TURKS PREPARING FOR SEPARATE PEACE

RUSSIANS ADVANCE IN CAUCASUS--KAISER IN BALKANS--AIR RAID ON ENGLAND

TURKEY WANTS TO MAKE PEACE WITH THE ALLIES

Kaiser's Agents are Behind the Move—Turkish Finances are Low—Germany Alarmed.

(Special to The Daily News.)
Paris, Jan. 26.—The Turkish Heir Apparent is seeking a separate peace, and the movement is believed to be inspired by the Kaiser's agents. This report, which comes from Athens, is credited, owing to the abandonment of the Turkish expedition against the Suez Canal and the Turco-Bulgarian offensive against Saloniki.

An admission has been made by Treasurer Helfferich in the Reichstag that the financial position of Turkey is precarious and that it has been found necessary to quarter 50,000 Germans in Constantinople to prevent a revolution.

He argued that the Ottoman Empire is bankrupt and the financing of it would be an enormous drain on German finances.

Germany Alarmed
Germany is alarmed by the growing menace of the Russians in Galicia and cannot afford to supply men, money and arms to Turkey in face of the Galician crisis. The Kaiser desires that Turkey conclude peace on the basis of the status quo, with the absolute neutrality of the Dardanelles.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY BURNS CELEBRATION

St. Andrew's Society last night held its seventh anniversary of the birth of Robbie Burns, the national bard of Scotland, when S. D. Macdonald presided over a gathering of about forty members and friends.

The chairman, in introducing Rev. H. R. Grant, the chief speaker of the evening, said he had just received a letter from "Scotty" Dennis, in which he reminded the members of the society that the boys in the trenches would be with them in spirit on the 25th.

Rev. H. R. Grant, in an able and most interesting address, outlined the life of Burns. With Thomas Carlyle, he felt that the reason why Burns had taken such a hold upon the hearts of people the world over was because of his sincerity. After a long reign of the formalist in poetry, Burns had re-introduced the realistic. There was not a canting line in all his work, sincerity being the keynote of the man's life throughout.

At times he appeared to be a rebel, as in "The Jolly Beggars," in which poem he seemed to rebel against society and the church. He believed, however, that his rebellion was against the untrue and formal in both. A man did not require to be conventional in religion. In "The Cotter's Saturday Night" and "To Mary in Heaven" he gave ample evidence of the depth of his religion. Such poems could only be written by a deeply religious man.

Touching upon his education, Mr. Grant said that though Burns had never attended school he had been a great reader and, with his clear insight, had acquired an education of more value than that gained by many in an academy. That he was no rough ploughman, but a man able to mingle with the best in the land was evidenced in his visit to Edinburgh.

As a poet, he was in the first flight, many of his poems showing the truest poetic instinct. He instanced "To a Mountain Daisy" and "To a Mouse" as being unsurpassed in the English language. The most remarkable feature of his work was that the great bulk of it was accomplished in just six months. He thought that the tragedy of the poet's life was his marriage. He seemed to lose ambition, and the will to give of his best seemed to go from him, as care and worry laid hold.

The speaker described "Scots Wha Hae" as the finest patriotic song ever written and he thought that were Burns alive today his great spirit would pour forth a song of war such as the world had never heard. He felt that, during a struggle like the present, the humanity of such a man would spring forth with unequalled fervor.

After a substantial supper, including of course the haggis, had been done full justice to, the program of speeches and musical numbers was continued.

Fred Stork, a guest of the evening, said he had missed very few St. Andrew's gatherings since the

KAISER JOINS VON MACKENZEN IN THE BALKANS

Attack on Saloniki is Expected to Begin—French Air Raid on Monastir—Scrap in Mesopotamia.

(Special to The Daily News.)
Saloniki, Jan. 26.—The Kaiser, accompanied by General Von Mackenzen, has arrived at Gieveli, on the border of Greece and Serbia.

An attack on Saloniki is expected, as the Teutons are completing the railway lines and are provisioning their troops.

An army of 320,000 men is ready to attack the Allies, and the German artillery includes three sixteen-inch siege guns.

French Aeroplane Attack.
Paris, Jan. 26.—A squadron of 45 French aeroplanes bombarded Monastir on Sunday damaging the ammunition depots; the offices of the general staff and the railway station.

Fighting at Kut-El-Amara.
There was heavy fighting seven miles from Kut-El-Amara with losses on both sides. Bad weather throughout Mesopotamia is delaying the advance of the British relief column.

AMERICAN SCHOONER HAD CHILLY EXPERIENCE

Two more American halibut schooners came in yesterday. They were the Kodiak and the Liberty, each having about 50,000 pounds. The Liberty experienced very rough weather off the Alaskan coast, and came in sheathed in ice. It was so cold that it was found necessary to keep the crew employed in cutting away the ice in order that the vessel might be navigated.

Inception of the society. The present was the smallest he had attended, and, because of the boys who were not present, the society should be proud of the meeting. The small gathering was a great tribute to the spirit of the members of the society at this time.

In speaking of Burns, he said that his appeal was to the human heart, and that the poetry which existed within all men was responsible for the grip of Burns. The ring of truth and sincerity was the great force of his work. He admitted that his chief leisure reading consisted of Burns and a history of the world.

While visiting Scotland he made it a point to visit Ayr, which to him was a spot not to be missed. He felt that the scenery of that land had influenced the poet to a great extent. He also felt that the scenery of British Columbia with its mountains and rivers would give the necessary touch of fire to some poetic genius. He was not speaking po-

Two Detachments of Turks Annihilated—Russians Advance Over Corpse-Strewn Roads.

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, Jan. 26.—The rout of the Turks in the Caucasus continues. Two strong detachments of Turks were annihilated by the Russians, the Russian troops advancing over roads strewn with frozen bodies.

Montenegrin Ruse.
Rome, Jan. 26.—Premier Mioukovich, of Montenegro, says that the truce negotiated with Austria was simply a ruse to enable the Montenegrin army to gain several weeks of time to prepare for its retreat into Albania to effect a junction with the Serbians in their effort to defend Scutari. King Nicholas and his family arrived in Rome today.

Western Front.
London, Jan. 26.—There is renewed activity on the western front following the German repulse on Tuesday in Flanders. It is predicted that Thursday, which is the Kaiser's 57th birthday, will witness a desperate effort to force a road to Calais.

ST. ANDREW'S HALL IS NOW A MILITARY CAMP

St. Andrew's Hall these days has the appearance of a military camp, the members of the 102nd Battalion being quartered there. The men have their camp beds spread along the walls, while a big stove and a writing table occupy the centre of the floor. The decorations still hang from the lights and throw a red glow over everything which gives a splendid touch of color to the scene. The boys are as happy as larks and their bivouac seems to be a place of comfort.

The turning of this hall, so often the scene of revelry and merriment, into a camp for soldiers, brings the realism of the war home to one in a marked degree.

ODDFELLOWS DANCE

The Oddfellows held a most enjoyable whist drive and dance last night, there being a large attendance of members and friends. The winners in the whist were: Mrs. McGinnis and Miss Rorvik, and W. A. Noble and Harry Hanson. Dancing was kept up until after 2 a. m. and everybody had a great time.

SNELL CONTRACTS

The Journal yesterday reproduced at length the reply of Hon. Arthur Meighen to the charges made against the shell committee by Hon. William Pugsley, Mr. Meighen's chief argument being that the shell committee was operating under the imperial government and therefore the Borden government could not start any enquiry.

It is true that the committee was appointed under the imperial government, but it is also true that it was appointed by THE BORDEN GOVERNMENT. Evidently, Lloyd George, at that time, had sufficient confidence in the integrity of Canadian shell manufacturers and in the members of the Borden government to allow them to appoint the committee. To have sent someone from Britain to appoint the committee would have been casting a slur upon the honesty and patriotism of the Canadian officials.

The committee was appointed by Sir Sam Hughes, with the consent of the cabinet at Ottawa. The committee comprised chiefly men who were interested in the making of shells, and these men proceeded to let contracts to themselves at admittedly higher prices than obtained elsewhere, with the result that D. A. Thomas had to be sent over from Britain to find out where the huge profits were going. Lloyd George trusted the Canadian officials in appointing the shell committee, and Canada betrayed that trust.

Neither Mr. Meighen nor any other member of the Borden cabinet can evade the real issue. The recent speech in defence was an able piece of special pleading, but it only served to show that there is necessity for an enquiry. General Bertram claimed recently that the remodelled committee had effected a saving of $40,000,000 by bringing about a reduction in prices on the more recent contracts. This is a clear admission that the earlier contractors took a profit of $40,000,000 which they should not have taken, or have been allowed to take.

The good name of Canada is at stake, and no evasion will serve to hide the fact. The one great fact stands out clearly that the members of the committee betrayed their trust to the Empire, their highest ideal being "How much can we make out of the Empire's great need" and not "How can we help save the Empire in its extremity." The following from the Toronto Telegram sums up the situation:

"The shell committee was acting on behalf of Sir Robert Borden just as Sir Robert was acting on behalf of the Canadian people. The shell committee was not the steward of Canada's money—it was the steward of Canada's honor. The most devil-like qualities of the race are a stench in the rotten presence of the contract-grabbing brood of carrion crows that infest Ottawa, eager to plunder Britain and disgrace Canada with their greed."

If, as Mr. Meighen says, the doings of the shell committee are no concern of the Canadian parliament, they at least are the concern of the Canadian people. If the members of the Borden government care to go down to history as a greedy aggregation which grabbed all it could when the boss was abroad, the people of Canada have no desire to be ranked with them. If Canada has any vestige of honor left, the letting of shell contracts by the committee to members of the com-

STEEL IS AVAILABLE FOR BUILDING SHIPS

That steel is obtainable for ship building on the coast is evidenced by the purchase of 40,000 tons for the Seattle Drydock Company by J. V. Patterson, of British Columbia submarine fame.

Mr. Paterson announces that he has closed contracts for the construction of three steel steamers of 7,500 tons each. He states that there is a decided scarcity of steel and that prices for the commodity are naturally high. He also states that labor for the construction of ships is scarce and high, and that the profits in the shipbuilding business are not nearly so big as they appear on paper. He remarks that there is no real prosperity in the business but simply a boom owing to war conditions, and that there is considerable misapprehension concerning the boom in some lines of the trade.

ST. JEAN DE MATHEA, Jan. 27th, 1914.
 "After suffering for a long time with Dyspepsia, I have been made well by "Fruit-a-lives." I suffered so much that at last I would not dare to eat for I was afraid of dying. Five years ago, I received samples of "Fruit-a-lives" and after taking them I felt relief. Then I sent for three boxes and I kept improving until I was well. ### MINING NOTES

A good deal of interest is being taken in the Cariboo placer diggings again and there promises to be quite a revival in that famous old camp this spring. It is reported that some new creeks have been discovered and are giving up good pay to the miners.

A number of old timers in the district are getting ready for an early start to the Ingenica in quest of placer diggings. The reports from there last fall were more favorable than from other districts.

The Tintic Tunnel Co. proposes driving a five mile drainage tunnel from the head of Goshen valley under the Tintic district in Utah. This tunnel will give to the different mines a depth of from 1150 feet to 2500 feet.—Omineca Herald.

CITY OF PRINCE RUPERT

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that an application will be made in the Legislative Assembly of the Province of British Columbia at its next session on behalf of the City of Prince Rupert for an Act containing provisions which are shortly stated as follows:—

(1) To authorize the changing debentures issuable under the bylaw in this clause mentioned, from the Sinking Fund plan to Annuity Instalment or Serial Bonds and the terms of years as herein stated:

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY
BURNS CELEBRATION

 Officially but he would like to hear Robbie Burns' opinion of British Columbia today.
 Stephen King, president of the Sons of England, conveyed to the Scots the good wishes of his society. He dwelt upon the great good fellowship which existed between the two bodies, and expressed a belief that the war would tend to draw the two peoples still closer together. Of Burns as a politician, he felt pretty sure that Robbie would not have been a prohibitionist.
 During the evening a splendid musical program was rendered, in which the following gentlemen gave of their best: W. V. Davie, R. Dowler, H. R. Murray, C. R. Jones, A. Clapperton, A. Maguire, W. Martin, S. King and Mr. Kinross. Most enjoyable readings from the works of Robert Burns were given by David Thomson. Special mention must be made of the work of W. V. Davie as pianist, and the duets by Messrs. Jones and Clapperton.
 S. D. Macdonald, seconded by Stephen King, moved the following resolution, which was carried amid enthusiastic cheers: "Resolved, that this gathering of Prince Rupert St. Andrew's Society, on the occasion of its seventh anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns, extend to the boys of our society and of the Sons of England who are in the trenches, or in training for the trenches, our hearty good wishes and Godspeed in their work for the Empire."
 Fred. Stark, as a visitor, expressed the great pleasure it had always given him to be present at these gatherings and moved a hearty vote of thanks to officers of the society who had provided such an excellent program and entertainment. This was seconded by Stephen King.
 Rev. H. R. Grant, seconded by George H. Munro, proposed a hearty vote of thanks to those outside of the society who had done so much in providing the entertainment and to the chairman who had carried the evening along so splendidly.
 A vote of thanks to the press and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the King" brought a great evening to a close.

CONAN DOYLE MYSTERY
AT MAJESTIC THEATRE

The star feature at the Majestic tonight is "The Isolated House," a Conan Doyle mystery in three acts. Conan Doyle's work is too well known to require any enlarging upon. Suffice it to say that this is one of his best mystery stories and is told in the most interesting fashion. This great writer stands alone in the world of detective fiction. "The Isolated House" is not to be missed.
 The rest of the program is good, including a Pathe News, with the latest from everywhere, while there is a Max Linder comedy entitled "When Max Went Round the World." Max is always funny, while his work is always unique. "Fresh from the Farm" is a most laughable comedy, the very title of which suggests funny situations.
 There is a big Kalum masterpiece coming on Friday and Saturday entitled "The Cognetic."

PAULINE FREDERICK IN

"Sold" is the title of a great Famous Players drama which is showing at the Westholme tonight, in which Pauline Frederick is in the leading role. It is a powerful story in five acts. It is the world-old tale of two men and a woman. In this case the men are artists and the woman is a co-worker with whom both are in love. She marries the greater artist of the two, but he is so wedded to his art that he refuses to paint the class of picture which the market demands. Meantime, his rival has made a fortune by commercialising his art. Starvation faces the young couple when the rival comes on the scene and, in desperation, the young wife agrees to pose for the other in return for a big sum. She pays her husband's debts but of course part of the truth leaks out and there is a terrible scene, in which the heroine is shot, but not fatally. It is a strong drama and in the hands of such capable actors is one of the best seen here.
 There is also an Eclair Gazette and a good comedy.
WAR CAKE

Three Mighty Forces
Close Linked

Have you ever noted how an audience yawns in the face of an uninspired speaker? On the other hand, have you noted how an audience will lean forward and grasp the chair arms when the speaker reveals enthusiasm? Enthusiasm is the buoyant expression of truth. To impart belief in anything, a man must believe it deeply himself. We call such a man an enthusiast. This applies to the written word also—particularly to advertisements. When the manufacturer really believes in his wares, his enthusiasm will almost inevitably find expression in Advertising. And enthusiasm will be contagious—his audience—the readers of the newspaper—will, figuratively speaking, "lean forward and listen intently."

To be convincing an advertisement must convey an unmistakable impression of enthusiasm. This it will only do when the article advertised has inherent worth.

Thus we have:
Sincerity -- Enthusiasm -- Advertising;
Three mighty forces, close-linked.
