WAR MUNITIONS PROFITS TAXED IN NEW BUDGET

Increased Duty on Apples Brings Delight to Growers in this Province—Business Tax Retroactive.

Ottawa, Feb. 16.—The new budget changes include half a cent per gallon duty on all oils and distillates and an increase in the duty on apples from forty to ninety cents per barrel.

Business profits are to be taxed, including all profits on war munitions, transportation, banks, mining and milling. These are to pay twenty-five per cent. of all profits over seven per cent. from the outbreak of war until August, 1917.

The new business tax does not apply to companies capitalized under $50,000, except where war munitions are being produced. It is estimated that the increased revenue will amount to $18,000,000.

Fruit Growers Delighted.

Vancouver, Feb. 16.—The British Columbia fruit growers are elated over the added protection given to the apple industry. Deputy Minister of Agriculture W. E. Scott says that it means the salvation of the apple industry in British Columbia.

"A GENTLEMAN'S AGREEMENT" AT THE MAJESTIC

"A Gentleman's Agreement," in three acts, is the special feature in a good program at the Majestic tonight. Edith Reeves, the famous movie star, plays the part of a girl who is the sole support of her aged mother. For resenting the advances of her employer, she is discharged and a "movie" director finds her on the verge of starvation and takes her into his company.

The leading man in the company has saved the director's life and has been given a written promise that he will be granted in return anything in the manager's power to give. They both fall in love with Edith and dramatic situations ensue. It is a romantic story splendidly told.

There is also a Pathe Gazette of world's news, a reel of the famous Bray cartoons, and views of French Guinea, making up a good show.

STRATEGIC STUNTS BY SIR SAM HUGHES

Ottawa, February 10.—One of these days I expect to see this question on the order paper under the name of one of the fifty-nine honorary—or otherwise—colonels in the House of Commons: How many male members of the Hughes family are not generals? If not, why not and when?

You see the colonels are keen on strategy and they do not like to think that any smallest fraction of the Hughes talent remains undeveloped. It is not every country that has a whole family of Napoleons. The only reason why Major General Sam is allowed to waste himself on a desk in the Militia Department is that there is nobody to take his place, nobody to gather up the tangled threads of detail and handle them as he does. If it were not for that Major General Sam would have been in the field long ago crushing the enemy.

Meanwhile his head is full of strategems which need only to be accepted by General Joffre and General Haig to be completely effective. For instance, there is his plan of raising an Orange brigade mounted on white horses and thus turning the conflict into a Twelfth of July parade. A Protestant nation like Germany would be just naturally forced to join the procession. Another plan of his is to raise a regiment of parsons who would entangle the Germans in theological discussion and thus give the reserves time to come up. The Germans being a nation of philosophers, always fall for anything in the shape of metaphysics.

Of late the Major General has been thinking seriously of forming a regiment of Urgers. This is the quickest way of bringing the army up to the authorized five hundred thousand. It is a matter of statistics that there is one able-bodied Uger to every five enlisted men and the nearer that Uger is to the forty-five age limit the harder he shoots advice at the other fellows. Major General Sam believes that the Urgers should be given a chance at overseas service. If they are as gallant in the field as they are on the platform the war will not last long.

The enemy, maddened by the speeches, will retreat in headlong panic. Anything to get away from that blasting eloquence. Incidentally it would take the fat off quite a few of the prominent Urgers, improve their wind, and to a certain extent clear up the political situation in Canada.

These plans by no means exhaust the schemes both bright and new with which Major General Sam's brain teems for the good of Canada and the benefit of the British Empire. A new idea blooms in that fertile mind every minute. All bright ideas too, so bright that the War Office hesitates to take them up for fear of Bright's disease. But the master plan of all, the one Major General Sam plays as the last trump, hurling it like a thunderbolt at the stricken foe, driving the vic-

AMERICAN CLUB IN TORONTO BURNED

(Special to The Daily News.)

Toronto, Feb. 16.—The American Club has been destroyed by fire following an explosion, damage to the extent of $350,000 being done.

The outbreak is believed to be of incendiary origin and is thought to be an act of revenge by alien enemies because of the raising of an American Legion for overseas service, the officers of the legion having made the club their headquarters.

Earl F. Hussey, of Montreal, is fatally injured and P. I. Hurston, a mining broker and formerly of Dallas, Texas, is dead. The staff and resident members escaped, but Captain Asa Minard of the legion is injured.

tory home, is the Hutton Correspondence. When the Hun is at his last gasp, waiting for the push that will send him reeling, it is Major General Sam's intention to pull the Hutton Correspondence on him and read every last word of it out loud. This will naturally spread terror in the German ranks, and while they are still trembling on the verge of flight Major General Sam will follow it up with the letters he wrote to the newspapers when he and Turpin were winning the Boer War. This will complete the rout. After all this is fair fighting. The Germans cannot expect to pursue a campaign of frightfulness without reprisals in kind. Though humanitarians may object to this use of the Hutton Correspondence unless the enemy is previously warned to wear respirators, the weight of opinion is that Major General Sam is justified on the ground of public policy.

It must not be imagined that all the strategy in the House of (Continued on Page Two.)

PRACTICAL PATRIOTISM BY COLD STORAGE MEN

Last year a subscription list was opened by the Canadian Fish and Cold Storage Company, Ltd., for the purchase by its employees of a machine gun. Within a week the sum of $1,603.83 was subscribed and a machine gun costing $1,000 was immediately purchased.

Last night, a mass meeting of the employees was called, Mr. T. H. Johnson being in the chair, to discuss the disposition of the surplus of $603.83, when it was decided amidst the greatest enthusiasm to present this sum to the Canadian Patriotic Fund. After a very appropriate address on patriotism by Mr. Johnson, it was unanimously decided that a further amount should be raised by regular monthly subscriptions from the employees which will also be devoted to the patriotic fund. A most enthusiastic meeting was brought to a close by the singing of "God Save the King."

LENORE ULRICH IN "KILMENY" AT WESTHOLME

Lenore Ulrich, the great little movie star, has scored a huge success in "Kilmeny" wherever it has been shown, and the Westholme was very fortunate in securing this wonderful photoplay.

"Kilmeny" is a very romantic story of a child of the woods transplanted in the city. Like all other Famous Players' productions, the scenes are pictured in the midst of the finest mountain forest and river scenery imaginable, and the film result is most fascinating.

Besides these great five reels there is a very fine Topical Budget showing Christmas scenes in the trenches and other interesting news items from the front. "His Talented Wife" is a Keystone comedy which will make you forget that there is such a thing as worry.

SUCCESSFUL SMOKER BY 102ND BATTALION

The Majestic Theatre was packed yesterday afternoon by the officers and men of the 102nd Battalion and of the 11th Irish Fusiliers and their friends, the occasion being a "smoker" as a preliminary to a more ambitious scale of entertainment by the soldiers located here.

Major C. T. Huntington made a most genial chairman and not a little of the success attending the concert was due to his personality. The entertainment was of a purely informal character and every one present enjoyed it thoroughly.

The concert opened at 2 o'clock with the singing of "God Save the King," His Majesty's portrait being shown on the screen. Through the kindness of Mr. Delasala, the Majestic picture program was screened and the various items were heartily applauded. A special feature of the program was the dancing of little Miss Nelson, of Seattle, who is staying in town with her parents at present. The major introduced her as the daughter of the Regiment and her appearance on the stage was hailed with delight by the audience. She danced the Highland Fling, with the Sailor's Hornpipe as an encore, and later in the program gave the Waltz Clog and the Buck and Wing Clog, being recalled several times.

Mr. Harvey gave a splendid rendering of Long Live the King, with The Midshipmite as an encore; Private Kroner, who has a very fine voice, sang several well known songs which were heartily enjoyed; Private Sharpe's efforts were also vociferously applauded, and Harry Fletcher obliged with "On to Victory" in great style.

Two members of the 102nd gave a boxing exhibition in which they brought down the house with some unorthodox and comical tactics. Lieut. Bowden of the 11th Irish Fusiliers, responded to calls for a speech, which was encored to the amusement of all.

The 102nd Battalion possesses quite an array of musical talent and some day soon the general public will have an opportunity of enjoying their efforts. Not the least enjoyable item was the singing of a regimental sextette in which the various parts blended harmoniously. The concert closed with "God Save the King" and three hearty cheers for Major Huntington; Mr. Delasala; Mr. Harvey; the Irish Fusiliers, and the 102nd. The local company of this battalion is a splendid body of men, amongst whom the greatest spirit of comradeship prevails and, with such a popular officer as Major Huntington in charge, they will give a good account of themselves wherever they are sent.

Disastrous fire at Brooklyn Docks—Two British Steamers and Forty Lighters are Destroyed.

(Special to The Daily News.)

New York, Feb. 16.—Two seamen are missing and damage to the extent of five million dollars has been done by fire at the Atlantic Docks in Brooklyn.

The steamers Bolton Castle and Pacific have been destroyed along with forty lighters with cargoes of oil, cotton, and munitions. The steamer Bellagio was saved. These vessels belonged to the Barber Line and were owned in England, and were under charter to the Russian government.

The fire is believed to have been of incendiary origin and a rigid investigation is being carried out.

Fall River, Feb. 16.—A fire, which started in the basement of the Steiger Company's department store, has swept the business district, resulting in the loss of two million dollars worth of property. The cause of the outbreak is unexplained.

PARLIAMENT EXTENDED

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in consenting to the extension of the life of the present parliament for another year, has again demonstrated that he is willing to sink all party feeling or advantage in the prosecution to a successful issue the tremendous task which the Empire has undertaken. Ever since the outbreak of war, he has stayed rigidly by his declaration of a party truce, and in this, as in all the "grand old chief" has accomplished, he has shown that he is an intensely patriotic Canadian first and a politician afterwards.

With the graft scandals perpetrated by the friends and even the members of the Borden government as material, Sir Wilfrid could have forced an election with every chance of success, but the idea of bringing about an election in the midst of such a crisis in the history of the nation was repugnant to him. The Liberal members once more showed the absolute confidence they have in their leader by deciding to leave the decision in the matter entirely in Sir Wilfrid's hands, and he immediately agreed to the extension.

If the men who have lived fat on farming out army contracts, thus making the people pay several prices when every cent should have been husbanded, imagine that this declaration of peace means silence in regard to their depredations they are greatly mistaken. Sir Wilfrid will expect the government to conduct the affairs of the nation in just exactly the spirit in which he acquiesced in the extension of the term of office, placing the welfare of the nation first and gain, either political or financial, for the party in the background. If there are further signs of graft and profiting by the Empire's struggle, the old chieftain will rise up and rend the grafters.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

A Prince Rupert breeze can lick up snow faster than a southern sun can manage it.

When a bishop and a judge escaped poisoning through refusing the soup at that Chicago banquet the other evening, the bishop was heard to remark that "the church and state are both safe."

Those German offensives are evidently not so offensive as they used to be.

The prohibitionists are not to take an active part in the by-elections. Evidently they are in favor of the boys having a few more drinks during the cold weather.

"Forlorn" Campbell will probably be an appropriate name for the minister of mines when Mayor Wilson of Rossland is returned as member on the 26th.

The boating season will soon be in full swing amongst the youngsters on the post-office site.

BREAKS ARM

Harry Howe, chaffeur with the Prince Rupert Auto Company was admitted to the general hospital this morning suffering from a broken arm. On being examined under the X-rays, it was found that both bones in the right arm were broken between the wrist and the elbow.

Harry sustained the injury through the engine back-firing while he was cranking up.

STRATEGIC STUNTS
BY SIR SAM HUGHES

Commons is confined to the silver grey cupola of Major General Sir Sam Hughes. No, the colonels have it too. Until recently the colonels were satisfied merely to be brave, but now they want to plan campaigns and work out victories. Not so long ago it took as many as six strong men to hold one full-sized colonel back. He wanted to be at their throats, he did. He'd show'em, so he would. His friends would plead with him not to lose his temper and kill all the Germans at once. They would point out that it was his duty to spare a few of the Germans for the other colonels. But their words fell on deaf ears. For the average parliamentary colonel nothing but complete extermination of the Central Powers would fill the bill and moreover he felt that he was called on personally to do the job. You have no idea what a strain it was keeping these bold blades at home.

This, I repeat, was the spirit until last week. An honorary colonel might to all outward appearances be as calm as ice cream but inwardly he was a raging volcano. So full of brimstone was he that he breathed the fumes from Eddy's sulphite mill as if it were human nature's daily food. A close observer might detect that he was on fire inside from the way he smoked—sometimes as many as a dozen big black cigars in a day—but to a casual glance he was as cool as a skating rink. When it came to hiding his feelings the ancient Spartans had nothing on him. Only his friends know what havoc the flame of war was making in his bosom. He might smoulder like a Toronto News editorial on recruiting in Quebec, but he never broke out. This silent struggle which each honorary colonel waged with his belligerent soul has not been sufficiently noticed in the newspapers.

Knowing the determined men he had to deal with Major General Sam inaugurated an officer's training course for honorary colonels in parliament. It was his idea that it might be useful to them to become acquainted with their own feet which many of them had not seen for years. The colonels received the idea with enthusiasm and the Major General naturally looked for a large attendance at the first performance in the Ottawa oratories. He was pained and surprised. when perhaps twenty per cent of the honorary colonels turned up most of them late, though punctuality is the first virtue of a soldier. Of course Sam told the colonels what he thought of them—and let me remark right here that some of Sam's thoughts will fry eggs—but that didn't increase the number of those present. The Major General was puzzled to account for the change of heart in the warlike colonels. Looking about he espied two shorthand reporters.

"What are you here for?" he asked sharply.

"To take down the lecture, General," one of them replied.

"So that's it," said Sir Sam, his eyes snapping. "You fellows get out of here! This isn't a blue book we're getting up. It's a training course. If those blankety blank blighters up on the Hill want to learn they'll come here and listen."

The Major General's eagle eye had penetrated the ruse. The colonels reckoned to do their training by Hansard, so to speak, a method which does not involve physical exertion and is naturally favored by parliamentary colonels who are not accustomed to early rising. Besides what's the use of learning to right-about-face when no colonel ever thinks of turning his back on the enemy? Still there is something in the view Major General Sam takes of it—namely that an honorary colonel should be taught how to avoid falling over himself.

The main reason for the lack of interest in General Sam's training course of parliamentary colonels is to be found in W. F. Maclean's remarks on British strategy. Freely translated W. F.'s idea is that the British War Office doesn't eat enough fish, that too many of the fine old fawny generals who are bungling things at the front have no foreheads and three chins—in short that it's up to Canada, as having a stake of five hundred thousand men and five hundred million dollars in the conflict, to contribute a few gleams of intelligence to the deadly struggle.

The Canadian generals would come to the council board with a fund of common sense uncomplicated by the little red rule books which ball British strategy up. Genius will have full scope unhampered by precedent. In other words our fire will not be put out by too much fuel and things will get along a good deal better.—H. F. Gadsby.

RECRUITING OFFICE AT PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT OFFICE NOW OPEN.

In view of the recruiting which is in progress at present throughout the Province, it is apropos to answer a few of the questions which are considered by those who contemplate entering the Service. The following is a list of pertinent queries, together with the information which each elicits.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

- 1.—How long am I to serve? Until the end of the war and six months after if required.
- 2.—What pay shall I receive? Your pay as a private will be $1.00 per day and 10 cents field allowance. Besides this you will be clothed, equipped and subsisted by the Government.
- 3.—What will my wife receive during my absence? Every month there will be paid her a separation allowance of $20 (also part of your pay) and if this be not enough to comfortably maintain your family, the Canadian Patriotic Fund will further assist them.
- 4.—What will happen if I am wounded or sick? You will be cared for by the Government and your pay continued until you are discharged. If you are permanently disabled an allowance will be paid you, varying according to the extent of your injury or disability.
- 5.—What will be done for my wife and children if I die while on Active Service?
