(Special to The Daily News.)
Petrograd, March 22.—The Russian army in the Caucasus announces a sweeping victory over the Turks in Armenia. On the Gradno-Suwalki road the Germans were driven back for a distance of twenty miles. The Russians have also entered and taken possession of the German fortress of Memil, on the Baltic coast of Konigsburg.

VARIOUS AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT NEAR SEATTLE

(Special to The Daily News.)
Seattle, March 22.—In a collision between an auto, driven by C. B. Blethen, editor of the Seattle Times, and a driving party from Kent, Wash., at noon yesterday, E. C. Burke and wife, of Burke-Farrar Co., were seriously injured, and Mrs. Thos. A. Orell, wife of an Ellensburg farmer, was killed. The horses were frightened by two racing cars and fell over a seventy-foot precipice, breaking their necks.

SEAWEED INDUSTRY.

Vancouver, March 22.—An industry about which little is heard of the marketing of kelp seaweed. Naturally, there are quantities at almost every point along the coast, and attention is now being turned to the production from it of potash, lime and other products. That reduction works may be established is indicated by the passage of a bill in the past Legislature, introduced with a view to getting control of any industrial establishment along this line that is not established. While kelp has not been reduced in this province, it has been marketed, and on a steamer for the Orient for the past past bales have been shipped from Victoria. These go to China and Japan.

TURKS STRENGTHEN DARDANELLES WITH LARGE ADDITION OF TROOPS

Work of Taking Fortress Hampered by Floating Mines and Bad Weather---Bombardment on Thursday Was Effective---Ships Beat Land Guns.

(Special to The Daily News.)
Athens, March 22.—The Turkish forces on the coast of the Gulf of Smyrna have been reinforced to the number of 80,000. Ten thousand troops have been sent to strengthen the garrison of the Dardanelles.

Drifting Mines.
London, March 22.—Drifting mines carried hither and thither by the shifting currents in the Dardanelles now furnish the chief offensive to the Allied fleets according to a Tondos correspondent of The Daily Telegraph.

With the object of thwarting the work of the mine sweepers, the Turks send out a small craft at night, which cuts the ropes holding the mines to their anchorages, trusting to the currents that prevail to carry some of them against the warships. Such mines have been found on the outside of the straits and had been carried many miles out to sea by the currents.

The indirect fire of the allied ships on Thursday is reported to have been very effective. The Queen Elizabeth lay below Kaleb and did very effective work. A dispatch says Fort Kalid Bahr appeared to have been silenced by the shelling on Thursday and if this should prove to be true it is evidence of great progress.

Bad Weather.
London, March 22.—The Admiralty makes the following announcement: "Unfavorable weather has interfered with the operations in the Dardanelles and as seaplane reconnoitering have not been possible the amount of damage done by bombardment on the 18th cannot be ascertained. No great expectations, however, should be based on this as owing to losses caused by drifting mines the attack was not pressed to its conclusion on that date." "The power of the fleet to dominate the fortresses by the superiority of its fire seems established.

LOCAL MAN IS ILL IN ENGLAND-- COL. FARQUHAR KILLED IN ACTION

WILFRED C. MACDONALD REMOVED TO MILITARY HOSPITAL--HEAD OF PRINCESS PATRICIAS MEETS HIS DEATH AT THE FRONT.

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, March 22.—Private Wilfred C. Macdonald, of the 30th Battalion, Second Canadian Contingent, is seriously ill and has been admitted to the Schorncliffe Military Hospital. Next of kin is Mrs. B. Macdonald, of Prince Rupert, B. C.
Colonel Farquhar, officer commanding the Princess Patricia's, has been killed in action. Colonel Farquhar was late military secretary to the Governor General the Duke of Connaught.

ANOTHER GERMAN SUBMARINE VICTIM

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, March 22.—The British steamer Cairntorr was torpedoed yesterday afternoon off Beachy Head in the English Channel and sank, according to a Central News dispatch from Eastbourne. Her crew escaped.

ANOTHER STEAMER BREAKS INTERNMENT

(Special to The Daily News.)
San Juan, Porto Rico, March 22.—The German steamer Odenwald, which has been interned here since August 6, attempted to escape. She was stopped by gunfire from Morro Castle, and returned to port.

OMINECA CANDIDATE OFFICIALLY RATIFIED

A. M. Manson returned last evening from the Interior, where he held several meetings in the principal centres of his constituency.
On Friday night, at Smithers, Mr. Manson's nomination was officially ratified. Before it was found out that Mr. Manson would consider the nomination for that constituency the names of L. L. De Voin, J. Mason Adams and T. J. Vaughan Rhys had been prominently mentioned. To show the unanimity with which the candidacy of Mr. Manson was received, it is sufficient to say that Mr. De Voin moved the resolution adopting Mr. Manson as candidate, and Mr. Mason Adams seconded it.

Representatives were there from Telkwa, Aldermere, Pleasant Valley, Hazelton, New Hazelton, Skeena Crossing, Chicken Lake, Smithers, Ootsa Lake, South Francois Lake, North Francois Lake and Burn's Lake. All those present showed a united front for the Liberals and great enthusiasm for their candidate, Mr. A. M. Manson.

The meeting at Smithers was presided over by Mr. Laidlaw, the lumber merchant of Burn's Lake.

McBRIDE'S DAY IS DONE

Get on the List!

Anybody who is a registered voter in British Columbia can be transferred to the local list providing he does it forty days before election. As the election date has not been announced there may still be time for this.

Anyone who is not registered and who is six months in the province should apply before April 4, when the new Court of Revision will be held. This will enable him to vote in June if the Federal election is held then.

Apply to L. W. Patmore, G. R. Naden, Williams & Manson, or any other commissioner.

PRESBYTERIAN SERVICES.

Mr. A. M. Grant, the Presbyterian student-preacher from Terrace, supplied the local Presbyterian pulpit yesterday in the absence of the regular pastor, Rev. H. R. Grant, and his services were very much appreciated.

Mr. Grant, who is taking a course in Westminster Hall in Vancouver, has a great asset in that "spiritual gift," the Scottish "brogue," which has made Scottish clergymen famous wherever they have gone. He also shows the promise of intellectual traits of no mean order and he is likely to be heard from yet.

It is very fitting that the Scots have been identified as the lost tribes of the House of Israel. They seem to turn out more clergymen and a higher grade than any other corner of the globe. No wonder the Scottish Patriarch ended up his petition to the Throne of Grace by the phrase, "And wilt thou prosper thine own chosen people—the Scots."

THE DIFFERENCE.

Alex. M. Manson, the Liberal candidate for Omineca, is no relation to Wm. Manson. They do not even go to the same church. Alex. is no weakling that will sit in a corner and whisper, "Yes, Sir," when the big noise commands it. He will be a live representative.—Omineca Herald.

NEW YORK POPULATION HAS REACHED 5,333,547

AVALANCHE AT BRITANNIA MINES

(Special to The Daily News.)

Vancouver, B. C., March 22.—An avalanche at midnight Sunday fell on the bunkhouses at the Britannia mines. Hundreds of miners are entombed and it is feared there will be a serious loss of life.

The steamer Ballena left Vancouver this morning with doctors, nurses and wrecking crews. The company refuses to issue a statement until the extent of the damage is known.

The camp is two miles from the beach. Much injury has been done to the aerial tramway.

ATTEMPTED AIR ATTACK ON PARIS

(Special to The Daily News.)

Paris, March 22.—Six Zeppelins attempted a Sunday attack but were driven back before reaching Paris. The only casualty was an aged woman frightened to death by a bomb explosion.

VICTIM OF VANCOUVER SHOOTING DIED YESTERDAY

(Special to The Daily News.)

Vancouver, March 22.—Charles Painter, the B. C. E. R. night-watchman who was shot in the abdomen by a thief on Friday morning, died yesterday. The police are seeking the suspected murderer.

EDITORIALS

Some one said the other day that the present war will prepare the way for "the British people to control the world." Were that the issue, then, indeed, had the crucified nations of Britain and of the world suffered in vain and wasted their life for nought. Prophecies in the Old Testament are interpreted to mean the reunion of the United States of America with the nations and countries of the British Empire into one gigantic world-power, whose word would be law and whose force would beat down resistance. The dream is vain.

But were that dream to come true it would be a world-calamity more tragic than the war itself. There must be no world-mastership by any nation: not German, not Russian, not Oriental, not American, and, please God, not British. No nation is good enough to stereotype the national aspirations of humanity. No race is pure enough to make its life-blood the motive-power of all the world. No people are so near perfection that their culture is fit to dominate civilization. When any nation sets itself to mould all peoples after its own fixed type the Great Lord God does as He has done many times in history: He smashes the pattern and begins again.

World-power has wrought the downfall of many an empire. By that sin Germany today begins to totter to its fall. There was a place for Germany, a great place in the sun. It was the place of service: service to the minds of men, in delivering them from the false philosophies as Kant and Hegel had already done: service to the bodies of men, in making the mysteries of nature yield their secrets for human good: service to all the nations of all the world, in making the brotherhood of man in the neighborhood of races the supreme policy of statesmanship. That matchless place in history might have been Germany's had she yielded to Christ's Will-to-Serve. Instead, she was beguiled by Antichrist's Will-to-Power. By world-ambition Germany lost Paradise. How then can Britain hope to win by it?

But Britain has learned the secret of the more excellent way. Again and again has Asquith told it. Not by might, not by power, not by brute-force, not by ambitious autocracies, not by selfish alliances, not by armed peace. That is not the new British note. All that jungle statecraft is gone, damned and doomed by its inevitable collapse into its own inescapable hell. And over against all that diplomacy of deceit Asquith sets "the partnership of the nations" in which "a place shall be made and kept for the little peoples and the smaller kingdoms—their free place in the sun."

Partnership, not antagonism! Co-operation, not conflict! Law, not force! Justice, not power! Equality for all, because mastership for none! For that Britain is ready to die. For that America ought to be fit to live. Nothing less is worth while. Nothing else matters.

VANCOUVER GETS A JOLT.

Result of Jitney Traffic Is Evident From Figures.

Vancouver, B. C., March 20.—A decrease of over $2,000 is shown in the percentage payment of the B. C. Electric to the city for the month of February as compared with the company's payment to the city for the corresponding month of last year. The cheque which the city will receive as a percentage of the gross receipts on the city tram line for last month is for $1,414.50, as compared with $3,430.21 for February, 1914. The number of passengers carried over the Vancouver and suburban lines last month was 1,749,758, as compared with 2,985,121 for February of last year.

SOLDIERS NEED TOBACCO.

Canadians Ask for Cigarettes—Supply Is Insufficient.

London, March 20.—A Canadian officer, writing from the front, says:

"A smoke at night now is a great comfort, and it is hard to do without one. Possibly we are not entitled to anything from the Imperial government or from British newspapers, but the Canadian government evidently has not provided for us in this way." He goes on to point out that English Tommies get as many as 70 to 100 cigarettes a week in addition to tobacco, while in their own particular case, for instance, twenty smokes is all they have received.

McBRIDE'S DAY IS DONE

WHAT JAPAN HAS DEMANDED OF CHINA

Alarming news of the Japanese demand upon China has been emanating from the Chinese capital, but few words have come from Tokyo. Indeed, the silence of the Japanese government on the matter has been almost ominous. Even the Japanese press have been unable to secure from the foreign office any information as to the contents of the overture which it has made to China. The leading newspapers of Tokyo and Osaka are publishing Peking dispatches reporting on the Japanese demands, but as to the authenticity of these dispatches the Japanese government has nothing to say.

Yet the attitude of the Mikado's government seems to have wholehearted editorial approval from the Japanese press. In fact, as the Tokyo correspondent of the Nichibei, a Japanese daily in San Francisco, informs us, the editors of the Japanese metropolis are keenly alive to the gravity of the situation and have agreed to acquiesce in the government's policy of silence.

According to information that has reached us from Chinese sources, the Japanese proposals, since we understand, considerably modified, originally ran:

That no part of the Chinese coasts and no island off the coast shall be ceded or leased to any foreign power.

That Japan shall have exclusive mining rights in Eastern Mongolia and the right of veto regarding the construction of railways there.

That the Japanese shall be allowed to settle and trade in Manchuria and Eastern Mongolia.

That the lease of Port Arthur and the agreement regarding the South Manchuria Railway be extended to 99 years.

That China shall transfer to Japan all German mining and railway privileges at Shantung.

That Japan shall have the veto of mining, railway, and dock concessions at Fukien.

That Japan shall, in cooperation with China, control the Han-yang iron works, Tayen iron mines, and Ping-siang collieries.

That China shall purchase at least half of its arms and ammunitions from Japan, or that arsenals under Chino-Japanese ownership shall be erected in China.

That Japan shall be granted the right to build and construct railways from Nanchang to Hangchow, from Nanchang to Kiukiang and from Nanchang to Wuchang.

That in case of necessity China must call upon Japan alone to preserve its integrity.

That in appointing foreign officials to military, financial, and police services, China shall give precedence to Japanese.

That privileges such as are enjoyed by other nations regarding the establishment of missions, churches, schools, and hospitals, and the purchase of land in connection therewith, shall be granted to Japanese.

That Japanese press do not say whether the terms of the Mikado's overture are correctly reported in the Peking dispatches, but are Continued on Page Three

TOM WHITE CORRALS ALL THE CAPITAL I'S IN EXISTENCE

IN HIS RECENT BUDGET SPEECH HE DOLED THEM FORTH AT THE RATE OF SEVEN I'S EVERY THREE MINUTES—JEALOUSY OF GEORGE EULAS FOSTER.

(BY H. F. GADSBY.)

(Copyrighted.)

Tom White's Hard Boiled Ego was the feature of the budget debate. As the country is going to spend three hundred million dollars this year the Finance Minister's yolk is not easy and his burden is not light.

Tom had two bites at the budget—one when he brought it in, the other when he defended it. The first time he allowed his colleagues to share the blame but the second time he sopped up all the glory for himself. In the interval he had had time to reflect that he was the active thinker of the Borden government and the only orator outside of Sir George Foster, who is apparently under a Trappist vow to remain silent until the Liberal majority in the Senate has been wiped out. That being the case, Tom has to do most of the talking, and, the laborer being worthy of his hire, he naturally grabs whatever laurel wreaths are coming. It does not often fall to a man to be so full of himself so long after he has left college.

"I was obliged to find the money," "I saw my way through then as I see it now," "How do I raise my revenue?" "I have not changed my methods of bookkeeping," "I inherited those legacies," "I always finish stronger than I begin," "Seven I's in three minutes by the watch—after that I lost count. It reminded me of the Oddfellows lodge, that big I staring at me from every sentence. The Finance Minister's speech was three and a half hours long and was as thick inlaid with I's as the Milky Way is with stars. It was pious as a lawn with dandelions. The I's came out in a sort of rash like an attack of measles. It would have gone badly with Tom if the I's had struck in—anybody could see that.

Dr. Neely, who is quick at figures, took the trouble to go over the first three-quarters of Tom White's speech. The result was amazing. He found in it four hundred and thirty-nine I's, not including me's and my's. That would be five hundred and seventy-two I's for the whole oration or two and a half I's a minute. Cicero never did anything like it. Cicero was a shrinking violet beside Tom and nobody has ever accused Cicero of not being able to hold up his end. As for Demosthenes and Daniel Webster and Henry Clay and Jimmy Simpson and all those other modest fellows, Tom White simply has them backed off the map. Not one of them comes within 50 per cent of Tom's average.

Up to Tom White's appearance on the stage Sir Charles Tupper held the Canadian record for the first personal pronoun. The campaign of 1896 was fought largely on that ground. There was a famous meeting in Massey Hall, Toronto, at which Sir Charles was cannonaded with I's from the galleries. But he was a brave old battler, was Sir Charles, and he delivered his speech to the reporters, who got all the I's in that the audience had refused to hear. It didn't do Sir Charles much good because it extended his fame as a wielder of the pronoun and wherever he went after that it was there to meet him. On being put to the vote the I's did not have it. On the contrary the noes carried the day and Sir Charles retired to his well earned leisure. But there was some excuse for Sir Charles, he was an old man, full of years and honors, he had stood before kings and had dined off solid gold plates with the Emperor of Austria. In short, he had something behind his I's, something to make his I's blaze, something to dazzle the I's of the public. He had been collecting I's for a long time, good I's mostly, not a glass one in the whole lot, and he was justly proud of them. But Tom White is a young man yet, only three years and a half on the job, and why his I's should flash at the sight of a current deficit of $120,000,000 nobody knows.

The Hard Boiled Ego from which the Finance Minister suffers has been a fatal thing in history. It was Cain's ego that got him into trouble with Abel. It was Saul's ego that gave Abel his chance. It was Louis the Fifteenth's "I am the State" that prepared the way for the French revolution. If it wasn't Louis the Fifteenth's it was Louis the Fourteenth's—at any rate, it was one of those bow-legged chaps that they name the furniture after. It was Berkeley's "I think, therefore, I am" that balled up philosophy. Brutus stabbed Julius Caesar for far less than Tom White did. Up to that time Caesar crossed the Rubicon—that is to say, up to the time he changed his party—he had related his moving adventures by flood and field in the third person. Search the commentaries or the Bellum Britannicum from cover to cover and you won't find one I that Caesar allots to himself. Like Xenophon and other prudent generals, he always marches in the rear of his narrative. But after Caesar crossed the Rubicon without getting his feet wet he probably began to refer to it as "my Rubicon" and "my Republic" and so got in wrong with the other members of the kitchen cabinet who were cooking up the conspiracy. The records seem to show that Caesar actually said "I" only three times—veni, vidi, vici—but evidently that was two I's too many, for the boys certainly bumped him on the Ides of March. It has always been my opinion that if he had used the editorial "we" the Black Hand Club would have let him off. It is not only safer and more dignified, but it distributes the responsibility, as it were. Caesar neglected this

FIVE CONTESTANTS FOR HONORS IN FORT GEORGE

In Fort George riding John McInnis will contest the seat in the interests of the Socialists, while Chas. A. Gaskill has been nominated to carry the Liberal banner. The Conservative convention was to have been held on Thursday last, but has been postponed for one week, and it is expected that there will be three names submitted from Fort George to the delegates from which to choose a standard-bearer. The names spoken of are George E. McLaughlin, of the Northern Lumber & Mercantile Co.; A. G. Hamilton, a resident of this district for many years, and W. P. Ogilvie, a Vancouver barrister.

The Vanderhoof delegates are placing the name of Samuel Crocker, a well known successful farmer and popular resident of the Nechaco Valley, in nomination and believe they can swing enough votes to get him the nomination.

From Fort Fraser the delegates are all backing George Ogston to win, so with five names the contest for the Conservative nomination promises to be a keen one, and all would-be candidates are busy fixing up their fences so as to ensure winning at Thursday's convention.—Fort George Tribune.

ARMY SERVICE CORPS DOING GREAT WORK

London, March 20.—To escape German shells and snipers and then be shot resting in his billet, was the experience of Driver Bert Piper, of Moose Jaw, a member of the Army Service Corps. Piper, who was in several bad smashes, carrying rations just behind the firing line at night, believes a shot fired by a German sympathizer caused his wound. He was sitting in a house three miles behind the trenches when a bullet came through the wall and caused a severe scalp wound. This is only one of several of such accidents. The Army Service Corps is doing great work, keeping the Canadian division well fed at great risk.

PROGRESSIVE CON. ASSN.

(Or No Progressives Need Apply.)

We had once a fine progressive That was more or less expressive Re opinions of the standing Of the people still commanding, So Bill made us a promise If we helped them back to office, But they handed us a lemon— No progressives need apply.

We worked hard night and day For to help them on their way And returned the bunch, by golly, Making all hands' feet quite jollie. Then forget about that promise, For we found the joke was on us. But they handed us a lemon— No progressive need apply.

Then came on an annual meeting Certain folks did want a seat in, For admission get a ticket, As just now we can be wicket. Poor George refused my dollar So to Bill I made a holier, But he handed me that lemon— No progressive need apply.

So then I went to Joe, For he has the pull, you know, And told him of my oppression. I could see by his expression He saw further in the future Than some other folk I know; But still I taste that lemon— No progressives need apply.

So I shouldered all my courage And beat it to the hall; I still paid in that dollar, But that was last of all. Having got that satisfaction We will help them in relaxing Since I chewed that sour lemon— This progressive don't apply.

Terrace can be trusted to do a noble share in the election of the Liberal candidate, T. D. Pattullo.

FIRST WAR VICTIM FROM PRINCE RUPERT

Henry Sauvage, who left here at the beginning of the war to join the colors in France, is dead. A letter arrived here last evening bearing this news. He left a wife and a couple of children in Prince Rupert and much sympathy will be felt for them. Mrs. Sauvage runs a laundry on Sixth Avenue. Mr. Sauvage left here on the same boat as F. deMussy.

The Liberal convention at Smithers heartily endorsed Capt. Fred Stork as Federal candidate for this constituency. It would appear that this choice is a very popular one and Fred looks like a winner.

BELGIUM'S GALLANT LITTLE ARMY STILL AT STRENGTH

The Belgian Press Bureau has issued a note in reply to alleged declarations by the Germans that the Belgian force had been reduced to a single army corps. "The army," the note says, "entered the campaign with six divisions of infantry and one division of cavalry. All voids have been filled, and the army now has six divisions of infantry and two divisions of cavalry. Instead of having one machine gun section, this arm of the service has been strongly reinforced. In addition, measures have been taken for the enlistment of young recruits to further increase the strength of the army, while the school established to train officers already has shown excellent results."

TRADE UNIONS MAY HAVE LABOR CANDIDATE

A meeting of the workmen of the city was called for last evening in the Carpenters Hall to consider the question of putting a representative of labor in the field at the forthcoming election. About one hundred were present, including many supporters of the other parties.

Alderman Montgomery was appointed chairman, and Mr. Casey, as soon as the meeting was called to order, arose and read a type-written resolution declaring confidence "in the honesty and integrity of S. D. Macdonald," and setting him forth as a "fit and proper person to represent labor in the forthcoming election."

One of the humorists from the audience wanted to know what it was that Mr. Macdonald had done when it was necessary to declare him honest by a resolution.

Mr. Thompson, secretary of the Trades and Labor Council, in a speech, said that it was hoped that union men and Socialists would unite in this matter. Mr. Macdonald was not a Socialist, although he was a good union man. At the same time, he held to many of the fundamental principles of Socialism, as most men do.

W. Shaw thought that the candidate who was chosen should know more about the real solutions of the workmen's problem, which was Socialism.

Mr. Thompson pointed out that it would be impossible for the Trades and Labor Council to support a Socialist candidate, and the only chance for unanimity was for the Socialists to support their man.

Jack O'Brien said that he had studied the voters' list and he was convinced that it was impossible to elect a labor candidate at this time. He pointed out how the McBride government had trampled upon the workmen of the province and had developed such a great machine that the only hope for the future was for the labor men to unite with the Liberals to break the machine and then there would be some chance for a labor man at a later date.

After considerable discussion it was decided to lay the resolution on the table till next Thursday evening, when it will be gone further into.

S. D. Macdonald was not present. It was reported that he was suffering from a bad cold and could not attend.

TRAPS UNDER WATER SET FOR SUBMARINES

London, March 8.—(Correspondence.)—At harbor entrances and other strategic points around the British Isles, the Admiralty has set miles of submarine traps to catch German under-water craft engaged in blockading England. Report has it that three submarines were caught during the first ten days of the blockade, but confirmation is lacking.

The traps set for submarines are not unlike gill nets used by fishermen. Malleable iron frames ten feet square, three frames joined, are sunk to a depth of thirty feet, suspended from immense buoys. The submarine is a blind thing under water, steering by chart and compass. Entering one of these frames, its sides are caught, causing the lower frame to buckle upward, catching the propeller. Thus held, the craft is in the position of a fish floundering in a net and its occupants are doomed.
