ANOTHER PRINCE RUPERT BOY RETURNED

Edward Biddle, the returned warrior who has been filling the columns of the Vancouver papers with war stories, went from Prince Rupert with the first contingent, and has brought back with him the wrist watch presented to him before leaving this city. The shine is considerably gone from the case, and the face bears blood stains, but Ed. would not trade that Prince Rupert watch for the best chronometer on the coast or anywhere else.

He expects to return to Prince Rupert in the course of a week or so, and Prince Rupert will have an opportunity of welcoming one more of its brave sons. He has a German helmet and several other curios.

Don't forget St. John Ambulance meeting in Hays' Building tonight.

FLAG OPERATIONS

Ottawa, October 9.—It has not escaped the notice of his friends that Major General Sir Sam Hughes is obliged to spend a large part of his time roving from one Canadian city to another, gathering salutes from the soldiers, verbal bouquets from officers who have their way to make, and civic receptions where the mayor can be persuaded to sign the order. Although this is a duty not unpleasant to Sir Sam, the opinion grows here that he could profitably stay at home at Ottawa and attend to matters, less personal perhaps, but quite as important to the welfare of the nation and the Conservative party.

For instance, there is the large question of getting all the good that can be got in the way of cheer for the people and argument for the next election campaign out of the grand old Union Jack. It is felt that the Minister of Militia should have this department in charge. He is just the man for it. Activity along this line has been neglected far too long. So far as an adequate display of flags is concerned the Germans might well doubt whether we have a native land to die for at all.

This strange absence of flags has been brought to the attention of the authorities mostly by the remarks of American tourists in Canada, who cannot understand how a country can be in the throes of a great war without hanging out a banner or two. The average American visits Canada, sees our troops marching away by the thousands, the people lining the streets to see the heroes off, but no cheering, no flags.

Naturally our American cousin asks why. "We feel too sad to cheer," we reply, with a lump in our throats.

"So many of these brave fellows will never come back."

And that explains why there is so little cheering. But when the American cousin goes on to ask about flags, we are fairly stumped. Why is it that the cities and towns and villages of Canada, the public buildings and the private dwellings, are not aflame with the Union Jack and the Red Ensign? Why do we deny our soldiers the sight of that oriflamme of liberty, and justice, to hearten and inspire them? There's nothing that bucks the soldier boy up like that meteor flag fluttering from every corner of the old home town as he marches away to Flanders, or the Dardanelles, or Egypt, or wherever the paths of glory lead him. The old flag and the band playing "The Girl I Left Behind Me" there's a remembrance to live in his heart amidst the perils of battle. It sustains him like a religion.

Knowing what aid and comfort it is, why don't the soldiers get a chance to see more of it? If ever there was a time to wave the flag this is it. Here is a real crisis of Empire, a real occasion for loyal bunting, a tremendous opportunity for all the moral support and spiritual enthusiasm the flag can supply, yet the government does nothing. It does not even give out a word of advice and encouragement.

The other day Premier Borden was visiting the great and loyal city of Toronto, with the object of delivering a message from our soldiers at the front. His visit coincided with the news of victories in Flanders and the Argonne—a double reason for flags and paeans of joy. One would have thought to see flags everywhere, on the shop fronts, on towers and steeples, in the hands of the young men and maidens, in the

THE DIAMOND FROM THE SKY AT THE WESTHOLME

The Westholme Theatre has a particularly good eight-reel program for tonight. There is not a dull moment from start to finish. "The Diamond From the Sky" becomes increasingly interesting as the story unfolds and last night the management had difficulty in finding seats for all who wished to see it.

Charlie Chaplin in "The Champion" is as funny as ever, while Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew in "Following the Scent" provide fun for everybody. "A Bag of Gold" and "The Shadow and the Shade" are both splendid dramas. This is one of the finest programs ever presented to a Rupert audience.

MONTEAGLE ON FIRE AT VANCOUVER DOCK

(Special to The Daily News.)

Vancouver, Oct. 11.—The C. P. R. steamer Monteagle is on fire here. She was due to sail tomorrow for the Orient. While preparing to place the hatches on No. 2 hold at 4 a. m. today, a tongue of flame shot skyward.

The entire crew and engineering staff assisted the local fire brigade to fight the flames, which are now under control. Two firemen were taken to the hospital, suffering from the effects of the smoke.

The Monteagle had 1,500 tons of cargo in No. 2 hold, consisting of cotton, sewing machines and a mixed cargo. She will have to be unloaded in order to hold an investigation to see whether her plates are buckled. C. P. R. officials refuse to discuss an incendiary theory.

Otter Wrecked.

The C. P. R. steamer Otter has gone on the rocks at D'Arcy Island. She was on her way north from Victoria to assist in removing the cargo from the wrecked Mariposa, preparatory to an effort to float the Alaskan boat.

The Otter was an old wooden steamer valued at $30,000. She is reported to be a total loss, and abandoned by the underwriters.

The Cordova and Salvor, of Vancouver are standing by the Mariposa.

You must hear Art Noble speak in St. Andrew's Hall tomorrow night.

"THE BROKEN COIN" AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE

The eleventh episode of "The Broken Coin" at the Majestic is just as full of excitement as the others. War has been declared, and the count and his friends are in the thick of it. The battle scenes are intensely realistic.

"For I Have Foiled" is a striking drama which must appeal to all. A wealthy manufacturer, determined to find out the conditions under which his employees work, disguises himself and goes to work in his own factory. The results are illuminating for the millionaire and discomfiting for his superintendent.

"When Their Dads Fell Out" is an extremely funny comedy, while the Animated Weekly is up-to-date and interesting. Coming Wednesday—a great two-reel drama entitled "The Tomboy."

THE DRYDOCK

W. T. Donnelly left for the east on Saturday's delayed train. Mr. Donnelly is thoroughly satisfied with the tests carried out at the dock. This is the tenth dock of the kind which Mr. Donnelly has designed. The others are all being used regularly, and he intends to do all he possibly can to get work for the Prince Rupert dock at an early date. It is just possible that it will be occupied this winter. Robert Smith has been awarded a contract to lay steam piping throughout the yards. The work, which represents an expenditure of $5,000, will start at once.

TWO AMERICAN FISHERMEN LOST

The American fishing schooner Seymour, which arrived from the banks on Saturday night, reported the loss of two members of the crew, John Lovig and Alfred Lund, off Cape Clear, in Alaskan waters. Both were experienced fishermen. It is supposed that they became entangled in the gear. No trace of the men or their dory could be found.

THE WAR

The Austro-German invasion of Serbia has begun in grim earnest, and the city of Belgrade is adding another adventurous page to its history. With a huge percentage of its population in the grip of typhus for months past, Serbia has admittedly been pretty much disgusted with the whole business, but the arrival of strong French and British forces must have put new heart into the soldiers of King Peter, and Von Mackenzen and his men, recently thrashed by the Russians, will have their work cut out for them in the new venture.

With Bulgaria threatening to attack the railroad between Nish and Salonika, things will be decidedly warm in the Balkan States during the next few weeks, and Greece is going to have great difficulty in keeping out of it. In permitting the Allied troops to pass through to the Serbian frontier, she has already committed herself to the support of the Allies and no protestations of neutrality will avail with the Kaiser when he comes to reckon with his esteemed relative. Probably King Constantine is convinced that Berlin will never be in a position to do any reckoning, but if that is so, he would be much safer to come out boldly and declare himself at war with Turkey at least.

In bringing men from the eastern front to attack Serbia, Germany must have weakened her lines in that region to a considerable extent, and, if the figures of Hilaire Belloc are dependable, and they are usually very near the mark, the German and Austrian supply of recruits is getting low and the standard is away below what it was six months ago, so that the struggle around Belgrade is almost certain to give the Russians an opportunity to begin an active offensive again.

On the western front, the Allies are battering away at the German lines, preparatory to another big infantry advance. High explosives and all other lines of munitions are coming along in increasing quantities and everything points to a continued strenuous attack on the Hun positions. A continual stream of reinforcements will be required there, and it seems impossible that, even with the assistance of Bulgaria, Germany and Austria can keep up continual fighting on so many different and widely separated fronts for an almost unlimited period.

hands of old people and the little children. Manifestly it was a time for flags. If an American city had been celebrating a double triumph like that—victory in Europe and a visit from the First Commoner—it would have been ablaze with flags. The landscape would have been completely covered with stars and stripes. But Toronto the loyal, Toronto the Conservative, with the premier of its heart in its very midst, did not hang out one extra flag. I take that back. One down-town saloon ran up the flag that braved a thousand years the battle and the breeze, but doubts were expressed as to what it had to celebrate, now that the license commission has got busy.

Why was Toronto so timid, so meticulously thrifty in the use of flags on that glorious day? Or rather why doesn't Canada exult in a greater degree to show its colors, for Toronto is only one case in point? One would suppose that flags are something they don't keep at the department stores, so few and far between are they. And yet they were plentiful enough in September, 1911, when they were used at every Conservative campaign meeting to give an artistic verisimilitude, as Pooh Bah would say to an otherwise bald and unconvincing narrative. Perhaps you remember, gentle reader, how their custom was to blossom at the psychological moment, carrying the intelligent voter off his feet and causing him to forget the statistics presented by the other side. They had the flag in all sizes then, from cupola size down to button hole ribbons, and it cannot be denied that the flag did excellent work for those who were handling it at that time.

Just here the question arises where are all those flags now, also the men who organized the flag enthusiasm. The answer is that there are plenty of flags in Canada yet, and that the flag-organizers of that day are in power now at Ottawa, but that there's nothing doing in the way of concerted effort. Somehow or other nobody is taking hold of the flag and waving it, as it could be waved if they had the heart to do it.

A possible explanation is that they may have the heart, but not the nerve to do it. Having waved the flag for a petty partisan purpose in 1911, they naturally feel a little shy about tackling a lofty motive like the present. Besides the people remember these things and no doubt cherish resentment against those who used the sacred emblem of our nationhood for anything less than the noblest ends. At all events it doesn't do to recall the facts of four years ago by too much ostentation now. A cynic has suggested that another reason why the people have had no official encouragement from the government in the use of flags is that the government doesn't feel like celebrating victories in Europe when it has nothing to celebrate in Canada—except defeats and reverses at the polls, as in Manitoba, and Prince Edward Island, and—not yet, but soon—in British Columbia.

However, this is a digression. The point is that a movement is afoot to induce Major General Sir Sam Hughes to stay at home more in Ottawa and take charge of the flag operations. What the people lack is not the spirit but direction. The Major General is just the man for the job. He is a thorough democrat and only accepted the knighthood because it was an honor to democracy. For himself he didn't give a hoot. He's like that, is Sir Sam, always sacrificing his personal feelings for the public good. He believes in the flag and the flag believes in him and when Sir Sam has the matter in his hands the people will feel that he isn't overdoing it. Besides, Sir Sam is a technician. cal expert on flag work which has become a science in Ottawa. At the capital they use flags to say everything. You can even tell by looking at the flag on the House of Commons tower whether Senator Blank was cured of his asthma or whether he wasn't. Mostly he wasn't and that is always a glad message to the new candidates. At any rate there's a great run on flags in Ottawa—they're always hoisting of 'em up and hauling of 'em down, thus letting the world know what goes on.

As might be expected the Militia Department excels in this branch of service. The red-tape colonels have made the flag a language. You can always tell what a red-tape colonel is thinking about by watching his flag. For instance, if he has just had a high-ball the flag is at peak, if he wants a high-ball the flag is at half mast, and if he doesn't expect to have any more high-balls that day the flag is hauled down. Some of the red-tape colonels fly their flags night and day, such is their zeal.

All of which is to say that if Sir Sam organizes the flag service outside of Ottawa as well as it is organized in Ottawa it ought to help a lot.—H. F. Gadsby.

The Housekeeper is Right

Sometimes a housekeeper requires a quick leavening agent, and finds she has no baking powder.

What does she do?

She raises her biscuit by a mixture of cream of tartar and soda, or soda and sour milk. She may not get the proportions quite right, but she knows her food is safe. But does she ever use a mixture of alum and soda? Was there ever a housekeeper who bought alum and soda to make a home made baking powder? Intuitively she feels it would be unsafe.

Then why use baking powder made from alum or the same mixture that the housekeeper would not dare to mix and use in her food?

Alum is alum, whether bought in the drug store or in baking powder.

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

is made from pure cream of tartar and contains no alum, lime or phosphate. There is absolute safety in its use.

THANKSGIVING BANQUET

The Thanksgiving banquet in the Methodist Church last night was the usual big success, the ladies providing a sumptuous repast, while the speakers of the evening delivered inspiring little speeches. As in past years, a delightful musical program was rendered, in which Mrs. Millar and Messrs. Clapperton, Jones, Davey and Davis excelled themselves. Principal Brady delivered two most enjoyable readings and also gave a splendid address on the spirit of unionism. Speeches were made by Revs. W. W. Wright H. R. Grant and G. A. Rix, each speaker dwelling on the benefits of united effort on the part of the churches. God Save the King brought a memorable banquet to a close.

The Case of A.B. Smith, Retailer.

A. B. SMITH has a dry goods store in a certain Canadian city. He does a good business, but wants to do more. He believes that Advertising in his local newspaper is the way to get more business. So he advertises—every now and then. This is where our friend Smith is wrong—in advertising every now and then. He should advertise regularly—as frequently as his local newspaper is published.

Smith says he wants to advertise regularly, but he can't always find the time to prepare advertisements, which is true, for he is his own buyer, sales-manager, director of store service, credit man and half-a-dozen other things.

What Smith should do is this: If he is located in one of the smaller cities, in which there are no advertising agencies giving a local copy service, and he has no one among his own staff qualified by instinct or experience to write the daily announcements, he should go to the publisher of the newspaper in which he means to advertise, requesting his help. In nine cases out of ten, the publisher, through his advertising manager, will be only too glad to give Smith the assistance desired.

If Smith is located in one of the larger cities he should secure the services of a recognized advertising agency which will take over the work of preparing his advertisements.

In this way Smith can be sure of having his advertisements prepared regularly and intelligently, with no more trouble to him than the supplying of the information required by the writer of the advertisements.

So Smith can do more business, and more business means a larger income for himself, to say nothing of other gains that go hand in hand with the doing of bigger business.

This man Smith---do you know him? Are YOU Smith?

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.
If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumsden Building, Toronto.
