ANOTHER GREAT BATTLE NOW RAGING IN POLAND

GERMAN RAIDERS DROP MINES WHICH DESTROY SHIPS--BOURASSA MEETING BROKEN UP

MORE INHUMANITY BY GERMANS RAIDING SHIPS DROP MINES

IN DISREGARD OF LAW OF NATIONS THEY DROP FLOATING MINES AS THEY RETREAT—MANY INNOCENT NON-COMBATANTS PERISH AS A RESULT.

(Special to The Daily News.)
 London, Dec. 17.—The German raid on the coast of England is what may be expected in time of war. The sequel of their raid, however, is in keeping with the rest of their barbarous acts and a direct violation of international law, to say nothing of its inhumanity. The raiding cruisers dropped floating mines as they retreated, and as a result three steamers at least were sent to the bottom with a large number of helpless non-combatants. One of these mines was struck by a passenger ship last night off Flam-borough Head and went down with all on board. The steamer Princess Olga foundered after striking a mine, but her crew reached the shore in boats. The steamer Ellerwater also struck and went down. Only seven of her crew were saved.

ADVANCE OF BRITISH IS STILL KEPT UP

(Special to The Daily News.)
 Paris, Dec. 17.—The French official statement says that between the sea and Lys they have occupied several German trenches at the point of the bayonet. The British advance east of Ypres is pushed beyond Ghelu-uit. Further progress has been made in the Vermelles district. On the rest of the line the French artillery maintains its ascendancy.

LONDON PAPERS THINK LAURIER POLICY RIGHT

London, Dec. 16.—Statesmen here in all parties are realizing that the war has proved the correctness of the Canadian Liberal position on the naval defence question. The Morning Post in a remarkable editorial declares: "It would no doubt be invidious to compare the share of the Crown colonies with the share of the Dominions in the common task, but this much may at least be said: What has been and is being done is the voluntary, spontaneous effort inspired by local genius and the spirit of the particular country concerned, and not imposed upon it by White-hall. In Canada, Australia, New Zealand the raising, equipping, and despatching of their contingents was in each case local work, conceived on a generous scale and handsomely carried out. These contingents will be found to justify local efforts of the Dominions to create their own military forces. Even where the central authority and Dominions were in conflict, it is the Dominion judgment that is proving right. Thus Australia insisted against a great deal of opposition at this end, on having its own navy, and this Australian navy, when the war broke out, was found to be the right thing in the right place. If Australia had developed this independent policy somewhat earlier we might not have been under the necessity of applying for the good offices of our loyal, obliging ally in the East."

RUSSIANS HAVE REPULSED ENEMY

Petrograd, Dec. 16.—An official statement says that in the direction of Mlawa we repulsed the enemy. Toward the frontier on the left bank of the Vistula the Germans kept up a stubborn attack throughout the day.

Along the line from Kiernozia to Sochaczow, owing to the unfavorable condition of the country our troops retreated slightly on the evening of December 15.

On the other sections of the front our troops made counter attacks and thus compelled the enemy to remain in his position. In this way we are checking the attempts of the enemy to advance.

AUSTRIAN RETREAT WAS A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY

(Special to The Daily News.)
 Nish, Dec. 17.—The Servians have captured Shatebatz and Losnitza in the extreme north-west corner of Serbia. Nearly five thousand prisoners were taken. The Austrian retreat was a terrible tragedy. The roads are littered with corpses and impediments of every description, including guns and ammunition.

WOMAN AND TWO MEN ARE DROWNED

Cornwall, Ont., Dec. 16.—Two men, a woman and two children were drowned in the Longue Sault Rapids in the St. Lawrence River last night, through the capsizing of a boat. William Antere, of Moulinette, with his wife, two children, his brother-in-law, Baptiste La Fex, and his brother, John Antere, started in a boat for Shiek's Island, a short distance down the river, to visit the Anteres' father there. When in mid-stream their lantern went out, and in reaching for it the boat was upset. John Antere alone managed to swim ashore.

The bodies of William Antere, Mrs. Antere and one child have been recovered.

DON'T BE A PUP.

A medical student had received some treatment from an eminent physician and when he asked for the bill the doctor said, "That's all right, dog doesn't eat dog." "But," protested the student, "I'm not a doctor yet." "Well, then, dog doesn't eat pup." There is another well-known characteristic of a well bred dog, that he will take no notice of a pup, even should he begin to snarl and bite. There are pups in all walks of life, even in the newspaper business, and when a smutty little paper is allowed to knock and fume without even the notice of a dignified sheet you can always make up your mind that the little fellow is a pup and unworthy of the contempt of his superiors. Well bred dogs don't knock; it's only pups that do that.

ENORMOUS RECEIPTS IN AMERICAN RUGBY

Yale and Harvard Athletic Associations divided $137,000 receipts from the annual football game played in the new Yale bowl November 21, the largest amount of money ever taken in at a sporting event in America. The attendance was approximately 69,500. From this practically $7,000 was deducted for expenses incidental to the game.

Both Yale and Harvard cleaned up handsomely at the Princeton game, each manager drawing down several thousands for the Notre Dame and Michigan contests as well, not to mention the cool thousands that trickled through on such big games as Yale had with W. & J., Maine, Virginia, Colgate & Brown, and the combats Harvard played with Brown, W. & J., Penn State, and others.

Yale, Harvard and Princeton must be well over $450,000, possibly more, to the good on the 1914 football season. It was worth it to the spectators.

BOURASSA MEETING WAS DISASTROUS

(Special to The Daily News.)
 Ottawa, Dec. 17.—The deferred public meeting of Henri Bourassa was conducted here last night. An organized mob turned it into a roughhouse. This morning Mrs. Glennie, wife of the man who organized the meeting, horsewhipped P. D. Ross, proprietor of the Ottawa Journal, for attacks on her husband. Public sentiment is furious against Bourassa.

PORT ARTHUR PLANT MAY SECURE CONTRACT TO BUILD SUBMARINES

Ottawa, Dec. 17.—Submarines for the British navy are likely to be constructed in the plant of the Western Drydock Company, at Port Arthur, Ont. Representations are being made to the imperial authorities that facilities are available at Port Arthur for the speedy assembling of the underwater craft. Mr. E. A. Christy, a director of the company and chairman of the American Shipbuilding Company, a twenty million dollar corporation, interviewed Sir Robert Borden and others of the government Saturday, and represented that the plant at Port Arthur could easily undertake the erection of submarines. The imperial authorities have cabled regarding the offer.

Handwriting on the wall is not always legible, and, when it is not, interpretation of its meaning is apt to be guesswork rather than accurate forecasting. The two contested elections that have taken place since the elevation of Mr. Hearst to the Premiership of Ontario, however, supply specimens of handwriting on the wall that a man on a galloping horse could read. The figures are extraordinary. In West Hamilton in 1911 Col. Hendrie, now Lieutenant-Governor, had a majority of 1,800. In June of this year he had 1,488. Three weeks ago his successor, Mayor Allan, secured 39 against Mr. Rollo, a Labor candidate with Liberal support.

Dundas county, in which almost as great a change took place in the recent election, when Mr. Hilliard was chosen to succeed Sir James Whitney, has been a safe Conservative seat for a generation. Sir James' later majorities were: in 1902, 504; 1905, 624; 1908, 914; 1911, 921; 1914, when Mr. Stewart Muir made a fine run, 674. Now Sir James' successor gets a majority of 59, as reported at the time of this writing. Mr. Campbell, the Liberal candidate, is immensely popular, and that, no doubt, counted for a good deal. But the Hamilton and Dundas elections mean more than personal popularity or the reverse. They mean that the tide of public favor is setting strongly toward the Liberal leader and the clear-cut social reform policy of the Liberal party. Ontario preferred Whitney to Rowell despite Sir James' opposition to the abolition of the bar. The electors do not show the same favor to Sir James' successor. An average turnover of half as many votes as were changed from the government to the opposition in the two recent elections would send the Ontario government headlong out of power.—Globe.

In view of the talk of an early Dominion election the above is interesting. It shows that a strong sentiment in Ontario is revolting from the boss rule of the Conservative party. In New Brunswick the Conservative premier has been found guilty of graft by a royal commission and the whole province is up in arms. In Nova Scotia the Liberals are strongly entrenched and will give a good account of themselves in case of an election. It will be remembered how the big majority of the Conservatives in Manitoba was reduced to the vanishing point in the recent election. Alberta and Saskatchewan are almost solid for the Liberals on account of the demand for wider markets and for freer trade with the States. British Columbia, ground to the dust under the heel of MacKenzie and Mann, is anxious to be avenged on her betrayers. Quebec, disgusted with the results of the Tory-Nationalist combination, has long ago returned to her natural leader, the Rt. Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier. With these things as they are no Liberal need fear the result of an election, and the quicker they bring it on the better.

MORE BRUSSELS SPROUTS.

"The street boys stick a short carrot through the top of their bowler hats and practice the goose-step in front of the mitrail-leuses laid in certain streets," says a prominent resident of Brussels in The Times. "Or they gravely set up large targets twenty yards from the mouths of the cannon, so that a miss would be well nigh impossible. "Favorite pastime of all, they form in line and at the word of command, 'March! To Paris!' the whole line marches backwards. The centries look on, puzzled; if there is one thing a German does not understand it is irony!"

LORD KITCHENER AS GREAT A STATESMAN AS HE IS SOLDIER

IMPORTANT PART HE PLAYED IN EGYPT—SUGGESTED THAT HE GO BACK AFTER THE WAR—BRITAIN WILL RULE NEARLY ALL AFRICA.

When the history of this greatest war of all history comes to be written it will be seen in perspective how pre-eminent Lord Kitchener's personality really is among the crowd of men who are actually participating in the fierce struggle in all localities and capacities. His is the outstanding figure for those who take the trouble to comprehend the situation, and who are therefore viewing it from the true historical standpoint. The observer who is ahead of his own time is the one who understands his own time better than anyone else does. Nominally Lord Kitchener is Secretary of War; really he is Director General of the whole British military situation, and at the same time the mediator in chief between Parliament and the House of Lords. It is his office to create the army, to select the commanding officers, to furnish supplies and equipment, and require Parliament to provide the ways and means of payment.

It was fortunate that in this most awful crisis in her history Great Britain had in Lord Kitchener the right man for this difficult place, and in Premier Asquith the right man to select him to fill it. A flashlight on the whole situation from this viewpoint is afforded by the published opinion of the present Prime Minister of Egypt, who knows his own country and also knows Lord Kitchener. Rushdi Pasha assumes to speak for the "enormous majority of Egyptians" when he maintains that Great Britain's pre-eminence in Egypt is a good thing for that country, because it will keep open the great highway to the East, will safeguard European financial interests in Egypt, and will conserve the integrity of Egyptian territory. This is equivalent to saying that Turco-Germanic supremacy would be fatal to Egypt's chance of "realizing its ambition to become an important state"; and the same feeling has become deeply seated in the minds of all intelligent East Indians, whether Hindus or Mohammedans, as this war has satisfactorily shown. The Egyptian Prime Minister has quite happily defined the ground of Lord Kitchener's pre-

PROVINCIAL PREMIERS ASK AID FOR BELGIANS
 The following letter from Sir Richard McBride speaks for itself:
 Victoria, Dec. 11, 1914.
 Editor, The Daily News.
 Dear Sir,—The Honorable G. H. Murray, Premier of Nova Scotia, has telegraphed me, asking my support in obtaining the co-operation of the press of this province, as follows:
 "Herbert Hoover, chairman of the American Relief Commission, states the hope of help is gradually being narrowed to reliance upon the generosity of those who live in the North American continent to supply the actual necessities of the seven million people remaining in Belgium. Reliable authorities estimate that 80,000 tons of foodstuffs a month will be required throughout the winter. Thus far Canada has sent about six thousand tons in two ships. I have asked the Admiralty for another collier that we may send at least, expense further goods to alleviate this great distress. The Belgian relief committee at Halifax will continue to forward supplies shipped through this port. I feel that Canadians generally desire to share more largely in this work and am respectfully asking Premiers of other provinces to make these efforts nation wide. A number of Canadian newspapers have offered hearty co-operation collecting funds if responsible committees take charge necessary disbursement. I am satisfied that all Canadians will regard as a privilege any assistance given to Belgians. Would you kindly undertake the responsibility of appealing to the people of your province and obtain the assistance of your press towards this end, appointing central committee if not already in existence. I think that through united Canadian action we can do splendid work along lines to great advantage of the Empire and at the same time something that will help those who, as you know, have made an enormous and pathetic sacrifice that can hardly be estimated. I believe all Canadians are ready to render some sacrifices for the Belgians, who, according to reliable reports, are homeless and starving."
 A subsequent telegram was received from the Honorable Mr. Murray, advising me that the steamer Trenchless would be available at Halifax about December 20 for free transportation of supplies for Belgium.
 Your co-operation in this matter, as requested by the Honorable the Premier of Nova Scotia, will be greatly appreciated.
 Yours faithfully,
 RICHARD MCBRIDE.

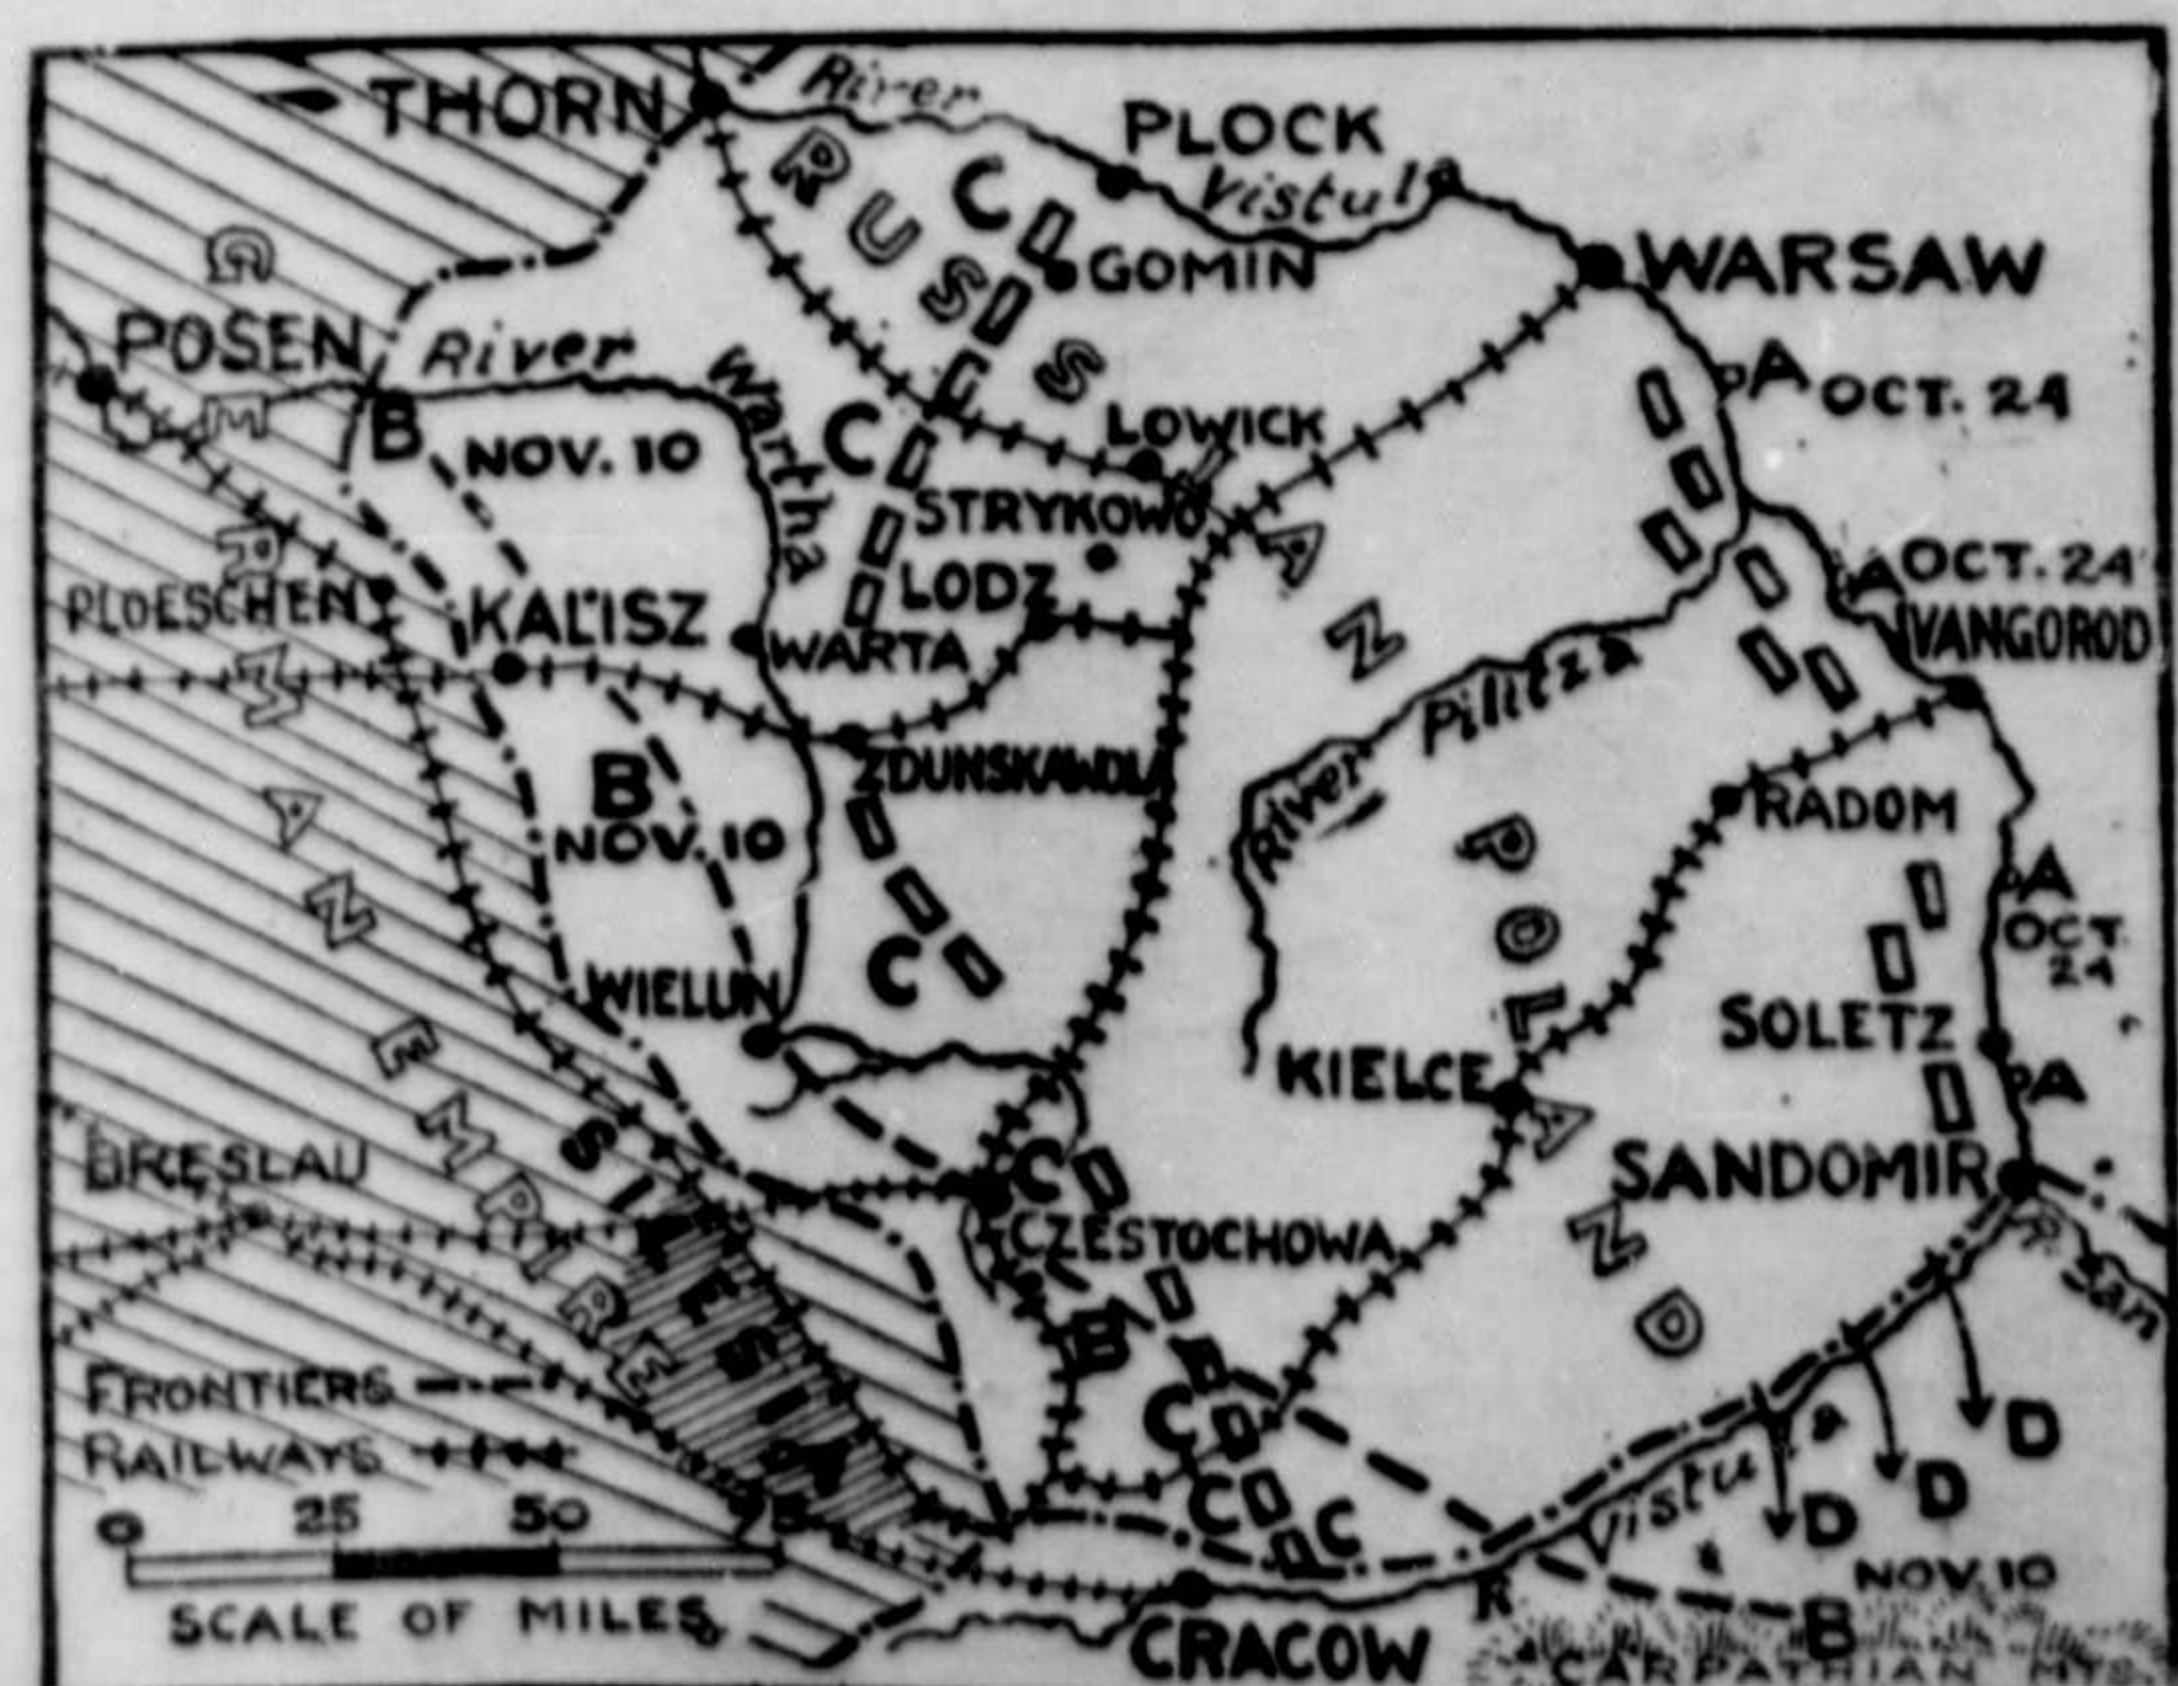

Submarine Destroyer is New Invention of Scotchman
 NEW MACHINE WILL ENABLE WARSHIP TO OBSERVE EVOLUTIONS OF SUBMARINE—OFFERS HIS PATENT TO BRITISH NAVY.
 (From The Scotsman.)
 "I hope to so perfect my apparatus that officers on board a man-o'-war will be able to observe the evolutions of an enemy's submarine while submerged."
 Such a statement needs no explanation, but it would seem to suggest that a man who hopes to give such power to a battleship's commander had allowed his imagination to take a tremendous flight. This is not the case, however. It is simply the blunt statement of an unassuming Kirkecaldy electrical engineer who has been successful in fashioning a device—after years of toil and study—which will make battleships immune from submarine attacks.
 The "submarine-destroyer," as the invention is styled, has already been referred to in the "Courier," but in order to give some idea of the importance and the possibilities as well as the workings of the contrivance, our representative called on the inventor, who demonstrated the invention's actual work on a model scale.
Apparatus at Work
 In a large tank of water filled to a depth of two feet, a model battleship was placed. The "Courier" man was requested to merely scratch the edge of the tank with a pencil. The vibration was repeated on the instrument in trebled volume. An iron object was then dropped into the water, and instantly the finger on the dial on board the man-o'-war swung round in the direction of the submarine object.
 The iron was shifted to another position, but the tell-tale finger followed; the room was then plunged into darkness, and a model submarine introduced into the tank. Nothing happened. The craft was still out of the instrument's range. By means of her own clockwork, however, she was gradually getting nearer. Caught at last! A flash like that of a photographer's magnesium ripped across the water and struck full tilt on the submarine's periscope. Instantaneously the finger again swung into position, pointing right in the direction of the light. But something more amazing was to follow. A second submarine had been introduced, and as it came within range it too was discovered. The never-failing light found its second mark, and its trail shone on the water from the first to the second periscope.
 All this was demonstrated by models, but there are other far-reaching effects hoped for which the inventor asserts will be none the less practicable.
 For instance, by intensifying the ray—which is got largely by the use of selenium, an element possessing strong electric resistance—the periscope could be de-

Submarine Destroyer is New Invention of Scotchman
 NEW MACHINE WILL ENABLE WARSHIP TO OBSERVE EVOLUTIONS OF SUBMARINE—OFFERS HIS PATENT TO BRITISH NAVY.
 (From The Scotsman.)
 "I hope to so perfect my apparatus that officers on board a man-o'-war will be able to observe the evolutions of an enemy's submarine while submerged."
 Such a statement needs no explanation, but it would seem to suggest that a man who hopes to give such power to a battleship's commander had allowed his imagination to take a tremendous flight. This is not the case, however. It is simply the blunt statement of an unassuming Kirkecaldy electrical engineer who has been successful in fashioning a device—after years of toil and study—which will make battleships immune from submarine attacks.
 The "submarine-destroyer," as the invention is styled, has already been referred to in the "Courier," but in order to give some idea of the importance and the possibilities as well as the workings of the contrivance, our representative called on the inventor, who demonstrated the invention's actual work on a model scale.
Apparatus at Work
 In a large tank of water filled to a depth of two feet, a model battleship was placed. The "Courier" man was requested to merely scratch the edge of the tank with a pencil. The vibration was repeated on the instrument in trebled volume. An iron object was then dropped into the water, and instantly the finger on the dial on board the man-o'-war swung round in the direction of the submarine object.
 The iron was shifted to another position, but the tell-tale finger followed; the room was then plunged into darkness, and a model submarine introduced into the tank. Nothing happened. The craft was still out of the instrument's range. By means of her own clockwork, however, she was gradually getting nearer. Caught at last! A flash like that of a photographer's magnesium ripped across the water and struck full tilt on the submarine's periscope. Instantaneously the finger again swung into position, pointing right in the direction of the light. But something more amazing was to follow. A second submarine had been introduced, and as it came within range it too was discovered. The never-failing light found its second mark, and its trail shone on the water from the first to the second periscope.
 All this was demonstrated by models, but there are other far-reaching effects hoped for which the inventor asserts will be none the less practicable.
 For instance, by intensifying the ray—which is got largely by the use of selenium, an element possessing strong electric resistance—the periscope could be destroyed. This at once renders the submarine useless. But the electric magnetic influence draws the object to within any distance required by those aboard the battleship. Then again, a torpedo when discharged by a submarine is also detected by the rays, which could be so concentrated as to discharge the head before it reached its mark. So that were a submarine out with the instrument's range when a torpedo was fired, the missile itself would be detected, its mechanism stopped, and its "head" exploded.

 The apparatus is a complex one. Indeed, it comprises many instruments adapted or improved upon.
 A vibrating iron plate is fixed in front of a steel magnet, round which a coil of insulated copper wire is wound. Then the telegraph comes into use, although improved upon for use with this instrument. The objects are seen and heard. By invisible electro-magnetic forces, the sounds are sent into instrument No. 1—the vibrating plate—from which an officer watching an indicator records all he sees and hears. Sound waves are thus converted by electrical energy into magnetic force.
 Selenium, compressed air, or water (hydraulic power) and electricity are the chief factors.
 "Possibly," said the inventor, "the most puzzling thing to the majority of people will be the light which travels from the battleship to the submarine, showing exactly where the craft is by striking on its periscope. Well, this was a problem which caused me months of thought."
Offered to British Navy.
 "I studied on the lines set up by Dr. Cranz, professor at the Berlin Military Academy, who managed to photograph a bullet and shell striking a steel plate. The film of the machine moved before the lens at the speed of 150 miles an hour. Light was obtained by a series of electric sparks, some of which lasted only 1-10th of a millionth part of a second. These studies can be got by using the cinematograph along with the ultra-microscope. But it was the series of sparks which interested me, and it is these I have improved upon and adapted to my instrument.
 "I hope to aid my country's navy in every possible way. The cost of my apparatus will be large, but surely not prohibitive, when the work it does is taken into consideration. The biggest item is that of the motors.
 "These must be powerful, and would cost approximately £200,000, but what's that figure compared with the cost of a modern battleship? A mere incidental!"
 In the meantime the Admiralty have the scheme, to use their own words, "Under consideration."

HOW GERMANS SHOULD BE USED

The Order-in-Council passed by the Borden government soon after the war broke out, has been quoted, and the question has been raised as to how far it applies to the employment of Germans or Austrians in Canada. We quote: "All persons in Canada of German or Austro-Hungarian nationality, so long as they quietly pursue their ordinary avocations, shall be allowed to continue to enjoy the protection of the law, and be accorded the respect and consideration due to peaceful and law-abiding citizens, and that they be not arrested, detained, or interfered with unless there is reasonable ground to believe that they are engaged in espionage, or engaging or attempting to engage in acts of a hostile nature, or are giving or attempting to give information to the enemy, or unless they otherwise contravene the law."

We are concerned not so much with the strict legal effect of this order, as with its spirit. Broadly speaking, it is a declaration of the policy of Sir Robert Borden and his colleagues, and we have no hesitation in saying that the policy is wise and just. The duty of the government is to act, as far as possible, so that the allies may win a victory over Germany. It is not a public duty to try to add to the discomforts and troubles of Germans who happen to reside in Canada. It is a public duty to remove from such persons all opportunity and temptation to interfere with our policy of helping Great Britain and our allies.

The spirit and meaning of the Order-in-Council is that our Canadian watchword is to be duty, not hatred. Nothing great was ever achieved by hatred. Hatred does not build up our powers, but wastes them and burns them out. But there is no limit to the achievements of duty and goodwill. The patriotism that will make Canada a great nation is constructive, not destructive. Our war against Germany is against what is destructive, not against what is constructive in Germany. We are fighting German guns and armies and battleships. How many times has it been said in England and in this country since the beginning of the war that we are fighting, not the German people, but the German system of government?

The Dominion Order-in-Council, apart from its strict legal effect, is a guide to patriotic duty. It means that Canadians must be always thinking, not of means of gratifying passion, but of means of helping Great Britain and her allies; and also of means of maintaining the loftiest standards of British justice.—Globe.

BELGIANS ALL RETURN TO WAR, SAYS NURSE

Miss Mitchell, Toronto Graduate, Writes From Canadian Hospital at Folkestone.

"In all our cases so far we have just had three Englishmen and all the rest are Belgians," writes Miss G. Mitchell, a Toronto nurse who is at present in the Canadian hospital at Folkestone in Kent. "The Belgians are wonderful. They are so patient and gentle, and say 'Merci, beaucoup,' for everything we do for them. They brought a boy of seventeen in last week, and as they carried him in with his eyes closed he looked just like a baby. He was such a dear little fellow. We got the bullet out, and now he is getting better and wants to go back to fight again."

"The only time the Belgians grow bitter is when they talk of the Germans and the terrible things they have done to their women and children. Then their faces grow savage. Some of the true stories they tell us are fearful, and something will happen when they meet those fiends again. I should like to be there. None of the Belgians speak English, so the nurses are polishing up their French."

"The work is tremendous. We often have as many as forty emergency cases all at once, and I spent all yesterday in the operating room. We are so tired at night that we just lie down with our clothes on. The officers and men brought in are so dazed that they say they hear the noise of the shells in their ears for several days after leaving the battlefield. They are all suffering from nervous shock. On a clear, quiet day here we can hear the boom of the guns, and it is quite an easy thing to see France across the Channel."

"The Duchess of Albany visited us yesterday, and the Queen has sent her lady-in-waiting down. She is so pleased with the work the Canadian girls are doing that she is preparing little medals for them to wear to commemorate her visit. It is possible that we will be sent to the front soon, but nothing definite has been heard. You will have been told, of course, that the wounds of the men are terrible."

Miss Mitchell is a graduate of Toronto General Hospital.

FRENCH PARLIAMENT IS ORDERED TO ASSEMBLE

National Debt Record of Nation Brought Back in Ten Railroad Cars.

Paris, Dec. 15. — President Poincaré presided over a meeting of the French cabinet this morning at the palace of the Elysee. All the ministers were present with the exception of the minister of war, Alexandre Millerand, who is at Bordeaux. A decree was signed setting December 22 as the date of the opening of both houses of parliament.

The minister of finance, Alexandre Ribot, explained the bill referring to provisional monthly credits, after which the cabinet decided to request parliament to vote six provisional monthly credits in order to avoid the national defence having to exist from hand to mouth, and so that the armed forces may be able to continue the war with necessary energy.

The ledger of the national debt, containing the names of the holders of bonds which are inscribed as distinguished from those payable to bearer was brought to Paris again from Bordeaux. It required ten cars to transport the ledger.

One of the details of the German plan was to seize this vast book and use it to exact indemnity as, if sequestered, the government and also private finance would be thrown into confusion. All the government offices in Paris are bustling with the newly arrived officials and clerks. Thousands of tons of state papers have arrived daily and nightly from Bordeaux since December 1.
