ATTEMPTED GERMAN RAID HAD FATAL RESULTS—ONE SHIP SUNK, TWO MORE BADLY DAMAGED

GERMAN RAID THWARTED— BRITISH FLEET HAS VICTORY

GERMAN CRUISERS AND A FLOTILLA OF DESTROYERS
DEFEATED BY FOUR BRITISH CRUISERS—ONE GERMAN SHIP SUNK.

(Special to The Daily News)
Jan. 25.—It has been announced that a naval battle took place in the North Sea Sunday morning. Four German cruisers, the Seydlitz, Moltke and Blucher, and a flotilla of torpedo boats, were engaged with a British detachment composed of five battle cruisers, several smaller cruisers and twenty-six destroyers. The enemy discontinued the engagement after three hours at a point seventy miles northwest of Heligoland and retreated. One British battle cruiser and the Blucher were sunk. All the other German ships returned to port.

Running Fight.
The German ships were sighted by the British on Sunday morning. They were overtaken by the British battle cruiser Lion, Princess Royal, and Indomitable. The German ships were badly damaged and the Blucher was sunk.

What Berlin Says.
The official German statement issued today says that during the advance of our armored cruisers Seydlitz, Derfflinger, Moltke and Blucher, which were accompanied by four small cruisers and two flotillas of torpedo boats steaming in the North Sea these vessels became engaged with a British detachment composed of five battle cruisers, several smaller cruisers and twenty-six destroyers. The enemy discontinued the engagement after three hours at a point seventy miles northwest of Heligoland and retreated. One British battle cruiser and the Blucher were sunk. All the other German ships returned to port.

Modern Fast Cruiser.
The Blucher was one of the Germans best fast cruisers. She was of 15,500 tons and had a speed of 25 knots. Her heaviest guns were 8.2-inch. She carried 888 officers and men, most of whom were lost.

RICH HUSBAND MISSING BRIDE MAKES INQUIRY

Seattle, Jan. 25.—Mrs. Mary A. McCracken, now a resident of Seattle, but until recently a ranch owner of Geraldine, Mont., is searching for information concerning her husband, David Benjamin McCracken, heir to a large estate in Scotland, why by the terms of his mother's will is to be known henceforth as David John Blair.

The importance of the search lies in the fact that McCracken, following his mother's death jumped from the position of a rancher to that of a landed gentleman, with an income of $800 a day, or approximately $280,000 a year. With the exception of a letter written by him while en route to Scotland, where the Blair estates are located, nothing has been heard from him.

Substantial bank balances in his name are held in Geraldine and Butte and his bride of a few days awaits him in Seattle. The closest investigation by Attorney T. B. McMahon, who is aiding in the search, has failed to disclose any trace of McCracken.

TRAIN WRECK IN GERMANY KILLS MANY SOLDIERS ON WAY TO FIGHT FRENCH.

An express train running at high speed and carrying many soldiers who had recovered from their wounds sufficiently to allow them to return to French battlefields was wrecked near Stendal when it ran into the rear of a freight train. Many of the soldiers were killed or mortally injured.

ACTIVITY REPORTED ALONG WESTERN LINE

(Special to The Daily News.)
Paris, Jan. 25.—The official report says that slight progress was made east of St. Georges.

There is intermittent cannonading from the Lys to the Oise.

Along the Aisne all is quiet except that a German counter attack was repulsed at Berry-au-Bac.

There are only artillery engagements in the Champagne and in the Argonne.

At St. Mihiel the German bridges across the Meuse were destroyed.

At Embermenil, in Lorraine, a detachment of Bavarian troops were surprised and captured.

There is heavy fog in the Vosges and in Alsace.

What Berlin Says.

Berlin, Jan. 25.—The official report records artillery duels near Nieuport and Ypres.

The Germans lost a trench southwest of Berry-au-Bac. In the Argonne the infantry fighting continues.

All the French attacks on Hartmannswiller in Alsace were repulsed with heavy loss, 400 Chasseurs being found dead, and a number of prisoners taken.

In East Prussia there is an artillery duel on the front from Lotzen to Gumbinnen.

The situation is unchanged in northern Poland.

RUNS TO DOCTOR, DIES.

Spokane Official Chokes Following Removal of Tonsil.

Spokane, Jan. 25.—Robert Fairley, city commissioner in charge of finance, died in a doctor's office today of an acute swelling of the larynx. He had a tonsil removed yesterday, and while at home noticed that he was slowing choking. He hurried to the doctor's office, where he died in twenty minutes.

The trouble is that in real life the fellow who holds the mortgage on the farm never wants to marry the old man's daughter.

BELGIAN RELIEF SHIP IS BEING RESCUED

(Special to The Daily News)
Ottawa, Jan. 25.—The Canadian government steamer Lady Laurier and the steamer Kanisha are desperately fighting to rescue the Belgian relief ship Camino off the Nova Scotian coast. A number of the injured were transferred to the other boats and a powerful tug is proceeding to the scene with hopes of towing the Camino to port.

TURN OUT TONIGHT.

A meeting is called for tonight in the Empress Theatre to discuss the demands made by this city for freer trade in fish with the States. H. S. Clements, M. P., will be there but both he and all other local politicians on both sides of the fence are expected to leave their politics at home. Tonight's meeting should be one of businessmen getting together for the advancement of Prince Rupert. Again, while the people are anxious to know what Mr. Clements has to say about our demands, the chief part of the meeting should be what the people have to say and how they are going to insist on their demands being granted. It might be a good time, too, to discuss the sending of a delegation to Ottawa to support Mr. Clements. The G. T. P. would not doubt assist with transportation. Let everybody pull together.

Houston, was today granted a divorce from her in Papillion. Houston lives in this county. Mrs. Houston was given $3,500 alimony and dismissed the divorce suit she filed in Omaha some time ago.

(Special to The Daily News.)

German Protest.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Germany has officially protested against the shipment of American aeroplanes to the Allies on the grounds that such craft are war vessels.

BRITISH AVIATORS ATTACK ZEEBRUGGE

London, Jan. 25.—Two British aviators dropped twenty-seven bombs on Zeebrugge on Friday morning and succeeded in damaging a German submarine and killing and wounding the gunners mounted on the Mole to prevent an attack on the new German base.

Flight Commander R. B. Davies, though at one time surrounded by seven German airmen and slightly wounded, eluded his pursuers and returned safely.

WILL URGE ABOLITION OF CAPITAL PENALTY

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—Robert Rickerdike, M. P. for the St. Lawrence division of Montreal, will once more urge upon Parliament next session the abolition of capital punishment. Mr. Rickerdike delivered an eloquent speech at the last session, characterizing the imposition of the death penalty as a blot upon civilization. He had many supporters in the House, but his bill never proceeded further than the first reading.

Mr. Bickerdike came back again at the war session, believing that though men were killing each other on the battlefield in Europe, there was no reason why the laws of Canada should permit the State to take the life of even a murderer. His bill is again on the order paper for the coming session.

Prof. Eucken and Haeckel wrote a letter setting forth the German case and addressed it to the American universities. "The German University League" handled the letter in the United States, sending it to the leading professors in different universities, and asking them to reply confidentially with any communications of questions that they would like to have forwarded to Professors Eucken and Haeckel for answer. Prof. Albion W. Small, dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Literature in the University of Chicago, was one of those written to in this way, and there has appeared in the Chicago Tribune the letters from the German League and the German professors and Prof. Small's reply. He had no desire, he said, to have his letter regarded as confidential, but on the contrary, could wish that it might reach all who had received the letter from the two German professors.

Prof. Small studied long in Germany, married a German wife, and has always been known as one who did his best to introduce German ideas into American education. But all this has nothing to do with the great issues now before the world. Prof. Small declares that he is "obliged with sorrow to testify that in my judgment the present crisis has overtaken the wisdom of German professors. He goes on:

"The fundamental requirement of German scientific methodology for a century has been objectivity. The astonishing fact in every utterance about the war which has reached this country from German professors has been the utter collapse of an objective attitude as viewed from the detached standpoint.

nary means which the German government commands for manufacturing public opinion and which has led to acceptance of a governmentally dictated mythology as ultimate data in place of analytical examination of the facts, or in the extraordinary emotional stimulus of the situation, or in a combination of the two, together with other causes, I am not in a position to judge. So far as I am able to ascertain, at least nineteen out of every twenty American academic men of the class I have referred to and similar men who are our juniors have reached substantially my estimate of present academic thinking in Germany.

"From our point of view the circular which you inclose, signed by Professors Eucken and Haeckel, so pitifully betrays arrest of critical processes that it has had the effect upon judicial Americans of a studied insult to our intelligence."

Prof. Small declares his inability to understand how eminent German professors could resort to such reasoning as they employ, unless they presuppose an incapacity on the part of American professors to detect plain substitution of opinion for reality. He advises German professors to cease addressing their unconvincing appeals to America, as they are accomplishing nothing except to destroy that respect for their intellect that was once world-wide.—Toronto Star.

GERMANS IN CANADA.

London, Jan. 23.—Arthur Granville Bradley, well known writer on British North America, in The Spectator says that there is obviously much misconception in this country regarding the nature of the German element in the United States and Canada respectively. The noisy portion of the States, he says, is of recent importation, but the bulk of the Teutonic-Canadians, on the other hand, have been for generations in the country and came out of various German states long before United Germany or German ideas existed.

Speaking of the German communities in Canada, Mr. Bradley remarks: "These, it is true, retained their national characteristics with a curious tenacity, but one cannot imagine these 'ever loyal British-Canadians,' as they have proved themselves, sympathizing with modern Germany or Kaiserism."

WILL SHELVE SCHEME OF LAND SETTLEMENT FOR TWELVE MONTHS

Mr. C. E. Tisdall Says He Understands This to Be Intention of Government but Will Not Committee Himself.

Vancouver, Jan. 23.—It was intimated by Mr. C. E. Tisdall, M. P., yesterday to The Sun that the land settlement measures proposed some time ago to be introduced at the coming session of the Provincial Legislature are to be shelved for a year. Mr. Tisdall was not certain of this, but said it was what he understood was the intention of the government. It will be a big disappointment throughout the province if such is the case, he said. The government expended thousands of dollars in wages and expenses of a royal commission of investigation. Mr. Alexander Lucas, M. P. for Yale District, was sent to Australia and New Zealand to study the land settlement laws of those countries. Numerous sessions in all districts of the province were held. The investigation extended over several months.

The commission has prepared a report and submitted recommendations, and the government has made much capital out of the fact that the commission has been at work, and had submitted recommendations for British Columbia. People were beginning to look forward to some definite land settlement scheme and financial aid to farmers as an inducement to settle the non-productive agricultural lands of British Columbia. Residents of the cities naturally would expect that one of the first outcomes of the government land legislation would be an inclination of prices downward.

British Columbia imports now almost everything her people eat. Steamer loads of vegetables, etc., are brought from the Puget Sound country. California contributes largely to the food of the province. New Zealand and Australia ship butter here by the ton. Even China helps feed British Columbia with her industrious hens. Perhaps the province needs nothing more than land settlement at the present time.

BEWARE! MR. WILSON.

We would give friendly warning to President Wilson that the present is a time for extreme care and caution in any action which will have a bearing upon our foreign relations, especially upon the course of the war, at this moment, when Germany is intriguing right and left, doing everything to array the United States against Japan, one of the Allies; when Germany has already succeeded in dragging Turkey to certain ruin, and is seeking by every means to stir up trouble in China, India and South Africa, there is no telling what pitfall may be dug for the feet of an amiable statesman.—New York Herald.

INDIA'S MARTIAL ENTHUSIASM HAS SURPRISED THE WORLD

AUTHORITIES ARE CROWDED WITH APPLICATIONS OF MEN WISHING TO FIGHT—OLD SOLDIERS FROM ENDS OF WORLD FLYING TO COLORS.

A wave of enthusiasm, unparalleled since the mutiny of 1857, has swept over the Sikhs and other martial clans of India, and every native regiment is eager to be sent to the firing line in Europe. Every contingent raised for European service is swamped with recruits, and those who perforce must be left behind are pestering the life out of the military authorities to induce them to form still larger regiments for service abroad. At least so we learn from a Sikh organ, the Khalsa Advocate, published at Amritsa in the Punjab, which reports that this warlike community, the backbone of "the native army of India," has been spoiling for a fight, and the European conflict has given it the very opportunity it desired. The language in which this is stated is characteristic:

"In the past days of peace, when the military Sikhs basked in the sun and whiled away their time in hearing old tales and legends, they used to feel dozy, and, even when the story was at its highest pitch, went to sleep. They always aspired to war, in which they expected to win laurels for those on whose salt they have been idly feeding themselves for years. They used to fly, even without being asked to a place where questions concerning the war were at issue. Their arms always throbbed for swords with which they might make slaughter of all the enemies of the British government, and their genuine nature could only be determined by their constitution. Luckily, as we would call it, for those 'desperadoes' it so happened that the chance of showing their rightly vaunted bravery soon came to hand. Their hearts were buoyed up with hope, and nearly all the Sikhs, though even in some cases they had to entreat their officers, managed to go to the front. Following their example, even those Jats (cultivators of the military caste) who had never handled a sword, began to wander about like madmen asking everybody who came in their way if there was any chance of their recruitment. Accordingly, as soon as their desires were fulfilled, they felt as happy as if they had won in the field."

Old Sikh soldiers, who had retired from the army and had even emigrated to parts of the world remote from India, flew to the colors when they heard of the war. How great was the enthusiasm among them can be gathered from the London Indian Magazine and Review, in which the following story appeared:

"We had practical demonstration of the wide-spread desire of Indians to take part in the war when a tall, vigorous Sikh, from the Argentine, arrived at headquarters, unexpected and unannounced. While working peacefully on a sugar plantation, a thousand miles inland from Buenos Ayres, he heard of the war in Europe—heard, too, that Indian troops were to fight side by side with the British for the King-Emperor; heard, above all that his old regiment, the 49th Sikhs, was to be sent to the front. The news stirred the warrior in him; the call was irresistible; he started immediately for England. Fourteen Englishmen from the same plantation also responded to the call, and on board the steamer were eighty in all, hurrying home to enlist. Arjun Singh, an experienced soldier, turned the same to good account by giving them daily drill during the voyage. As soon as his story was known, news of his arrival was sent to the officer in command of the Sikhs, and in due course his heart's desire was fulfilled in the summons to join his old regiment which, by a singular coincidence happened to belong to the Indian contingent in France."—Literary Digest.

IS THIS A "TOUCH"?

The Esquimalt Municipal Council has received a communication from the Provincial Inspector of Municipalities suggesting the diversion of its sinking fund, or a portion of it, to the purchase of government debentures, which as security for investment would be "fairly liquid." No doubt other municipalities have been sounded along similar lines.

Stripped of technical verbiage, this means that the government is desirous of borrowing money from the municipalities at 4 1/2 per cent, the rate at which the debentures would be issued. Whether this would be good policy for the municipalities is for them to determine, but in any event the tentative offer that has been made is likely to discourage any hope they may have entertained of obtaining financial assistance from the Provincial treasury to carry them over the present trying period. The suggestion of the inspector may be a diplomatic maneuver to forestall such a request. If the provincial debentures are "fairly liquid," the province ought to be able to do as well with them in the money market as the municipalities could.—Victoria Times.

An order for three million feet of lumber has been received from the United Kingdom. The shipment will be despatched through the Panama Canal. Employment will be given to 350 men. The lumber business is expected gradually to improve, and the company expects to keep its big mill in operation continuously.

GLOOMY FORBODINGS OF FUTURE ECHOED IN AMERICAN PRESS
FEAR ALLIES NOW FIGHTING TOGETHER MAY QUARREL OVER SPOILS AND START A MORE CRUEL WAR THAN THE FIRST.

The consoling thought that the terrible conflict in Europe will at any rate settle old scores and insure peace is now denied us by two experts on such subjects. One is the editor of The Navy (Washington), who foresees a distant struggle, and the other is a well known French peace advocate, who looks for a nearer combat—in fact, a series of them—immediately after this one. Whether America can preserve its neutrality through all the turmoil is not stated, but one of these writers warns us to be prepared. Urban Gohier, who has written an illuminating book about us as "The People of the Twentieth Century," believes that when the diplomats gather at the end of this war to arrange terms of peace, they will find the task impossible. In an article translated for the New York Times he declares that "the international and social question which the present war is going to raise are too numerous, too complex, to be settled beyond appeal and irrevocably by any diplomatic arguments whatsoever." Then will come the fight over the spoils. He writes: "Remember the two Balkan wars. The first was terrible; the second was still more cruel. The allies who had crushed Turkey rent each other in their struggle to divide the booty. "After the collapse of the German Empire and the dismemberment of the Austro-Hungarian Empire the booty will be richer, the participants therein more numerous, the difficulties more inextricable. While the great congress of 1915 or 1916 works for the reorganization of Europe, of Africa, and a part of Asia on new bases, the combatants of the day before will not lay down their arms for good; perhaps they will take them up again with greater fury. "Within each country formidable disorders will arise. Several millions of men will return home to their hearths with new souls. Their sufferings and perils will have given them other desires, other ideas, other manner. They will not dread violence as yesterday they dreaded it, and they will not have the same respect for human life; they will have seen death too near by, and will have marched over the corpses of friends or enemies. "Now they will find, in their respective countries, political life, economic life, social life, all turned topsyturvy. They will expect to regulate it anew; but their ideas will not be in concord and harmony.

Jack Johnson to be BARRED FROM MEXICO FOR WILLARD CONTEST
El Paso, Texas, Jan. 23.—Because it would increase the war chest of Villa, the Carranza government will oppose the entry into Mexico of Jack Johnson, the American negro prize-fighter, who is booked to meet Jess Willard in Juarez on March 6, according to Andres Garcia, the Carranza consul here. Garcia telegraphed today to the "first chief" that Johnson was a fugitive from justice in the United States, and suggested that he must present recently-issued American passports before he be allowed to pass through any port held by the Carranza forces. Johnson at present is at Buenos Ayres, Argentina, or on his way north. He naturally would attempt to enter Mexico through the east coast of Tampico or Vera Cruz, both of which are held by the Carranza troops. The trip from some Central American border port would be difficult, as would any entry from the west coast. The latter would require a hard ride over the mountains, which might affect the condition of the negro.

Turning from the peace advocate to the naval expert, we find the editor of The Navy Looking for a world-wide convulsion that may set race against race and continent against continent. Instead of this being the last grand war, he believes, it "is much more probably but the first of a series of tremendous world-wide conflicts that will be fought by the inhabitants of the earth, for national supremacy, until that supremacy is obtained by some single people, or possibly by an amalgamated race, the ingredients of which are just now being thrown into the melting pot." He reminds us that despite civilization, despite religion, despite everything, we now see that "primitive brutal instincts are as strong as ever." And if enlightened Europe suddenly bursts into an orgy of savagery, what can we expect of the black, brown, and yellow millions when they learn to handle the white man's weapons? As he argues: "It would be idle to expect that the next fifty, one hundred, or five hundred years would materially change the nature of the human race. In fact, it is much more reasonable to assume that when the scientific knowledge which has been discovered by the white race has not been assimilated by the peoples of Asia and Africa, who have not had the advantages of the culture accompanying that scientific development, but who will be able to use for their own ends the highly developed modern offensive weapons, there will be an attack made by those races upon the white civilization, and if the white race has not by that time deteriorated so as to be unable to offer effectual resistance to their attacks, there will be a series of wars of such tremendous extent that the wars which have been fought previously will appear insignificant. "In the past, rivers and mountains have formed barriers, so that it was difficult for tribes or alliances of neighboring tribes to wage war beyond their own territories, but the rivers and mountains are no longer insurmountable obstacles. The oceans alone, at the present time, furnish an obstacle to the transportation of large armies; but if the past fifty years is a criterion of what is coming within the next century, the oceans will present no more difficulties to invading forces than did the narrow Tiber to the enemies of Rome at the opening of Roman history. "When Afro-Eurasia has passed under the domination of the final winner and its now undeveloped peoples have assimilated the war science of the modern world, then will come the test of the New World's strength. May we be prepared!"—Literary Digest.

Following the final decision, Quebec was requested to hand back the administration of the tidal waters it has controlled since the Provincial arrangement of 1898, and this it refused to do, urging that the Privy Council decision applied only to British Columbia. Last year the Federal Government proposed a reference to the courts, but this is not favorably received by Quebec. The Federal government has now decided to force the issue by taking over control of the fisheries in the tidal waters of Quebec, and has so informed the Quebec government and the fishermen interested. The latter have been informed that they must take out a Federal licence before being allowed to fish this year. If the Quebec government also continues to issue licences there is likely to be "a certain liveliness" in the Quebec tidal waters as soon as the fishing season opens.

QUEBEC TIDAL FISHERY CONTROL IN DISPUTE

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—The Dominion Fisheries Department is preparing to assert Federal jurisdiction over the fisheries in all tidal waters in the Province of Quebec, a claim which has been resisted for years by the provincial government. The conflict of jurisdiction may lead to an interesting situation next spring. The announcement was made today by the Federal Fisheries Department that arrangements are being made to administer the fisheries licences, etc., in all the tidal waters of Quebec, covering the St. Lawrence Gulf and River to the limit of the tidal flow west of Quebec city. The Quebec government, on the other hand, asserts its rights to continue to control the fisheries in these waters.

Dominion Contention Upheld
The Dominion Government maintains that under the British North America Act the Federal power has control not only of the tidal, but also of the non-tidal waters. In the statement issued today by the Fisheries Department, it is noted that in 1912 a reference to the Supreme Court of certain questions affecting the Provincial and Federal fisheries jurisdiction was agreed to with British Columbia. There questions were so framed as to decide the matter in all the other sea-washed provinces. The Supreme Court maintained the contentions of the Federal government, and an appeal to the Privy Council upheld the decision in 1913.

Following the final decision, Quebec was requested to hand back the administration of the tidal waters it has controlled since the Provincial arrangement of 1898, and this it refused to do, urging that the Privy Council decision applied only to British Columbia. Last year the Federal Government proposed a reference to the courts, but this is not favorably received by Quebec. The Federal government has now decided to force the issue by taking over control of the fisheries in the tidal waters of Quebec, and has so informed the Quebec government and the fishermen interested. The latter have been informed that they must take out a Federal licence before being allowed to fish this year. If the Quebec government also continues to issue licences there is likely to be "a certain liveliness" in the Quebec tidal waters as soon as the fishing season opens.

NEWSPAPER "ADS" REVEAL BERLIN HIT HARD BY WAR

Advertising Columns Are Almost Empty for a Time—All About War—Flats Empty at "War Prices."

Berlin, Germany, Dec. 23.—It is seldom that a newspaper of a nation at war will gain by the war. Although circulation will grow because of the eagerness of the people to learn the news from the front, it is certain that there will be little advertising, and on this a newspaper depends for its existence.

During the first weeks of the war the Berlin newspapers carried no advertising at all. The prominent journals often consisted of only four small pages of war news. But now the advertising is increasing day by day, and, although it is not as much as usual before Christmas, it is expected to be nearly normal in a month or two. But almost every advertisement has something to do with the war, directly or indirectly, so that the newspaper today gives a striking picture—otherwise hard to get—of a war-stricken nation.

Presents for the Soldiers.

First of all there are the advertisements of Liebesgaben (love presents), intended for the soldiers at the front. These advertisements offer furs, socks, underwear, knee caps, wrist warmers, handkerchiefs, chocolate lozenges, cigars, books, electric pocket lamps, mouth organs, and the like.

Then there are the announcements of auctions of furniture and household goods, and the "for sale" advertisements of animals. One can often read: "Dog to be sold of given away because of the war." Many pets have changed hands because their owners have gone to the war or cannot afford to keep them. Horse dealers announce the arrival of new horses; and for these there is great demand since the wide conscriptions of horses by the military government.

Rents at "War Prices."

Also there are columns of "to rent" advertisements daily, for the absence of foreign transients and of regular roomers who have been called to the colors has left thousands of furnished rooms and flats empty. Besides, there are many families that need to increase their income by sub-letting the "spare room" in these times.

Most of these rooms are to be had at "war prices." One often can read that an "elegantly furnished room with steam heat, hot water, electric light, telephone, etc.," is for rent for 25 to 30 marks ($6 to $7.50) a month. Hundreds of empty flats are offered at "war prices."

One can see the advertisements of photographers who will take photographs to be sent to soldiers or enlarge pictures of soldiers, and of lawyers who offer their services in "war questions." Refugees from East Prussia seek places where they may eat and live for little or no money. East Prussian farmers seek positions "preferably in the country."

Regiments After Recruits.

Some regiments are advertising for volunteers, "ex-convicts and recruits of other regiments not taken." Military factories are all the time looking for workers, and so workers of various trades, such as military tailors, leather workers, and shoemakers, do not have to seek employment long.

Then there are the advertisements of money-lenders willing to give "war loans to honorable men and women." There are many stores and businesses to be sold. "For sale—A store, because husband is in the field." This type of advertisement is to be seen daily. There are shops also whose owners frankly advertise that the revenue is not sufficient to sustain life.

Advance News by Clairvoyants.

The clairvoyants evidently are doing a rushing business. If one may judge from the advertisements appearing daily in the "miscellaneous" columns, there must be many superstitious persons who would like to know if their husbands, sons, or other relatives will be killed or wounded or will return home safely.

Last, but not least, come the personal advertisements, in which deaths are announced, most of them of men who have fallen on the battlefield. Some of the papers day after day publish pages of these advertisements, the announcement enclosed in a heavy black border surmounted by a facsimile of the Iron Cross.

These announcements are usually short and impressive, such as, "On the 17th of November our dear son was killed while fighting for his Fatherland." Others are longer and are signed by all the mourning relatives. Large firms and associations publish in rolls of honor the names of employees who have been killed.

One of the most extraordinary instances of this advertising is in the Kreuzzeitung, Berlin's Conservative organ, where daily two pages bring tidings of deaths to members of the nobility. There are many aristocratic homes in Berlin where this newspaper is first opened at these death lists, for almost every name means the loss of an acquaintance or friend.

In the Letter Box

Editor, The Daily News:

Sir—Would you kindly give me space in your paper to reply to a remark which appeared in The Journal of the 23d about the big surprise that the Liberals got at their annual meeting on the 21st by having a full house. Well, we see that the party that The Journal supports is going to have a smoker tonight; but there is no one invited but Conservatives and their friends. I suppose they will have a big house as there might be some jobs to give away on the side. The Journal says the Liberals have nothing to give. In this he throws a slur on the intelligent voter by saying that he votes for the party which has something to promise. Well, the people have been living on promises from Victoria for twelve years and have not received anything yet and they want to try a change. That is why the Liberals had a bumper house on Thursday night.

I would ask The Journal to explain some of these facts. Why have we such hard times now when the country should be more prosperous than ever. I suppose he will say it is the war. And let him tell the people about the years before 1896, that the same thing existed all over Canada for eighteen years, without letting up until the Liberals came into power. And then would he kindly tell the people how for fifteen years there was continuous prosperity all over Canada. There were no promises then and there was lots doing outside of building drill halls and excavating holes on the streets for duck ponds.

Yours truly,

A. H. McPHERSON.

Whose detention for saying that the Belgians were in no way bound to obey the orders of the German officials, has caused much excitement in Catholic circles. GIRL SUCCESSFULLY COMBATS ROBBER

Telephone Operator With Revolver Frustrates Looting Of Bank

Anadale, Kan., Jan. 23.—Dressell, a 19-year-old telephone operator, with a revolver quick work at her switch frustrated the plans of four robbers who attempted to loot here today. The robbers cut the telegraph wires at a railroad station, then started for the telephone office. Miss Dressell fired at them twice and they fled from her door.

The four men broke into a hardware store, obtained and explosives and next entered the bank. Meanwhile the phone girl had called up the marshal and many citizens. The citizens surrounded the robbers. After five unsuccessful attempts had been made to blow the bank up, the robbers fled. A running fight followed in the street. A shot was fired, and most windows along the street were broken, but none of the robbers suffered serious injury. The robbers finally reached a mobile waiting at the corner of the village and escaped. They later were captured by Wichita police.
