"PEACE ON EARTH, GOOD WILL AMONG MEN"

After twenty conturies-twenty centuries of bloodshed and the SALMON BEAR RIVER MINING CO'Y. Ltd. arbitrament of the sword—it looks as if the song of the angels is to be realized. Mattens, like individuals are strongly moved by the power of a good coample. The Guildhall meeting described in our cable despatches on Saturday, when Premier Asquith moved and Mr. Arthur Ealfour, the leader of the British Opposition, seconded, a 2000 resolution favoring arbitration with the United States, is one of the must significant advances since the Magna Charta. It is the token of a new day in the history of nations, when disputes shall be ended by peace instead of by war. The acceptance of the proposed treaty by both governments is a foregone conclusion now.

Cheering, too, is the information that the negotiations between Assays of the ore run from $25.00 to lam fire on May 27, 1000. France and the United States for the conclusion of an arbitration tiesty are quite as far advanced as the negotiations between Great It will pay you to investigate this prop-Britain and the United States. The arbitration treaty in view between France and the United States provides for arbitration in all cases including those in which the honor of the contracting parties may be at stake. It provides for what is known technically as "arbitration integrale," in other words, for compulsory arbitration, so that if France and the United States were ever involved in a dispute they would be 2nd Ave. subject to the necessity of submitting it to a tribunal. In this respect, the projected Franco-American treaty resembles, of course, the treaty in view between Great Britain and the United States.

After the conclusion of the Angle-American and the Franco-American arbitration treaties respectively these will probably be an Spring Beds, clean White Sheets 25c inside of a month. The Council arbitration treaty between Great Britain and France on identical lines. This would mean that Great Britain, France and the United BEST IN TOWN FOR THE MONEY the publishing of the new book. States would be bound together in a triple league of peace.

That the league of peace cannot stop here is obvious. Germany already perceives this. Indeed the war-party in Germany is using the treaty as a text, by pointing out that the triple league of peace may desire to impose the arbitration principle upon the remainder of the world by force. This is not an unreasonable deduction, for long as great powers like Japan, Russia, Austria and Germany maintain huge armies and navies, the league of peace cannot run the risk of reducing their armaments. And the fact must be patent to everyone, that it is not so much the angels' song that is at the bottom of the desire for peace, as the rigid consequences of economic law; that it is not idealism, but the burden of taxation that is compelling the nations to the better way.

The Conservative party in Germany regards the idea of compulsory arbitration with something approaching very nearly to abhorrence. Patriotic Germans consider it unreasonable and intolerable that great national issues involving the honor of the whole German people should compulsorily be submitted to an international tribunal. There is a conviction that in the present condition of international politics, there must certainly be many questions on which no selfrespecting nation could consent to take the verdict of foreigners, but must be determined to have its own way, even at the cost of war.

The views held in Berlin are shared in Vienna and St. Petersburg. Russia, for instance, it is pointed out, has adjacent frontiers with the race that personifies the future of the Yellow Peril, and even if there were a league of peace in Europe and America, the Russians would not venture to disarm or in any way to undermine their position in front of the hordes of yellow men who would rush westward as a devastating torrent the moment the barriers of European armament removed were or even weakened. On the other hand there is a rapidly growing Radical and Socilaist party in Germany, with some fifty members in the Reichstag. It is to the growth of this party of international rather than national ideals, that the peace movement looks to in Germany.

The Millenium is not to be accomplished save by slow and painful steps. The consummation and successful working of the hoped for triple league of peace between France, the United States and Great Britain will do much to help the peace party in Germany in their difficult task of convincing the German nation that the peace movement means her no harm.
