IRON PRODUCTION

In view of the interest taken late in the establishment of iron and steel industry in this neighborhood, an interview given by Sir John Randles, a British member of Parliament, and the head of the United Steel Company with a newspaperman in Victoria, is of interest. The steel magnate said that he was aware that there were extensive iron deposits in this country. He understood that the plant established in the state of Washington had shut down because of a lack of ore supply. It was pointed out to Sir John that the Provincial Government, besides arranging a bonus as an inducement to private enterprise to establish an iron industry here, had so much faith in the possibilities that intimation had been made that, lacking such initiative, it would embark on some sort of state owned enterprise. To this the iron-master smilingly responded: "It would be very dubious about a Government scheme. You know governments have a habit of wasting a lot of the public's money when embarking in commercial enterprises. They are very seldom practically handled. I should say that a better plan would be for them to offer security for the expenditure of private management. They will be at that when the direction of industry has an interest in the undertaking will be more efficiently managed."

Not Interested Here.
 Sir John Randles did not believe that British iron interests would be found interested in foreign extension at the present time. They had too many problems at home, he said. It was taking all their resources to keep their established plants working at anything like capacity. There was a bigger market contiguous to England than they could hope to supply for several years to come. They could not mine the ore fast enough, or get sufficient coke, to manufacture iron and steel on a capacity basis. France had undermined their coal and coke supply by overbidding them and only since he had left England had he been advised of a government embargo being placed on export of coal, in order to provide for the needs of some consumption. Labor was working two hours less a day for increased wages and plant capacity had been correspondingly reduced.

World Iron Hungry.
 In respect to markets, Sir John said that the world was awfully hungry for iron products of every kind. "Nothing like the present demand was ever experienced in history, he estimated, but, by the same token, never had it been so difficult to produce. When the present was mentioned specifically as one of the probable markets for the proposed British (Continued on Page Six.)

Terrace is Invaded By Local Trippers

Between Five and Six Hundred People Enjoy Day at Famous Fruit Growing Resort; Cordially Welcomed

Five hundred and fifty persons, exclusive of those who went up on the regular passenger train, made the trip to Terrace yesterday to attend the Victoria Day Celebration at that place. The turn-out exceeded the biggest expectations and by 7:30 in the morning, when the special seven-coach train promptly pulled out, all cars were filled to capacity with crowds of holiday seekers. The trip up the river was uneventful, more excursionists being picked up at points en route and arriving at Terrace at 11 o'clock. The townsfolk were at the station in force to meet their guests and after the trip the first places to be rushed were the hotel dining room and the restaurant. Both did a thriving business all day and at meal times doors had to be locked to keep out larger numbers than could be accommodated.

Mrs. Furoth Has a Special Way Pacific Milk

Perhaps other cooks have used Pacific Milk in the same way. At any rate, this is the right method. When Mrs. Furoth is mixing up a cake, say it calls for 1 cup of milk. She takes first 1/2-cup of water and adds Pacific Milk to fill the cup. It is much better to pour the milk into water than to put water into 1/2-cup of milk. Which way do you dilute Pacific Milk?

PREMIER AND RETALLACK

John Oliver Gives Out Statement Regarding Objectionable Incident.

Premier Oliver recently gave out a statement describing as "all poppycock the idea that Major Retallack had any private arrangement with me."

The Premier says that Major Retallack was appointed on the recommendation of returned soldier organizations.

"No sooner had he been appointed than he started to dictate what his staff should be, and what his own duties should be," says the Premier. "We even employed a barrister as his secretary, so that he would have the advantage of legal advice."

Ran Off East.

"But one of the first things he did was to advise the Government that he wanted to go to Ottawa to get pointers on the Dominion Railway Board. I replied to him in writing that if he did we would only be acknowledging that we had appointed to the position a man who knew so little about the office that he had to go east for instructions."

"But in spite of orders Major Retallack went east. Of course the Government properly refused to pay his travelling expenses, which were the travelling expenses incurred by a man defying the instructions of the Government. Instructions of the Government to inquire into things in Vancouver he defied, and instead went east. Naturally we refused to pay his expenses. These are the bills he says the Government will not pay."

Salary Question.

"There was no bargain made with him about salary. The salary is fixed by the Public Utilities Act to be not less than $7,000, and not more than $8,000 a year. His salary was fixed by Order-in-Council at $7,500. I remember him putting up an awful fight for the maximum salary of $8,000. The terms of his employment were fixed by statute from which we never thought of departing. He was discharged by a non-party vote of the Legislature."

Talks about Indians

Rev. W. B. Pearce.

Vancouver, May 22.—Rev. W. B. Pearce, Methodist missionary at Port Essington, was one of the most interesting visitors to the B. C. Methodist Conference here. He was chief adviser to the noted Gun-a-Noot, and it was on Mr. Pearce's advice that the Indian outlaw, who eluded capture for fourteen years, gave himself up to the police, later facing trial and being acquitted on a double murder charge. Mr. Pearce was stationed at Kispiox at the time of the double murder and had frequently urged upon Gun-a-Noot adopting the course he eventually took, the missionary knowing some facts much in the favor of the fugitive, especially in regard to the intrusion of others into his family circle for no honorable purpose.

Interviewed here, Mr. Pearce said agitators at Port Essington had tried to get the Indians to join the One Big Union but had failed. The Indians in his part had made much money out of fishing and canning but were inclined to spend their money recklessly, some buying automobiles when they really couldn't afford such a luxury. On the other hand great improvements had been made in some of the Indian villages. One community had installed electric light at a cost of $8,000. He also reported healthy progress in the Native Fishermen's Association. Prohibition had been beneficial to them; there was now less fighting and more sleep for all at nights, and the Indians were a peaceful, cleaner and thrifter people.

J. Gordon Smith, who has spent a fortnight in the district doing publicity work for the provincial government, arrived from Stewart on the Prince Rupert yesterday morning and left on the train for Terrace. He will work his way up the Skeena and Bulkley to Prince George and return south by way of the Canadian Northern.

Soldier Parson

Captain Rev. F. H. Buck, M.C., who won the Returned Soldiers' Prize at the recent British Columbia University examinations, and who will shortly sail for the north to resume his duties under Bishop Stringer in the Yukon, was married on Saturday in St. Mark's Church, Victoria, by Rev. J. W. Flinton. The bride was Miss Mae Shires, and W. F. Buck, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Squire Shires, Marionbree and the Gorge. A short honeymoon is being spent by the happy couple at Brentwood before the couple sail for the north.

G. A. McNicholl returned on Saturday on the Prince George.

CANCELLATION OF RESERVE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the reserve covering the belt of land ten claims in width situated along the north shore of Graham Island is cancelled in so far as it relates to that portion lying between the easterly boundary of Indian Reserve No. 2 situated in the vicinity of Tow Hill and the southerly boundary of Lot 1016, Queen Charlotte Islands District.

The Man in the Moon SAYS:

THAT some of the young men around town are urged to keep away from the park, for it is rumored there are squirrels there, and squirrels eat nuts.

THAT one hundred families weekly are said to be leaving Winnipeg and going on to farms because of the scarcity of houses in the prairie metropolis and the high cost of living.

THAT if the shortage of houses and H.C.L. are having such a good effect, it is a pity they cannot continue indefinitely.

THAT anything that will send people from the cities to the farms should be encouraged.

THAT the fishing yesterday was much as usual. Most of the big trout got away, and some very ornary looking little fish were "whoppers."

THAT the man who catches his hook on a snag and breaks the leader usually goes into ecstasies and remarks: "If I had landed that big un I'd made a record for the stream."

THAT the old fashioned girl usually stood on her dignity, but it is plain to see what the modern girl stands on. Her dresses allow a plain view.

THAT the reason for the short skirt is the tendency among modern girls to develop pretty ankles.

THAT the most inveterate gamblers in the world are said to be married men. Shh. The dice are loaded.

THAT it is not wise to listen to what people say.

THAT men are so wicked and women are so fickle it is a wonder any of them ever get married and raise families.

THAT some of them don't. The families raise themselves.

Goodyear Belting keeps this cement mill at highest efficiency

Troublesome Small Pulleys

Have you trouble getting belts flexible enough for small pulleys, yet strong enough to last? Goodyear has produced Extra Power Belting—belting flexible enough that it need not be too tight! Gripping enough to prevent slipping at any speed!

For this is 5-point belting.

1. It is extremely strong, because of specially-designed, properly-woven fabric.
2. Yet it is very flexible, for it is not stitched, but is welded together with high-grade rubber, forced through and through the fabric and surrounding every thread. It hugs even small pulleys.

3. It has a friction surface which grips, dry or damp, and needs no dressing.
4. It has a seam sealed tight with high quality rubber.
5. The same rubber which gives Goodyear Extra Power its flexibility, prevents ply separation, even when the edge is worn or torn by shifters or accident.

The list of satisfied users of Goodyear Extra Power Belting on small pulleys is very great—too long to print here. But a few are:

MANY PRE-EMPTION RECORDS THIS YEAR

That Central British Columbia is proving attractive to settlers coming to Canada, as well as those moving from one province to another, is well established, says the Prince George Citizen, by the following: For the first four months of this year, 336 pre-emption records have been allowed in the districts contiguous to the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, including Fort Fraser, 112; Fort George and Peace River, 145; Hazelton, 25; Skeena, 16; Cariboo, 60. By far the largest percentage of pre-emption records issued by the province are granted for these districts, while it may also be interesting to note that April of this year for the whole province totalled 142 pre-emptions as against 75 in 1918.

MINERS' ASSOCIATION RE-ELECT OFFICERS

Apart from reading reports resulting from business taken up at a previous special meeting, and a decision to communicate with the district public works engineer with a view to having the road connected up from the east end of Railway Avenue to the Hudson Bay mountain road, there was no business of any importance transacted at the annual meeting of the Smithers Miners' and Prospectors' Association, which was held on Monday night, says the Interior News.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted in a return of the old heads by acclamation. These are:

President—J. J. Kelly.
Vice-President—A. J. Fowlie.
Secretary-treasurer—L. S. McGill.

The miners now have a good strong association, and that it is an enthusiastic membership is evidenced by the attendance at recent meetings.

Pattullo Park is the name of the new recreation grounds at Burns Lake. The people of Burns Lake are asking the government for financial aid in getting improvements made on the park.

Lieutenant G. A. Maude, formerly chief officer on the Stadacona, which visited here last winter with Admiral Jellicoe's chief-of-staff, was a passenger passing through here on Saturday. He arrived on the Prince George and left for Halifax on the train.
