The "Jitney" Bus seems destined to put the street cars out of business. A few months ago nobody thought there could be such an infringement on the franchises of the established systems. Lawyers had puzzled their brains in forming a charter to protest these monopolies and they all thought they lived in water tight compartments. Suddenly, however, a number of Bus owners got together and found out that there were no regulations to prevent them organizing and passing over the same route as the street cars. This they have done, with the result that they have taken a big slice off the traffic of the former bodies, and the end is not yet.

This is one of the advantages of having a universe that was not laid out in detail at the beginning, but is allowed to gradually unfold itself. New ideas are continually bursting through to the surface that compel the established order of things to keep on adjusting themselves. This not only keeps humanity from getting too much in the rut but is a great incentive to originality and progress. Twenty-five years ago the Church had the "shivers" because scientists had discovered a more rational explanation for man and the universe than was given by the old theologians. The result was that a new growth of theologians sprung up who have been able to reconcile the essential in the old with the facts of the new and the world is that much richer because of the mental effort that was required to make the change.

Following up this idea it can be shown that all atheists and agnostics of the past have been Evangelists in disguise. Before a new truth can be born, the old must fall into the ground and die. The atheists and agnostics who "knocked the bottom" out of the age-worn ideas of the past prepared the way for a new world with bigger ideas and a more wholesome outlook. The fact is, that every powerful sentiment that has ever moved the world was based on absolute reality. Education and enlightenment may render untenable the original philosophy of that sentiment and make it adjust itself to new truths but the sentiment itself can never be gainsaid, nor destroyed. The evolution of ideas that has been going on in the last few decades must of necessity continue until the heavens and the earth be surveyed and robbed of their secrets. That at least is the mission of humanity if they will live up to it. In the meantime our standard of truth must be that of human experience and we will accept no philosophy that does not take cognizance of the determining facts in human nature.

We thus see what folly it is for the various religious sects to quarrel over their little differences. Everybody who has thought over it must appreciate the difficulty of getting words to represent definitely the thought in his mind. Half the duty of our courts is to define the meaning of our laws so as to prevent ambiguity. Again, two men with the same conviction may give an entirely different report of it; but the important thing is not the report, but the conviction. The conviction is the gospel of it and the report is its philosophy. After all, the outstanding fact of religion is Reverence and wherever that is cultivated there is a common ground where every religious man can stand—and the starting point for good citizenship.

The callous and systematic manner in which the reasonable demands of organized labor have been ignored by the present Provincial government, is well known. Thousands of dollars have been spent by the labor movement in this province during the last five years for the purpose of trying to improve the conditions of the workers. Hundreds of the more active minds have given their best reasoning and intelligence for the same object but all that has been secured for this time, brains and money expended, is the smooth humbug of McBride in reply to the labor deputations which have appeared before the government. In fact, the annual pill-grimage of the pleading proletariat has now become one of the hardy annuals of the Parliament House at Victoria. Not only has new legislation been refused, but laws already in existence for the supposed purpose of giving some measure of protection to the workers, have not been applied. Such use as they might have been, has become arohpied by the deliberate refusal of McBride and Bowser to enforce them.—B. C. Federationist.

BELGIANS ARE FORCED TO SUPPLY GERMANS

Sluis, Holland, Jan. 30.—The Burgomaster of Heylen, a small Belgian village near the border, has fled into Holland with all his constituents, who have brought with them what was left after repeated German requisitions. The official, who is an old man, was arrested three times and brought to Heyst to answer to the German commander because the village was unable to supply all that was requisitioned of it.

"My community," said the burgomaster today, "could not produce all that was asked of it. At the beginning the Germans ordered us to send to Heyst several thousand kilograms of pork. We sent 4,810 pounds. A little later they took away thirty cows, then seven more. When an order came from Bruges to send 1,760 pounds of hay and the same amount of straw I went to the commander in Heyst and told him it was impossible for us to supply both Heyst and Bruges. He gave me a letter to show the officer in Bruges stating that we were to supply Heyst alone.

Doubled the Demand.

"I showed the letter to the Bruges official, and the next day he returned with an order that we must now deliver double the quantity, of 3,250 pounds, with 110,000 pounds of oats, 50,000 kilograms of wheat, 41,000 pounds of beans and peas, 330,000 pounds of straw and 200 pigs. It was impossible to meet these demands, and fearing for our lives we fled to Holland."

In some frontier districts the peasants stabled cattle and hogs in Holland to avoid requisitions. This happened at Maldegem, but the Germans threatened to burn all farm buildings if the peasants did not immediately fetch back the cattle. This they did in fear, and the Germans requisitioned the whole lot, leaving slips of paper in payment. Wine is being requisitioned everywhere, and people who have none in their cellars are mulcted for money.

The Shanghai on Land.

Under these circumstances there is again a continuous stream of refugees into Holland across the Brabant and Limburg frontiers, which are not so closely guarded as the Flanders border, where recently a man was shot for trying to smuggle his sons into Holland to save them from being pressed into the military service of the Germans.

CHINESE EGGS FAILURE AS NEWER COMPETITOR

Speculators and Importers Declare Oriental Offerings Under Quality.

Speculators and jobbers who have watched the development of the Chinese egg industry in America through the lowered tariff during the two seasons the law has been in effect predict that these eggs will soon cease to be a factor in depressing the value of the American product. The importations this winter have run as high as 4,000 to 6,000 cases per month, and shrinkage from "rot spots," disclosed as soon as the stock arrives, has compelled the customs department to establish candling facilities at the docks, where all the eggs are candled before being permitted to land. Shrinkage, principally due to rot, running as high as 60 per cent, and the inferior quality and size, as compared with the American egg, are impelling many of the former speculators and importers to quit the trade. So uncertain are the profits in these eggs, regardless of the low prices at which they are purchased in the Orient, that the size and quality alone are working the doom of the business.

The trade, however, must reckon with the new desiccated egg that is being imported as bakers' stock in 8-pound cans, the shells removed and the contents, segregated in yolks and whites, kept frozen from the date of shipment until used. Chinese eggs in this form have already been given a wide distribution, many bakers believing that the eggs are produced in the United States. Frozen eggs are selling in the regular 7- and 8- pound cans at 12 cents per pound.

Importers who have investigated the cause of rot spots in Chinese eggs declare that chickens in China are not nested as in this country and that the egg is deposited on the bare ground. This, it is believed, hastens the rotting process.

One shipment of fifty cases of Japanese eggs passed through the Seattle customs department this week. The eggs were nearly the size of duck eggs, with large, pure white shells. Those who sampled them declare that the flavor was excellent and the nearest approach to that of the fresh local ranch egg they had ever known. Whether Japan will have enough of these eggs for export is not known; but, should such be the case, importers declare that the menace to the welfare of American egg values would be found in these, rather than in Chinese eggs.

TO ASK FOR $100,000,000

Montreal, Jan. 30.—The Canadian Parliament will be asked to vote $100,000,000 toward the expense of carrying on the war in Europe at the session which begins next month, according to a declaration made today by George E. Foster, Dominion minister of trade and commerce, in a speech before the Canadian Club.

The Dominion has already voted $50,000,000.

SOLDIERS WENT WHEN OFFICER WAS KILLED

London, Jan. 30.—How Major the Honorable Hugh Dawnay, D. S. O., of the Second Life Guards, younger son of Major General Viscount Downe, of Dingley Hall, Market Harborough and Wykeham Abbey, met his death in action in the region of Ypres is narrated by Corporal J. Jennings, of Tadcaster, a household cavalryman, now on leave. It is not only a tale of valor but is an example of how the British officers are loved and respected by their men.

"We were at Zillebeke, about three miles from Ypres," said the corporal, "and the order was given for two hundred of us to storm several farmhouses situated on a ridge, in the hands of the Germans. We could not advance under cover and had to expose ourselves to rifle and shell fire. Still, not a man wavered. Major Dawnay, a great favorite with all of us, led the charge. We gave one great cheer, and with a 'Follow me, boys, and grip tight!' from the major we leaped after him. All the way Major Dawnay was in the forefront and he was the first to reach the farmhouses, 300 yards distant. We took two of them. At the third Major Dawnay met his death. He was in the yard of the farmhouse, patting on the back a man who was bowling over scuttling Germans like ninepins.

"Good boy!" shouted the major, who then turned and thrust his revolver through the lower window of the farmhouse. He was immediately riddled with bullets from within and collapsed. When we realized that he was dead a number of us wept. If you knew how we all loved that man you would have understood. We would willingly have died for him."

Lieutenant C. C. Thompson, serving with the Second Battalion, Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, writes to his old headmaster at Handsworth Grammar School:

"The chief feature about everything here is how ordinary it all gets. You walk along a road; a stray bullet drops in the mud at your feet; you just walk on. You go to a trench and the next man to you gets shot through the lung. He is calmly bandaged up and walks himself to the stretcher bearers. The awful feeling of seeing a man shot has worn off, and all you think is 'Plucky devil.'"

WILSON SAYS HE CANNOT IMPOSE WHEAT EMBARGO

Washington, Jan. 30.—President Wilson has no authority to declare an embargo on the exportation of wheat and other foodstuffs, he told callers yesterday, discussing recent increases in food prices in the United States. Such authority must come from Congress, he said, adding that he had not investigated the constitutionality of such a step. He did not commit himself on the advisability of an embargo act.

The president said nothing could be done by the government toward regulating prices, unless illegal practices by merchants were disclosed by the investigation he has directed the attorney-general to begin.

WAR HAS COST EUROPE $8,500,000,000 IN CASH

To Which Must Be Added at Least $2,500,000,000 for Loss of Life —Total $10,000,000,000.

London, Feb. 1.—E. W. Hirst, editor of The Economist, addressing a recent meeting of Sheffield bankers, said that at the commencement of the war he estimated that it would cost the leading belligerents about 10,- 000,000 pounds daily, as follows: Russia, 2,500,000; Germany, 2,500,000 pounds; France, 1,750,- 000 pounds; Austria, 1,750,000 pounds, and Britain 1,500,000 pounds.

One hundred and seventy days of war has now been completed, said Mr. Hirst. This meant that the war would have cost Europe 1,700,000,000 pounds, to which the British contribution would be 255,000,000 pounds. This left out the expenditure of the Belgian, Serbian, and the Japanese governments as well as the millions which had been raised by various neutral countries in mobilization and warlike preparations. It left out the indirect losses of commerce all over the world, and the actual destruction of property in Belgium, France, East Prussia, Russian Poland, and Austrian Galicia.

Worse still, said Mr. Hirst, it omitted that awful item, the capital value of the men killed, or maimed, or dead from disease in the prime of their manhood. The actuaries whom he had consulted put the average value of an English soldier at not less than 800 pounds. If they allowed that, as a result of the war, only one million Europeans were dead or incapacitated for life, and if they placed upon each a capital value of only 500 pounds as a wealth producer, then the loss to Europe on this score was already 500,- 000,000 pounds.

LICENSE TO KNOCK.

Many lines of retail trade in this city report sales actually above the average. Those who do so usually feel obliged to apologize for so unconventional a record by saying: "With us, for some reason, business has been extremely good. I suppose it is because so many of our people who would have ordinarily been staying at home this year, on account of the hard times," etc. In fine, those who are prosperous, feel under the necessity of explaining their condition in the prevailing terms of depression.

Undoubtedly there is depression. The statistics say so, and they must know. But it is also true that a hard luck story of some proportions could be made out in any winter. Present conditions have acted as a license for every man to feel depressed and to enjoy needless economies.
Much of this may be unconscious on Mr. Everyman's part, but no less real. If you want to hire anybody to do work about your place—and the Civil Service Commission officially reports the same thing—you are finding no great plethora of the well trained and no material reductions in the cost of doing anything. Conditions are bad enough, everybody knows, but not so bad as we cus-tomarily think. Much of the indigo is atmospheric. And that is the part which we ought to get over.—Boston Herald.

COPYING LEMIEUX ACT.

According to press dispatches from Wheeling, West Virginia, on December 15, legislation modeled after the Canadian Industrial Disputes Act will be introduced at the approaching session of the Legislature of that state. West Virginia has been forced to seek a way of preventing labor disputes, which have caused heavy losses in that state in recent years, and particularly within the past year or two. It is a tribute to the soundness and success of the Canadian legislation adopted by the government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier that it is being taken as a pattern by West Virginia.

WOMEN DESCRIBE THEIR IDEAL MAN

Forty Fair Parishioners of the Madrona Presbyterian Church Give Their Views.

Seattle, Feb. 1.—After having sent out letters to 40 young women in the neighborhood containing a list of eight questions to be answered by them, Rev. E. P. Giboney, pastor of the Madrona Presbyterian Church, yesterday preached on the subject, "The Ideal Young Man From the Viewpoint of the Young Woman."

Out of the answers received from these young women Pastor Giboney sought to draw a composite picture of what these young women considered the ideal young man.

"What education and along what lines should he have?" was one of the questions asked by Pastor Giboney. One-half of those answering replied that he should at least have a high school training and one-fourth that he should be a graduate of a university.
Nearly all emphasize the fact that his training in school during the last years of his course should be specialized in such a way as to fit him for his life's work. One suggested that whether he goes to college or not should be determined by the business or profession that he expects to follow, and takes the precaution to add,
"education is like the measles, having been to college does not mean that you have caught it, but only that you have been exposed."

Should Talk Well.

One declares that the amount of time spent in school is immaterial, providing a young man knows enough to talk well and not to butcher the English language by using such expressions as "I seen" and "I have went." One declares that a young man should have sufficient education, so that he would not have to work for anyone else. The spirit of independence expressed in this letter is commendable, but even the President of the United States could not stand the test, for he works for the hundred million people of this country.

As to whether the young man should be a dresser, Pastor Giboney said that the replies were varied, and ran from the assertion that a serious businessman had no time for extreme dressing, to the statement that the manner of dress is the outward sign that tells something about the inner characteristics of the man.
"In reply to the question,
"Should he smoke?" twenty-two answered yes and eighteen no.
Those answering yes qualified their consent to smoking being tolerated by saying, occasionally, if limited to cigars and pipe, if done in moderation, if he cuts out cigarettes and cigars of the "burnt cabbage" kind.

Many Favor Dancing.

"Thirty-six favored dancing and four opposed it," said Pastor Giboney, "indicating that the young people identified and interested in the work of the church stand 9 to 1 in favor of dancing.
But nearly all those that take an affirmative stand in favor of dancing are careful to state how and under what conditions it should be done. The only way I can account for so many young women favoring dancing and seeing no possibility of evil in it is the fact that the average young woman from the best home is not familiar with the evil effects of the dance hall.

"Thirty-six answered no and four yes on the question of drinking," concluded the pastor, "and I must say regarding this that the only way of accounting for any one who looks on a drinker as an ideal man is because of her lack of experience with the results of drink."

Admirable Traits in Men.

The traits regarded as the most admirable in the ideal man included the following:

"Honesty, sincerity, self-respect, consideration for others, happy disposition, purity, uprightness, a gentleman in heart as well as in manners, trustworthy, ambitious, constancy, reverence for God and respect for mankind, broad and sympathetic in understanding difficulties of others, will power, sticltntiveness, earnestness, boundless enthusiasm, good-natured manliness, cheerfulness, politeness, respect for his elders, willingness to help a friend to the best of his ability, diplomacy, speaking well of other people, punctuality, reverence without fanaticism, self-reliance without conceit, altruism, courage, generosity, nobility, industry, straightforwardness, ability, a lover of outdoor sports, a lover of home and nature, an everlasting and bountiful supply of optimism, good cheer and a contagious smile that won't come off.

"Among the faults that the young men should make it a special point to avoid were includ-conceit, coarseness, vanity, association with persons of low morals, dishonesty, laziness, stinginess, forgetfulness, swearing, loud talking, selfishness, dissipation in any form, getting rich quick, deceit, lukewarmness, domineering spirit, staying out late at night, bad companionships, lying, boasting about his wealth and rich relatives, both of which in most cases have no existence, a desire to choose his wife's clothes for her, knocking other people, greed, sacrilegiousness, immorality, carelessness in speech, egotism, jealousy, ill temper, ill manners, being a male gossip and speaking lightly of any woman, sulkiness, freshness, idleness, lack of will power, sarcasm, cruelty, snobbishness, spinelessness and a catering to Mr. Money Bags."

WHERE GERMANY FAILED.

Where Germany appears to have failed, in the estimate of impartial American observers, is that its great military machine, instead of riding triumphantly and swiftly over all opposition, has come up against machines so good that it has been compelled to make exertions to prevent the recession which was begun on the Marne being carried so far as to compromise the whole campaign.
The German military machine certainly has not the prestige today that it had on the first of August, and that of itself is a loss to Germany, whose ultimate consequences it is premature at the present time to attempt to forecast.—Boston Transcript.

A NEWSPAPER

for Prince Rupert and Northern B.C.

The Daily News goes into nearly every home in Prince Rupert. It is the popular newspaper of the city because it is clean and reliable. It has all the news of the city, and keeps in touch with events and topics interesting to Northern British Columbia. It treats these subjects with moderate optimism and reliability.

The Daily News is the most valuable paper to advertisers because it is read by the buying public.
It has a bigger circulation than any other paper in the city. It is read by the class of people the advertisers want to talk to.

SIXTY CANADIANS ARE PRISONERS OF WAR

Arrest of British Colonials in Germany Continues.

Berlin, Feb. 1.—A dispatch from Hamburg says that all British colonials in that city with the exception for the time being of Australians, have been arrested and transported to Ruhleben, where they are to be interned in the concentration camps along with other British civilians.

Something like sixty Canadians are in this new draft of prisoners. The arrest of British colonials in Germany probably will be continued. Colonials were originally left at liberty when Englishmen were interned, but now they are to be assembled and sent to concentration camps.

ADMIRALTY SAYS NO SHIPS OF ANY KIND WERE LOST

a tremendous hole in her that she sank at once.

The last scene on the Bluecher proved the heroism of the German sailors, who were lined up along her rail, aware that the ship was doomed. The correspondent says the men doffed their hats and joined in a chorus of "Hochs" as she began to sink.

Warning shouts of "Jump!" went up from the decks of the Arethusa, and the sea quickly was dotted with lifebelts men from the Bluecher, man yof whom had been badly wounded by shell splinters. In some cases the nerves of the men had been broken under the terrible ordeal they had endured.

The joy of the officers at being rescued found expression in gifts of rings, watches and money to the rescuers. The British sailors wanted to refuse these, but the Germans pressed the gifts to them, saying: "You have saved our lives. Take them as little mementoes."

The German sailors naturally had nothing to offer, but they were profuse in their expressions of gratitude. They made persistent requests of their British foes for cigarettes.

Kolberg Was Sinking.

The British light cruiser Aurora, according to the correspondent, was in action with the German light cruiser Kolberg. The Aurora's first shot, he says, carried away the Kolberg's midship funnel, while her guns raked the German boat. When last seen by the Arethusa, the correspondent declares, the Kolberg was in a sinking condition.

Stories of Sunday's naval fight as told members of the British squadron are given in the London Daily News. Some men who took part in the Heligoland Bight battle in August last said:

"The Bight was a picnic compared with Sunday's fight. This was fine sport."

"We were told," said a man of the destroyer Meteor, "to act as a decoy, because our commander is noted for his seamanship."

"We spun around at times like a spinning top, but they got us twice and we got a shell in our boiler room which laid four of us out at once."

"Then we got another in the stern, and this stopped our merry little dance. We were sorry, and yet we were not. We wanted to go back again, but we had to be content with watching the game of hare and hounds."

FINDS VETOED BILL ADMIRABLE IN MANY WAYS

President Wilson Gives His Reasons for Exercising Right to Block Immigration Measure.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—President Wilson's message on the immigration bill delivered to the House was as follows:

"It is with unaffected regret that I find myself constrained by clear conviction to return this bill (H. R. 606060, an act to regulate the immigration of aliens to and the residence of aliens in the United States) without my signature."

"Not only do I feel it to be a serious matter to exercise the power of veto in this case, but in any case, because it involves opposing the single judgment of the President to the judgment of a majority of both Houses of the Congress, a step which no man who realizes his own liability to error, can take without hesitation, but also, because this particular bill is in so many important respects admirable, well conceived and desirable."

"Its enactment into law would undoubtedly enhance the efficiency and improve the methods of handling the important branch of the public service to which it relates. But candor and a sense of duty with regard to the responsibility so clearly imposed upon me by the Constitution in matters of legislation leave me no choice but to dissent."

Departure in Policy.

"In two particulars of vital consequence this bill embodies a radical departure from the traditional and long established policy of this country, a policy in which our people have conceived the very character of their government to be expressed, the very mission and spirit of the nation in respect of its relations to the peoples of the world outside their borders. It seeks to all but close entirely the gates of asylum, which have always been open to those who could find nowhere else the right and opportunity of constitutional agitation for what they conceived to be the natural and inalienable rights of men, and it excludes those to whom the opportunities of elementary education have been denied without regard to their character, their purpose, or their natural capacity."

"Restrictions like these adopted earlier in our history as a nation would very materially have altered the course and cooled the humane ardors of our politics. The right of political asylum has brought to this country many a man of noble character and elevated purpose who was masked as an outlaw in his own less fortunate land, and who has yet become an ornament to our citizenship and to our public councils. Impossible to Assent."

"The children and the compatriots of these illustrious Americans must stand amazed to see the representatives of their nation now resolved, in the fullness of our national strength and at the maturity of our great institutions to risk turning such men back from our shores without test of quality or purpose. It is difficult for me to believe that the full effect of this feature of the bill was realized when it was framed and adopted, and it is impossible for me to assent to it in the form in which it is here cast."

"The literacy test and the tests and restrictions which accompany it, constitute an even more radical change in the policy of the nation. Hitherto we have kept our doors open to all who were not unfitted by reason of disease or incapacity for self-support or such personal records and antecedents as were likely to make them a menace to our peace and order or to the wholesome and essential relationships of life. In this bill it is proposed to turn away from tests of character and of quality and to impose tests which exclude and restrict; for the new tests here embodied are not tests of quality or of character or of personal fitness, but tests of opportunity."

"Those who come seeking opportunity are not to be admitted unless they already have had one of the chief of the opportunities they seek—the opportunity of education. The object of such provisions is restriction, not selection."

No Popular Mandate.

"If the people of this country have made up their minds to limit the number of immigrants by arbitrary tests and so reverse the policy of all the generations of Americans that have gone before them, it is their right to do so. I am their servant and have no license to stand in their way. But I do not believe that they have. I respectfully submit that no one can quote their mandate to that effect. Has any political party ever avowed a policy of restriction in this fundamental matter, gone to the country on it and been commissioned to control its legislation? Does this bill rest upon the conscious and universal assent and desire of the American people? I doubt it. It is because I doubt it that I make bold to dissent from it. I am willing to abide by the verdict but not until it has been rendered. Let the platform of parties speak out upon this policy and the people pronounce their wish. The matter is too fundamental to be settled otherwise."

"I have no pride of opinion on this question. I am not foolish enough to profess to know, the wishes and ideals of America better than the body of her chosen representatives know them. I only want instructions direct from those whose fortunes with ours and all men's are involved."

Compliments inspire some persons and destroy others.

A very small loan will frequently sever the ties of long friendship.
