GERMAN WARSHIPS MAKE ANOTHER ATTACK AND SHELL BRITISH COAST

Three Cruisers Employed in the Raid---Driven Off by Guns of Fortress---Only Small Damage But People are In Great Panic---Naval Action is Expected Soon

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, Dec. 16.—The German warships have made another raid on the British coast. The official Press Bureau announced this morning that a German squadron came out in the dense fog which prevailed and bombarded the towns of Scarborough, Hartlepool and Whitby. Between the hours of eight and nine they attacked the fortress of West Hartlepool but as soon as the guns of the fortress got into action they withdrew. A small German cruiser also opened fire on Scarborough and Whitby.

Didn't Wait Long.
The bombardment of Hartlepool didn't last longer than twenty-five minutes. During that time a number of shells fell in the town, one of them hitting the town gas tank and setting it on fire. It is reported that nine persons were killed and a number injured. Owing to the dense fog the cruisers were not easily distinguishable.

Destroyers Attack.
A flotilla of British destroyers were in the vicinity and immediately gave chase, and an action between several of the larger ships is anticipated. There is a rumor here that two of the three German cruisers which made the attack were sunk, but this is not confirmed.

People in Panic.
The raid caused a great panic among the people. Many of the people are fleeing from the coast to interior points. There was great excitement here when the news of the raid arrived. The reports of the fugitives, however, are likely exaggerated.

The insurance rate for the North Sea was immediately suspended.

It is believed generally that the naval situation is about to develop into considerable interest. Later—A Standard dispatch from Scarborough says that twelve persons were killed and a hundred wounded during the bombardment.

1914 REGULATIONS TO BE PUT INTO EFFECT AT VICTORIA--SOLDIERS OF B COMPANY WITNESS MARRIAGE CEREMONY OF COMRADE.

(By P. F. G.)
The Willows Camp, Victoria, December 12, 1914.

A lighter and humane touch to the military life we are leading happened at high noon today at the little Anglican Church at Oak Bay, when one of Rupert's own took upon himself a wife. It was the first regimental marriage to take place out of the ranks of the 30th Battalion, and B Company supplied the groom in the person of Private Gordon C. Emmerson, formerly a well known businessman of Prince Rupert.

Before a number of comrades from B Company, Rev. George H. Andrews, M. A., rector of St. Mary's and chaplain to His Majesty's forces, united in marriage Private Emmerson and Miss Ethel Maud Thompson.

The bride, gowned in a smart traveling suit, was given away by her father, Mr. Francis Henry Thompson, and Private Lionel Crippen was best man. B Company was represented by Captain C. W. Peck, Sergeant Percy F. Godenrath, Privates Gibson, Reitel, Baxter, Hill, Crew, Gamble, Little and Flavin. Captain and Mrs. Assee, Mrs. Assee, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Christie, Mrs. G. E. Gibson, Mrs. Reitel and Mrs. E. G. Baxter were also present. Following congratulations to the newly married couple, as they came out of the vestry they were showered with rice and amid hearty cheers drove off to take the boat for Vancouver, where they will spend a week's honeymoon. The groom's many friends in the company presented the couple with a handsomely designed Georgian tea set.

Yesterday the right half of the battalion paraded before the M. O., who with deft fingers and a hypo inoculated in rapid succession the 119 members of B Company against typhoid. Needless to say, today every man has a sore arm and all are relieved from drills until Monday at 9:30 a. m. So far none have shown any ill effects from the toxin, but several are confined to barracks with swollen limbs and high temperatures.

It is expected that the eight-company system now in force in the 30th will be changed to conform to the British Imperial standard of four platoons of 250 men each, and as a consequence there will likely be a great shuffle in the ranks of the non-commissioned officers as at least two sergeants will be reduced from each of the present eight companies. As soon as the rearrangement is effected the whole battalion will be drilled according to the 1914 regulations.

Australians say they are proud of the achievements of their infant navy. One of their ships accounted for the piratical Emden. If the others did not actually assist in the sinking of the ships of Admiral von Spee, they helped to drive them into the trap set on the Atlantic by capturing German bases and shutting off the sources of supply, without which the most effective fighting ships soon must become helpless. Has Canada anything to be proud of in this matter of naval forces on the Pacific? What might have been the fate of the cities on the coast but for the aid lent by the fleets of Australia and the strength of the naval forces of Japan? Australia not only defended her own coast line; she drove the Germans out of and has entered permanently upon her possessions in the South Seas. On the other hand, a dispatch from Ottawa says the government was greatly relieved when it received news of the defeat of the German fleet by the British squadron under command of Vice Admiral Sturdee. This is an admission that Sir Robert Borden was under apprehension regarding the effect of his policy, a policy dictated by the Nationalists who in the matter of naval defence control his cabinet and left the cities of the Pacific coast of Canada practically defenceless when the war broke out. Some of the Premier's friends attempted to excuse him on the ground that the Monroe Doctrine of the United States held us immune from attack. Then, in a panic, two submarines built in Seattle for the Chilean government, and rejected for cause, were purchased by Sir Richard McBride, acting for the Federal government. The craft cost the taxpayers of this country in excess of a million dollars. We shall have something to say in regard to that deal later on, but in the meantime here was a million and more spent in a foreign country which, with many millions added to it, would have been distributed in the neighborhood of this city had the naval policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, endorsed by the British Admiralty and carried out by the Australian government, been adhered to. Australia naturally is proud of her record; Canada is humiliated by hers.—Victoria Times.

known than to punish the offender or protect the public, but publicity is always the best policy from the standpoint of public welfare. The criminal always knows what has been done. He knows what the authorities know and much that they do not know. Publicity cannot give him any information he does not already possess. But it can warn the public against him and also multiply the forces seeking to bring him into justice. Publicity can also help to piece together the relevant casual and almost forgotten incidents observed by various people, and thus construct a chain of evidence.

Stories of preparation for a German attack on Quebec are gaining wide publicity. If there is any foundation for them, official intimation to that effect should be given to the public and every known detail of evidence disclosed. That would bring out much additional evidence that has not heretofore been regarded as significant and help toward an apprehending of the perpetrators if still under Canadian or British jurisdiction. If there is no foundation for the story there should be official intimation to that effect. Publicity is not only the best means of allaying needless alarm, but also the best means of defence against real dangers.—Toronto Globe.

EXTEND THANKS FOR NAVAL VICTORY

London, Dec. 15.—The Secretary of the Admiralty has received a cable dispatch from Vice Admiral Sir Frederick Sturdee, of the British squadron, stating that in the battle off the Falkland Islands, in which the German cruisers Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Leipzig were sunk, the British casualties totaled seven men killed and four wounded. No officers, the dispatch says, were killed or wounded.

King George sent a message of congratulation to Vice Admiral Sir Frederick Sturdee and the men of his squadron for their work in sinking the cruisers Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Leipzig off the Falkland Islands. Sir John French, commander-in-chief of the British land force, congratulated Admiral Sturdee on behalf of the army. The message he sent read: "I congratulate you on having practically swept the seas of the enemy."

Repeating to his congratulations on the victory of the British squadron over the Germans off Falkland Islands, Mr. Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, cabled the Japanese Minister of Marine as follows: "With the sinking of the Scharnhorst, Gneisenau, Leipzig and Nurnberg, the whole German squadron which had its base at Tsing Tau at the outbreak of the war has been destroyed and the base itself reduced and captured."

"This event marks the conclusion of the active operations in which the Allied fleets have been engaged in the Pacific for four months. Though it has fallen to a British squadron in the South Atlantic to strike the final blow, it was largely owing to the powerful and untiring assistance rendered by the Japanese fleet that this has been achieved."

"Had the enemy turned west again the honors would have rested with the Japanese and Australian squadrons, moving forward in general combination."

"The peace of the Pacific is now, for the time being, restored and the commerce of all nations can proceed with safety through the vast expanse from the coast of Mozambique to that of South America. The expulsion of the Germans from the East is complete, and with good and vigilant efforts by all a return by them should be rendered extremely difficult and hazardous."

"I take the opportunity of Your Excellency's cordial message to express, on behalf of the British and Australian navies, earnest recognition of your valuable naval assistance."

PASSING EVENTS

The Rock City Cigar Company's factory at Levis, Quebec, was destroyed by fire last week, and 125 workers, mostly girls, were thrown out of employment.

New Brunswick's regiment for the second contingent was completed last week, when 1,050 had enlisted. More recruits are offering so that there will be plenty to take the places of any that may be weeded out.

The statistics of Canadian trade for the first three months of the war show that imports of merchandise have fallen off nearly 30 per cent, and the exports of Canadian products about 16 per cent, as compared with the corresponding three months of last year.

A telegram from the Secretary of the War Office, London, has been received by Prof. R. Carr-Harris, at Kingston, Ont., announcing the death of his son, Capt. E. D. Carr-Harris, who was serving with the British forces in East Africa and was killed in an engagement with the German Turkish army at the Turkish forts on the Straits of Aden.

The Hon. L. P. Pelletier, former postmaster general, has been sworn in as a judge of the Superior Court of Canada.

A co-operative association to be known as the Canadian Shoe Manufacturers' Export Association and embracing all the leading shoe manufacturers in Montreal, was formed in that city last week for the purpose of making an effort to secure a portion of the shoe orders now being placed by the Imperial government. A proposition will be submitted to the Imperial government for the manufacture, within two months, of a million pairs of military boots.

The second Nova Scotia Belgian relief ship, Dorie, sailed from Halifax last Saturday week for Rotterdam. As in the case of the Tremorvah, Nova Scotia's first ship of mercy, the Dorie's cargo is composed mainly of contributions of the people of Nova Scotia. Approximately 172 carloads of supplies, food and clothing for the stricken Belgians have been placed in the Dorie's holds, and of this amount over 100 carloads have been provided by the people of Nova Scotia. The approximate values of the total contributions of the various provinces to the Dorie's cargo are as follows: Nova Scotia, $202,000; New Brunswick, $49,000; Prince Edward Island, $4,500; Quebec and Ontario, $125,000. The total is $380,500. Montreal has contributed largely to the supplies provided by Quebec and Ontario.

An investigation is being completed by the mines branch as to the existence of radium in spring water in Ottawa, Montreal and at various points between the two cities. Slight traces of radium have been found in the spring water in Ottawa, but the full results of the investigations have not been yet reported. The object is not to ascertain if it is feasible to extract radium from the water, or to discover the source of the radium, but rather to learn whether there is enough of it in the water to give the latter the heating quality of the Carlsbad Springs in Germany. It is only in recent years that it has been discovered that it is the radium and not saline contents that give the Carlsbad waters their curative power, and if there are springs of the same nature in Canada their value will be very apparent.

DOMINION TRUST IN BAD LIGHT

Provisional Liquidator Reports Company's Actions Were in Violation of Law and Terms of Its Charter.

Vancouver, Dec. 14.—Mr. C. R. Drayton, provisional liquidator of the Dominion Trust, finds that the direct cause of the liquidation, so far as he has been able to ascertain, may be shortly stated as follows:

1. The fact that, in violation of its powers, the company received deposits and kept in hand little or no liquid assets with which to meet a possible run.
2. The fact that moneys, both trust moneys and the company's own moneys, were invested not as required by the provisions of its charter, but in highly speculative assets and in shares or bonds of highly speculative companies, where more and more advances were necessary to protect the company's security.
3. The fact that moneys entrusted for investment were not kept separate, nor in a separate bank account, although the company's charter required this to be done. At the date of liquidation the company had under its control trust moneys amounting to between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. Part of this was always uninvested and always carried in the company's bank account, mixed with its own money, and often, if not always, dealt with as if it were its own money.
4. The fact of the misappropriation of trust and other securities. This appears to have been a vain attempt to save the situation, and has been most noticeable during the few months prior to liquidation. The inability of the company to hand over trust funds when demanded rendered the situation acute.

5. To sum up the situation, the company seems to have done most things that a trust company should not do, and this company had no power to do, and a few things that a trust company should do.

Mr. Drayton estimates that the assets will realize $970,715.97, against a book value of $5,752,232, and expects the liabilities to rank at $3,000,000.

GOING MAD FROM THE TERRIFIC PAIN

SIR PERCY SCOTT.

Admiral Sir Percy Scott, who has been recalled from his retirement by Lord Fisher for active service, was at Lord Fisher's right hand during the great period of naval reorganization.

The big battleship, he said, was the ship of the future, and the big gun was better than the little one; but neither was of any use unless it could hit.

The admiral retired in 1913, and not long afterwards astonished the world by declaring that the submarine had rung the knell of the big battleship which he had before extolled.

"So fresh and free is his mind that he was able to throw over all prepossessions, to adapt himself to new developments, and think out new theories, when only a few months before the outbreak of war he proclaimed the triumph of the submarine over the battleship," says The Nation.

Best He Could Think Of.

In one of the Philadelphia colleges a professor of chemistry asked a student:

"Suppose you were called to a patient who had swallowed a heavy dose of oxalic acid, what would you administer?"

The student to whom the question was addressed is preparing for the ministry and takes chemistry because it is obligatory.

"I would administer the sacrament," he replied.

WHAT HAPPENS TO ANY TOWN THAT SUPPORTS MAIL ORDERS

FARMER TELLS HOW BY SENDING AWAY FOR HIS GOODS THE VALUE OF HIS FARM DEPRECIATED $5,000 IN NINE YEARS BECAUSE HE AND OTHERS WERE NOT ALIVE TO THE NECESSITY OF BUILDING UP THE HOME TOWN.

Hans Garbus, a German farmer, of Iowa, has discovered that the benefits which appear on the surface as attaching to the mail order plan sometimes spell disaster and has written a very interesting story of his views in a certain farm paper.

"We farmers need awakening to the fact that we have unwittingly reached the period where we must think and plan. I am one of the slow German farmers that had to be shown, and I am now giving my experience that others may profit, for knowledge is more expensive now than ten years ago.

"Twenty-nine years ago I began my farm career. I had an old team and 850. Our furniture was mostly home-made—chairs, cupboard and lounge made from dry-goods boxes, neatly covered with 10-cent cretonne by my girl wife. Being a boy of good habits I got all needed machinery and groceries of our home merchants on credit, until fall crops were sold.

"As soon as I owned these few acres the mail order houses began sending me catalogues, and gradually I began sending my loose change to them, letting my accounts stand in my home town where I had gotten my accommodation when I needed it.

"We then had one of the thriftiest little villages in the state—good line of business in all the branches, merchants who were willing to help an honest fellow over a bad year, and a town full of people who came twice a week to trade and visit. Our little country town supported a library, high school, band, ball team, and we had big celebrations every year.

"A farm near a live town soon doubles in value. I sold my forty acres at a big advance and bought eighty acres, gradually adding to it until I had 200 acres of the best land in Iowa. I then felt no need of asking favors, and found it easy to patronize the mail order agents that came almost weekly to our door.

"Gradually our merchants lessened their stock of goods—for lack of patronage. Finally we began to realize that when we needed a bolt quickly for machinery, or clothing for sickness or death, we had to wait and send away for it, which wasn't so pleasant.

"Nine years ago my farm was worth $195 an acre; today I'd have a hard matter to sell it at $167 an acre. It is 'too far from a live town'—so every farmer has said that wants to buy. He wants a place near schools and churches where his children can have advantages. I have awakened to the fact that in helping to pull the town down, it has cost me $5,000 in nine years."

(While the foregoing is in connection with farm lands depreciation, this same argument applies just as forcibly to city property, or to any other local industry which requires the support of the local citizens.—Ed.)

MR. MARTIN NOT TO GO BACK TO LONDON

M. P. Explains Exactly How He Stands as to His St. Pancras Seat and Makes Attack on Canadian Bank System.

"Although the papers reported me accurately at the meeting I addressed the other evening, there seems to be an erroneous impression about, that I have announced that I intend going back to London at the next general election to run there instead of Vancouver—which is exactly the opposite to what I intended to convey"

"What I said," continued Mr. Martin, "was that, when I found it necessary for men, in view of the slump in real estate here and my many business interests, to be on the spot, I arranged with the Liberal Association supporting me in East St. Pancras that I should continue to keep up the organization there. I have a fine club house there which I own and we have a very complete organization. I told my supporters that I hoped they would get a candidate to succeed me who would prove satisfactory to them and I assured them that, when the general election came along, I would pay the expenses of the election to the extent of $2,500."

Mr. Martin explained that they had not been able to find such a candidate and they had twice written him, despite his refusal, asking him to run again. Finally they assured him that, if he was elected in St. Pancras, they would not ask him to attend the House of Commons at all.

"Under those circumstances," observed Mr. Martin, "I found I could not very well refuse to be a candidate, and, even if I should happen to secure election in Canada, that would not interfere with my being a member of both parliaments. Though," he added, smiling, "it would be rather an anomalous position."

After dealing with his experiences electioneering and in parliament in England, Mr. Martin concluded his address by advocating, amid applause, a thorough overhauling of the banking system of Canada. The Americans, he said, recently entirely changed their system and they claimed that under the new system no such thing as a panic could take place. The speaker referred to "the reckless manner in which the banks in Canada had shoveled out money to real estate speculators during the boom, while the bankers themselves gave $7,000 per front foot in Vancouver. He condemned their attitude both during times of inflation and depression.

Mr. Macdonald devoted his speech to general criticism of the government's land and railway policy. He observed once that "the Canadian Northern have left a trail of corruption from one end of the province to the other." Any land policy, he said, must be a non-partizan land policy, and, therefore, he agreed, it could not be entrusted to the present government. "As to the Dominion Trust disaster," Mr. Macdonald observed, "enough is known about it to know that the government is vitally responsible." The government had been lax and the difficult question to decide was whether it should assume responsibility to a large extent for the losses of the depositors and recoup them at the expense of the taxpayer or whether they should not do so.

"The Attorney-General of the province, who is connected through his firm with the Dominion Trust Company, must have known that the company had no right to take deposits since last March at any rate," the speaker asserted.

The chairman urged that Liberals were thoroughly patriotic in holding such meetings as that as a healthy opposition in the provincial house would probably save the province from as disastrous a situation as that of the Dominion Trust Company.

ELECTIONS HELD IN NEW ZEALAND

Premier Massey Returned by Considerable Majority—Prohibition for Dominion Fails.

Wellington, N. Z., Dec. 15.—The results of the Dominion elections in New Zealand are as follows: For Massey government..... 38 For the opposition 20 Social-Democrats 5 Doubtful seats 3

This result is taken as a great victory for Premier Massey, who fought the election on domestic questions entirely.

No question arose as to the form or nature of the assistance to be given to the Empire, both parties amicably agreeing that everything possible should be done in the great conflict now raging in Europe.

The chief question voted upon was that of prohibition, and the results so far give every indication that prohibition failed of adoption by a very considerable margin.

It is pointed out, however, that as the soldiers of the New Zealand contingent, now absent from the country, are entitled to vote by mail, and, as they number probably 20,000, the final arrangement of seats may be a little different from that given above. There is no doubt, however, but the government will be sustained.

TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL MEETS

The Trades and Labor Council met last night in the Carpenters' Hall. It was called to discuss the attitude it should take toward the coming civic elections in the interests of the workmen of the city. A number of the speakers advocated supporting the present administration. A committee was appointed to interview each aldermanic candidate with respect to his attitude toward organized labor.

It was also contended that an element existed in the city that wanted to crush the city market. A committee was also appointed to look into this and report.

POPULAR OLD-TIMER WILL GO TO FRONT

Mr. W. T. McFarlane left for his home in New Brunswick today, where a commission is awaiting him in the second contingent for the front. Mr. McFarlane is a graduate of the Royal Military College, Kingston, and is qualified to take any position up to the rank of captain. It is understood that he will enter the 26th Regiment of New Brunswick with the rank of lieutenant. The headquarters of this regiment is in St. John.

Mr. McFarlane is one of the real old-timers of Prince Rupert and has a deserving popularity among a large circle of friends. The best wishes of all go with him in his new venture.

TRUNK LOAD OF GERMAN SOUVENIRS

New York, Dec. 15.—Straight from the battlefield on the Franco-German frontier, where he had served as chaplain of the 37th Brigade of the Irish Guards since August, Rt. Rev. Major G. L. Starr, Dean of Ontario and rector of the cathedral at Kingston, Ont., arrived here today as a passenger on the steamship St. Paul, of the American line. He would not discuss his experiences in the war, but he had no hesitancy in exhibiting a half-trunk full of German helmets and Iron Crosses which he picked up on the different battlefields on which he saw service.

One of the Dean's souvenirs was an Iron Cross of the first class, whose date showed it to have been awarded for the valor of its wearer in the Franco-Prussian war of 1870.

HAZELTON INDIANS WANT TO FIGHT

Believe That Their System of Mosquito Fighting Would Hold Enemy for a While.

Hazelton, Dec. 11.—A well known local Indian, upon learning that a number of Ontario natives were likely to go to the front to fight for their King, expressed a desire to go also. He believed that 2,000 Indians would be able to hold the Germans down for one month one half—give white man a rest. He said Indians fight like mosquitoes: "Shoot one place, then run another place. Germans shoot big guns and each time spoil $1,000; no one get hurt—just some time maybe one, maybe two. Pretty soon they be broke."

LOYD GEORGE WARNS OF FUTURE TROUBLES

London, Dec. 15.—A notable passage in Lloyd George's budget speech and one that has attracted widespread attention, inasmuch as it deals with the situation five years hence, follows:

"Immediately after the war there must be a period of reconstruction—not merely here, but in Europe, where enormous demands will be made on the manufacturing resources of the country. During the war and during the period of reconstruction there will be practically no competition in the neutral markets of the world, except from America, and I think we can look forward to something like four or five years in which our industries will have an artificial stimulus, which comes from these abnormal conditions.

"But when that period is over we shall be face to face with one of the most serious industrial situations with which we have ever been confronted. We shall have exhausted an enormous amount of capital of the world and our purchasers at home and abroad will be crippled."

ARRIVALS BY THE GEORGE.

The following comprised the first-class passenger list of the Prince George, which arrived on time this morning: Mrs. Hodgson, Mrs. Maistrom, Mrs. A. F. Lucas, Mrs. C. Olson, Miss C. E. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McKinley left this morning for Detroit, the old home of Mrs. McKinley, where they will spend the winter. They will visit enroute Mrs. McKinley's relatives in Toronto. While Mr. McKinley is not definite as to his future moves, he believes Prince Rupert will yet draw him back.

SELF-GOVERNMENT FOR PEOPLE OF PHILIPPINES

Intention Is to Push Bill to Final Passage at This Session of Congress.

Washington, Dec. 11.—When the Senate Philippine committee today announced hearings next Monday on the administration bill to grant larger measures of self-government to the people of the islands, Chairman Hitchcock declared it was the purpose to push the bill to final passage at this session of Congress.

Secretary Garrison, former President Taft, Dean C. Worcester and former Governor General Cameron Forbes are to be asked to testify.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH, VERDICT OF JURY

The coroner's inquest concerning the death of Tony Barichievich, who lost his life in the Haysport fire, was held last night. The jury consisted of J. H. Thompson, M. Albert, G. W. Bryant, Robert Dowthey, J. Lorne MacLaren and George McColl.

From the evidence of the witnesses, it appears that the man was sick that evening. He did not come down to supper. It appears that he was carrying a kerosene lamp and fell with it, when the lamp exploded and started the fire. As soon as Mrs. Chisholm discovered the fire she reported it but the house was then in flames. Several witnesses gave evidence of a similar nature. Mr. Harry Sheere said that from the position of the charred remains he must have fallen down stairs with the lamp. The jury found for accidental death.
