TO PROTECT AMERICAN PROPERTY AT SEA

PRESIDENT WILL TAKE ACTION ON HIS OWN INITIATIVE TO DEFEND VESSELS

PRESIDENT DECIDES TO ARM U.S. SHIPS

Special Session of Congress to Be Called to Support President in All Matters—Secret Action.

(Special to The Daily News.)
Washington, March 10.—President Wilson has announced his decision today to arm American ships immediately, for the purpose of protecting the lives and property of Americans on the high seas. The President has at the same time called for an extra session of Congress to begin on April 16 to render the support he needs in all matters collateral to the defence of the American merchant marine. Henceforth the steps taken by the government will be kept secret. The names of the vessels to be armed first will not be made public.

FORTY TONS OF GOOD HERRING THROWN AWAY

Last night outside of Prince Rupert harbor, a scow load of fresh, perfectly good herring was dumped back again into their natural element. Looks very queer doesn't it? Last week not a single herring was to be got and now they are being thrown away in forty-ton lots.

Comment on this action overheard on the waterfront last night was very much more forcible than polite. "With the biggest and most up-to-date cold storage plant on the Pacific coast, supposed to be subsidized by the government and all the rest of it, and yet they won't handle an independent man's little forty tons." Many more expressions of a similar nature passed, which made the ordinary land lubber marvel greatly.

FURS GALORE

Mrs. W. Hyland, of Telegraph Creek, arrived in Prince Rupert last night off the Princess Sophia from the north. Mrs. Hyland has two trading posts in northern British Columbia and came out by dog team from the head of the Stikine river and took ship at Wrangell for here. Mrs. Hyland has quite a large quantity of furs with her, which include some 12 or 15 genuine black fox, the kind that most folks have only read about. Mrs. Hyland will be in town for a few days, in which time she hopes to dispose of her valuable skins. Fur buyers are here from as far away as San Francisco to meet Mrs. Hyland. Mrs. Hyland will have her stock displayed for the delectation of the fur buyers, including the local merchants. Last year Mrs. Hyland was in Prince Rupert on a similar errand and exchanged furs for something like ten or fifteen thousand dollars. Mrs. Hyland's husband, the late Mr. Jack Hyland, was very well known among the old timers here.

INDIAN TARIFF DISPLEASES LANCS.

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, March 10.—The Indian Office recently imposed a tax on all imports of cotton goods, amongst other things, entering India. This action was in keeping with that of all other countries, who have had to revise their sources of revenue in order to meet the added burdens caused by the war. The cotton mills in Lancashire and the mill owners there are considering that this tax imposed by India is going to hurt their trade very much. The action of the war cabinet in sanctioning the new Indian tariff has aroused a storm of protest from Lancashire. A deputation representing the cotton people, is to be sent to London and the matter will be aired fully in parliament.

MITCHELL ALBERT IS BACK IN VANCOUVER

"If I had landed in Russia, I might have found myself in a Russian jail." That is what Mitchell Albert told the Vancouver newspaper men when he arrived back there this week. It seems that there is some old law still in force in Russia which makes it bad for a Russian who has adopted another nationality, if ever he again visits the land of his birth. The returning exile has first to obtain permission to re-enter his native land. Mr. Albert evidently did not consider it worth while to ask that permission at Vladivostok, whence word came from him the other day. Possibly the new edict prohibiting Russians to leave the Czar's domain now made him think longingly of the freedom of movement on this side of the Pacific. The scheme of railroad construction on which Mr. Albert was intent will go on through, as if nothing had happened.

A TIP FROM THE COAL MINES

Di Jones, a returned soldier who passed through on his way to Granby the other day, had some great tales to tell about the state of affairs on the western front. He was one of the old "Contemptibles" in the retreat from Mons and was wounded and gassed at Festubert. He tells how presence of mind saved his life and also that of those within reach one day when the first of the German gas was let loose. Being a miner from Wales, he knew how to protect himself from the effects of the fumes, as they do it in Wales. When he realized what was happening and the danger of asphyxiation, he rapidly seized an ordinary bottle of pickles and with the vinegar rubbed his face, and passed the bottle on to his comrades. That saved them. This is one of the protections used extensively in the coal mines of Wales against the afterdamp.

COUNT ZEPPELIN DEAD

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, March 10.—A wireless message picked up coming from Berlin states that Count Zeppelin has died. Grief at the non-success of his invention from a military point of view is said to have hastened his end. The message says that Germany will continue building Zeppelins nevertheless. Their chief use will be as scouts for the navy.

A St. Patrick's Day Concert will be held in the Catholic Hall on Friday evening, March 16th, at 8 p. m. Admission 50c. 60

RAIDS BY BOTH SIDES ON THE WESTERN FRONT

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, March 10.—There were five distinct and separate raids made by the German forces at different parts of the British front. None were successful in reaching our lines, all being repulsed by gunfire. Quiet prevails elsewhere. A general thaw has changed the wintry conditions prevailing to conditions very much more uncomfortable. Operations on a large scale cannot be undertaken, and even small local movements of troops is a matter of much difficulty.

French Front.

Paris, March 10.—The French troops have raided the enemy dug-outs. Much damage was done and a few prisoners taken.

CHINA FAVORS BREAK

(Special to The Daily News.)
Tokio, March 10.—China favors an open rupture with Germany. Diplomatic relations will probably be broken off, but war may not be declared. All the opposing political factions of China are of one mind that an actual break in diplomatic relations made by China would be a pleasant action and would enhance Chinese prestige, which has been at a low ebb for some time. With diplomatic relations severed, treaties made with Germany could be revised and China would be enabled to get from under the liability imposed upon her by Germany for indemnities after the Boxer troubles. Japan has adopted a non-committal attitude.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, March 10.—The Labor party believes that industrial conscription is coming in Great Britain.

The Army Council has provided a cemetery for the honored dead. Britain may purchase Canada's entire wheat production this season for war purposes.

Mrs. Pankhurst has made herself unpopular in Australia with her socialist propaganda.

Christian Science Society services are held every Sunday at 11 a. m. Sunday School at 12 noon. Wednesday evening meeting at 8 o'clock, Hays Building, 245 2nd Avenue.

CANNOT STARVE GREAT BRITAIN

London, March 8.—As an answer to Germany's contention that her submarines are starving Great Britain, the government has taken a party of neutral correspondents on a three-day tour of the greatest merchant shipping centres of the kingdom, Liverpool, Manchester, and London. The correspondents were permitted to see everything—miles of docks filled with shipping unloading from all quarters of the world or loading for outward voyages. Nowhere was there any evidence that the submarines are keeping ships in port.

Hundreds of vessels were seen constantly coming and going deeply laden with the necessities of war and life. Immense warehouses in Liverpool, Manchester, and London were inspected in detail, showing unbelievable stores of meat, grain, and cotton. The most impressive feature was the complete frankness marking the expedition. Nothing was concealed, there were no "restricted zones," all questions were answered.

London and Manchester both showed signs of greater activity than Liverpool. Especially at London, the docks held a great number of ships of very great tonnage. One warehouse at the Victoria and Albert Docks at London contained 17,000 tons of frozen mutton. Several others in each city had similar immense quantities. The Canada dock warehouse at London had 267,000 tons of various foods.

The conclusion was forced that if sufficient storage exists in London and England to keep the country supplied with food, the country is safe, because the elevators and warehouses are full. The authorities were friendly and explained the details of the number of vessels carrying food cargoes to England.

The details cannot be made public, but they proved conclusively to the correspondents that danger of famine need not be felt for months. The mountains of provisions and the complete non-chalance with which they were displayed suggested that England has been piling up unwanted food reserves during the war, and now possesses greater stocks than during peace times.

FURTHER EVIDENCE IN THE POISONING CASE

London, March 10.—At the further hearing of the sensational case of the attempted murder of Premier Lloyd George and Mr. Arthur Henderson, more evidence of a startling nature was introduced. The prisoners had taken an active part in that small movement in Great Britain to avoid military service, and as the best method found by the government of defeating such schemes was to have someone make the acquaintance of the persons who organized such methods of evasion. That could only be done by affecting sympathy with them. For this purpose, the government caused two men to visit Derby in December. One was named Alec Gordon and one Booth.

The attorney-general did not call Gordon as a witness. He took full responsibility for that course, as there were very good reasons for it. Booth, when sworn and examined, deposed that he had been engaged in making certain enquiries among other matters in connection with the Independent Workers of the World movement and other similar organizations. In the course of his evidence it was shown that Mrs. Alice Wheeldon, one of the accused, knew all about the I. W. W. She had admitted to Booth that she had been concerned in the burning of Breadsall Church, which was attributed to the militant suffragettes. It had also been the intention of the accused to forward a skull to Mr. McKenna, another cabinet minister, with the sharp point of a poisoned needle sticking out of it, so that when it was handled by Mr. McKenna, the point would penetrate his skin and he would die.

When Mrs. Wheeldon gave the poison to Booth, she dictated the directions for their use from a letter. The directions were, "to be injected either by solution or by dart, which will penetrate into the body and stop for a while. Rusted in solution and fired from an air-gun, or a walking stick gun, or a rusty needle if driven well in with powder will do, but don't advise unless in urgent dilemma." In shaking hands with Booth, Mrs. Wheeldon remarked that when they had done these persons in they could do for others. Further evidence as to the character of the poisons was given and the hearing was adjourned.

HUN MINISTER PUTS BLAME ON THE ALMIGHTY

Food Situation in Germany Now Extremely Serious—Population Becoming Restless By Hunger.

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, March 10.—The German Empire is now facing sheer famine. The civil population are beginning to get out of hand, notwithstanding the efficiency of the police. In a speech particulars of which are just to hand, a German minister blames the Almighty because the crops have turned out to be below what they were estimated at. The internal situation of the Central Empires is fast becoming critical.

A SHORT CATECHISM

Question—What is the chief end of the Grand Trunk?
Answer—Prince Rupert.

Four American fishing boats, the Trio, Malolo, Heligoland and Polaris, carrying approximately 93,000 pounds of halibut, left Prince Rupert yesterday for Seattle, having been unable to dispose of their catch here. Why?
Answer—Couldn't find a buyer.

Question—Why?
Answer—The fish companies couldn't handle them.

Question—Why?
Answer—Because the Grand Trunk wouldn't supply cars.

Question—Why?
Answer—Didn't have them. They're all tied up in the east. Supposed only to have fifty anyway.

Question—Does the Grand Trunk expect to meet the trade of the biggest fishing port on the Pacific coast with fifty cars?

Answer—No. They sometimes borrow cars from an American railroad company.

Question—Why didn't they build cars of their own to take care of Prince Rupert traffic. The drydock plant is idle and could be utilized for this purpose.

—Next boy.

A RETURNED SOLDIER

Bert Pierce returned to Rupert last night on the Princess Maquinna. Bert is a local boy all right, having been born in Kitkatla. He was in the First Pioneers and was gassed on the Somme. Since being gassed, he has made an extensive acquaintance with the old country hospitals and was in another in Calgary for a month before arriving here. Bert intends going to the Oceanic Cannery for the summer, where his father is engaged.

OUR AMERICAN COUSINS

Probably the most outstanding lessons that the war has taught us are that beyond a certain figure mere superiority in crude numbers counts for little, and that fighting power that remains for the most part merely potential may be the operation of the time factor be neutralized by an inferior power that is fully organized. It should not, of course, have needed a war to teach us these lessons for they are merely an elaborate application of an elementary law of physics. But nations are slow and unwilling pupils, and experience is the only school in which they will learn. Having grasped the vitalness of the elements of time and place in war, we do not attach quite so much military importance to the probable entrance of America into the war as we should have done in its earlier stages. And there is no use denying that the moral as well as the military uplift would have been greater had the United States seen her way sooner to let her hand follow her heart. But as a glass cannot be fuller than full, the coming in of the States would not appreciably affect our determination to achieve victory, or our confidence that we shall achieve it.

From the point of view of an impartial neutral, the addition of the United States to the Allies would at once remove their ultimate victory from the region of contingency to that of absolute certainty. For, potentially, the United States may rank as the strongest nation in the world. Her power does not rest entirely upon her unique geographical position, and her enormous natural resources. The true root of American greatness is to be found in the successive streams of virile humanity—cavalier and Puritan, Latin, British, Dutch and Scandinavian that successively peopled her shores and penetrating inland, generated in their interecine and foreign struggles an energy that remained and still remains proof against the enervating effects of wealth or sub-tropical climate. From the point of view of an ethnologist, the miracle of America is not the intellectual activity of New England, or the industrial wealth of Pennsylvania, but the moral and physical energy displayed by the Southern States both in the war of Independence and the Civil War.

It is something for us to be proud of that this energy which expressed itself in a Washington, a Lee, a Stonewall Jackson, was essentially and almost purely British. Names like Grant, McClellan, Sheridan, and Johnston attest that by 1860 the dominant stock was still pure British, with the Scotch-Irish element distinctly marked. And despite the vast emigrations since from continental Europe, we may rest assured that in a searching emergency like war, the nation would continue to be ruled unconsciously by its British characteristics. The ingenuity and resourcefulness developed by pioneering and free industry would serve the American in little stead had they not been fortified by his sublime incapacity to know when he was beaten. It is this spirit that explains the incredible fortitude and ultimate success of Washington and the unprecedented bloodiness of the Civil War. No war has ever more clearly shown the value of training than the war in which both sides were largely untrained, for the higher commands were reserved more and more for officers who had been trained at West Point and had seen service. The need for a strong and continuous military tradition is all the greater in a country of shifting population and short historical memories. A positive policy like the Monroe Doctrine, unsupported by a strong army, was to use Lord Roberts word, a "provocation" to an unscrupulous adversary. The United States has realized this by now and she has an opportunity to give military and naval earnest of her "longing for what we are fighting for." And her history proves that an improvised American army would make up in adaptiveness and in fighting spirit for what it lacked in experience and continuous tradition.

ENSLAVING BELGIAN PEOPLE

Reuters agency states that according to news received regarding the deportation of the inhabitants of Brussels, every man who is deported receives a card, with his name, address and profession, and orders to appear at the railway station at eight a. m. On the card is printed a warning that those who do not appear for immediate deportation will undergo three months imprisonment and have to pay a fine not exceeding 1,000 marks.

The card also contains the following somewhat puzzling notice: "As it may be that you will be sent to a place of work and that, therefore, it may be no more possible to keep in touch with your family, it is suggested that you provide yourself with spoon and fork, winter garments, linen and strong boots." Those who consent to sign an agreement to work in Germany or Belgium are exempted from presenting themselves. The card is signed by General von Foden, Commandant of Brussels, the same officer who in November caused the municipal authorities to be arrested for refusing to communicate lists of unemployed.

2,000,000 Belgians Depend on us for Bread!

Since shortly after the German invasion, the Belgians have depended for food entirely on the "Commission for Relief in Belgium". Backed by the Belgian Relief Fund so generously contributed in the British Empire and the United States, the neutral Belgian Relief Commission has imported enough wheat, flour and other foods to feed the whole nation so far. The great majority of the 7,000,000 Belgians left in the country have been able to pay for their daily allowance of bread—but a steadily growing number have no money left.

Unless we are willing to let these hundreds of thousands of women, children and old men starve, they must be fed at the expense of the Belgian Relief Fund. To make this possible someone must contribute nearly $3,000,000 a month—every month—all this winter!

AUTOINTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

The Dangerous Condition Which Produces Many Well Known Diseases.

HOW TO GUARD AGAINST THIS TROUBLE

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" — The Wonderful Fruit Medicine — will Protect You

Auto-intoxication means self-poisoning, caused by continuous or partial constipation, or insufficient action of the bowels.

Instead of the refuse matter passing daily from the body, it is absorbed by the blood. As a result, the Kidneys and Skin are overworked, in their efforts to rid the blood of this poisoning.

Poisoning of the blood in this way often causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Disturbed Stomach. It may produce Headaches and Sleeplessness. It may irritate the Kidneys and bring on Pain in the Back, Rheumatism, Gout, and Rheumatic Pains. It is the chief cause of Eczema — and keeps the whole system unhealthy by the constant absorption into the blood of this refuse matter. "Fruit-a-tives" will always cure Auto-intoxication or self-poisoning — as "Fruit-a-tives" acts gently on bowels, kidneys and skin, strengthens the bowels and tones up the nervous system.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

HOW THE MACHINE GUN CORPS WAS CREATED

Very early in the war the War Office realized the need for a greater supply of machine guns, and huge contracts for guns of the Vickers-Maxim type were placed with all speed. At the same time a newer type of machine gun, a recent invention, called the Lewis gun, became available, and battalions at the front were largely equipped with these in the summer of 1915. This accession to the strength of each unit made possible an important change in the handling and organization of the heavier Vickers-Maxim guns. In order that these guns might be concentrated or dispersed according to needs on a brigade frontage and not be confined to the frontage of the battalions which possessed them, they were withdrawn from the control of the battalion commanders and handed over to a specially formed machine gun company in each brigade. The Lewis guns, however, were still left with the battalions to be handled according to the needs of the battalion front by the colonel and his Lewis gun officer and detachment.

While these changes in equipment and organization were going on the problem of finding adequate drafts for the increasing numbers of Vickers-Maxim guns was settled. Hitherto personnel for gun detachments had been trained at the front or in reserve battalions at home. Frequently it occurred that some units in the hotter parts of the line found difficulty in making good their losses, while other battalions in easier quarters suffered fewer casualties and had almost untouched reserves. An army order, published on October 22nd, 1915, solved this difficulty by bringing into being the Machine Gun Corps. The work of this new corps was to train machine gun companies for each brigade of the new armies which did not yet possess one, and to supply drafts to make good the losses incurred by the machine gun companies already formed at the front. The corps was to train men for machine gun units for infantry, for cavalry of the line, for Motor Machine Gun Service, and for armored cars.

A Thorough Training.
The training through which all officers and men pass is very comprehensive and thorough. They are all in the first place carefully selected, for a machine gunner's duties are arduous to a degree. To carry a gun down a waterlogged trench is no easy matter; to transport it and all its appurtenances across a "No Man's Land," which is slippery with mud and pitted with shell holes, and then to dig or otherwise manufacture an emplacement for it in a newly captured trench demands considerable agility and strength.

Equally important is the work of the training of the men who are to be the actual workers at the gun, the men who are to carry it and its ammunition and appurtenances, clean it, erect it, fire it, stand sentry over it, dig

These men on passing from the receiving depot are organized in Machine Gun Corps companies of the infantry branch, or in squadrons of the cavalry branch, or in depot companies or squadrons, to which are attached the officers, N. C. O.'s and specialists who have already received their training in the schools described above, and who have to train the recruits themselves, though still under the supervision of instructors detailed from the Machine Gun School of Instruction.—Exchange.

The Poor Man's University

"JONES knows more about motor cars than any other man I know," said a man to his friend. "He has obtained his knowledge chiefly from motor car advertisements, and the catalogues and booklets circulated through them."

"All I know about photography," declared a well-known amateur, "I have learned from the men who advertise cameras, plates, papers and films."

Advertisements have been well called "The Poor Man's University," but other than poor men have been schooled thereby.

Much of what the average individual knows concerning personal and domestic hygiene, modern office methods, books and authors, electricity, precious stones, investments, and almost everything else, he has learned from advertisements.

Advertisements have stimulated our intelligence, added enormously to our knowledge, and given us aspirations which have raised us to higher levels of thinking and living. Advertising is indeed "The Poor Man's University."

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumaden Building, Toronto.
