North of Arras we made progress, taking the village of Carency, and holding the road to Saehez.

We took 230 men and three officers prisoners and several machine guns at Carency. The enemy's automobile reinforcements failed.

Four strong counter-attacks were driven off with heavy losses to the enemy at Lorette, Sanchez and Nouvelle Sainte Vaasta. At the latter place we took 100 prisoners.

AUSTRIA ACCEPTS ITALY'S DEMANDS

(Special to The Daily News.)
Rome, May 11.—It is reported that Austria has accepted all of Italy's demands.

Austria has agreed to cede the province of Trente, as far as Brenner in the Tyrol, with the parts of Trieste, Capodistria and Pola.

If this report is true, it is evident that Germany is physically unable to handle any more than she has at present, in spite of all her threats against Italy.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENT REBATE.

On behalf of residents on Conard Street, Alderman Casey asked the Council last night when a rebate might be expected on the local improvement tax, as the rate-payers in that district had been charged on the estimated cost of the improvements, and the actual cost was considerably below that estimated.

The city engineer explained that a rebate would be made when the fund covering the improvements allowed, which might be some considerable time.

BOARD OF TRADE AND CITY MARKET

At the City Council last night, a long letter from the Board of Trade dealing with the running of the City Market was presented.

Acting Mayor Dybhavn suggested that it be referred to the Market Committee, but Alderman Casey asked that the letter be read, if it were not too long, as the City Market was one of the most important things they had to deal with.

The communication was signed by W. P. Lynch, who explained that, in the absence of the other members of the committee, he had undertaken to make a personal report.

The writer drew attention to complaints from outside points as to the management of the market in the past, and offered some suggestions for the future.

Alderman Nicol moved that the letter be referred to the Market Committee.

Alderman Casey moved an amendment that the letter be sent back to Mr. Lynch. The amendment carried.

FEELING RUNS HIGH IN BRITISH SEAPORTS

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, May 11.—There have been terrific anti-German outbreaks in practically every seaport in Britain.

CITY MARKET MANAGER.

At the City Council last night, ten applications for the post of market manager were read. The commissions mentioned varied from 5 to 15 per cent. One applicant suggested that permission be given to buy goods in the South as the local season is short.

The local applicants were Arthur Shepherd, George Syrotuck, W. A. King, Frank Clapp, T. J. Davidson, F. B. Holland, M. M. Wells, James Krikensky, Catherine Braun, and R. Braun. Mrs. Catherine Braun is the nominee of the Kitsumkalum Farmers Mutual Association, and Frank Clapp is recommended by Terrace growers.

The applications were referred to the Market Committee for consideration and report.

The Autobiography Of A Sham Shoe

(BY H. F. GADSBY.)

In the battle thunder do not forget me. If I did not distinguish myself at Neuve Chapelle and Langemarck it was not my fault. I was willing enough but I never had a chance. I am one of the sham shoes.

My twin—I am the surviving member of a pair—was incinerated with a lot of other garbage at Salisbury Plain, but I escaped to Canada through the good offices of the captain, who was anxious to show the parliamentary committee what the profit-taking patriots were putting over in the way of shoes for soldiers. His language as he tied me up and ticketed me was quite unfit to print. The mildest thing he said was "Damn!"

I was born somewhere in August, 1914, at a shoe factory in Montreal. The auspices were happy. My godfather, who is a director and heavy shareholder in the business, gave me a rattling good start. He looked me over, I remember, and said something about every peg riveting the Empire more firmly together. My godfather is a pleasing speaker who sees sermons in stones, books in the running brooks and metaphors in everything.

He has a patriotic lecture which has been successful at many tea meetings and he is so intensely dedicated to public life on the highest moral plane that he has no time to bother himself with sordid details. This probably explains why I went to the bad in short order although I was the object of a good man's prayer at the outset. Too much prayer, perhaps, and too little real leather. At any rate, I didn't last. I hadn't the stuff in me. I am not blaming my godfather. He is a fine man and evidently has friends on the committee who will not let the breath of scandal touch his name. What I am saying is that he doesn't get down to brass tacks. He is so unworldly that he doesn't want to know how his shoes or his dividends are made.

If you ask me, I would say that the factory superintendent is the man who is responsible for my weakened constitution. After prayer was over, I heard him giving orders to the head foreman. (Continued on Page Two)

FIGHT PROHIBITED BY VANCOUVER COUNCIL

(Special to The Daily News.)
Vancouver, May 11.—The City Council has prohibited the Alberts-Barrieau fight for the welterweight championship tomorrow in the Horse Show building after the Mayor had previously sanctioned it.

RENT AND LIGHT OF PREMIER HOTEL

At the Council last night, a letter was read from Superintendent Duncan regarding the charge for lighting the old Premier Hotel during its occupancy by the troops.

It was decided to charge lighting up to April 30th to general fund, and that after May 1st it be charged to the Militia Department of the Dominion government.

Alderman Montgomery objected to the stand taken by the Council last year in giving free light to the barracks.

Alderman Casey could not see why the city should be obliged to pay for something which should be spread over the Dominion.

Alderman Montgomery raised the old question of rent. The rent of the old hotel had been charged to the Militia Department, but they had referred it back to the city. Alderman Montgomery, seconded by Alderman Casey, moved that the city solicitor be asked to report on the matter.

AUSTRIA CLAIMS LINER IS BATTLESHIP

(Special to The Daily News.)
Venice, May 11.—Vienna papers justify the sinking of the Lusitania. They claim that the liner was the same as a British battleship, and hail the disaster as a naval victory for Germany.

CHEAP COOKING POWER.

The City Light Department suggests, that, in order to encourage cooking by electricity, those who have recently put in electric cooking appliances of a small type should not be put to the expense of extra wiring and the installation of a second meter.

They plan to take the average of the past few months' light bills, and any additional power used will be charged at power rates instead of light rates.

PRESIDENT WILSON STILL FOR PEACE

Philadelphia, May 11.—President Wilson has indicated in a speech here yesterday that the United States will remain at peace, but will try to show Germany the great injustice to humanity she has committed, by the sinking of defenceless steamers without warning.

DIGBY WATER SCHEME.

The Council last night passed the new clause in the agreement with the Dominion government regarding the Digby water scheme.

The new clause provides that the work be done by day labor, the cost of labor not to exceed $26,000.

In this connection, the following letter from J. R. Morgan, offering to do the work for $21,000, was read:

Prince Rupert, B. C.
May 10, 1915.

The Mayor and Council,
Prince Rupert B. C.:

Gentlemen—I learn that your body are negotiating with the Dominion government re the laying of a pipe line over city property to Digby Island for which the city is to reimburse the government to the extent of $26,000, covering the labor in connection therewith. As a contractor in this line of work, and after having carefully investigated, I find I am in a position to take a contract covering all of this work for which you propose to pay the government $26,000 for the sum of $21,000, thereby saving the city $5,000. I am in a position to put up the necessary bond, guaranteeing the faithful carrying out of my proposal.

Believing that the saving of the sum of $5,000 to our city will appeal to you, I am,
Yours respectfully,
J. R. MORGAN.

DURATION OF THE WAR.

The question uppermost in the mind of the civilized world today is, "When will the war end?" Every business man is planning for the future, and in every plan this vital question crops up.

The Literary Digest has asked this question of the editors of the leading newspapers in France, Germany, Austria, Russia, and Britain. Many answers have been received, and The Digest publishes a selection of them in its May issue.

All are more or less vague, but few venture to predict a settlement in 1915. In each case there is expression of a deep-rooted determination to see the thing through to the end.

In Germany, there is a disinclination to discuss the subject, chiefly because such discussion is not looked upon with approval by the military. The sentiment of Berlin is that "the war will last until our enemies have suffered a defeat which will insure us against further breaches of the peace, and it must give us such a peace that we can unfold our German character and strength as a free people."

The Chemnitz Allgemeine Zeitung declares that the war will cease just as soon as America stops supplying the enemies of Germany with munitions, but, in any case, Germany will fight until her enemies will sue for peace.

Not a single Austrian paper replied to the question.

The French papers are characteristically optimistic. They declare that the war will end when Germany is vanquished, and the provinces of Alsace and Lorraine are again French, and Belgian political independence has been established.

The Toulouse Telegramme and the Nantes Telegramme express the belief that this will be accomplished by Christmas, but, be it soon or late, all are confident of the ultimate result.

The Russian press displays the same confidence, and generally claims that, by making big sacrifices, the struggle could be ended in a few months, but, rather than bring about such slaughter, the government, fully assured of final victory, thinks it better that the war should be prolonged.

British editors state that they have been requested not to discuss the question and none of them care to prophesy, but, like the others, all are confident of final triumph. A leading Irish paper says: "Let it be for six months or six years, or even longer, the people of the British Empire, having set their hands to the plow, will not turn back or pause until the war is ended, and ended in victory."

A few venture the opinion that the operations of the next two months will be decisive, but the general feeling is one of reliance on Lord Kitchener. Kitchener has laid his plans for a three-years' war. If it is over sooner, so much the better for all concerned, but, if it takes three years, the ultimate result will be the same. Prussian militarism, with its brutal arrogance, will be crushed forever.

PATENTED MACHINE TO SELECT GRAINS

Regina, May 10. — Charles A. Torrance, of Regina, has invented and patented a unique machine which automatically selects the best and heavier seed grains, cleans them and rejects smut and wild oats. Mr. Torrance is an implement man and an inventor of a fanning mill which has been on the market successfully for five years. The principal on which this new machine works is an entirely new one according to the claims of the inventor, combining gravity and wind in machine form to bring about the desired result. In a demonstration to a party of Regina business men recently the machine lived up to the claims of its inventor, and the weight of a bushel of the wheat selected exceeded that of a bushel of the original sample between four and five pounds.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A SHAM SHOE

"Bill," he said, "loyalty is one thing and three dollars and eighty-five cents a pair is another. We'll have to do the best we can for the firm."

After that there was a highly technical conversation, which, being no anatomist, I did not understand, but I heard Bill say, "We can make sixty cents a pair if we use split leather instead of storm calf," and the superintendent replied, "Well, let it go at that." Then they both winked and I had a feeling that I was being humbugged. As far as I could see, I was a handsome shoe with a healthy outdoor tan, but somehow or other I knew that the elements of strength were lacking.

My twin brother and I passed the inspection with flying colors. There were three inspectors and they were paid by the government not to hurt our feelings. One inspector, who knew something about leather, took me up and said "Humph!" He passed me on to the second inspector, who knew as much about shoes as I do about glass-blowing, and he said "Good!" The third inspector, who knew still less, said "Very good!" and the ordeal was over. My brother and I had been taken from the middle of a great stack of shoes as a fair sample and the other thousand pairs were passed, so to speak, on our recommendation. At all events, none of those shoes were examined in my presence and no shoes were pulled to pieces by the inspectors. They were nice, kind inspectors and they didn't want to cut shoes up.

which is a way some inspectors have when they are anxious to get at the inside of a bad job. Our inspectors were not that sort. Any cutting up there was to do they left to the field of battle.

While we were "in stores" my brother and I heard many startling tales. They are old stories now so I will not repeat them. The worst one was that a Halifax regiment had been obliged to parade with shingles tied to their feet, the shoes they had been served with having gone to pieces inside of two weeks. I could hardly believe it at the time and I have since heard Major General Sam Hughes deny the facts and call the officer who made the statement a liar. But that does not settle it in my mind. I know the Major General's airy way of brushing aside disagreeable truths and my own experience teaches me not to regard his as the last word. I'll go on believing my own eyes—I used to have a dozen of 'em before they got ripped out—before I'll believe the Major General.

Luckily, my brother and I were not served out until the troops were leaving Valcartier Camp. As the Atlantic Ocean is not hard on shoes we were in fine condition on reaching Salisbury Plain. The feet we honored belonged to Private Jones of the Umpty Umpty and he was proud of us for as much as two parades. After that came a route march and when Private Jones returned from a ten-mile tramp we had both turned black from sheer mortification. The remainder of our able-bodied existence was not quite a month, although Private Jones polished and greased and rubbed and gave us plenty of complexion food.

About the third week on Salisbury Plain, the hardships began to tell. You will notice that there are three black bars on my instep. That was when Private Jones tried to dry me out on a stove. I have since heard the lawyer for the defence argue before the committee that a shoe has to let water in before it can let water out and that the free circulation of water is a good thing for a soldier's shoe. But Private Jones did not think that way. He was mortally afraid of wet feet and whenever I filled up with water he made a point of baling me out. Finally, it got to a stage where he couldn't exclude the weather any longer and when my split leather sides glued together by hydraulic pressure melted away one slushy afternoon, he almost despaired. However, he was a good soldier and he stuck to me as long as he could. It was only when my eyes gave out, and my heel went back on me and the front half of my sole came off in the mud that he took his courage in his hands and went down to the village and bought a new pair out of his own pay. Of course my twin brother was in as bad shape as I was. Both our soles were as rotten as a novel by Gabriel d'Annunzio.

We kicked around the hut long enough after that to hear what we had done to Private Jones. He came down with pneumonia, had to be sent to a base hospital and had a deuce of a time altogether. The poor fellow had started out on a career of glory but my brother and I did a lot to put him off the track. I am glad to hear that he is fighting in Flanders now and that he has a pair of shoes that will help him more than I did.

My brother, as I said before, found his way to the garbage pile, but I was lucky enough to come under the notice of General Alderson, who had just cabled that the shoes were rotten and had received a reply from the Minister of Militia that a consignment of overshoes was being sent to replace them.

said, with a grim smile, "have a queer sense of humor. Captain Brown," he said, turning to his adjutant, "you might cable back that all the overshoes in the world will not take the place of the regulation army shoe, or words to that effect. Bundle up a few of these shoes and send them along as Exhibit A."

And that's how I came to revisit Ottawa and appear before the Parliamentary committee. I never expected to see my native land and my high-minded godfather again. I have seen both and I can die happy now that I have had a chance of telling what I think of them. I can't say that I have enjoyed myself for the last six weeks tied up with hundreds of others as dilapidated as myself. We're an awful mess. The lawyer for the defence never looks at us. Neither does Chairman Middlebroor nor the other Conservative members of the committee. I can never convince them because they won't let me, but Mr. Murphy and Col. Macdonald have taken up my case and I don't doubt I'll get justice in the minority report.

Meanwhile, if it wasn't such a serious matter I could laugh at some of the arguments that are being put up. One man had the nerve to say that the soldiers had tender feet and that was why they had to have tender shoes. They were tender enough—I can vouch for that—so tender that they fell apart without boiling, but I don't think tenderness is a military quality. Another man swore that the soldiers' toe nails were too long and waggled through. He suggested that the medical examination should be extended to bar soldiers with long toe nails. Can you beat that?

I have little left to live for but I am in hopes to serve my country yet. My wish is to fall into the hands of a Liberal candidate and accompany him through the next election campaign. He need not make any speeches. If he will just place me on the table along with the water pitcher and the presentation bouquet, I will do all the talking.

Follow The King

As head of the Church of England in British Columbia I earnestly appeal to all our Church members to follow the noble example set by our King.

Many are willing to do so but feel the need of something to make their decision definite. To such I would recommend the signing of the following pledge:

I promise, by God's help, to abstain from the use of intoxicating liquor as a beverage while the War lasts.

JURY FINDS KAISER GUILTY OF MURDER

London, May 11.—The coroner's jury which has been inquiring into the sinking of the Lusitania yesterday brought in the following verdict:

"We find the deceased met death from prolonged immersion and exhaustion in the sea, eight miles south, southwest of Old Head of Kinsale, on Friday, May 7, owing to the sinking of the Lusitania by torpedoes fired by a German submarine.

"We find this appalling crime was committed contrary to the international law and the conventions of all civilized nations.

"We also charge the officers of the said submarine and the Emperor of the government of Germany, under whose order they acted, with the crime of wholesale murder before the civilized world.

"We desire to express our sincere condolence and sympathy with relatives of the deceased, the Cunard Company and the United States, many of whose citizens perished in this murderous attack upon an unarmed liner."

GERMANY'S LATEST WAR TELESCOPES

The Germans have adopted several ingenious devices to cope with problems not foreseen at the start of the war, such as armored-car destroyers, quick-firing guns on motor-cycles, canal gunboats, and other similar inventions.

A wonderful stereo-telescope produced by the famous firm of Beiss deserves inclusion. Every battery of German artillery is provided with one. It is a remarkable instrument, which can be used behind cover out of sight of the enemy. The outstanding features are two long, slender arms, rather like the antennae of an insect. Though absolutely invisible at a very short distance, the antennae can give the hidden operator a very extensive view.

To ensure the accurate dropping of bombs from aeroplanes, the Germans have an airgun appliance which pushes the bomb out from the back of the aeroplane with the same velocity as that at which the aeroplane is flying, thus doing away with the curve with which the bomb would fall if merely dropped by hand. Quite a number of small German aeroplanes are fitted with wireless apparatus capable of transmitting messages a distance of thirty miles, but another ingenious method of signaling is to blow puffs of a powder chalk through the engine-exhaust.

The Krupp illuminating projectile is a shell containing two magnesium bodies filled with parachutes, so that at night-time it illuminates for a few minutes the ground over which it hangs.
