PROVINCIAL ELECTION IN APRIL IS LATEST RUMOR

BRIDE TO RESIGN IN FAVOR OF BOWSER—BRITISH CAPTURE AN IMPORTANT HILL POSITION

PROVINCIAL ELECTION SOON, IS LATEST VICTORIA RUMOR

BRIDE TO RESIGN IN FAVOR OF BOWSER AND TO RUN FOR DOMINION HOUSE AT NEW WESTMINSTER— J. D. TAYLOR FOR SENATORSHIP.

(Special to The Daily News.)
 Victoria, Feb. 11.—There are local rumors of a Provincial election in April. Sir Richard Brakenbury is to resign in favor of General Bowser and is to run for the Dominion House for New Westminster. J. D. Taylor is to get a senatorship. If the above is correct the Liberal forecast has been wonderfully near the mark and they are well prepared for the fray.

QUARREL LEADS TO TRAGEDY

 Preshaw was killed with his brother-in-law, H. P. Preshaw, in a quarrel over the estate of Lance's 6-year-old son which was left with Preshaw. Lance separated from Preshaw and shot him in the back before he used the axe.

BRITISH NAVY FIGHTER IS STRICKEN

Feb. 11.—Rear Admiral Hon. Victor A. Mordant was killed here. He was 73 years old. He served with the British navy during the China war of 1857 and the naval brigade in the Crimea in 1858. He was in 1886.

JUSTICE TO ALASKA.

Secretary Lane now proposes to establish a governing body in Alaska, to look after the affairs of the Territory and to obtain first-hand information from Congress and the Secretary of the Interior. Under his plan a fifty-foot applicant for a fifty-foot lot would have his application considered upon and decided in a matter of minutes instead of being compelled to wait for a year and a half while the government at Washington was deliberating.

Congress is considering matters it could well dig into the Alaskan situation from Alaskans. Ninety per cent of them favor Secretary Lane's plan. They are citizens, building up the interests in a far-away territory. If they want the public lands they should be able to get it, with regard to the public interest. The board on the ground, with power to dispose of business, and directly under the eye of the Secretary of the Interior, would be infinitely more effective in governing Alaska than a bureaucratic system that purports to be a theory that every person in Alaska is a thief trying to swindle the United States.—Washington.

Funeral of Mrs. Hannah Lodge will take place tomorrow at 2 o'clock at Fairview from Hayner's Chapel. F. Dimmick will officiate.

G. T. P. PREPARING FOR RUPERT FISH TRADE

That the G. T. P. Railway is adding fifty new refrigerator cars to its present equipment, in order to handle the rapidly increasing amount of fish being shipped from Prince Rupert, was the statement made yesterday by Superintendent Norman, of the Canadian Express Company, says the Winnipeg Free Press of recent date.

The Canadian Express Company handles all the express matter of the G. T. P. and the new cars will be used entirely in Mr. Norman's department.

The cars are already under construction and the first of them will arrive in Winnipeg on April 20. Thereafter they will be put into operation at the rate of two a week, the whole number to be completed and delivered to the G. T. P. by May 15.

The G. T. P. is sparing no expense in the construction of the new cars and every facility to increase their efficiency will be included. The cars are for the passenger trains, and will be able to carry fish from Prince Rupert, on the Pacific Coast, to New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Pittsburg, Montreal and Toronto, and give it to the consumers at these points in just as fresh a condition as at the Coast.

The amount of the shipments from Prince Rupert has increased greatly during the past few months. In December, 27 carloads were shipped, in January a total of 75 carloads was reached, and 7 more are expected tomorrow.

THE EVOLUTION OF RIFLE FIRE

In Napoleon's war a bullet seldom hit an enemy more than 200 yards distant. A marksman with the Lee-Enfield or Lebel rifle can bring down man after man at 1,000 or even 2,000 yards under favorable conditions—but the conditions seldom are favorable. Napoleon's Old Guard considered twenty-five cartridges a reasonable equipment for a whole campaign. In 1870-71 the German average consumption was sixty-five per man for the entire war. Many German soldiers fired 4,000 cartridges apiece in the first month of this war.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING REPORTS ON WATERFRONT

Some very important business will come up at the monthly meeting of the Board of Trade on Friday.

The committee which has been working for a considerable time on the matter of waterfront leases will present a complete report of its findings so that the situation may be thoroughly discussed by all parties interested.

There is a proposal that an excursion to the Panama-Pacific International Exposition be arranged under the auspices of the board. If this can be arranged, it will be a splendid advertisement for the city. Some action will be taken with regard to this on Friday.

The regular luncheon of the Board of Trade will be held on Wednesday, the 24th inst.

WE'LL STAY ON HOSTILE SOIL KAISER DECLARES

Berlin, via The Hague and London, Feb. 11.—"We will stay on hostile territory until the enemy is vanquished or has collapsed," was the assertion made by Emperor William in personally conferring the Iron Cross on a German soldier, according to a report printed by a Cologne newspaper.

COMMANDER SAMSON BRITAIN'S DARE DEVIL

A veritable thorn in the side of the Kaiser is Commander Samson, of the Royal Naval Air Service, on whose head the Germans are said to have put a price of $5,000. His latest exploit, resulting in the destruction of a windmill and a cottage which sheltered a couple of destructive German machine guns, is typical of his wiliness and dare-devil methods.

The Germans were surprised one bright morning to see a low, slate-colored car come rushing out of the English lines, followed by a heavy but erratic fusillade. They concluded that the car was attempting to escape from their enemies, and so refrained from firing upon it.

But just as the car appeared to be about to enter the German lines it pulled up. In fifteen seconds the windmill, with its machine gun and crew, was leveled by the shells from armored cars' quick-firing gun, and before the astonished Germans could collect themselves the gun had swung round and more shells crashed through the cottage windows, destroying whatever was within. Then the car shot back to the British lines, to be received not with a fusillade, but with a cheer.

BRITISH EARTHQUAKE WRECKS COAL PITS

One Miner Killed in Yorkshire by Fall of Ore.

BRITISH AVIATORS RAID DUSSELDORF

London, Feb. 11.—British aviators have again raided the German quarters at Dusseldorf. Fearing such a raid, the Germans had recently built a secret storehouse for explosives some distance from their arsenals. This, however, the raiders discovered, and accurately dropped bombs, setting it on fire.

RACING BILL PASSED BY NEVADA SENATE

Reno, Neva., Feb. 11.—The race track bill permitting races and betting under the pari-mutuel system has been passed by the Nevada Senate by a vote of 14 to 8, the entire Senate voting.

When this bill comes up before the Assembly, it is expected that body will vote in favor of it, yielding to the popular demand, as did the upper house of the Legislature.

Another bill which it is expected will be voted on favorably is that so amending the gambling law that provision may be made for pari-mutuel betting at race tracks under a commission of three members, but no betting outside the tracks.

GERMANS ADOPT "CHEST PROTECTORS"

So great a respect has the German infantry for "Tommy" and his bayonet that they make for themselves thick paddings of straw and newspaper and such things with a view to lessening the distance by which the bayonet can pierce them. The Belgians, who at the outset of the fighting had very short bayonets, were the first against whom the Germans tried their new "chest protectors."

WHAT BRITISH NAVY MEANS TO THE WORLD

New York, Feb. 11.—The European war has essentially paralyzed exploration, said Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, president of the Explorers Club, at the tenth annual dinner of the club here. Only those geographical expeditions which have already started will continue their work, he said, the others having been postponed. In regard to the lessons of the war itself, the rear admiral declared that three things were vital to the United States—preparedness, a powerful navy, and the possession within the American borders of the means to conduct vigorous offensive and defensive operations.

"No one thing stands out in the present struggle as does the meaning of the British navy. Without that factor the status abroad today would be vastly different," he said.

The Princess May is expected with mail about noon tomorrow.

ANKYLOSOSAURUS MAGNIVENTRIS IS RUN TO EARTH

Record Fossil Find Is Made in Alberta—Lived 3,000,000 Years Ago.

New York, Feb. 11.—With a carload of fossils that breaks the world's record perfection in all their parts, Barnum Brown has arrived at the American museum after a season's digging in the Red River Canyon of Alberta.

Professor Henry F. Osborn, of the museum, was astonished when he learned that in the cargo were eight perfect skeletons of carnivorous and herbivorous dinosaurs of gigantic size, as it has heretofore been almost impossible to get more than parts of the bones of a species. Much of the material is new to science. Among the fossils is that of the Ankylosaurus Magniventris, armor plated, and the dreadnought of his time.

"The cliffs in which the fossils were exposed were 300 feet high," said Brown. The fossil bed lies in the heart of the greatest wheat and oats fields on the continent. The eight complete skeletons represent seven generations of dinosaurs, of which two were carnivores, the remainder being herbivores, or vegetarians.

"These animals are estimated to have lived 3,000,000 years ago. One skeleton is the first one found in the genus ornithomius, about 8 feet long and 5 feet high."

REX VS. DUDOWARD CONVICTION QUASHED

His Honor Judge Young handed down his decision in the matter of the appeal of Frederick Dudoward, of Port Simpson, against the sentence of three months' imprisonment imposed on him by the magistrate.

Dudoward was convicted of conniving at supplying intoxicating liquor.

The judge held that there was no evidence to justify conviction. Writs of certiorari and habeas corpus were issued—the conviction quashed and the prisoner set free.

VON KLUCK'S SON SLAIN IN BATTLE, REPORTED

Berlin, via Amsterdam and London, Feb. 11.—The eldest son of General Von Kluck, who was a naval lieutenant, is reported to have fallen in an artillery battle near Lake Middelkerke, on January 26. All former non-commissioned officers who are under 50 years of age have been called to drill new recruits.

GERMANS TO BLOCKADE THE COAST OF FRANCE

Berlin, Feb. 11.—The warning of the German Admiralty staff concerning coming operations on the French coast is considered by some Berlin newspapers, among them the Morgen Post, to mean that an actual blockade is to be put into effect by the Germans.

The Morgen Post, however, points out that many of the essentials of a blockade are lacking, among them being a definite description of boundaries and a warning that neutral ships must not enter the forbidden zone.

MUSICAL BULLETS.

Germany's supply of lead for the manufacture of bullets is causing some anxiety in Berlin and Essen, and to maintain the supply the government has commandeered the whole of the plates of lead and zinc used in the printing of music.

These plates, on an average, weigh one and a half pounds each, and there are, it is calculated, fully 1,500,000 of them in the country. No discrimination has been made in the commandeering of the plates, and the classical works of the great masters have been seized for the melting pot in order that bullets may be manufactured for the army.

The greater number of the plates have been taken to Krupp's works, and it is stated that the government's action has ruined several of the great music publishers of Berlin.

BERLIN NEWSPAPER GROWS PESSIMISTIC

Copenhagen, Feb. 11.—The Berliner Tageblatt in its leading article yesterday said:

"Contrary to official predictions it is uncertain whether Germany's hopes will be fulfilled and she will be victorious. We know the enemy's strength at present, but not his strength in the future."

IS THAT WHAT HE WANTED?

The present activities of the Nationalists in Quebec under the leadership of Mr. Bourassa having attracted the notice of the Cleveland Plain-Dealer that paper undertakes editorially to explain to its readers the nature of this political movement. It says:

"The Nationalists do not profess to desire complete separation from England. They do demand, however, the establishment of an Imperial Parliament, in which laws for the Empire may be framed by representatives of all the self-governing dominions. Until the establishment of such a representative Imperial government they advise against helping the Mother Country in her hour of need."

The Cleveland paper is quite justified in drawing from Mr. Bourassa's deliverances the inference that what he wants is the closest kind of Imperial Federation, with a central Parliament meeting in London, attended by representatives from Canada and other parts of the Empire. Is that what he wants? He is not satisfied with things as they are, nor does he approve of the voluntary way in which Canada is assisting Britain with men and money in the war. He complains that we have no voice in the British government that declares war, and therefore should not assist in the work of prosecuting war. He seems to want Canada to be represented in a Parliament at London, and if this is his wish then a Nationalist is but an Imperial Federationist under another name.

If this is what Mr. Bourassa is trying to say, that he wants to snuggle closer, to make the Empire more Imperial, centralized, and compact, he has been a much misunderstood man.—Toronto Globe.

TIME TO CONSIDER TOLERABLE PEACE

London, Feb. 11.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Copenhagen asserts that Baron Buriann, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, at his recent meeting with the German Emperor, drew a doleful picture of the plight of the Dual Monarchy, and urged that the time had arrived for the Germanic powers to consider most seriously the possibilities for a tolerable peace.

The difference between opportunity and the rest of us is that old Op only knocks once.

ATTITUDE OF ITALY CONDEMNS GERMANY

Failure to Aid Triple Alliance Shows That the Kaiser Was Aggressor in War

William Roscoe Thayer, of Boston, whose "Life and Times of Cavour," established his rank as a historian, and who is admitted to be one of the leading American authorities upon Italy, points out that Italy's failure to join Germany and Austria is sufficient condemnation of the Teutonic Allies. As a partner of the Triple Alliance, she was bound to come to the support of Germany and Austria if they were attacked. She was specifically exempted from participation if they were the aggressors.

Italy had all the evidence before her, more evidence, probably, than is contained in all the White Papers. She was alternately threatened and coaxed by Germany. Yet she refused. As Mr. Thayer says, what more proof is wanted that Austria and Germany were the aggressors?

The Kaiser asserted that the sword was forced into his hand, that France had violated Belgian neutrality, that the war was one of defence against Russia, against the "navyism" of England. The sufficient answer to all this is the attitude of Italy.

Would not Fight England.

One interesting fact about the Triple Alliance, which Mr. Thayer gives on the authority of "the dean of Italian statesmen," who wrote to him a couple of months ago, and that has not previously been made public, is that Italy was specifically released from going to war with England, even if England should have waged offensive warfare against Germany or Austria.

There were two good reasons for this provision. In the first place, there has been a very strong friendship between Britain and Italy since the war for independence. In Palmerston and Lord John Russell Italy found valuable political allies. A similarity of national ideals, and the fact that there were no points of friction in foreign policy, caused uninterrupted good feeling.

Another reason for Italy's refusal to be a party to a war against England was the fact that when the Triple Alliance was entered upon Britain dominated the Mediterranean, just as Britain and France now dominate it. Every coast city in Italy could be destroyed by the British navy, and the greatest armies in the world could not save it.

Mr. Thayer reviews some of the reasons that Italy has ill-will against both Germany and Austria. She realizes now that she was tricked by Bismarck, and that her original fears of France, which were the chief Italian reasons for the Triple Alliance, were unfounded.

She feared that by abolishing the temporal authority of the Pope she had incurred the implacable hostility of the two great Catholic countries, Austria and France. She could not be sure that either or both of them would not conspire to restore the Pope to his old position.

Moreover, there was bad blood between Austria and Italy, and Bismarck suggested that if Italy entered the alliance she would at one stroke protect herself against both of her potential enemies. Events have proved that Italy needed no protection from France; and as for her relations with Austria it might be said that war was the only injury that she was not made to suffer. Indeed, it was part of Bismarck's policy to encourage enmity between the other partners of the alliance.

No Profit for Italy.

Italy has made nothing out of the alliance. The only territory that she has been permitted to acquire, Tripoli, she had to seize in opposition to her partners' wishes, for Mr. Thayer says that if Italy had not taken Tripoli Germany would have done so, although this move would have cost her the friendship of Turkey, which has been important in her recent policy.

He says that Italy ought to have been wise enough to see that without any alliance at all Germany would have been bound to defend Italy in the event of an attack from France. She has found, too, that Italian and German ideals are fundamentally opposed to each other.

The Italians, like all other Europeans, have resented the arrogance of the Germans, and since Bismarck took the helm in Germany not one word has been said by a German sovereign or minister of sympathy with democracy or freedom.

Sympathy With Allies.

In view of all these facts, Mr. Thayer does not believe it possible that Italy will remain neutral throughout the war. Self-preservation demands that she shall not see Germany triumph, for her statesmen know, probably having had it on the authority of the Kaiser, that in the event of a German triumph Italy would be the next victim.

An even stronger motive, if, indeed, there could be a stronger motive, will impel the Italians to fight side by side with the Allies. In their past civilization and in their modern ideals they belong with the Western powers, for they know the origin of their independence. German militarism is as much abhorred by the Italians as by the Americans. Italy's motto is the motto of Cavour, who said: "I am the son of Liberty. To her I owe all that I am."

SEATTLE RUSSIAN CONSUL HAS JURISDICTION HERE

Seattle, Feb. 11.—Nicholas Bogaiavlensky, Russian consul at Seattle, has been notified that his office has been raised to a consul-generalship, with jurisdiction over Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Alaska, and British Columbia. There are only two other Russian consul-generals in the United States—at San Francisco and Chicago.

ALASKA GOLD.
 In light of the values revealed on the Alaska Gold property, the bargain the United States made with Russia in 1867, to purchase the territory of Alaska for $7,200,000, looks like "some bargain. At current price for Alaska gold, 28, the market put a valuation on that property alone double the purchase price of the entire district. The 750,000 shares outstanding are selling for $21,- 000,000. Subtracting the $7,500,- 000 new American dollars invested in property development, there is left a valuation equal to $13,- 500,000.
 And yet, when it was proposed to purchase the 590,884 square miles of territory, included in Alaska at 2 cents an acre forty-eight years ago, the price was considered high. Not one in a hundred believed the territory worth the purchase price, and Russia chuckled when she was voted the money by an unwilling American Congress. — Boston

SKETCHES OF MEN WHO HEAD RUSSIAN FORCES
 Grand Duke Nicholas, General
 Ruskky and General Ivanov
 Make Strong Triumvirate.
 The first thing that strikes one about the Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian armies, is his immense height. The next is his modest, diffident manner. He is "first and last and all the time" a soldier. Among soldiers he is happy and at ease. For other occupations and other people he has little interest to spare.
 When he received the party of journalists which the Russian government sent round some of the Galician and Polish battlefields, the hand which held the manuscript from which he read his little speech shook. He was very nervous, and did not hide his relief when the ceremony was over. He showed marked courtesy, shaking hands all round both at the beginning and at the finish. But he has not the knack of being all things to all men.
 He might not, perhaps, be so valuable a soldier if he had.
 When he was given supreme command of Russia's land forces at the beginning of the war there were many who doubted the wisdom of the choice. "A Grand Duke!" they said, with a world of meaning in their tone. Since the campaign started such mur-murers have been silent. Opinion is undivided that he has proved himself the best man for the post.
Trained All His Life
 All his life he has been in training for it. All his life he has hoped to lead the troops of the Czar, his nephew, to war. When the Russian army was ordered to mobilize the end of July in answer to Teutonic insolence, people in Russia said, "It is Nicolai's mobilization." He had certainly urged it. He knew what the enemy could do. He is a proud man and it had hurt his pride to see Russia swallow Germany's former insults. His counsels prevailed. His army has fully justified them.
 Born in 1856, just after the Crimean war, he served with his father in the campaign against Turkey in 1877-78. He was thus brought up in the methods of the old school, but his mind was too active to be enslaved by them. He saw that a change was coming.
 The day of war as a "great game" had passed. The day of war as an exact and sinister science was at hand.
 The Grand Duke threw himself into the study of it, passing high out of the Russian Staff College, made friends among the intellectual officers. If he did not become a great strategist, he learned to distinguish between good and bad strategy, and his energetic temperament told him that any plan put through vigorously is better than a first-class
 plan handled in a hesitating, faithless way.

What he orders has to be done.
 No general can run to the Czar
 with a complaint, as happened during the war in Manchuria. If he says, "This is a good scheme," that scheme is energetically carried out. Although the scheme may be General Ruskky's, and the details of its execution settled by General Ivanov, the Grand Duke has the most onerous and responsible task of all. They are heads of departments. He is managing director.
Is Against Corruption Another benefit of his being there is that he sets his face against corruption. He will not have this war disfigure the page of history with scandals like those of the campaign against the Japanese. "Remember, gentlemen," he said firmly to the commissariat officers before he went to the front, "no stealing."
 There are very few contractors making fortunes out of this war.
 Much of the material for the army is furnished by the Zemstvoes (county councils). Instead of letting a contractor supply boots, each council requires every bootmaker in its district to make two pairs of boots every week at a fair price. It is an infinitely better plan than ours. But it partly explains why the Jews are against the war.
 If the Grand Duke has a favorite arm, it is cavalry. "He was for ten years inspector of it for the Empire. Then he took command

GOOD REPORT ON PRINCE RUPERT FISH
 The following is from a recent issue of the Fish Trades Gazette:
 "In a recent issue, the early arrival of supplies of Prime Pacific halibut and salmon from Prince Rupert was announced, and we are now informed that the first consignment of halibut, which it will be remembered had such an excellent reception in the English market this time last year, has come to hand. It is highly satisfactory to be able to state that it has arrived in really first-class condition, and Mr. Thomas Robinson, of Grimsby, who has organized this interesting feature, has received good evidence of this in a message from a customer, a fishmonger at Sleaford, who has reported on the fish as follows:
 "That was a beautiful halibut
 you sent, and which I am now using; good enough for any trade in the kingdom. It is absolutely perfect."

HOW JACK WILL REACH JUAREZ IS UNEXPLAINED

Champion's Entrance Into Mexico Is Puzzling the Boxing Fans.

El Paso, Texas, Feb. 11.—How Jack Johnson will enter Mexico and arrive at Juarez for his battle March 6 with Jess Willard is still unexplained.

It was learned yesterday that Federal officials are on the lookout should the negro, who is wanted on an indictment in Chicago, attempt to smuggle himself to Juarez through the United States. Villa's attack on Tampico, which if captured would allow Johnson to enter that port from the Barbadoes, has not developed, and Mexico City's occupation by the Carranza troops has done away with any chance of his entering from Central America. Jack Curley, the fight promoter, will not return here from his Eastern trip till late this week.

Jess Willard, who is expected to meet Johnson at Juarez, has had some good workouts at his ranch training camp down the Rio Grande Valley. So far, Willard has done only light work to develop his wind, which appears to have been slightly affected by the altitude.

SUGGEST A SHRINE FOR BRITISH EMPIRE

Would Include All Creeds and Sects and Be a Memorial of Victorious War.

"Why is it that Christians of all Churches, Jews, Mohammedans, Sikhs, Hindus, Buddhists, and all the diverse races of the British Empire who worship God in other forms, were earnest in their devotion to the cause?" asks Mr. E. Kay Robinson in The Indianian, and his answer leads him on to make a notable suggestion for a war memorial.

"It was because they knew that the cause was right; and no matter in what shape you may worship God, if you worship Him at all, you choose the right when the issue between right and wrong is clear," says Mr. Robinson.

"So clear was it in the case of this war that one needs no gift of prophecy to say that ten years hence the Germans themselves will freely admit that their cause was hopeless, because it was, from the moral point of view, so bad. They were misled, both by their philosophers and by their rulers.

"When the war shall end in the victory of right over wrong, of good over evil, there will be hosts of loyal citizens of the Empire thanking God for the victory, although their conceptions of God and their beliefs concerning His relations with man may differ widely in detail.

"So the question arises whether the most fitting memorial of this great war, or at any rate our part of the memorial, should not be the erection of a Temple of the Empire, wherein all subjects of the Empire might draw together to thank their God for the victory. No matter how deeply creeds may differ, the worship of God is the central purpose of them all; and it would not pass human ingenuity to devise by common agreement a single form of religious service appropriate for the use of men of every religion and every mode of thought, and to erect in the center of the metropolis a building of simplicity and grandeur appropriate to the holding of such service in the name of the British Empire.

"The mind naturally conceives the suggested building as a lofty hall, surrounded by a number of smaller halls, each of the latter being set apart—as Christian temple—for the worshippers of a special creed, and serving as the anteroom through which the adherents of that creed would pass, after holding their own religious service, into the great central hall to take part in the simple service to God in which men of all creeds would combine.

"Imagination can scarcely conceive a grander or more significant spectacle than would be presented by a service in which the King-Emperor, surrounded by the men of all races and creeds who shall have helped to win this great war of right against wrong, assembled to thank God for the power which He had given to them in the hour of the Empire's need."

GERMAN GRAND ADMIRAL COMPARES RIVAL FLEETS

Berlin, via London, Feb. 11.—Grand Admiral Von Koester, president of the German Navy League, in an address at Kiel University, yesterday discussed the considerations governing the part that is to be played by the German navy in the present war. He said that the relative strength of the German fleet, compared to the Anglo-French-Russian fleet, is perhaps one to four. The British, he added, perhaps estimated Germany's lust for battle so highly that they had said to themselves, "Some day they will come and we shall be able to assume battle in a situation favorable to us."

Regard for German Fleet.
Another possibility, Admiral Von Koester declared, was that the British have a higher regard for the German fleet than Nelson had for the French or the Spanish. That the offensive spirit of the Germans is greater than that of the British, the admiral continued, can justly be assumed when one recalls that the Germans took the offensive against England's east coast, whereas the English have not dared to approach the German coast.

"We are full of the firmest confidence in our fleet," said Admiral von Koester, "but we know that a sea battle means death or victory, and that a fleet cannot be replaced in the course of the war, even if it lasts for years. We must, therefore, under all conditions, be cautious in our procedure and allow ourselves to be incited to no deed which might eventuate in our defeat.

Reckons on Victory.
"Our fleet must protect us under all conditions and may accept battle only when it can reckon on victory."

Admiral Von Koester said that the course of the naval war up to the present had caused him great surprise. He added that the British Secretary of State for the Navy seven years ago stated that Germany would wake up some morning and find her fleet gone. He also recalled the utterance of Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the British Admiralty, in a speech at London last September, in which the German fleet was designated as a "luxury," in which he said that if the warships did not come out and fight they would be "dug out like rats in a hole."

Nelson's Spirit Lacking.
"After these sayings," Admiral Von Koester declared, "one expected other things from the British fleet than it has accomplished. I am almost tempted to believe that the spirit of Nelson no longer lives in it."

Most girls are so anxious to meet their fate that they go looking for him.
