BRITISH AVIATORS EXPLODE A GERMAN AMMUNITION DEPOT

GERMANY'S NEXT MOVE UNCERTAIN—AUSTRIA IS MASSING TROOPS—HEAVY GUNS FOR POLAND—TWO JAP OFFICERS COMMITTED HARI KARI WHEN LEMBERG FELL

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, June 26.—British aviators have succeeded in exploding a large German ammunition depot near Roulers, with great loss of munitions and men. Among the killed are fifty German soldiers who were loading an ammunition train.

Austrians Massing Troops.
The Italians are consolidating their positions won on the Isonzo front, with indications of a heavy general engagement soon as the Austrians are massing troops.

General Pause.
There is a pause on both battle fronts. It is uncertain whether Germany's next move will be against Warsaw, Paris or Calais.

German activity in the Argonne district indicates an attempted drive for Paris.

Guns for Poland.

Amsterdam, June 26.—The fact that several trains loaded with heavy guns have left Essen for the German front on the Bzura river in Poland is believed to indicate that an attempt to capture Warsaw will be made.

Jap Officers Suicide.

Tokyo, June 26.—Major Nakagima and Captain Hasimoto, Japanese officers with the Russian army at Lemberg committed hari kari when the Galician capital fell, rather than suffer dishonor by being made prisoners of war.

MECHANICS FOR OLD COUNTRY TO APPLY TO CITY CLERK AT ONCE

Received many enquiries regarding positions for mechanics in the old country, Mr. Manson, M.P.P., took the matter up with Acting-Premier, and received the following telegram in reply:

Victoria, June 25, 1915.
Manson, M. P. P.,
Prince Rupert, B. C.,

Your letter fifteenth. Barnes Windham, British Labour Mission called today. Wish to know how many men you think will prepare to go from Prince Rupert. Kindly wire number, so they can decide whether it is worth while to go there or not. They are confining themselves to plumbers, riveters, drillers, blacksmiths, boiler-makers, sheet-metal workers, coppersmiths, and moulders. If only a few men are available they can make arrangements for them to come down here rather than take time of going up north.

W. J. BOWSER.

All mechanics wishing to offer their services are requested to send their names at the City Hall immediately. This includes all who have already made application in any form whatever. A complete list is required at once.

LAND GRABBING

The infamy of the McBride-Bowser government is spreading. A recent issue of the "Christian Science Monitor," of Boston, Mass., devotes the chief part of its editorial columns to an article on "British Columbia Land Grabbing," in which it reproduces some of the figures quoted in "The Crisis." The article says: "Revelations concerning the manner in which speculators have seized, and have been permitted to seize, public lands in British Columbia are astounding the people of that province and of the whole Dominion. With the recent coming of industrial and trade depression, and the consequent throwing out of employment of great numbers of workers in the larger towns and cities, a movement towards the soil was urged upon the idle and quickly responded to. It was the common presumption that British Columbia had public land enough for as many distributions as might be necessary to meet present necessity. Only recently it had been reported officially that 'the total amount of land surveyed and ready for the pre-emptor, and the pre-emptor alone, amounted to 91,128,567 acres, one third of the total area of the province.' The report added, as if to give emphasis to the province's wonderful resource in this particular, 'in the whole of Canada there are only 36,000,000 acres under cultivation, while in British Columbia alone we have 91,128,567 acres surveyed and ready for the settler.' It was further stated that 4,500,000 acres of land, free to the settler, could be had within three miles of railways.

Investigation carried on by the Ministerial Union of the Lower Mainland of British Columbia, a non-partisan body politically, has resulted in the development of some very surprising, and correspondingly disappointing statistics. It appears from the report of the provincial surveyor general that there are only 28,920,000 acres of surveyed land in the province, of which 5,189,522 acres are not under provincial jurisdiction. The Provincial Year Book states that only a twenty-fifth of the area, or 11,000,000 acres, is agricultural land. The Dominion census puts the area of possible farm lands in the province at 22,618,000 acres. In answer to enquiries as to the extent of agricultural land still available for pre-emption and settlement near railways or wagon roads, twenty out of twenty-nine assessors replied that the supply of such land is exhausted.

What has become of the tremendous acreage of agricultural land that was really available for settlers and pre-emptors a few years ago? Millions of acres are in the hands of a few men, although there is a law positively forbidding the sale of more than 640 acres of crown land to any one person until the first purchase has been cultivated and improved to the extent of $3 per acre. But it seems that in 1907 an amendment was passed permitting land to be staked by agents, whereupon the "grabbers" flooded the province with representatives who took up the best land in sight. The method they are said to have employed is as scandalous as the wrong they have done. Through some of the lowest forms of corruption the people of British Columbia have, temporarily at least, been deprived of their inheritance. There is at present a popular demand for restitution, and one that is not likely to be quieted or silenced until it is fully made."

PRELIMINARY ESTIMATE OF SEASON'S GRAIN CROP

Ottawa, June 25.—A press bulletin recently issued by the Census and Statistics office is of special interest as giving the preliminary estimate of the area sown to grain crops in Canada for the present season and the condition of these crops on May 31 as reported by correspondents. The reports received show that in the Maritime provinces cold and rainy weather during May delayed farm work, and at the end of the month a good deal of seeding had still to be completed. In Quebec and Ontario cold winds and frost, coming after the exceptionally warm weather of April, retarded growth. In these provinces the frost injured pastures, but did little damage to grain crops. In the Northwest provinces growth was checked somewhat by cold and frosty nights, but, on the whole, conditions continue to be favorable. In some parts of Manitoba and Saskatchewan the need of rain was being felt. In Alberta and British Columbia the condition of the grain crops was generally favorable.

Coughing scatters germs — Stop it

Coughing increases the irritation of the already inflamed mucous membranes and is moreover apt to carry disease to others. Mathieu's Syrup of Tar and Cod Liver Oil promptly stops coughing, and soon, thanks to its tonic properties, effects a permanent cure. The wonderful popularity of Mathieu's Syrup of Tar and Cod Liver Oil is especially due to its great value as a permanent lung and bronchial healer. Sold everywhere, 35c large bottles.

HEROISM OF DOCTORS AND STRETCHER BEARERS

The following is from an Ottawa official report:

In the recent severe fighting some of the finest examples of heroism were given by the doctors and stretcher bearers, who constantly exposed themselves to this devastating bombardment. Dressing stations had to be abandoned hurriedly in many instances, and battalion surgeons like Lieutenant Goddard, of the King's Own, went back repeatedly into the hail of shells, bringing out a wounded man each time. Two of the men carrying out Lieutenant Goddard were killed by shrapnel before the journey was finished.

It was impossible to collect the wounded from the field during the daylight. As soon as night fell the stretcher bearers and as many additional workers as could be collected went out under the direction of the surgeons and groped over the marsh land, picking up men who laid there all day long with shells exploding on every side. It was impossible to show lights—even the flare of an electric pocket lamp. The stretcher bearers had to crawl laboriously through the darkness and when they found a man who was still alive it was necessary to make a slow and painful journey across the plain stepping over bodies and avoiding craters, until they reached the motor ambulances waiting on the nearest road.

STIRRING OFFICIAL REPORT OF YPRES ATTACK

The following is from an official report:
One of the finest exploits of the cavalry during the later fighting in the Ypres salient was the charge of the 10th Hussars, on May 15th, when they were sent to fill a gap in the line and counter-attack in order to recover some lost trenches.

The cavalry regiments holding certain portions of the salient on that day were disastrously shell- ed from early morning. The 3rd Dragoon Guards were buried in the debris of their blown out trenches; the wood in which the 1st Royals were lodged was a mass of flame. The North Somerset Yomenry and the Leicester-shire Yomenry suffered heavily; the former managed to stick to their trenches, but the Leicesters were forced back temporarily.

An attack by the 10th Hussars to re-establish the line was timed for 2:30 p. m. While all the artillery concentrated on the German position around two farms near Verloenhoeck, three armored motor cars were to dash along the road towards that village and do what they could with their quick-firing guns. Our aeroplanes hovered overhead, observing this movement.

It was a magnificent sight. One officer of the Flying Corps said afterwards that the advance of the Hussars, seen from above, was like a parade movement. Nothing could stop them. They

1. Appointment—Lieut. R. I. Van der Byl is appointed Acting Adjutant vice Lieut. A. Garss on leave.

2. Parades—A and B Companies will parade as one company at the Assessor's Office Monday, 28th inst. at 8 o'clock sharp.

By order,
R. I. VAN DER BYL, Lieut.
Acting Adjutant.

Corporation of the City of Prince Rupert.

TAKE NOTICE that: (1). The Council of the Corporation of the City of Prince Rupert intends to construct as a Local Improvement, a four-foot plank sidewalk on Claude Street, from the existing plank road on Eighth Avenue to the centre of Seventh Avenue, thence along Seventh Avenue from the centre of Claude Street, to the existing sidewalk on Donald Street, and intends to specially assess the cost upon the land abutting directly on the work.

(2). The estimated cost of the work is $234.00, of which none is to be paid by the corporation. The estimated special rate per foot frontage is $0.25. The special assessment is to be paid in one year.

(3). A petition against the work will not avail to prevent its construction. Dated this 19th day of June, 1915.
