BULGARIA MAKES GERMAN DECLARATION

SERBIA INVADED BEFORE WAR IS DECLARED -- IVANOFF DRIVES HUNS BACK

OPTIMISTIC REPORTS FROM ALL THE VARIOUS FRONTS

AUSTRO-GERMAN INVADERS RESISTED IN SERBIA. IMPORTANT RUSSIAN GAIN CONFIRMED—MANY PRISONERS TAKEN—ENEMY DRIVEN BACK THIRTY MILES

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, Oct. 13.—The reports from all theatres of war are optimistic. The Austro-German invaders of Serbia are meeting with a stubborn resistance. The important Russian success in Galicia is confirmed. General Ivanoff broke through the German front along the Stripa river, taking over 2,000 prisoners and many guns. He forced the enemy to fall back a distance of thirty miles in three days. The moral effect of this German retreat on the situation in the Balkans is important. There is indecisive and desperate fighting in the region of Dvinsk.

Western Front.

The French are resuming the offensive in the Champagne and a great fight is proceeding.

Britain is preparing for another big advance, and the French are making continued progress.

The Germans made a desperate attack on the French positions at Souchez. Everywhere the enemy was repulsed with heavy losses.

There is artillery fighting of great intensity between Somme and the Oise, near Andrehy and east of Rheims. The German batteries are active south of Tahure and east of Butte de Menil.

TRADES AND LABOR MEN DISCUSS PROHIBITION

A meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was held last evening, when several matters came up for discussion.

Among these was the subject of prohibition, and the proposition to introduce a prohibitory law at the present time. It was decided after discussion by the council "that we go on record as opposing prohibition at the present time, owing to the unsettled condition of the labor market."

It was reported to the council that there was trouble in a labor way at the Silver Standard mine at Hazelton. This having been reported to them from the labor organization in the interior, it was decided to get out posters and a committee was appointed to do this, giving the information that a strike existed at this mine. The services of the local council will be offered in the matter in any way in which these services may be of use.

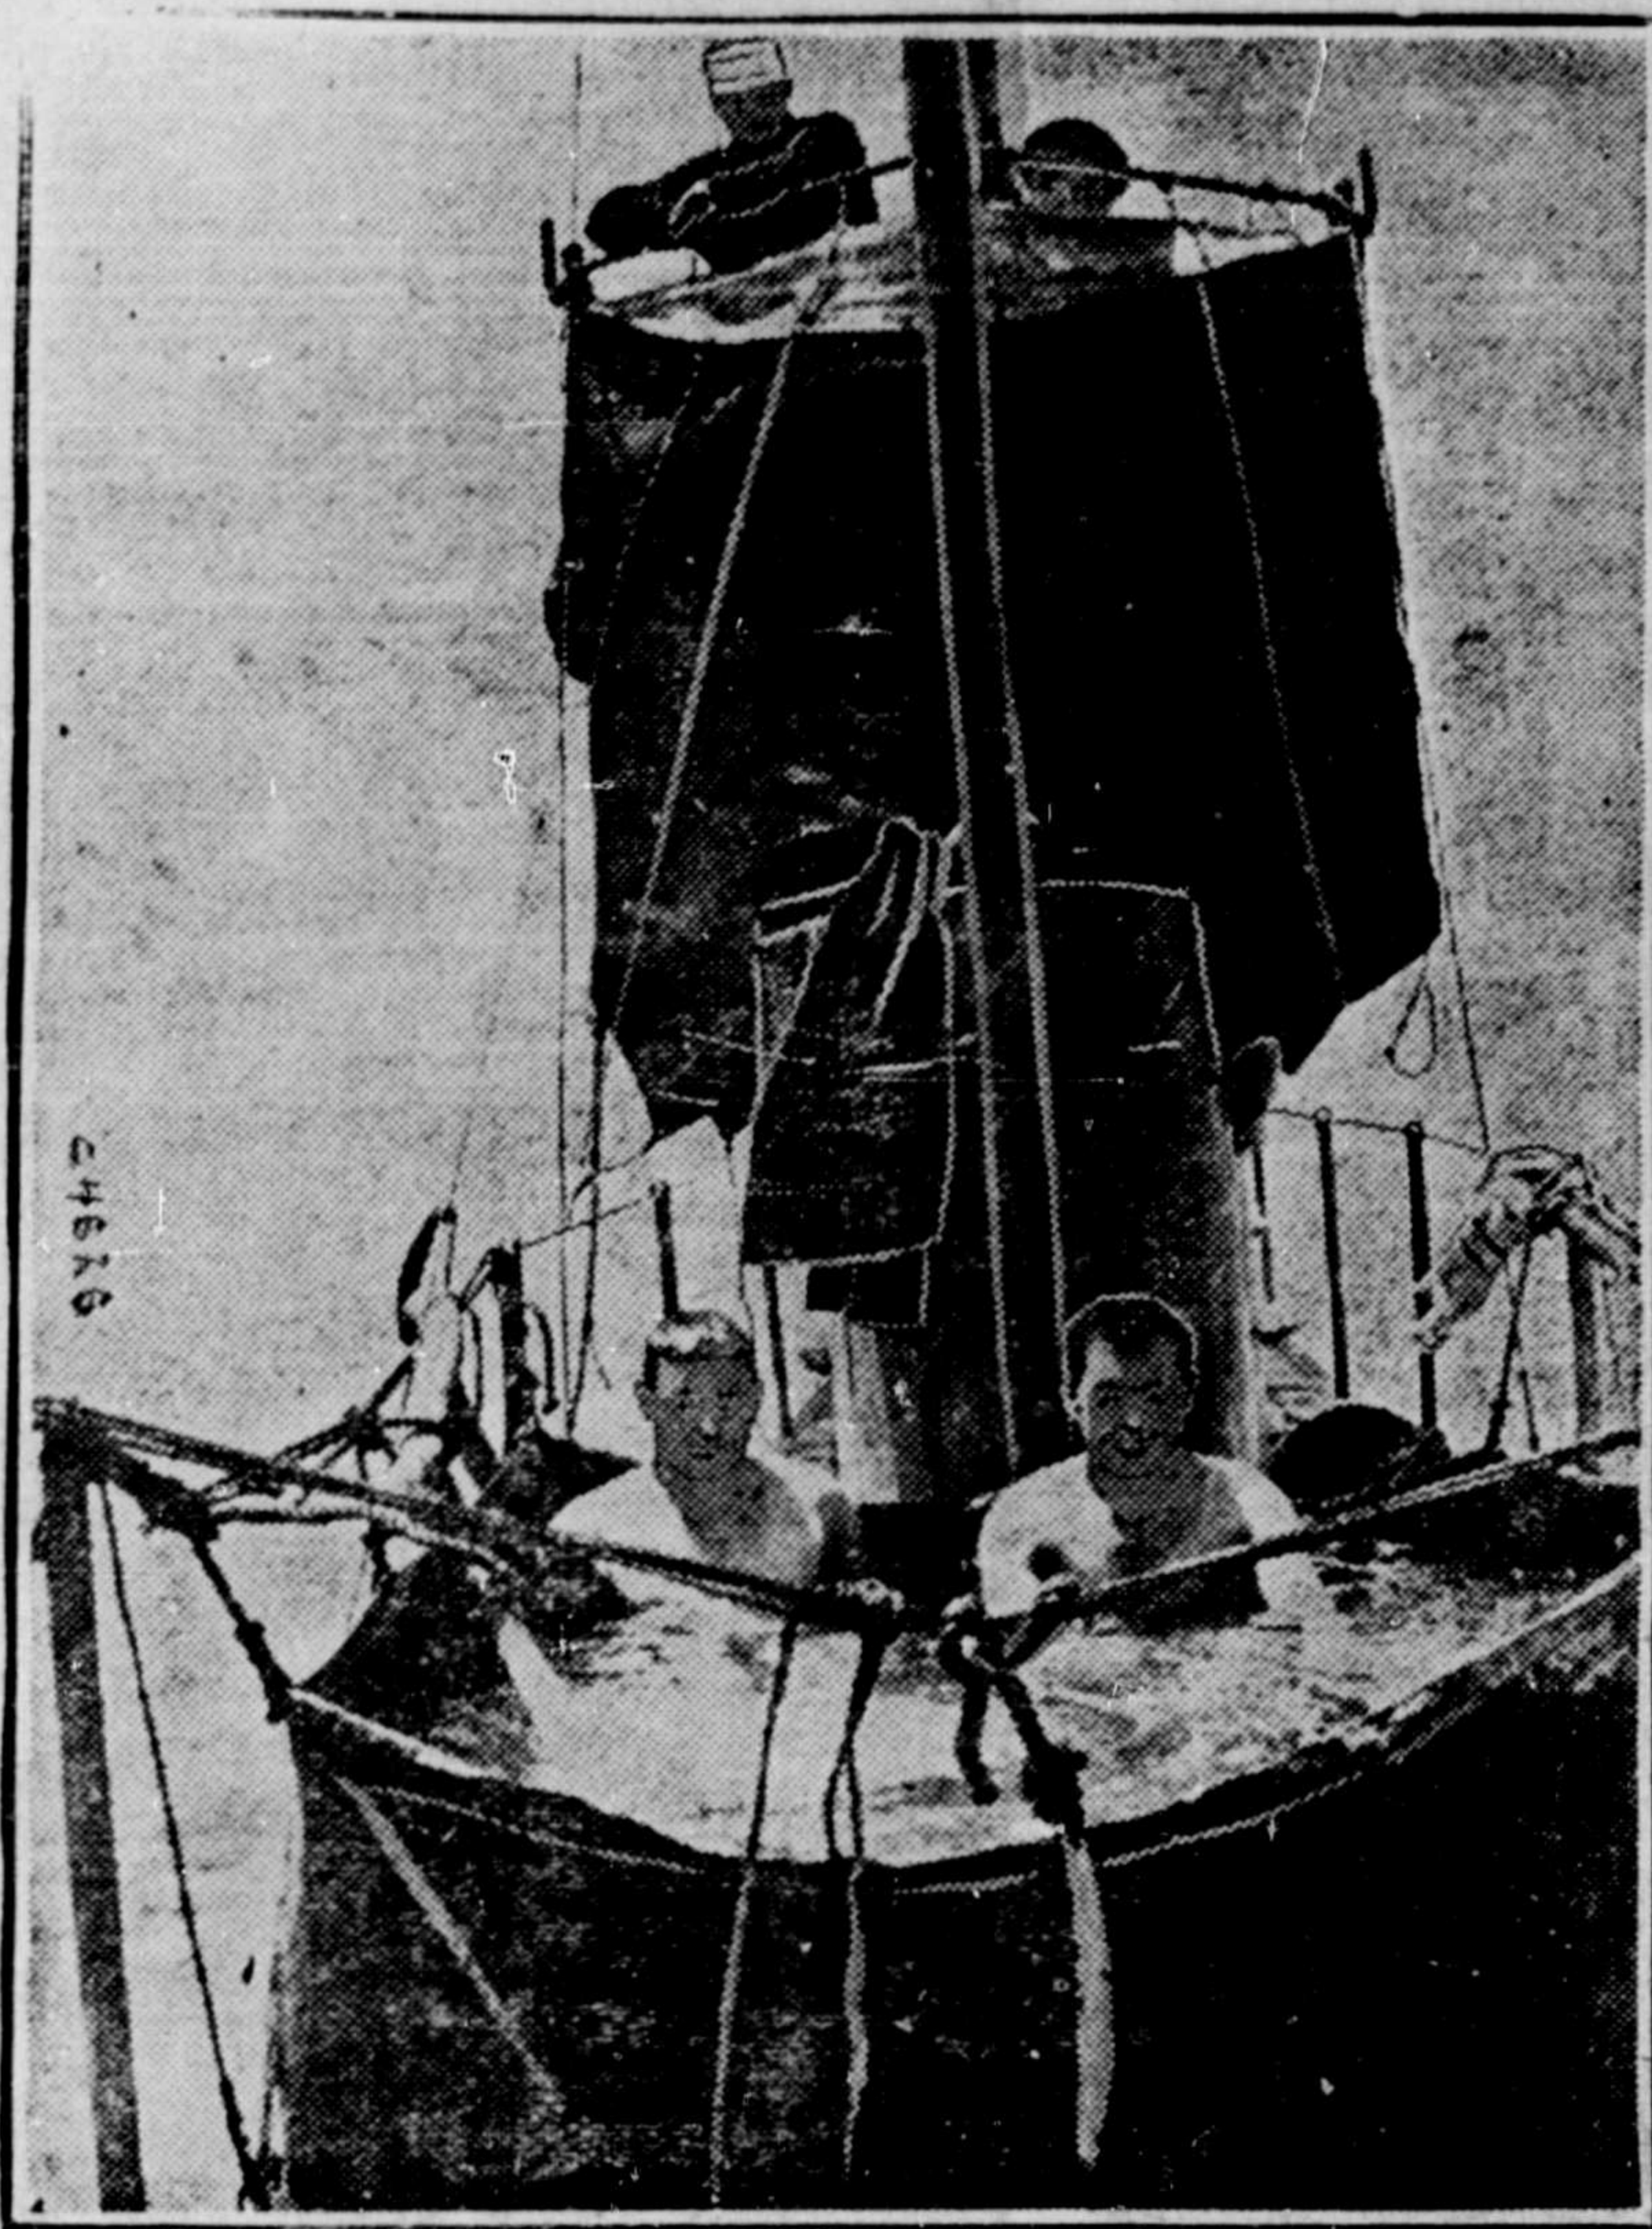

The question of putting a labor candidate in the field at the next provincial election was discussed. It was finally decided to take no action at the present time, but to refer this to the next meeting of the council.

The market clerk's report for September, presented at the city council last night, showed that $543.33 worth of produce had been handled, as against $429.50 for August. The report was adopted.

PRINCE RUPERT AT THE SAN FRANCISCO EXPOSITION

D. C. McRAE EXPLAINS HOW THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC ARE BRINGING PRINCE RUPERT AND NORTHERN BRITISH COLUMBIA BEFORE THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

D. C. McRae, who recently returned from San Francisco and San Diego, was greatly impressed by the good work for Prince Rupert being done at the Panama Exposition by the G. T. P. and in the following interesting letter describes how it is done. Mr. McRae, being a business man, gives a few timely observations on coast business conditions.

Editor Daily News:—In compliance with your request I am pleased to submit a few observations gathered during my visit to the Panama Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco and the Panama California Exposition at San Diego.

Having visited all the principal cities between here and Mexico, will say that business conditions here are quite as good or even better than an average of the coast cities. At San Francisco alone business is fairly good. And it is soon due to experience the inevitable aftermath of the great exposition which represents an expenditure of fifty-five million dollars. It would seem that the entire Pacific coast is now experiencing the after effects of an extended period of prosperity and of greatly inflated values, and that the present depression is due to these inflated values more than to the effects of the war. Real estate values seem to have dropped in all the coast cities to about the same extent as in Prince Rupert. Very little is being sold though a considerable trading is done in exchanging encumbered property for something somewhere in order to avoid payments falling due.

Having travelled on three of the American coast boats, which were a fair average, one is able to appreciate the real luxury we enjoy in our own G. T. P. boats. In equipment, service, or from any other view point our boats are infinitely superior. One is also able to better appreciate the coast trip from here to Seattle as compared with the trip from Seattle to San Diego. On the American coast the ship is seldom within sight of land, and I believe it is no exaggeration to say that 75 per cent. of the people making this trip become sea sick. From San Francisco to Seattle not more than 3 per cent. of the passengers showed up for two successive meals. Eastern tourists select the boat trip in preference to the train down the coast. When this trip is compared with the delightful trip from here to Seattle it is plain that the G. T. P. and Prince Rupert can look forward with confidence to a large tourist trade in the not distant future. Then it will be up to Prince Rupert to see that these people stop over and are given an opportunity to see the many beauty spots and places of interest in and around the city. The southern cities fairly live on this tourist trade, and I look to see it reach large proportions for Prince Rupert.

John Bostrom is on his way to his Francois Lake ranch, coming from Edmonton. He is bringing in twelve head of horses and a lot of farm machinery for the purpose of starting work on the farm this fall to be ready for his first crop next year. He has in the twelve hundred acres between one and two hundred acres that can be plowed now and put into crop. In the spring he will put at least a hundred head of young stock on the place as a starter. Pat Mulville, an old employee on the G. T. ROCHER DE BOULE HAS SHIPPED 325 CARS OF ORE

Up to date the Rocher de Boule mine has shipped three hundred and twenty-five cars of ore from Tramville to the Granby smelter. These cars all average forty tons each. The Rocher de Boule property is in fine shape and the future for it is very bright. The ore shoots are as strong as ever and the grade of the ore is just as high. The improvements being made to the camp and to the mine equipment are progressing very satisfactorily. It will be only a short time until the dinkey engine recently purchased will be operating between the tunnel and the upper terminal. This will mean a greater tonnage at a reduced operating cost.—Omineca Herald.

VALUES AND THE WAR

On the eve of the war Herr Ballin, head of the Hamburg-American Line of steamers, expressed in The London Times his fear that "all values would be destroyed" were war to break out. Now, after more than a year of war, it is interesting to inquire how far his foreboding has been justified. War has certainly caused a terrible slump in values, and not only in the financial markets. In a wider sense, values have dropped far below par.

Human life seems to be of less account. The staggering blow at the heart of humanity when the Titanic and the Empress of Ireland went down is no longer felt, as the monotonous daily record of the toll of death at the cannon's mouth mounts into the hundred thousands. Death no longer terrifies in face of the claims of honor and patriotism. Not that we value life less, but that we value sacrifice and honor more. Over the grave of Gladstone's heir and grandson, the late W. G. Gladstone, M. P., who was killed in action, is this simple epitaph, taken from a letter written by him to his mother from the front: "It is not the length of existence that counts, but what is achieved during that existence, however short. War has restored to us a right sense of proportion. All life is mean and valueless that is not worth the sacrifice of the casket that embodies the spirit. George Meredith, at the time of the Russo-Japanese campaign, expressed the fear that the British race had lost its contempt of death. This war proves how utterly unfounded were his apprehensions.

Many worthy and honorable pursuits have depreciated in value since the war. Writers, artists, and workers of divers classes feel the pinch of fallen values. Others have recovered their proper place in life. Money and luxury and possessions have shrunk to mean proportions beside the spiritual uprising of an awakened world democracy consecrated to the task of restoring the true values of the things that count in life. It is a democracy that insists upon honoring its "scraps of paper" and in establishing upon the ruins of German brute force an era of peace and righteous dealing between men and nations.

After all, it is not so much a fall as a readjustment of values which the war has brought about. Swinburne, another great Victorian, strikes the right note when he reminds us that the person is "damned" who "loves his own life more than he hates all wrong-doing anywhere beneath the sun."—Toronto Globe.

GERMAN ANSWERS GERMAN

Writing in the New York Times on "The Impeachment of German-Americans," Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, of Harvard University, tries to interpret German ideals to us. His method is simple: say nothing about Belgium, the Lusitania, and the innumerable rat-hole activities of the hyphenated in the United States, and claim for Germany all betterment in sanitation, city building, conservation, art, drama, politics, etc., etc. Germany has given all these things and Germany is a land of freedom. The nub of the political argument is the assertion: "Yes, the German nation governs itself just as much as the American." Is this true? Back in 1914, before the breaking out of the war, Hans Delbruck, professor of history in the University of Berlin and Vice Chancellor of the German Empire, wrote a book called "Government and the Will of the People." In this he points out that the Reichstag, which comes nearer than any other German institution to representing the nation, is far from controlling national affairs, and was created by Bismarck to strengthen the government and to support its policies. This is just the opposite of conditions in England, France, and the United States, where the parliamentary or representative idea still holds. Delbruck shows that the Kaiser, the Bavarian King, and the other German princes exert their power "by the grace of God" and rule by means of the army officers and the civil officials. The foundation of the German political system is the direct personal loyalty of these two bodies to the monarch. Munsterberg can call this "full freedom and mature self-government" if he likes, but this German system of statecraft is the same old system of self-centered monarchical power from which the English and French peoples fought themselves free during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. Delbruck knows this and gives the facts boldly. Munsterberg had better go talk to him.—Collier's Weekly.

DUNSMUIR STREET ROADWAY

The question of laying a 16-foot plank roadway from Dunsmuir St. to McBride has been laid over until a more convenient season.

The mayor said he had hoped that there would have been enough lumber left from the re-decking to do the work, but he found there would not.

Ald. Beveridge said that in any case there was more important work to be done, for instance, the putting in of water mains.

The Housekeeper is Right

Sometimes a housekeeper requires a quick leavening agent, and finds she has no baking powder.

What does she do?

She raises her biscuit by a mixture of cream of tartar and soda, or soda and sour milk. She may not get the proportions quite right, but she knows her food is safe. But does she ever use a mixture of alum and soda? Was there ever a housekeeper who bought alum and soda to make a home made baking powder? Intuitively she feels it would be unsafe.

Then why use baking powder made from alum or the same mixture that the housekeeper would not dare to mix and use in her food?

Alum is alum, whether bought in the drug store or in baking powder.

be sure to see the Canadian building. But of even greater interest to the people of Prince Rupert is the G. T. P. building. The G. T. P. has a building and a display that does it great credit. Canadian products and a wealth of photographs, old paintings, etc., adorn the interior. Northern B. C. being the scenic part of the G. T. P., receives most attention, and Rupert occupies a conspicuous part. Mr. G. A. McNichol was in charge when I went south and Mr. A. Lett on my return. These gentlemen with their two assistants surely handle the work in hand in a splendid manner. In the G. T. P. building is a moving picture theatre about the size of the Majestic. Admission is free and a lecture is given in explanation of the pictures shown. The bulk of the pictures are again from Northern B. C., from Prince Rupert east. The moving pictures of the city, harbor and waterfront are splendid. The idea is to popularize the G. T. P. as a route for travel—especially to tourists—and also to induce people to settle the territory tributary to the Grand Trunk Pacific.

In conclusion will say that there is some satisfaction in knowing that while business conditions are not good with us there are not many cities to the south of us where they are as good. The G. T. P. is doing a splendid work at San Francisco, at great expense, for themselves and incidentally for Prince Rupert. While much real profit is made by the cities to the south from their weather and scenic attractions, our own coast trip, boats and boat service, natural beauty spots and objects of interest in our environs possess advantages certainly far superior to anything I was privileged to see during my trip south.
