(Special to The Daily News)
Petrograd, June 4.—The Russian troops north and west of Przemysl evacuated their positions on Wednesday night, after all the war material which had been taken from the Austrians had been removed.
The Russians retired and re-organized the forces to the east. It was realized from the first that the defence of Przemysl was impossible. They only remained there so long as it served their purpose in extending their front.

In the latest casualty list appears the name of Corporal Ernest Otto Reitel, amongst the wounded.

BARBAROUS TREATMENT OF CANADIAN SOLDIER

London, June 4.—Private Geo. Barrie, of the 15th Battalion (Royal Highlanders), who was wounded but expects to rejoin his unit immediately, says he was one of those who helped to take down the body of a sergeant who had been crucified by the Germans.
The victim, Barrie says, was a sergeant in the medical service and from letters on him he appeared to come from Brantford, Ontario.
Barrie says he lost the sergeant's pay book and letters in struggling through barbed wire entanglements. The victim was about 24 years old, Barrie says, and was found with one Ross rifle bayonet through his left shoulder and a Lee-Enfield bayonet through his right, two German bayonets through the lower parts of his body. The maltreaters were the Second Prussian Guards, Barrie says.

FRANCIS W. SCOTT DEAD AT THE FRONT

Charles P. Richardson, of Kitselas, has just received word of the death of his partner, Francis W. Scott, on May 4 from wounds.
The word was received from his brother in Scotland. The date, place of occurrence and nature of the wounds were not stated, perhaps not known as yet.
Francis W. Scott was the youngest son of the late Honorable Henry R. Scott and Lady Ada Scott, of Knifton Lodge, Grant-ham, Scotland. He was Lieutenant Scott, R. N., and served some twelve years on the Asiatic coast, from where he was invalided. He was 29 years old. On the outbreak of the war he promptly reported for duty, but fearful on account of his having been invalided in the navy he would be detailed on routine shore duty, he enlisted in the 1st Company of Canadian Engineers at Vancouver as a sapper in order to see active service.
Mr. Scott came to Prince Rupert in the spring of 1913. He has been associated with Mr. Richardson in a mining way since that time. Since September, 1913, they have been located at Kitselas, where Mr. Scott was interested in the Busted Prospector property on Kitselas Mountain and other claims.
New to life in the hills, Scott took to it naturally. No hardship or privation worried him, apparently, and no trail was too long. His silent, willing, good natured, forbearing, dogged qualities made firm friends of all who came in contact with him on the trail and in camp, where a man is tried out and found wanting—or not, in Scott's case. He was generous to a fault and loyal to finality.
There will be a much-felt gap in the circle of acquaintances who knew Scott best. He was a man.

FATAL SHOOTING BY ITALIAN AT VANCOUVER

(Special to The Daily News.)
Vancouver, June 4.—Frank Graio is dead, and Nick Gentile is under arrest, as the result of a shooting affray in the bush at the head of False Creek. Both are Italians. The quarrel is alleged to have been over a woman, but Gentile says Graio was a black hand agent and threatened to kill him because he refused to do his bidding.
Graio was a barber and formerly lived in Calgary. He had lived here under an assumed name, and was well supplied with means, though not working.

GENEROUS OFFERS FROM MONTREALERS

Ottawa, June 4.—General Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, has received two generous offers of money from Montrealers for the purchase of machine guns. Huntley Drummond, brother of Guy Drummond, who was killed at Langemark, and James Carruthers, well known Montreal grain merchant, have each offered $100,000 for this purpose. Both offers will be accepted. This will be sufficient to equip a number of machine gun batteries, as machine guns cost approximately $2,500 apiece.

GERMANY'S REPLY.

Germany's reply to the American note is typical of her diplomacy. The sinking of the Lusitania was unintentional, and enquiry is being made regarding it.

Germany regrets that Americans lost their lives by the sinking of the Lusitania, but the liner was sunk purely in self-defence.

The request for a guarantee for the future has been politely ignored. Germany is not worrying much about how Americans feel about it.

PRZEMSYL.

Though there is nothing more than a Vienna report that Przemyśl has been retaken by the Austrians, it is quite probably the case, but, within a comparatively few days, Petrógrad will almost certainly be able to report that it is again in the hands of the Russians.

Undoubtedly, the Russians have been in difficulties. When the history of the war comes to be written, people will marvel at the difficulties overcome by the Russian army.

From every setback, the Russians have recovered valantly, and the Austrians have invariably paid dearly for any little gain they have made. With Italy getting into position in the south, Russia is going to have more scope in the future, and a very few months hence the Allies are likely to be right in the heart of Hungary.

ABOUT THE RANGE OF BIG NAVAL GUNS

Since the Queen Elizabeth made its dramatic entry into the war there has been a great deal of nonsense written about the range of its guns, which, we have been told, outrange any other weapon in existence and can send their projectiles twenty-eight miles.

Of course, if 15-inch guns are in combat with 6-inch, the difference in range is considerable, but for all practical purposes the 12-inch gun has quite as long a reach as the 15-inch. Indeed, the United States government has appended a table to the fortifications appropriation bill which goes to show that, if anything, the advantage in this matter lies with the smaller weapon.

Range depends largely upon elevation, but as a rule naval guns are so mounted as to be incapable of firing at a greater angle than about 20 degrees. The official American table, however, credits the British 15-inch guns with a range of 46,290 yards if elevated 45 degrees, a note being added to the effect that such an elevation is "not used."

Good intentions will not save the man who is careless about using the money of other people.

PACIFIC HINTERLAND LOOTED BY EXPLOITERS

The following are extracts from a two-column article in the Toronto Globe by Norman Lambert, special correspondent:

Prince Rupert, May 19.—Vancouver, littered with the remains of financial wrecks, tells most eloquently the story of a period of reckless spending. It can testify in bitter words to the irresponsible methods of the McBride government during the past five years.

people of the south have themselves to blame as well as their improvident government. But the new north, with its outlet and a very important inlet at this place, suffers today through unscrupulous and pernicious influences from outside.

None of the expected trade from or to the interior has come to pass. The principal sources of revenue to the Grand Trunk Pacific Company are the halibut fishing industry and the copper mines, both of which are operated along the coast line.

"All our vegetables and meats come from Alberta or from the United States," was the information given at the principal hotel in Prince Rupert.

"Do the valleys east of here not supply this part of the province with food?" was the question asked many times of many people.

"Why, no," was the general reply; "no one is producing anything along the railroads. All the land is taken up by speculators."

The instances of illegitimate speculation in lands in northern British Columbia are legion. It is not a case of public versus private development. Those interests which have been able to stake lands in such extensive tracts have not colonized the country.

A man who had examined the official pre-emptor's map, secured from the government land office, with a view to settling in the Bulkley Valley, which, roughly contains 120,000 acres of agricultural land, told your correspondent that it was absolutely impossible to make up a total area of more than ten sections.

Coughing increases the irritation of the already inflamed mucous membranes and is moreover apt to carry disease to others. Mathieu's Syrup of Tar and Cod Liver Oil promptly stops coughing, and soon, thanks to its tonic properties, effects a permanent cure.

or 6,400 acres, out of the fragmentary bits left over for the pre-emptor, in the whole of the Bulkley Valley.

And those fragments were situated so far back from the railway that it would be impossible to farm them profitably. The bulk of the land in that district, as in the Skeena, Nechaco and other valleys, has been taken up by the syndicate and the professional speculator. The land is being held for prices which prevented settlement and production. The words of a railway traffic man not long ago were: "At the stations through the interior, between here and Fort George, there is not enough traffic to pay us to stop one freight train." The freight trains, as well as the passenger trains, make their stops, however, and they lose money each and every time.

As was said in a previous letter from Vancouver, the issue has ceased to be one of party politics. In the interior valleys the few settlers living there have been wholly dependent upon the government for a livelihood. Road work has been carried on in fragmentary pieces, as part of that system of piecemeal work which was described by the man in Prince Rupert. The roads have led nowhere and have not developed the country or helped the interior settler to help himself. Now there is no money to use for road work and the dependent in the valleys is also beginning to see through the obscurity of his surroundings to the real state of affairs.

Even though a general realization of these things in British Columbia brings about a defeat of the present government and the introduction of saner methods, it will take a new government years to adjust the difficulties that have accumulated about the rulers of this province in the last decade.

FOOTBALL.

Under league auspices, the Sons of England and Drydock teams met on the Recreation grounds last night before an exceptionally large gathering of spectators, who must have been thoroughly pleased with the game, as the play throughout was full of exciting incidents. The teams appeared as advertised except that Campbell deputized for Dixon at centre-half for the ironworkers. The Drydock team made a promising start, scoring in the first minute of the game, but their early lead was soon lost through forceful play by the Englishmen, who notched two points in quick succession. During the attack on the Drydock citadel, Grant, their custodian, received an injury to his knee which necessitated his withdrawal from the game, Wright taking his place. Notwithstanding their handicap, the Drydock played well and were rewarded soon afterwards by Craggs, the English keeper, giving them a gift of a goal, while a little later Neilson scored a beauty from the penalty line. The score at half-time stood at 3 goals to 2 in favor of the Drydock. Play in the second half was even keener than in the opening period, with the Englishmen determined to improve their position, but they must have been disappointed when Jones put the Drydock still farther ahead. At this point A. Hardy took up the centre position and this certainly made for improvement. With twenty minutes gone, they got their third point, and indeed looked like equalizing at any moment. This they did after Woods had given away a corner, for Darton placed the kick so well that it was easy for Hardy to put the ball in the net. Excitement was now intense, with both teams striving hard to take the lead, but the Englishmen, showing more method, always looked the more dangerous. With but three minutes to go the score still remained 4 all, but Woods, who had been indulging in rather foolishly giving away corner kicks, again gave his opponents the opportunity they wanted, and the time Hardy gave the Englishmen another point, heading Darton's kick into the net, and thus the Englishmen retired worthy winners of the best game of this season.

Best for the winners were Darton, Garnet, Yardley and the Brothers Hardy, while on the Drydock side, Campbell, Jones, Winsby and McWilliams were best.

A Kinghorn made his initial appearance as a referee and with a little more practice may come along all right.

The next game takes place on Monday night, when last year's great rivals, the Gallies and the Merchants, meet for the first time this season.
