Vancouver, B. C., March 19.—A racial war broke out in the colony last night. As a result, Rattan Singh was murdered, and Bela Singh was shot in the chest. The attack took place at a Hindu temple at 1829 Granville Street. Singh was arrested on a charge of murder. The injured men are friends of Singh, the immigration employee who assisted the authorities at the time of the Komagata Maru incident.

WAKE UP!

Imagine yourself in the place of that Montreal banker who had to puzzle his brains out for six weeks in a vain attempt to explain a simple problem in arithmetic to a couple of "financiers" from Prince Rupert and then after having put everything in writing for them, to have received a wire asking him what he really meant. Wouldn't you get the impression that Prince Rupert was a little Siwash village away in the woods and still uninvaded by the whites? How long will it be before Prince Rupert will wake up and elect men to office whose very presence would inspire confidence in the city and who would know whether they were paying a commission of $27,000 or $81,000? It costs money to have "dough-heads" in charge of our affairs.

SHOT BY HIS OWN GUN AFTER MAKING ARREST

(Special to The Daily News.)
Vancouver, March 19.—Charles Painter, a night watchman on the B. C. E. Railway, was shot through the body at 3 a. m. today by an unknown Italian. He had arrested the man, who was stealing copper from the tracks at Oak Street, and had handcuffs on him; when the Italian struck him with his loose cuff and then drew Painter's gun and shot him.

TWO FISHERMEN WERE LOST ON BANKS

The fishing boat Skugaid, of the Gold Storage Company, with Captain Selig in command, had the misfortune of losing two of its men in the recent trip to the fishing banks.

The Skugaid arrived back yesterday afternoon with its flag at half mast and it was soon learned what the trouble was.

Two of their men, J. Iverson and M. C. Chatwind were fishing in one of the dories, when a squall came up and capsized the boat. As soon as Captain Selig saw the squall he proceeded to the assistance of the boat, but before he got there it had gone over and there was no sign of the men. He cruised around for some time, expecting that the men might have got entangled in the tackling, but was doomed to disappointment.

The Skugaid went out on Sunday and the accident occurred on Monday about three miles east of Danger Rocks, in Hecate Strait. Both of the men were experienced fishermen. Iverson was a Norwegian and Chatwind a Nova Scotian. This accident is the first that has happened among the fishermen from Prince Rupert.

The Skugaid brought in about 40,000 pounds of fish.

THE PRINCE RUPERT PILGRIMS' PROGRESS

Being a More or Less Truthful Account of the Great Journey of Sam and Dan to the Far East.

(Contributed.)
Behold, it came to pass, that, during the first year of the great war, Sam, the chief citizen of the City of the Great Warrior, who was called Rupert, accompanied by his keeper of the shekels, Dan, proceeded on a hazardous journey to the far eastern country.

They tarried by the way at the City of the Great Queen, and there they took counsel with Sir Richard of the Big Mitt. The pilgrims discussed the affairs of their city with Sir Richard, explaining how the city was plentifully supplied with water, power, and hot-air, but that there was a great scarcity of shekels. They told him of their intention to journey into the Far East to interview some of the wise men regarding the borrowing of shekels, and Sir Richard saw that it was good, and they departed with his blessing.

The pilgrims turned their faces to the East with light hearts and bright hopes, for, as Sam said, "If Sir Richard is for us, who can be against us?"

In due season, Sam and Dan arrived at the city by the St. Lawrence, which is called Montreal, but the wise men had seen them afar off, and murmured amongst themselves, and smiled, saying, "easimoni." Now Sam and Dan, being men of great renown in their own land, did not heed the murmuring, as they could not imagine it applied to them. Was not Sam a great leader of thought and moulder of the public mind? Was not Dan a merchant famed for his sagacity?

Now, it came to pass, that they held counsel with the wise men, explaining that the supply of shekels in their faroff domain had gone short, and that there were many requests for them. The wise men considered amongst themselves and then told the pilgrims that they would help them, if they received in return 6 shekels per centum per annum, and 2

MILAN PEOPLE SHOUT FOR WAR

Rome, March 19.—A statement made here on good authority states that within a fortnight Italy's attitude will be changed. An imposing popular demonstration urging intervention was held yesterday in Milan. Huge crowds gathered in the cathedral square singing patriotic hymns and shouting "Down with Austria!" The troops and police were powerless to disperse the crowd. A few Socialists, who shouted "Long Live Neutrality," narrowly escaped lynching.

Signor Chiesa, the Republican deputy, addressed the citizens. He said the time had come to deliver Italians from Austrian rule and widen the country's boundaries. The police repeatedly charged the crowds, but were unable to prevent a procession marching to the offices of the newspaper Popolo Italia, where the editor delivered a speech. He said Italians wanted war against Austria and Germany, and no negotiations would prevent it as the people were determined to impose their will. The speech was greeted with cheers, which continued till midnight.

Following a conference at the Royal Palace between King Victor Emanuel, Premier Salandra and Minister of War Zupelli, it was announced that an extraordinary session of the entire Cabinet will be held at once.

HINDENBURG FAILS TO REACH WARSAW—RUSSAINS AGAIN IN EAST PRUSSIA—WITH HEAVY WESTERN PRES-SURE GERMANS CANNOT MOVE.

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, March 19.—The failure of Von Hindenburg's attempts to reach Warsaw and the reappearance of the Russians on the East Prussian frontier at Tilsit, together with the allied offensive in the west, it is declared by experts, will tie up the Germans so they dare not shift a force in either the east or the west. The next German move is a mystery, though it is expected to be against the British front. The German government is enrolling women to take the place of men willing to go to the front.

The Austrians have been reinforced, and have resumed a strong offensive in Bukovina.

SPAIN SATISFIED WITH CARRANZA EXPLANATION

Madrid, March 19.—(Via Paris)—The Spanish government has published a note saying it has accepted in principle explanations offered by General Carranza concerning the expulsion from Mexico City of the Spanish minister, Jose Caro.

General Carranza, the note said, requested Spain to send to his capital a confidential agent to replace Caro, who, he says, "was expelled because of the excitement and passions of the populace and the fear of disagreeable consequences if he remained."

Manuel Walls Merino, who was appointed minister to Mexico some time ago, but never presented his credentials, probably will be named as confidential agent.

Indemnity to Spanish subjects for their losses resulting from the revolution is promised by Carranza, the note says, when peace is established.

JAPANESE PRESS THE CHINESE

Yokohama, via, Tokio, March 19.—The despatch of Japanese garrison troops to Manchuria and Northern China, which has been confirmed, has centered the attention of the country upon the negotiations for concessions from China. The newspapers express the belief that these military movements are in preparation for eventualities in case China declines to accede to Japan's demands. It is their opinion that the old garrisons will remain until the negotiations are concluded satisfactorily.

The semi-official press characterizes as dangerous delusions "the idea of the Chinese that Japan is not determined to insist on its demands and that they lack the support of the people."

GIRL DROPS 1,400 FEET.

San Diego, March 19.—Brig. Gen. George P. Scriven, chief of the aeronautical corps of the United States, yesterday witnessed his first demonstration of an aerial life preserver. Leaping out of an aeroplane from an altitude of 1,400 feet, the 18-year-old daughter of Charles Broadwick, inventor of the apparatus, made a safe landing.

EDITORIALS

The Journal, as usual, is "talking through its hat." When it says that "Liberalism is as dead in Dominion politics as it is in this province" it becomes ridiculous by shutting its eyes to what everybody knows to be facts, for the Mc-Bride government has scarcely yet regained its breath from the sudden retreat it made from a contest with the Liberals. It is still more laughable to speak of the "sane policy of Sir Robert Borden." According to The Journal "sane politics" is firing 2,000 civil servants and hiring 10,000 in their place, or admitting that one Liberal is as good as five Tories. The Journal doesn't know the difference between freer trade and Free Trade—but then it is hopeless to argue and educate at once. When it says that the present tendency is to keep everything at home, it apparently disapproves of shipping fish to the United States, thus throwing hundreds of local people out of employment.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has no intention at present of throwing down the whole tariff wall, but he will refuse protection to those who do not need it and who are bleeding the people with their exorbitant prices. He realizes, however, that Canada's natural products are as yet hardly scratched and that it would bring about great prosperity to secure for them the great American markets. The Journal and its party believes in a "Little Canada," with everything owned by a few; the Liberals believe in a "Great Canada," with its resources developed and with a tariff that prevents the growth of monopolies and trusts. The Liberals believe in progress; they refuse to concede that all the wisdom was with the past. The Tories are hidebound; they cannot conceive that "any good thing can come out of Nazareth"; as far as progress is concerned, they are dead. This, of course, doesn't apply to the rank and file of the party, many of whom vote Tory because their fathers did, but it applies to the leaders of the party and to party organs like The Journal; but then we are going to have a respectable funeral in June and the party of progress and prosperity under Sir Wilfrid will be restored.

The policy of the Dominion government is to increase the duties upon the many commodities coming into the country, make the people pay extra millions and enrich the manufacturers. The policy of the opposition is to make no increase in the tariff but to cut down in the reckless expenditures.

The present administration has been recklessly wasteful. Here is an example: The revenue of the Land Department for the present year, closing at the end of the present month, is less than $3,000,000. The expenditure in 1911 was $2,277,098. The expenditure for the current year is slightly over $4,000,000. That is some idea of the way that the money is wasted. The homestead entries in 1911 were 44,569, considerably more than for the present year.

Of the employees who were working in the Department of the Interior in 1911, 309 were dismissed, 374 resigned and 1,651 new officials were appointed. In other words, though the work was decreasing the government created in this one department 968 new positions. Is it surprising that the government has run through the surpluses and is now showing deficits?

The government asks for more taxes upon the people and greater protection for the manufacturers. The opposition asks for fewer jobs for officials and some retrenchment.

Colonel Henry Watterson, the distinguished American journalist, says editorially in the Louisville Courier-Journal: "If Germany could win, the German government, inflated by success, would at once turn upon us and say, 'To hell with your Monroe Doctrine! We will go wherever we please to go! That would mean war with Germany, and in such an event the German-Americans, who had made common cause with the Vaterland, would be something more than suspects, and it might become our duty to drive them out of the country.'

"These latter have conclusively shown that they are not Americans at all, but merely and belligerently a German colony in American. If war should come they would have to be assembled in detention camps and branded as public enemies. If, under recent orders of the German Admiralty, an American ship carrying its load of passengers should be blown up in the Irish Sea, the explosion, like that of the Maine in Havana harbor, would reverberate from the Atlantic to the Pacific. War would be instantly declared by Congress. In many parts of the United States the life of no German-American would be safe. Bloody Monday would have many duplicates and repetitions."—Calgary Albertan.

MOTION-PICTURE ACTOR SHOT IN PLAY BATTLE

Clarence Chandler Is Victim of a Realistic Attack on Cabin Near Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 19.—Clarence Chandler, a motion-picture actor, was shot and killed during the staging of a battle scene in the San Fernando Valley.

Chandler was a member of an attacking party instructed to capture soldiers barricaded in a cabin. Before word was given for them to commence firing with their revolvers, a single shot was heard and Chandler fell in the midst of his companions, shot in the forehead. All threw down their weapons. No one laid claim to the one revolver with a discharged cartridge.

The revolvers were loaded with bullets in order to produce a realistic scene in shooting down the door of the cabin.

SCHOOLS FOR FARMERS HELP PATRIOTISM AND PRODUCTION

The Grand Trunk Pacific authorities report that the various provincial governments in Western Canada are co-operating in a very enthusiastic manner with the Federal Government's "Patriotism and Production" campaign.

The government of the Province of Alberta is lending practical assistance to the better farming movement by enlarging the scope of agricultural instruction. During the last week in February a school was held at Tofield, Alta., at which lectures and demonstrations were continuously given without charge.

A special train of eight cars of live stock were handled over the Grand Trunk Pacific to Tofield for the purpose of demonstrating the good points of different classes of animals.

At the first session of the school there were from one hundred and fifty to two hundred farmers present, and interest increased during the week. At night when lectures were held in the Town Hall, the building was crowded and not all who wished could gain admission.

PEACE RIVER ROAD IS READY TO START

Vancouver, March 16.—Charles F. Law, mining engineer, representative in this province for Mr. D. A. Thomas, the Welsh mining magnate, who is at the head of the scheme to construct a railway in the north, running eastward from the coast, states that a start is to be made this year on the project. While no schemes are being floated on the London market, Mr. Law, who has just returned from England, states that financial arrangements have been made for the construction of the first tramway in connection with the main navigation scheme.

Steamer on Peace River.

In addition, one of the proposed steamers will be placed on Peace River this year. The tramway will be at Vermilion Chutes on the Upper Peace River, thus affording facilities to connect with the lower waters of the Peace, the Athabaska and Slave Rivers and the Slave Lakes. The survey work started last year will also be continued this year, and that drilling on the oil properties of the company near Vermilion Chutes will be vigorously prosecuted. The company is applying for permission to change its terminal from Nasoga Gulf to Kitimat Arm, and also to make a partial change of route.

ALMOST MIRACULOUS BRITISH GUNNERY

Admiral Beatty's astonishment at the accuracy of the gunfire which gave him victory over the raiding fleet from the Kaiser's navy is shared by all the world. It was rated as a modern naval wonder that the Invincible sank the Scharnhorst at a range of 15,000 yards, but it appears from the official report of the North Sea action on January 24 that hits were scored off the Derfflinger, Seydlitz and Moltke at 17,000 yards.

Ten miles! So far away that from the weather decks of the pursuers the enemy's hulls were below the horizon, and could be only half seen by a man fifty feet aloft on the mast. "The enemy's vessels," said the victorious admiral, "could certainly have been not more than a blur on the horizon to the gunner, and the men at the range-finders could have seen but little more." Sir David does not exaggerate when he remarks that "it is intensely gratifying to the laymen to learn that the guns of our magnificent battle cruisers can hit hard, hit first and keep on hitting an enemy that they cannot see, while the vessels are tearing through the water at the rate of thirty-four land miles an hour." Gratifying? It is stupefying to the layman, and it fills even fighting sailors with wonderment. — Providence Bulletin.

The United States War Department officials are reported doubtful as to whether any Federal law forbids American militia officers to serve with foreign troops, but none will be permitted to serve with any of the belligerents if means can be found to prevent it, according to Washington dispatches.

IN SLINGSBY CASE

Suit Involves Legitimacy of Heir to $500,000 Yorkshire Estate.

London, March 19.—An appeal has been entered against the recent verdict in the Slingsby legitimacy suit, under which the son of Charles R. Slingsby, of San Francisco, was declared to be the legitimate heir to the $500,000 estate of the Slingsby family in Yorkshire.

The suit involves the question whether an infant, Charles Eugene, born in San Francisco and declared to be the lawful son of Charles R. Slingsby and his wife, is the rightful successor to the Slingsby estate.

The contestants charged that the child born to Mrs. Slingsby in 1910 in San Francisco and which was the rightful heir died and that another child was substituted for it.

SMALL SAVINGS IMPORTANT.

Better for a Youth to Save Himself Than to Receive 1,000 Guineas.

A wise man said 150 years ago that it was better for a youth to learn to shave himself than to receive a gift of 1,000 guineas.

The man who shaves himself every morning saves a great deal of time and also the income of a good $1,000 bond for that day.

The man who cuts out one 10-cent cigar every day saves at least the dividend on twelve shares of Pennsylvania railroad stock.

One less drink of ordinary whiskey a day would more than pay for the bread of two persons for that day.

Uncle Sam will carry a letter for ten thousand miles for what you paid for that one Turkish cigarette you are smoking.

If you had all five morning newspapers sent to your home you would grumble at your own extravagance. That single cocktail before dinner costs you more than twice as much.

WILL UNITED STATES ASSIST THE CHINESE?

Were the United States to be embroiled with Japan over the latter's attitude towards China, the allied cause would be seriously affected. Hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of war materials are being obtained in the United States, and these would cease to be available were a clash between the Republic and the Mikado's empire to take place. The Far Eastern situation may develop to the acute stage, but British influence is likely to keep Japan within bounds. But Japan is the strongest naval power in the Pacific and the preoccupation of European nations puts a strong temptation in her way. The world may say that Japan acts unfairly in seizing the opportunity to establish herself as the suzerain power of China, but it is only twenty years since the European powers were moved by righteous indignation to prevent Japan taking the spoils of her victory over China, and by cupidity to help themselves. The Christian nations of the world set an example for Japan on that occasion that leaves them in no position to preach to her a sermon on morality.

The United States has not covered herself with glory as the big policeman of America, as witness the existing conditions in Mexico. Is it possible that she will show up to better advantage as the champion of the Chinese republic? No other power is in a position to read the riot act to Japan at present, and unless President Wilson shows that he is prepared to go beyond professional platitudes China must lose the independence of a self-respecting nation. Should matters unexpectedly result in hostilities Japan could seize the Philippines and all the other American naval bases in the Pacific during the first few weeks of war and Washington would have to sign an inglorious peace or prolong the struggle for years until she received assistance from other nations or until her own fleet was strong enough to risk a decisive engagement thousands of miles from friendly ports under conditions imposed by the enemy. Although Japan and Britain are allies in the great world struggle, a clash between the United States and Japan would not bring Britain into conflict with the United States. The treaty between Britain and Japan specifically exempts Britain from the necessity of acting against the United States.—Toronto Star.

A PASTORAL SCENE.

"The Western Howl" has a striking cartoon in a recent issue showing a pastoral scene in British Columbia. The picture shows two spotted cows and a milkman with "whiskers" like the late Minister of Finance. Underneath is the following information:

"This famous picture, painted by a world-famed artist at the farm of Hon. Preece Ellison, is to be hung in the museum of the Parliament Buildings at Victoria, B. C. It will also be sent to England, France and Belgium for the purpose of attracting settlers. When it is learned that $400 cows can be purchased for $25 there is sure to be a flood of immigration unparalleled in the history of the province. The picture entitled 'Down on the Farm.' The beautiful milkmaid is none other than our old friend in the disguise adopted by him to avoid detection when purchasing cows at the government farm.

PRICE OF WHEAT IS TO BE HIGH FOR YEARS

Toronto, March 19.—There is at the present time about two billion bushels of wheat, the production of the countries at war, tied up. This is about one-half the world's total production of wheat, which is four million bushels. One writer argues that, granting that the warring nations produce a one-half crop in the coming year, a deficit of one billion bushels will still be shown. The three countries upon which the filling of this deficit of one billion bushels will rest are the United States, Canada and Argentina. The combined output of these three countries is only 1,249,000,000 bushels; their exportable surplus would, of course, be much less, so it can easily be seen that the question is not one to be easily solved, and it behooves all the above countries to increase their respective productions as much as they possibly can, for when the war is over and trade begins to reestablish itself and the nations undergo a process of rehabilitation the demands for all breadstuffs will be enormous.

During the three years following the declaration of peace the farmers of all neutral wheat-producing countries will have ample opportunity to market their wheat at good prices, and it may safely be assumed that the demand will be heavy. Canada has an unusual opportunity in that she has the natural environment for wheat production; she is under the protection of the British flag, and she will not be molested upon the water to any great extent; she can increase her acreage and greatly enhance her production. In other words, she can become a far greater wheat-producing country than she is at the present time.

The Great Warrior, the wise men had used the Latin tongue, and this probably beguiled the simple pilgrims, who had been used respectively to figuring so much for three inches, double column, and so many for a quarter. They agreed to the bargain, but there was a little doubt in their minds as to the meaning of the words, "per centum, per annum." It came to pass, however, that the wise men agreed to provide them with a manuscript which they could show to their brethren.

Delighted that they had found "easimoni," and had seen so many wonderful things and had conversed with so many wise men, the pilgrims set out on the return journey to their homes. On the way, Dan was cheerful and buoyant, in spite of the rigors of the journey; but Sam was thoughtful and morose. In his sleep, he could be heard murmuring "per centum, per annum," but Dan kept replying "easimoni, easimoni."

At last they returned to their brethren, and Sam offered up fervent thanks that it was all over, but, again, it was not so. In due season, they met with the counsellors, and assured them of the success of their pilgrimage.

Now, it came to pass, that several of the counsellors asked questions regarding the cost of the journey, and how many shekels were to be retained by the wise men. Sam gravely recounted the trials of the hazardous journey and of their meeting with the wise men, and Dan smiled his assent.

Then Counsellor George, He of the Wise Eye, asked how much "per centum" would the wise men get. Sam replied "6 per centum, per annum, and 2 per centum."

Now Counsellor Monty, He of the Stout Heart, arose and asked if "2 per centum" also meant "2 per centum per annum." Sam was startled at this unheard of knowledge of the Latin tongue, but was able to reply: "No, I don't think so; but Sir Frederick provided a manuscript which I have with me."

Now, the manuscript said clearly, "6 per centum, per annum, and 2 per centum, per annum"; and Sam and Dan looked at each other, and both said, "We didn't think so."

It became clear to the rest of the counsellors that Sam and Dan did not know what they had got, nor what it had cost, so they sent a special message to the wise men asking what Sam and Dan had agreed upon, and the wise men replied: "6 per centum, per annum, and 2 per centum, per annum." At this the counsellors fell sick and saw visions.

In their visions they saw their children, and their children's children, toiling that the cost of the pilgrimage of Sam and Dan might be paid.
