nova Scotian trade unionist, who recently visited Toronto, made the statement that he met four men in Toronto who took an unpatriotic view of Great Britain's attitude in the present war, and each of these men was born in Great Britain.
These gentlemen, it may be deduced, left their country for their country's good, but it is a great misfortune that they should have selected Canada as a residence.
We also could spare them.

It is, therefore, disconcerting to discover that the men who purport to lead Canadian trade unionism are disloyal, for any Briton who questions the justice of Britain's attitude, or attempts to impugn the integrity of the Foreign Minister, at the present time, is disloyal. There was a moment, before Germany declared war on Britain, when discussion on this point was permissible, but the man who attempts today to weaken the position of our political and military leaders by accusations concerning matters precedent to the outbreak of hostilities, betrays first his ignorance, and then a mean-souled disloyalty which renders him undesirable as a citizen and a danger to the common weal if he holds the office of a labor leader.

There are two possibilities by which Britain might have averted war. The first is a very debatable one, but it has been discussed in the reviews, namely, that war might have been avoided had Britain in the earlier stages of the diplomatic negotiations made it plain that she was ready to go to war. But everyone must agree that in such a case she would have been regarded as the aggressor, and that her attitude might not, even under these circumstances, have prevented the calamity of war. The other possibility was to refuse to intervene in defence of Belgian neutrality, and no honorable man will wish to discuss this possibility. Had the president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada occu-pled the post of Foreign Minister perhaps the world might have been saved its present agony, and it would be interesting to hear from this hitherto buried statesman how he would have arranged matters.

It is refreshing to turn from the contemplation of disloyalty to the utterances of Mr. Sedden who, doubtless much to his surprise, found it necessary to defend the Foreign Minister against the criticism of a man whose official title would imply that he represented the trade unionists of the Dominion of Canada. Mr.
Sedden referred to the manifesto issued by the parliamentary committee of the Trades Union Congress of Great Britain, "appealing to the trade unionists to stand united in defence of the liberties won by our forefathers." Mr.
Sedden attributed the ready response to the call for recruits in Britain to this manifesto, and it is a tribute, not only to the inborn patriotism of the British workman, but to his hard common sense also, that he realizes how great are his liberties and privileges under the Union Jack.

The trade unionist in Great Britain has reason to love his country. Not that he would not love her under less favorable circumstances, but where would he find a better country? Look over the record of legislation in recent years. Has there ever been so sustained an attempt at amelioration of the condition of the workers, an equitable representation and taxation, as is represented by the enactments of the British House of Commons in the past ten years? The trend of British legislation has been called socialistic, stigmatized as class legislation, as the crudities of the demagogue and the enthusiastic but impractical social reformer. But these self-same crudities are now accepted and established features in the national life, and the "wicked and socialistic" laws of ten years ago are today the sober stuff of national practice and are so woven into the warp and woof of everyday life that they can nevermore be taken out. The present struggle will show on how solid a foundation the loyalty of Great Britain's masses rests. They know that they themselves, by the power of their parliamentary representation, have largely brought about the legislation which has so increased their happiness, and they realize further that on them also devolves the privilege and the duty of defending their constitutional liberties—and, despite the ravings of men of the type of Keir Hardie, and his feeble imitator, the president of the Trades and Labor Council of Canada, these British workmen will die to a man before they will relinquish their British citizenship and all that goes with it. Many of them have already made that supreme and final sacrifice, and be it remembered that when the workman gives himself to fight his country's battles, he gives his all, and no man can do more than that.

It would be a libel on the trade unionists of Canada to suppose that they differed in this respect from their comrades in the Old Country itself, and there can be little doubt that they will repudiate the leadership of men who by their words and actions prove themselves recreant and disloyal in this, the supreme hour of the British Empire and the Anglo-Saxon race.

There is a sentence in the manifesto of the parliamentary committee of the Trade Union Congress of Great Britain which has become historic, because it epitomizes the feeling of intelligent British trade unionism. The sentence reads: "Upon the result of the struggle in which this country is now engaged, rests the preservation and maintenance of free and unfettered democratic government." The words "this country" in the sense in which they are here used mean the British Empire, the unexampled, glorious God-given heritage of a free people, which the trade unionist, as part of an indissoluble whole, intends shall be handed down unimpaired to his son, and to his son's sons.—Canadian Mining Journal.

"It's a three-day Beard But my Gillette 'll get 'em off"

"How Fred and Joe did give me the merry 'ha ha' the first time I got my Gillette in action on this overgrown camp beard of mine! They lolled around to see the fun—but sat up and took notice when I slipped the beard off, clean as a whip, in five minutes."

"After ten minutes stropping and fussing and cussing with his old-fashioned razor, Joe says:—'Here, let me try that contraption of yours!' In two minutes he finished, tickled to death—and Fred grabbed for the Gillette."

"Since then the Gillette Safety Razor has been standard equipment in our camp, and we've passed the good word along to dozens of other fellows."

"Of course we use the Gillette at home, too. Why shouldn't we? No other razor can touch it!"

Soft beards or wiry—a day or a week old—all look alike to the keen, adjustable Gillette. You can shave with it in solid comfort, anytime, anywhere.
Don't go camping or holidaying—or don't stay home—without a Gillette Safety Razor. Compact Pocket Editions cost $5.00 to $6.00—Standard Sets $5.00—Combination or Travellers' Sets $6.50 up.

PIONEER ASSOCIATION HAS ISSUED BOOKLET

The souvenir book of the Prince Rupert Pioneer Association has just been turned off the presses of The Daily News, and is a credit not only to the promoters but to the city of Prince Rupert.

While the work was carried out under the patronage of the Pioneer Association the actual work, both in plan and detail, was carried out by Messrs. Geo. B. Fredell and C. C. Fraser, two young men who have given considerable of their time to that line of business, and who have spent the last six months in Prince Rupert.

The mechanical work was done by P. R. Harris and G. S. Russell, of the News Job, and all who have seen it are confident that better work could not have been done in the larger cities.

There are pictures of some two hundred old-timers, as well as many of the local public buildings and private residences. Scenes from the early days of the city are there and will be valuable as a souvenir to those who were here in the early days of the city as well as late-comers.

There is an historical sketch showing the development of the city and a short biography beside the picture of each old-timer showing the part he has played since coming to Prince Rupert. The book is printed on the best quality of 100-lb. paper and is both durable and artistic.

The photographs were taken at the Benson Studio.

Perhaps the most fitting part in the whole booklet is the dedication to the memory of the late Charles M. Hays, whose foresight and prophetic outlook first grasped the strategic advantage of Prince Rupert.

NEW UNIFORM FOR THE FRENCH ARMY

Light Blue-Gray in Color, Though Cloth is Called Tri-Color.

Calais, Dec. 12.—Trains have been coming through Calais full of soldiers in an unfamiliar uniform of light blue-gray color. This is the new French field service uniform which is beginning to make its appearance. It is being issued to the class of 1914 and some of the older troops who are being re-equipped.

To make up for the blow to the sensibilities of French patriots which the disappearance of the old red trousers and blue tunic will naturally cause, red and white threads are woven into the blue, and the cloth is called tri-color. The blue-gray is an excellent shade for escaping notice, and will blend particularly well with the gray winter landscapes in which the troops are now fighting.

NEW SUPERDREADNOUGHT H. M. S. ACME IS READY

There has been an important addition made to the forces of the British fleet. The H. M. S. Acme, of the latest type of superdreadnought, has just been turned out of the shops. It will also be interesting to know that this ship has been built in Prince Rupert and that she can even now be seen in the windows of the Acme Importers, Ltd., on Second Avenue. The H. M. S. Acme has two 12-inch guns, six 6-inch and eight quick firers. She has three funnels and all the equipment of a first class modern warship. A visit to this ship is worth while. The whole window is a blaze of patriotic emblems. The shells used in the dreadnought are not cannon balls, but Xmas bargains, and they are all hummers.

A NEWCOMERS' DAY MIGHT HELP RUPERT

When Governor Rollins, of New Hampshire, devised "Old Home" week he had a great thought. When various cities in the United States set apart a day in imitation of the New Hampshire plan, and had a Home-Comers' Day, they did well.

But when the city of Cedar Rapids inaugurated a new-Comers' Day, it did better.

The success of a Home-Comers' Day turns on the number of people who have left the place.

The success of New-Comers' Day turns on the number of people who have come into the town.

One refers to the past, the other has in mind the future.

In Cedar Rapids, the Board of Trade carries a continuous advertisement in the newspapers asking each New-Come to call and register. They then give him a badge which contains his name, and it is understood that all citizens, when they see a person wearing this badge of the New-Come, are to give him the glad-hand and the welcome smile.

If they can do anything to smooth life's pathway for him they do it. If he wants to rent a house, purchase property, is in need of credit, work, friends, or any accommodation anywhere, the New-Come gets everything that is his due.

On New-Comers' Day, the women make it their business to call on New-Comers who live in their immediate vicinity.

The school children are also impressed with the spirit and bid a welcome to all of the new pupils, endeavoring to make them feel at home. Aloofness vanishes, and helpful hands bridge great gulfs of pride. Deserts of emotion are made to blossom like the rose; waste places in desolate hearts are made green; and sorrow and sighing flee away.

ANDY CARNEGIE WEEPS OVER WAR

Washington, Dec. 14.—Andrew Carnegie, a White House caller, Saturday expressed decided opposition to a truce in the European war during the Christmas holiday. He declared that it would be unchristianlike and immoral to stop the fighting and then begin it again. He added that he could not believe that any nation which adopted such a suggestion was doing it sincerely.

The President was out golfing and Mr. Carnegie said he probably would return to pay his respects. He praised Mr. Wilson's efforts in behalf of peace.

Mr. Carnegie gave it as his opinion that the military caste in Germany was responsible for the war, but that at the time hostilities broke out the Kaiser was ill and opposed to the war.

Surrounded by Militarists.

"The Kaiser has told me that he took the greatest pride in the fact that he reigned for many years without being involved in war," said Mr. Carnegie. "But he was surrounded by a ring of militarists who were eager for war at any price."

Mr. Carnegie showed interest at a suggestion to him that he might be called upon by the President to help bring about peace when the time came.

"I will do anything I possibly can," he said. "I believe Mr. Wilson earnestly desires peace, and the entire country should support him."

For the "men in the trenches" Mr. Carnegie expressed the greatest sympathy.

"They had nothing to do with bringing about the terrible conduct," he said.

"All they can do is to obey orders and shoot each other down. It is terrible that so many widows and orphans are being made because a few men wanted to go to war. It is terrible that all the scientists and other men of culture in Germany are not allowed to advise the Kaiser instead of the small clique of military men."

Weeps for Horrors of War.

"I don't see how there can help being a great reaction after this war is over. Private individuals used to fight when they had differences, but now they go to the courts. I sincerely hope to see the day when nations will settle their differences in the same way. There can be an international police force created to enforce decisions of the courts."

Speaking of Germany's part in the war, Mr. Carnegie said he believed the Emperor was as ill when the conflict broke out as he is now. He expressed great sympathy for the Emperor and said he knew his "heart must be broken" over the break in his peaceful reign.

When Mr. Carnegie spoke of the horrors of the war his voice quavered and tears appeared in his eyes.
