(Special to The Daily News.)
London, June 13.—Important sections of the German front line between the Lys River and St. Ives have been abandoned by the Germans. The German line in Belgium is crumbling under the British offensive. Evidence of this appears in today's announcement of a German retreat on a front of approximately two miles to the southeast of Warneton.

Zeppelin Down.
A German Zeppelin, L-43, was destroyed early today over the North Sea by British gunfire.

British Official.
London, June 15.—Between the Lys River and St. Yves, the Germans have retreated from a portion of their front lines. The British troops followed closely. Important progress was also made to the east of Elaegstreet Road.

Prince Rupert being completed a week earlier than was expected, the big boat will make a special trip to Prince Rupert and Anyox, arriving here on Saturday, June 23, and leaving again for Vancouver on June 24 at midnight. She will make calls at Swanson Bay and Ocean Falls on the way down. The Prince Rupert has been thoroughly overhauled once again this year, and is in first-class condition to take up her summer schedule.

EXPECT DOMINION WILL IMPOSE INCOME TAX

(Special to The Daily News.)
Ottawa, June 15.—The impression prevails in parliamentary circles here that as the Dominion needs more money, the Government will impose an income tax. The Hon. Geo. P. Graham has given notice that he will move, probably on a motion to go into supply, a resolution calling for action to make accumulated wealth contribute to the cost of the war, and that the resources of the country be so organized as to ensure the greatest possible assistance to the Empire, and also to reduce the cost of living.

ROOSEVELT IS BITTER ABOUT THE PACIFISTS

(Special to The Daily News.)
Lincoln, Nebraska, June 15.—Mr. Roosevelt in a bitter speech here yesterday, flayed the professional pacifists. He declared that they have shown themselves to be traitors to their country. Sheer cowardice was more potent than a love of peace. He made an earnest plea for an undivided loyalty to the American flag.

LIVES THREATENED

(Special to The Daily News.)
Montreal, June 15.—It is said that the lives of several of the French-Canadian members have been threatened by anti-conscriptionists. Many other wild rumors of a like nature are current, for which, when investigated, no foundation can be found. Colonel Blondin still adopts a favorable attitude towards the measure.

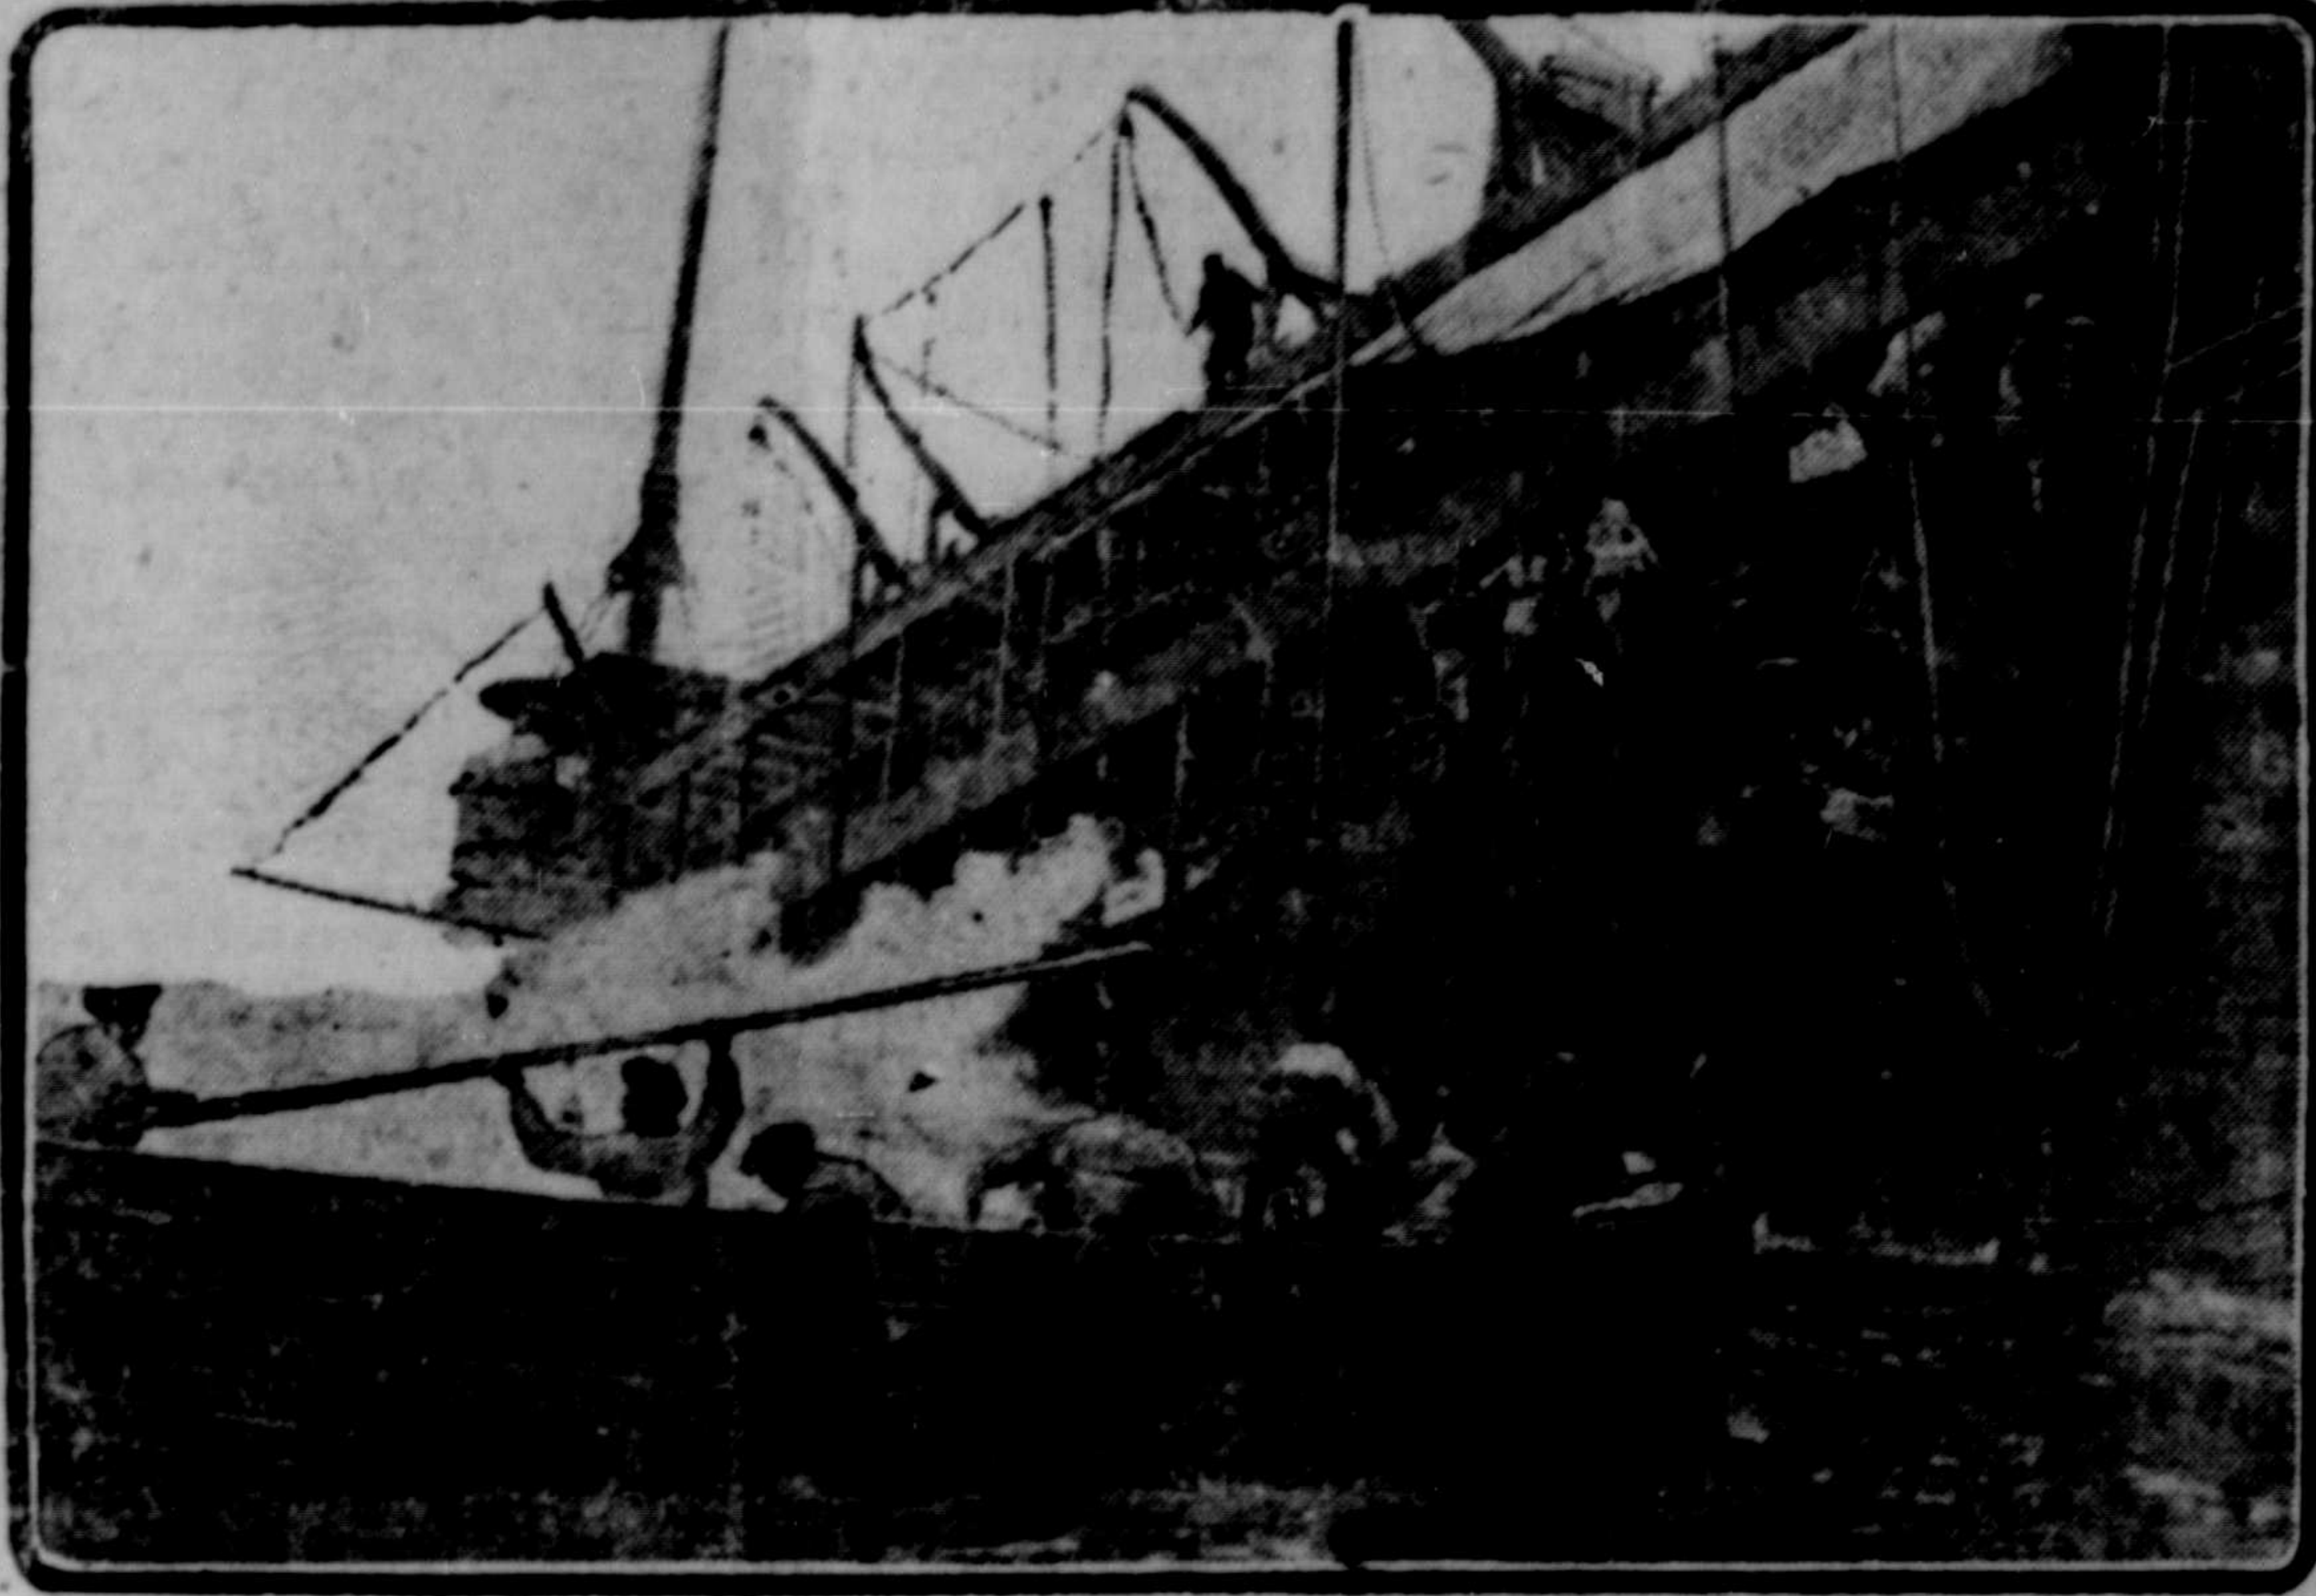

MAY CAUSE RETURN OF MR. BLONDIN

Ottawa, June 13.—It is stated that Hon. P. E. Blondin, postmaster-general, will return to the capital to administer the post-office department and to be acting secretary of state pending the appointment of a successor to Hon. L. W. Patenaude, who has resigned.

Mr. Blondin is now on leave, but as conscription has been decided upon as a government measure, there is no necessity of his continuing his recruiting campaign in Quebec.

If a successor to Mr. Patenaude is appointed the choice may fall upon Senator Beaubien of Montreal.

PASSENGERS ESCAPING FROM LINER TORPEDOED WITHOUT WARNING.—Here is one of the most unusual pictures of a sinking ship on record. The liner was the French "San-tay" torpedoed in the Mediterranean. Her crew acted splendidly and the captain remained on the bridge till the water reached it. Then he ran to the stern and when last seen was waving his cap and shouting "vive La France."

(Special to The Daily News.)
Washington, June 15.—President Wilson in a speech here today said that the United States of America was left no choice in regard to entering the war. She was denied the right to be neutral. In bitter terms, the President denounced the German military caste. He told the Americans why they were fighting in the world war, and followed the thread of the Hun intrigue down to the present.

HOLD OUT JUST A LITTLE LONGER

Amsterdam, June 13.—In a remarkable public speech delivered in Dresden, Count Vitthum, the Saxon Minister of the Interior and one of the best known politicians in Germany, declared that the submarine war will bring peace "within a short time." German U-boats, he said, "are operating on the high seas with the reliability of clockwork." Their success, he claimed, already permitted Germany to contemplate the time "when even England would be ripe for peace."

Although Count Vitthum appears to have been speaking in accents of rosy confidence, his U-boat was really designed, as subsequent remarks indicate, to bolster up depressed hopes. "We have only to hold out a little while longer," he said. "No long interval now separates us from peace, but there is no way of achieving it except by continuing to fight the enemies who reject it. The offensive power of our foe in the east seems to be broken, though internal conditions in Russia are such that weeks may still elapse before peace sentiment crystallizes. In the west our troops in heroic endurance are preparing to repel the final storm of the Allies. Germany's future for all time rests in the hands of the living generation."

"Whoever at such an hour takes his hand from the plough or the lathe is as treasonable as a soldier who deserts his place in the trenches. Let us show ourselves worthy of the greatest moment in Germany's history, at whose brink we have now arrived."

BREAD CARD FRAUD

Amsterdam, June 13.—The Berliner Tageblatt says that a huge bread card fraud has been discovered in Berlin. Two men and one woman have been engaged for months past in printing 20,000 cards weekly, which have sold at a good price. They have made a small fortune, but they are now in prison. The police have received word that there are about fifty similar frauds being practised in Berlin.

(Special to The Daily News.)
Athens, June 15.—Ex-King Constantine left Athens today to embark upon a British warship. He was accompanied by the Queen the Crown Prince and the other members of the Royal family. It is expected that he will be exiled to Switzerland.

Entente forces are landing at the Piraeus and Kastalla. Some troops have occupied the heights near Phalerum, while others are marching on to Athens. It is expected that Venizelos will become dictator.

Constantine's abdication created a painful impression at the German Headquarters. The Kaiser sent Constantine and the Queen a message of sympathy.

U. S. not Consulted.
Washington, June 15.—It is said at the State Department that the United States was not consulted regarding the coup of the Allies, which dethroned Constantine. The Department has not yet taken any part in the complex European diplomacy.

RUSSIAN TRIUMPH OVER TURKISH TROOPS

Petrograd, June 14.—Russian troops have won a victory in a battle with the Turks in the Sakiz region on the Mesopotamia frontier, taking possession of three heights, the War Office announced today. The statement, which also reports the repulse of a Kurdish attack, southeast of Erzingan, in Armenia, and successful operations by the Russian fleet in the Black Sea, is, in part, as follows: "In the region of Sakiz our troops, as the result of a battle with the Turks, occupied three heights. Attacks by Kurds in the rear of our army continue."

At Ordeh (Ordu) our ships destroyed an observation post, the port administration buildings, the headquarters of the enemy rear-guard, the army postoffice and barracks and various depots."

FISH—AND FISH

"Such an enormous variety of edible fish frequent or are indigenous to our waters, that it is difficult to even superficially detail them, or rather to classify them. However, generally speaking, we have several varieties of bass and rock fish, cultus cod, black cod, grey cod, hake, whiting, and last, but to my mind the most prolific and valuable fish, the much despised 'red' cod. All these fish are in abundance, and as far as I have learned or seen, no one is engaged commercially in their capture, with the exception of the cultus cod in the Gulf of Georgia.

"One often wonders why the Pacific market is practically confined to the everlasting halibut. The generality of people not engaged in the fishing industry no doubt are under the impression that no other fish save halibut and salmon exist on the Pacific coast. It is only a natural conclusion to arrive at. However, those engaged in the distribution of our fish food supply have no doubt some wise reason in holding back all other forms of fish food that literally swarm along our shores."

These are the words of Capt. Crichton, who three years ago was commissioned to conduct an explanatory survey for the Fisheries Branch of the Department of Naval Service. This officer, an expert with many years' service in the fisheries service in the Old Country, appears to have done his work with great thoroughness, and his report for the year ending March 31, 1916, contains information of no little profit to the country in general, particularly at this time.

Captain Crichton deals particularly with the catching of fish other than salmon, halibut and herring, upon which the fishing industry has concentrated with great vigor and enthusiasm, to the exclusion for the most part of the development of other fisheries no less valuable, and for which there has been no systematic cultivation of the market—certainly not the Canadian market.

Although this report of Capt. Crichton's dates from March, 1915, to March, 1916, the general conditions are still the same, with one exception in this city, where the Canadian Fish and Cold Storage Company have a vessel out trawling for these different varieties, and meeting with distinct success, judging by the quantities brought in. But the ordinary halibut fishing boats cannot market their catches of other fish than the halibut. They catch tremendous quantities of these other classes, which have to be thrown back again into the sea.

In this connection, Captain Crichton writes:

"I was running along the west coast of Vancouver Island, six or seven miles off shore, one September day, and had the honor of having on board some gentlemen officially connected with the Fishery Department. For a distance of close upon nine miles, we passed through a literal field of dead red cod floating upon the surface of the water. Fish that had been hooked upon the halibut lines and taken off and thrown broad cast over the face of the waters as if they were carrion. Great distress existed in Vancouver that year, and at that moment people were being fed by public subscription and yet this appalling waste of food existed daily, and still exists."

At a time of stress like the present, when the rising cost of living presents a problem to nearly every family, and the prospect of an actual shortage of supplies confronts the whole world, this anomalous condition still continues. The time is at hand when our fisheries must be viewed by the Government from a different point than that which discloses merely their commercial possibilities. It will have to regard them first as a source of food supply for the people, with their exploitation for profit as a secondary consideration. If this is not done we shall still have the extraordinary situation of a country at war, suffering with its Allies from scarcity of food, with enormous reserves of the finest kind of food only partially utilized at its very door. If a food control board is going to be established by the Government, one department of it should be certainly charged with the duty of getting our fish food to the people, and it should be clothed with powers sufficient to enable it to stop waste as well as discrimination in the marketing of the product.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

General Pershing and his staff are now in France. Stores, medical and military supplies have been sent to France by the American Government and have been unloaded there. The next information that may be looked for is the arrival of the first contingent of the American army in France to take their place in the firing line.

It is just a little more than a week since the Kaiser informed the Kaiserin "that the great Anglo-French spring offensive has come to an end," quoting von Hindenburg to that effect. Since that time, the German forces have been blasted off the Meslines ridge and a wedge driven into the German lines on the Souchez river sector. Although the Allied offensive had ceased, according to Wilhelm, nearly seven thousand prisoners and several batteries of guns were captured. These developments should teach the Kaiser to be more cautious in the terms of the messages he sends to the Kaiserin for publication.

The Kaiser announced that the retirement from the Somme had postponed an Anglo-French offensive for two months, but the loss of Vimy Ridge followed this within a few days, and also the French advance from the Aisne. Now the loss of an equally strong position in Belgium again discredits his statements and those of the "incomparable Hindenburg." If Kaiser Wilhelm is as superstitious as he used to be, he will draw a most distressing conclusion from the swift, crushing contradiction the Allies are in the habit of giving to his bombastic claims.
