

Vote for Duncan Ross and Prosperity

GEMS FROM DUNCAN ROSS' GREAT SPEECH LAST NIGHT

"Mr. Clements objects to some extra silverware on the Government ship Montcalm. Mr. Clements couldn't make this argument stick in the cent belt; where they do say the medium of exchange is not even coppers but beans."

"Mr. Clements objects to the cost of Wilson gas buoys—the greatest boon that was ever conferred upon men who go down to the sea in ships. Of course if Mr. Clements' policy succeeds there will be so little shipping to do that the old fashioned coal oil lantern will be good enough; but with reciprocity we want our harbors and waters lit up with the most modern equipment, so that the great trade to be done will be done with the greatest safety to the men engaged in the work."

"The most scandalous tactics are being used by the provincial government to thwart the will of the people in this election. Road superintendents, road foremen, fire wardens, game wardens and a mighty host of paid hirelings of the Provincial Government are going up and down this constituency trying to bulldoze the electors into voting against their own best interests. But, thank God! the ballot is secret and they will not succeed."

"The most outrageous scheme of all is the employing of special constables at all the polling booths—constables appointed by W. J. Bowser, attorney general, and sworn in by Tory justices of the peace in this riding. These men have been appointed agents for H. S. Clements and we have the edifying spectacle of a candidate having his agents paid out of the treasury of the Province of British Columbia. These men have been appointed and are being paid without any authority from the legislature and without any warrant in law."

"Even the Mayor deserts the civic chair and goes up and down the constituency trying to convince the people that they should vote against Prince Rupert's and their own best interests."

"One would naturally expect a Vancouver real estate man to knock Prince Rupert; but what about a few of our own people living here with all their interests here?"

"How can you explain G. R. T. Sawle's position on the fishing industry. Mr. Sawle must have been sleeping in the morgue with the Conservative candidate and he caught the knocking habit."

WAGE-WORKER'S STRONG SPEECH FOR RECIPROCITY

"Charlie" Hunter Gives Audience and Fellow Workers at the Ross Meeting Lively Advice to Vote For the Measure That Helps the Worker

One of the most telling speeches of the evening in support of Ross and reciprocity was that given by Mr. Charles Hunter, the workingman speaker, who is coming to the front amongst audiences in Prince Rupert.

He came on the stage in his plain workman's off duty garb and made a strong impression on all his hearers.

"If the Liberals here think I have come to hand them bouquets," he began, "they are mistaken. (Laughter and applause). But if any Conservatives here think I mean to roast the Liberals, they are mistaken, too. (Renewed laughter). Working men here as a rule, have no use for party politics. I have heard some of my fellow workers remark 'well, there are lots of union men in this town who won't vote for Manson's bunch at the next municipal election because they don't hold with party politics, but they won't vote against them so that won't make any difference to him."

"Let me tell Mr. Manson that he needn't count on that for there is a strong body of workingmen in this city members of the two labor organisations I belong to who have had just about enough of that bunch of incompetents at the city hall, and mean to take a very active part, indeed, in

DUNCAN ROSS, LIBERAL CANDIDATE FOR COMOX-ATLIN

"The Government of Sir Wilfred Laurier will be returned, and I want you to return me because I want to co-operate with the Grand Old Chief in making Prince Rupert what it is destined to be—The Great City of the Pacific Coast."

MAGNIFICENT OVATION FOR DUNCAN ROSS ON THE EVE OF ELECTION

Right Candidate For Prince Rupert Receives Five Minutes Steady Applause Before he Begins his Great Speech—"Ross and Reciprocity" the Popular Candidate and Cause For Today

"The speaker I now want to introduce to you is our next Member of Parliament for Comox-Atlin," said Mr. Tom Dunn, after enthusiastic united singing of "The Maple Leaf" by the audience at the Ross meeting last night.

Mr. Ross stood forward amid terrific applause—cheers crashed out wildly for two full minutes—There was an instant's lull. Then as one man the huge audience rose in their seats with a tumultuous "tiger" that was simply deafening. In the midst of the cheering Mr. Ross was seen modestly stroking the white pelt of Mr. Clements' goat. The audience caught a glimpse of the action and yelled with delight.

Someone started "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and with a will the audience caught up the strains. It was a magnificent reception for a candidate on the eve of an election—and Mr. Ross showed his appreciation modestly, like the straight, strong man he is.

He Expressed Confidence

When the tremendous ovation had subsided—the audience ceasing to cheer from sheer fatigue—Mr. Ross began to speak:

"I face this great audience tonight with considerable confidence, and not a little thankfulness," he said: "confidence (with a glance at Clements' goat) because I am assured that this goat is really dead. (Applause). Thankfulness is you one and all for your extremely gratifying reception of me tonight. (Renewed applause).

Will Be a Great City

"If Prince Rupert is going to be a great city, as I believe it will, and as you believe it will or you would not be here, it is going to be so because it is the centre of one of the richest districts in Canada. (Cheers). And it is going to be so because it is the centre for the finest fishing waters in the Pacific. That being so,

GEMS FROM DUNCAN ROSS' GREAT SPEECH LAST NIGHT

"Prince Rupert hopes to be the centre of the halibut fishing. 'It is a false hope,' says Mr. Sawle. No Vancouver knocker in his worst mood could suggest anything more damning to the future of Prince Rupert."

"With reciprocity in full force and effect Prince Rupert will become the centre of all the northern fishing trade and neither the knockers from Vancouver nor the wailing Jeremiahs from Prince Rupert can prevent that."

"Our Conservative friends are telling the working men that reciprocity means cheaper living and cheaper labor. Their logic is as absurd as Sawle's fish logic. Reciprocity means employment for more fishermen, more longshoremen, more stevedores, more labor of every kind. It means prosperity and boom times and an ever increasing demand for labor—a demand greater than the supply and that always means a stiffening market for men's labor."

"What use are high wages to a man who cannot get work to do? Reciprocity means abundance of work and plenty of work always brings high wages."

"The Alaska trade freely granted to you by the reciprocity pact is the richest gift ever offered, since the Queen of Sheba presented King Solomon with the gold of Ophir. It is yours for the voting. Are you going to accept it?"

"George H. Cowan wants you to elect a Vancouver man to represent you and make Comox-Atlin an appendage to the ambitions City of Vancouver. Are you going to allow Vancouver to control your destiny or are you going to have your own member in the Parliament of Canada?"

"The Government of Sir Wilfred Laurier will be returned tomorrow, and I want you to return me because I want to co-operate with the Grand Old Chief in making Prince Rupert what it is destined to be—the great city of the Pacific Coast."

VANCOUVER CONSERVATIVES ADMIT CLEMENTS' DEFEAT

Midnight Dispatch From Ottawa States That Conservatives Reluctantly Concede Laurier and Reciprocity—Will be Returned by Good Majority

(Special to the Daily News)
Victoria, Sept. 21.—The leaders at Conservative headquarters here admit the defeat of Clements for Comox-Atlin is most probable.

No Tory Sports There

Vancouver, Sept. 21.—Five thousand dollars have been deposited in the World office here by a prominent Liberal, who desires to bet the amount that the Liberal Government will be returned by at least twenty-five majority. This had found no takers up to midnight.

Laurier's Return Certain

Ottawa, Sept. 20.—The eve of what is probably the greatest election ever held in Canada, finds the Government supporters sanguine of victory. Reports from the headquarters of the party in all the provinces announce a strong support of the reciprocity policy. It is even admitted by the Conservatives that this policy will be approved by the electors and that Laurier will be returned by a substantial majority.

An Immense Reward

Vancouver, Sept. 12.—(Special)—The amount of the reward for the capture of the Montreal bank robbers has been increased to $32,000.

ABE ATTELL DEFEATED

Wells of England Now World's Champion Featherweight

(Special to the Daily News)
New York, Sept. 20.—Wells, the lightweight champion of England, and Abe Attell, the featherweight champion of the world, fought ten rounds here tonight, Wells outfighting the American in practically every round and getting the popular decision. Wells is now in line for a match with Wolgast.

The Englishman showed great cleverness in the bout tonight and made a great impression. Through out the contest he landed almost at will on Attell.

Majestic Fight Pictures

It is learned by wire that Wells, the English lightweight champion, defeated Abe Attell, the featherweight champion of the world. This makes the films now being shown at the Majestic of the battle between Wolgast and Moran peculiarly interesting as Wells must next meet Wolgast in the ring.

GRAND DANCE

Don't forget the Grand Dance in the McIntyre Hall tonight from 9.30 to 12.30. Gray's Orchestra.

Ross and Reciprocity for Rupert

Electors this is YOUR day.

Prince Rupert Expects Every Man This Day to Do His Duty.

Your duty to your Country, to your City, and to yourself your home and your family is to return Duncan Ross.

You have heard the for and against of the great issue over which today rages the biggest battle of the ballot ever waged in the Great Dominion of Canada. Today YOU are in the midst of the fight. Today YOU strike your blow hard and straight for Reciprocity and the right policy for Prince Rupert. Today you vote for Duncan Ross.

With two strokes of your pencil in the polling booth today you make your choice between Duncan Ross and H. S. Clements. You make your choice between Reciprocity and High Protection. You choose between low prices and high prices for food. Your vote for Duncan Ross helps your own pocket and helps Prince Rupert prosper.

This is the greatest issue that ever came before Canada. It is not a choice between Liberal and Tory, but a choice between expansion of prosperity or restriction of prosperity. It is a battle between the unbiassed Canadians who want the Great Dominion to grow, and the enslaved adherents of the Conservative protectionist party under whose policy the few fatten at the expense of the many. No wage-earner dare vote for Clements and increased cost of food.

A vote for Ross is a vote for Rupert. Duncan Ross stands firm for Reciprocity, and Reciprocity means progress and prosperity for Prince Rupert. Duncan Ross is no carpet-bagger, no knocker from Vancouver. His business is based on Prince Rupert's progress. He boosts Rupert because he believes in Rupert, because he likes Rupert. WHO quit Rupert with a wry face, and went to Vancouver to knock Rupert with ugly epithets? NOT Duncan Ross! Ask Clements for the answer when you have voted for Ross and Reciprocity.

Give Duncan Ross your vote today, and give him more, give him your voice and influence amongst your fellow citizens. Never was there a time when you could do more for Prince Rupert, for your own prosperity, and the prosperity of the Dominion than you can today. Give Duncan Ross your vote. Do your part to help on Reciprocity. Then get busy and gather in votes for Ross as fast as you can. Every vote counts in this community today. Prince Rupert wants to return Ross with a majority worthy of candidate and cause.

Remember the issue—Reciprocity. Don't think that party is all you need care for in this election. Your vote today counts, and counts high in the struggle of the purchaser who pays, against the ring of interests that enrich themselves at the consumers' expense. Vote for Ross, Reciprocity, and fair prices for food, fair profits for the producer, fair play for the consumer—yourself.

Vote for Ross, and Vote Early. Don't delay because you have made up your mind from the first, and want to be wheedled a bit by Clements just to tease him. Get your vote in early for Ross and Reciprocity, and there will be even more spice for you in the Clements canvassing. Meanwhile, do all the canvassing you can for your own candidate. Remember Ross returned means a record rise for Rupert in all that means the prosperity of a Pacific Coast city.

Citizens of Prince Rupert—Men who have stayed with the city and are staying with it today—respect and support a big straight man like Duncan Ross whose good word for Prince Rupert is never stinted wherever he goes. Record your vote for Ross and Reciprocity. Both are Right for Rupert. And remember that a vote for Clements is a vote for Vancouver. Revenge those calumnies of Clements' against Prince Rupert by refusing to vote for a quitter, a carpet-bagger, and a knocker from Vancouver. VOTE EARLY TODAY FOR DUNCAN ROSS AND KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK TILL THE POLLS CLOSE.

REMEMBER—THE BALLOT IS SECRET

The efforts of the provincial government to defeat reciprocity by machine politics is apparent all over Queen Charlotte Islands and also in the mainland, in Comox and in Atlin, but more especially in the Skeena district.

Great activity is being displayed on the construction of roads and trails, and the provincial Conservative machine is operating through this work to get hold of the country voters. In little places where there are only ten or a dozen voters a party worker is sent to act as road foreman. Out of the public funds these voters are given employment during election time, the obvious intention being to influence their votes by this bribe in favor of the machine candidate.

An old time politician once remarked that it was easy enough to buy voters but the important question was whether they would stay bought. They are a fine class of men, those pioneers on the Skeena, and can be trusted to vote according to their honest convictions. Most of them appreciate the manifest advantages to the farmer and consumer to be found in the reciprocity pact and—the ballot is secret.

THE DANGER OF A LIGHT VOTE

When vital public issues are pending there is genuine danger in a light vote. The stay-at-home vote is a public menace.

The people take a long chance when they fail to go to the polls on election day. The fact is that many evils against which the people constantly complain owe their existence to the indifference of many citizens to their political obligations; and strange as it may seem the very citizens who complain loudest are the fellows who remain at home on election day.

Men who are not patriotic enough to vote when they are capable of qualifying as voters ought to be stopped from any criticism of the government, or of men in the public service, for if they are not interested enough in government to seek to make it better, more efficient and more economical, by active participation in political contests, then it would seem that they should have no voice whatever in the matter. Men who don't vote ought to keep quiet.

Indeed it is a question whether the state ought not to go further, if possible, and disfranchise men who fail to vote, except in cases of sickness or absence from the state. Men who without good excuse fail to vote in some of the old countries are disfranchised, and if the principle cannot be introduced into our system we should work out some other plan either of penalizing the non-voter, or of inducing or forcing men to exercise their electoral rights. Indifference to political obligations is as dangerous as it is discreditable, and some day it is likely to lead to trouble.

Vote early today. Forget party prejudice. Spurn party coercion. Use your own mind for your own good and the good of your own country, Canada, and your own City, Prince Rupert. Vote early and vote straight for Ross, Reciprocity, and the return of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to the helm of the Dominion. He captained Canada to her present prosperity. You can trust him.

SAVINGS TO HOUSEWIFE PROMISED BY RECIPROCITY

During the past few years there has been a constant cry from the housewives that the cost of living has been going up. Every housekeeper knows that for one reason or another the expense of maintaining a table has seemed to steadily increase. General prosperity has led to some extravagance, and as a philosopher of the day put it: "It is the cost of high living rather than the high cost of living." At the same time, it would be easy to name dozens of daily necessities that are more expensive in Canada today than they were ten years ago. Trade combinations and agreements have had not a little to do with this.

One of the features of the reciprocity agreement now before the country is the reduction of duty on a number of staple articles of food. The reduction is not large in any instance, but the protest that has come from the manufacturers of some of the items in this country shows that they expect to have to make a cut in price, and perhaps lose a little of the large profit they have been able to exact under the existing tariff. Some of the items affected, and the tariff reduction made, by the reciprocity agreement with the United States are as follows:

Articles	Present Duty	Duty Under Reciprocity
Cheese, pound.....	3c	Free
Sweet potatoes, bushel.....	10c	Free
Salmon, prepared.....	30 p.c.	Free
Oysters, in bulk, gallon.....	10c	Free
Lobsters, fresh.....	25 p.c.	Free
Meats, fresh or refrigerated, lb.....	3c	1 1/2 c
Bacon and hams, lb.....	2c	1 1/4 c
Beef, salted, in barrels, lb.....	2c	1 1/4 c
Pork, barrelled in brine, lb.....	2c	1 1/4 c
Meats, other, salted, lb.....	2c	1 1/4 c
Canned meats and canned poultry.....	27 1/2 c	20 p.c.
Lard and compounds thereof.....	2c	1 1/4 c
Tomatoes and other vegetables in cans.....	1 1/2 c	1 1/4 c
Oatmeal and rolled oats, per 100 lbs.....	60c	50c
Prepared cereals and foods.....	25 p.c.	17 1/2 p.c.
Macaroni and vermicelli, lb.....	1 1/4 c	1c
Biscuits, wafers and cakes, sweetened.....	27 1/2 p.c.	25 p.c.
Pickles, sauces and catsups.....	35 p.c.	32 1/2 p.c.
Sardines, 20-36 oz. boxes.....	6c	5c
Condensed milk, lb.....	3 1/4 c	2c
Biscuits, without sweetening.....	25 p.c.	20 p.c.
Fruits, in airtight tins, lb.....	2 1/4 c	2c

Every housekeeper knows the burden of an added few cents per pound when counted by the week or the year. If reciprocity is adopted the relief given will, in no small degree, compensate for the climbing prices of the last few years.

Under reciprocity the consumer, as well as the producer will get a square deal.

SAWLE ON SALMON

Ross Promises to Give Us Free Fishing

To the Editor of the News.—A Conservative Pamphlet designated as Pamphlet No 2, has been issued over the signature of G. R. T. Sawle called the "Government and Salmon."

Mr. Sawle is the paid secretary of the Conservative campaign committee. He is also a job printer and runs what he calls the Optimist Job printing establishment. He was never known to do any job printing for nothing. His pamphlet bears the name of the "Optimist Job." Therefore, it must be very apparent to everyone that Mr. Sawle, the paid secretary, in getting up pamphlets for Mr. Sawle's job printing establishment, is strictly following out the Sawle traditions of making everything pay.

But when Mr. Sawle appears in the role of a critic of the fishing business he seems to have forgot many things. He is quite at sea when he goes where the salmon are. He states that a monopoly of the salmon trade has been established. But he fails to state that this monopoly is chiefly sustained by the B. C. Government or Mr. Bowser, which is one and the same thing.

He ought to have been fair enough to state that it was first established by Mr. Bowser, and his limiting of the canneries and fishing licenses was in force for a year and a half before the Ottawa Government ever took a hand in the matter.

Everyone knows—who knows anything about the salmon business—(this does not include Mr. Sawle) that these is a joint control over that business by the Dominion and Provincial governments. This is caused by the fact that these two governments are in litigation over their rights in controlling these fisheries. They have agreed to leave the matter to the courts to settle and in the meantime both are exercising a joint control.

In the limiting of canneries and fishing licenses a cruel monopoly has been created. The Dominion

A TENDERFOOT'S WOOLING

By Clive Phillips Wolley

(AUTHOR OF GOLD, GOLD IN CARIBOO, ETC.)

He was within arm's length now, and he made a spring at the fawn's collar, touched it, but could not secure his hold, so that he only frightened the beast, which in a few bounds reached the timber. But here it paused, as if it was as much afraid to go forward as to come back. Of course, Anstruther followed it. As he reached the edge of the brush a dry bough no thicker than his little finger, whirled out of one of the tops and struck him across the hand. The force of that blow from so small a thing should have warned him, but at that moment victory seemed within his grasp. The fawn, frightened by something the man neither saw nor understood, hesitated, until with a quick leap Anstruther sprang in and gripped the leather collar round its neck.

It would be a curious thing, the man thought, which would loosen his grip now until the provoking pet was safely in its mistress's keeping, and as the thought formed itself in his mind something happened.

To him it seemed that a terrific crash was followed by instant and complete darkness, accompanied by a curious sensation of numbness and a letting go of all things, all things except that leather collar. To that he clung instinctively, even when everything rose and went away from him, feeling and thought, wind and rain, and even the crashing of the brush, and the anger at Kitty Clifford's laughter.

CHAPTER VIII.

Jim to the Rescue

"Put it out of its misery; it's back is broken."

Anstruther recognized Mrs. Rolt's voice, and wondered in an idle dreamy fashion whose back was broken, and whether if its back was broken it would wish to be put out of its misery. His back was not broken nor was he in any misery. He wondered who was, and turning to see was struck by a hideous shock of pain, after which it was night again.

When he came to himself he knew that he was dead. He knew more than that. He was lying in his coffin; he could smell the new boards of it, and they were nailing down the lid, but this strangely enough did not worry him a bit. Death was a silly painless thing after the very much like sleep. How even his strokes were. There were two of them at work, one on each side of him, beat, beat, beat! The ring of their hammers was rhythmic; rather good dream music he thought, but how hard they worked, and what a lot of nailing up that coffin required. He wished that they had not thrown the earth in before they nailed him down, the weight of it above him was so great that he could not move his limbs. And then quite suddenly the weight was lifted, and he drew a great breath, and again the fierce pain came and took him away into the cool dark where there was no trouble.

Reckless of falling limbs and risks, with eyes open to their danger, a fate similar to that of the man below them, two of the half-breed boys of the ranch had been swinging their axes as they had never swung them before, and as the blades bit and the white chips flew, two pale faced women, drenched with rain, and wild with grief and terror of the storm, pleaded with them to work "faster, faster, for God's sake, faster," clenching their feeble hands, and, yearning for something to do where there was nothing they could do.

Heavens! how long the time seemed. Surely between them they could lift the tree off him now, and they strained at the trunk, one limb of which was too heavy for their united strength. They might as well have tried to lift the ranch house. Those only who have handled a Douglas pine know what the weight of it is.

The Indians way was the only way, and there was no help but theirs, though by some miracle Frank Anstruther lived still. The hand that poor Kitty held in hers was limp and cold as a dead man's, but he was not dead yet. Not yet. Surely the men could work more quickly. Ah, if only Jim had been there.

At the very last the half-breeds stopped and consulted. Those two men, as if time was of no value, consulted and argued, and then one of them went to the house for a saw. The saw was most inefficient five minutes of all to Kitty, and even when the saw cut through, and the ends of the log were free, the log did not rise an inch. Another cut had to be made, and all the agony of waiting endured again. Even when a six-foot length had been sawn out of the pine those two imbeciles could not lift it, a log which Jim would have carried on his shoulders.

It was well for Anstruther that they could not. But for the broken limb on the underside which had buried itself many feet deep, and held now like a tap root, Anstruther would long since have learned the great secret.

Thanks to that bough he was held as in a vice but not crushed, as a Douglas crushes what it falls upon. With levers and bars and all the ingenuity of practised loggers the men at last pried up the log sufficiently for their purpose, and drew out their man, still uncertain whether he was dead or alive.

With gentle strength they unclenched the long white fingers from the fawn's collar. Poor beast. It at any rate would not come in again, from that storm. The tree had broken its back, and a merciful axe stroke had split its graceful head from end to end. And yet Kitty, who at another time would have wept for a day over her pet, had now no thought of it.

On a rude stretcher, improvised by the Chinaman whilst the Indians chopped, Mrs. Rolt and the three men carried Anstruther to the house and laid him in the warm, firelit room on the Boss's bed, and then the greater terror, the only one of ranch life, faced those women. As long as all goes well to those who are country bred, there is no hardship in the enforced separation from the town and its thousand and one conveniences. Every difficulty is a joke to be laughed at, a puzzle which natural ingenuity will do light in overcoming. You can do without the shops and the theatres, you can hold service if you want to, and the strong man needs no policeman to protect him; but the time comes when even he cannot do without the doctor, when he would give all that the world holds for someone who could tell him what to do to save one dear life.

Anstruther might be dying for some little help which they could have given him if only they knew what was the matter with him, but they did not know.

There was no broken bone that they could find, no bleeding wound for them to staunch, and yet whenever consciousness returned to him, at the first effort to move or speak he fainted, and each faint seemed more and more like death.

The resources of the ordinary ranch in such cases as this are pitifully inadequate. As a rule the wife knows a little about the treatment of ordinary accidents and the simpler ailments, and in the house there is generally some book which professes to be a substitute for the physician. You have only to turn to it in an emergency to discover how little there is to justify its claims.

Mrs. Rolt read such a volume from cover to cover, only to fall back in despair upon such simple remedies as warmth and quiet. She could only give nature a fair chance. Probably she should have done no better, and half the doctor's success at least depends upon the patient's faith in him, but when you good folk at home boast yourselves of your many colonial possessions, in which you take only an occasional pride and a very little serious interest, allow something not only for the courage of the men who hew out fresh dominions for you all over the world, but something too for the martyrdoms of women, who watch through the long nights of lone lands, growing old between a sun's setting and a sun's rising, whilst all that makes life valuable for them is fading away under their eyes, for want of that which to you is but a natural accessory of your every-day life.

Through that long and wild night those two women watched; whilst it seemed to them that the winds clamored round the house for the prey which had escaped them.

Towards morning, Mrs. Rolt, who had been dozing in a chair by the fire-side asked:

"Is he sleeping now, Kitty?"

"No, he is pretending to, but I can see how his poor lips are pressed together. I don't believe he has slept once since they carried him in," she whispered.

"Oh, nonsense. He was sleeping nicely through the night while I watched."

"He was shamming, Mary, so that we should not worry. Isn't it brave of him?" and bending over her head, she pressed her fair head upon Mrs. Rolt's shoulder to smother the sobs which shook her.

Mrs. Rolt's arm wound round the girl, and drew her gently to her knee, soothing her quietly, whilst a very wistful motherly look came into her own steady grey eyes.

This woman had a right to know Love when she met him, for she had served him very faithfully, and she knew him now.

Whatever had been her dreams for Jim Combe she recognized that they had only been dreams. Whether he lived or died, the man lying there with strained pale face, would always hold the first place in Kitty Clifford's heart, so her arm held up her younger sister whilst she whispered to her, "Be brave, darling, and we will save him for you. If only God would send our men home."

Hardly were the words out of her mouth, when the girl sprang from her bed and stood with lips parted and head bent forward listening.

"He has, Mary," she cried. "He has. I can hear the beat of the hoofs."

But Mary Rolt, looking out into the blizzard, could neither hear nor see anything.

"Not yet, dear, I am afraid, but they cannot be far from another day now," and her own heart failed her, wondering whether it was all well with her own man, and whether he was near the stables, contradicted her. First a low growl, and then a chorus: Glory, Lupus, and Venom, bayed their welcome as, dim and indistinct from the driving sleet, half a dozen horsemen emerged and dismounted in the corral, and before Mrs. Rolt could reach the door Kitty, all her waywardness forgotten, was clinging to Jim Combe's arm, and dragging him towards the house.

For the others she had no word, not even the Boss, but only, with wild hair flying in the storm, she clung to her old friend, crying:

"Oh, Jim, Jim; you dear old Jim; come quickly. I want you so badly."

And Jim fell into his old place at once.

It was so natural to him to serve this spoiled child, who always came to him in trouble, that he forgot himself and answered:

"What is it, dear? What do you want Jim to do for you. Can't it wait?"

"No, no, not a second. Come," and she drew him away from his horse, which he would have left standing in the storm for no other person on earth. "Oh, Jim, he has waited so long. I thought that you would never come. He's almost dead, Jim," and her sweet mouth quivered in a way that made him wince.

"Who is nearly dead?" he asked, climbing the stairs three at a time with clanking spurs.

"Frank. Mr. Anstruther." Jim's face contracted as with physical pain, but he controlled himself, and said no word until he was in the sick man's room, where Mrs. Rolt welcomed him silently.

"Messieurs les électeurs, j'arrive devant vous plein de courage et de zèle pour défendre la cause du peuple canadien tout entier."

"Je n'ai plus longtemps à vivre mais je soutiendrai la lutte jusqu'au bout. Quand je ne serai plus, ce sera à mes jeunes amis d'accomplir ma tâche."

"Je dis aux vieux comme aux jeunes ce que disait Henri IV: 'SUIVEZ MON PANACHE BLANC, VOUS LE TROUVEREZ TOUJOURS SUR LE CHEMIN DE L'HONNEUR ET DE LA GLOIRE.'"

"SUIVEZ MON PANACHE BLANC; C'EST MA CHEVELURE DE 69 ANS."

I USED TO

I used to think the men who sold The stock in silver mines or gold Would always use his conscience when He made a deal with other men: And then where'er the stock was bought You'd find it just as you fore-thought,

And it would yield the promised plum. But then I bought some.

I used to think the man who smiled And slapped your back and spoke so mild, Then got a little loan from you, By telling of his friendship true, Was just the very one to find

WHERE YOU WILL VOTE

The polling station will be at the store lately occupied by Campbell's cigar store on Third Avenue.

Polls open at 9 a.m. and close at 5 p.m.

Polling station will be divided into four divisions as follows:

A. to D.—Thomas McClymont, Deputy Returning Officer; Nelson Dunn, Poll Clerk.

E. to L.—C. H. Kearns, Deputy Returning Officer; Wm. Craig, Poll Clerk.

M. to O.—R. A. McMordie, Deputy Returning Officer; A. J. Galland, Poll Clerk.

P. to Z.—Charles L. Youngman, Deputy Returning Officer; E. H. Mortimer, Poll Clerk.

F. G. Dawson, Returning Officer.

G. W. Kissick, Election Clerk.

When needing counsel of mankind Or help in borrowing a bit. But I once tried it.

I used to think that girls were blind To weaknesses of male mankind, And always anxious for advice From men, and kept their tempers

And cared for promises and thanks Far more than goods and party

pranks,

And never strove to rule or lead. But now I'm married.

Henry Peterson, a Finlander, has committed suicide at Rossland by cutting his throat. He had been drinking heavily.

Reciprocity is the one and only issue in this election campaign. And reciprocity is a straight business issue and must be discussed as such.

THE PROSPERITY OF EVERY GREAT CITY IS DUE TO ITS GEOGRAPHICAL LOCATION

THE SPOKANE OF CANADA

THE SPOKANE OF CANADA

NEW HAZELTON

The most important Townsite!

The most talked of Townsite along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway

NOTICE*New Hazelton Townsite, Sec. 1

Now being offered for sale is Not a Grand Trunk Pacific Promotion Townsite. NEW HAZELTON Townsite was selected by the experts of a syndicate of successful men as the geographical location for a big city. They bought the land, realizing the wonderful resources of the Hazelton District, the Mines, the Distributing Centre for hundreds of miles, and many other reasons.

NEW HAZELTON

Many mines are getting ready to ship ore. Some of the mines being developed are: Silver Cup, American Boy, Silver Standard, Sunrise and Sunset, Lead King, Erie Babine. Most of the ore in NEW HAZELTON mines is high grade Silver-Lead, similar to ore in the Slokan District in East Kootenay, B. C., and similar to some ores found at Leadville, Col.

HAVE YOU CONFIDENCE OF MERCHANTS ON THE GROUND?

Many lots already purchased by the keenest business men of Hazelton (Old Town). You can safely follow the judgment of such men.

NEW HAZELTON, the hub of the Hazelton District, will be the natural headquarters for what promises to be the most active and sensational new city in the fastest growing part of the world today on account of the wonderful Lead, and Zinc Mines, the Groundhog Mountain Coal Fields, the vast Agricultural Country tributary to the coming principal city in British Columbia on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railroad.

Stores are going up. Newspaper plant now moving on the Townsite. Two or three

ROSS OVATION LAST NIGHT

George R. T. Sawle's yellow pamphlet is the worst knocking Prince Rupert ever experienced, and if G. R. T. Sawle was not hired by a vote catching combine from Vancouver, he would never have written it.

"What I see in reciprocity above everything else is this: that reciprocity means for Northern British Columbia a population of ten to twenty thousand white fishermen located here free to conduct their business as they wish to, and to locate where they please. (Cheers).

"If we can get enough of those white fishermen here, as we will under reciprocity, they'll take care of the Oriental question themselves. (Loud applause).

City Needs More Feeders

"It doesn't matter a jot whether the coming host of fishermen locate in communities—at Port Simpson, Masset, Naden Harbor or Queen Charlotte. The more little towns we have on the Pacific Coast the more feeders we have for Prince Rupert, their central point, and that is what you want. (Cheers).

"Prince Rupert is bound to become the greatest fishing centre on the Pacific Coast. (Tremendous applause).

"I am asked if the cost of living being reduced will affect the rate of wages similarly. Has the increase in the cost of food been followed by an increase in wages in your experience? The only way to have good wages is to have plenty of work and strong co-operation amongst the workers will keep the wages question right. (Loud applause).

"Tonight we stand in the forefront of the battle with our opponents ranged behind a Vancouver candidate supported by a Vancouver speaker. When you go to the polls tomorrow remember that if you vote for reciprocity you are voting not only for the prosperity of Prince Rupert, not merely to take the taxes off your food, not only to secure vast fishing trade for Rupert, but also for the continuance of the leadership for the Dominion of Canada of that great good statesman, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, under whose wise progressive guidance Canada has so magnificently prospered in the past. In voting for reciprocity to-morrow you will be following his white plume to victory."

Loud and prolonged applause greeted the conclusion of Mr. Ross's speech.

POLLS CLOSE AT 5 P.M.

In all Dominion elections the doors of polling booths open at 9 o'clock a. m. and close at 5 p. m. All votes must be cast between these hours. In provincial and municipal elections the polling stations remain open until 7 o'clock in the evening, a fact which sometimes creates confusion in the mind of the elector. Do not forget that on September 21 the doors of the polling booths will be closed sharply on the hour of 5.

ROSS MEETING LAST NIGHT

Campaign Shots by Popular Champions of Reciprocity

Standing room only in the Empress Theatre last night to greet Mr. Duncan Ross on the eve of election day. By scores the throng gathered—ladies filling the front seats—men overflowing the hall to the very street doors.

Inspiring legends adorned the walls—"Prince Rupert Wants that Fish Trade," "The Alaska Trade for Prince Rupert," "Ross and Reciprocity for Rupert," "Take the Taxes off Your Grub," "Laurier and Larger Markets"—were all intensely popular.

Tremendous excitement was occasioned after the preliminary display of pictures by a series of terse election shots and cartoons thrown on the screen.

Got Clements' Goat

"Clements, we have got your goat," said one—and sure enough, on the stage was the pelt and head of a newly caught goat which was hailed with terrific delight the instant the curtain rose—"Yes, that's Clements' goat sure," remarked Chairman Tom Dunn as he rose to open the meeting.

"Vote for Duncan Ross and Reciprocity!" aroused with tremendous vigor the cry of "We will; you bet," and prepared the way for the rise of the curtain and the volleys of applause that greeted the sight of Duncan Ross, seated centrally amongst his supporters, with Clements' captured and dead goat in the foreground.

The Meeting Opened

"I intended to tell you in the greatest speech ever made," said Tom Dunn, "what you were going to save on fish, what you were going to save on fruit, what you were going to save on vegetables and what you were going to save on beans—with a 60 cent per bushel duty on them! (Cheers and laughter).

Scores the Mayor

"I am going to tell you about Mr. Manson, that great speaker who is going about this constituency making speeches while he is neglecting his duty to Prince Rupert. (Wild applause and booing for Manson).

"Mr. Manson has been going round this constituency holding the big stick over electors who have not yet secured their crown grants—threatening them. That's the way this election is being worked by the Conservatives.

"If you are giving your votes to Mr. Clements you are not representing Prince Rupert or Comox-Atlin at all at Ottawa, but Vancouver, which wants double representation."

Patmore on Food Taxes

"The question simply is: Are we going to stand for a tariff on food—a tax on our food?" said L. W. Patmore last night. Cries of "No!" and cheers were the reply.

Reason for Reciprocity

"Where do the C. P. R. and G. T. P. boats take on their provisions?" asked Mr. Patmore. "At Seattle!" replied the audience. "I know something about Infant Industries—I have quite a thriving one myself on the hill. (Laughter).

That Yellow Streak

"Mr. Sawle chose the right color for his pamphlet—it's got the yellow streak in it from end to end.

"Any fish company which does not establish at Prince Rupert will lose its trade.

Empire Butted In

"Shame on Mr. Sawle for insinuating that Inspector Williams was not straight and for his attack on Mr. Robert Kelly," said Mr. Patmore.

"Excuse me, Mr. Sawle gave the facts just as they happened and were reported in the Empire," interrupted the Empire reporter who has a neck of butting in excitedly.

Mr. Patmore gave the exact statement of what took place in court regarding Mr. Kelly's nets. "That's not so," exclaimed the Empire man.

"Excuse me, I was solicitor for the prosecution, and I know," returned Mr. Patmore and the Empire reporter had no more to say.

"We want a market of 100,000,000 people," continued Mr. Patmore. "After tomorrow we are going to have them." (Loud applause).

RAW DEAL FOR LABOR MAN

Mayor Manson Left the Chair at Clements Meeting to Hustle Robert Gosden, an Invited Speaker, from the Platform.

Some commotion occurred at the Clements meeting in McIntyre Hall last night, owing to one of the invited speakers expressing sentiments not in accord with what the Vancouver candidate has been saying to the electors during his campaign. The speaker was Robert Gosden, and after some introductory remarks which caught the attention of the audience and were applauded, he went on to speak of the benefits of reciprocity from a labor man's point of view.

The applause this time was mingled with hisses and howls and Mayor Manson, who was acting as chairman, arose from his seat and taking Mr. Gosden by the arm showed him the way off the platform. There was some objection to this among the working men who shouted to let him alone, that he was talking good sense, and so on. Mr. Gosden made no resistance.

He said after the meeting that Mr. Sawle, secretary of the Conservative committee, asked him to speak, saying that he heard a working man was going to speak at the Ross meeting and the Conservative party desired one to speak at the Clements meeting.

SAWLE ON SALMON

Government has signified its willingness to relax this monopoly. But Mr. Bowser has emphatically refused to do so. He is a large cannery owner.

Mr. Sawle says in large type that a white man cannot get a license to net salmon. This is very true, but he knows very well that the reason is because Mr. Bowser will not give it to him.

Mr. Ross at a large meeting in the Opera House here, stated most emphatically (in answer to a large petition) that he would do his utmost to see that any white man could get a license to fish and to sell his fish in any market that he wished.

Can Mr. Clements say the same, and can he promise for Mr. Bowser what Mr. Ross has promised faithfully to do?

The cannery monopoly will be broken just as soon as Bowser wills it and no sooner, or as soon as he is fired out of office and a righteous man put in his place.

A vote for Ross is a vote for free fishing, and the destruction of the cannery monopoly in Northern British Columbia.

IT'S THE EARLY VOTE THAT HELPS

First: VOTE.
Second: VOTE EARLY.
Third: VOTE FOR DUNCAN ROSS.

If you have a vote use it. You can have your principles carried into effect in the nation's government if you use your franchise. Unless you vote, how can your principles tell?

Record your vote as early as possible in order that the energies of your own candidate's supporters may concentrate where they will be most effective. Help those who are helping the cause you support. Let them know you have voted. Then get your friends to vote early too.

Give your support to Duncan Ross because he is strong and straight for Reciprocity and for the prosperity of Prince Rupert. Reciprocity is right for Rupert, or Duncan Ross would never ask you to support the measure. Duncan Ross has his interests in Prince Rupert. He likes the city. He boosts the city wherever he goes. Not only does Mr. Clements represent a policy which would rob you through your food bill, but Mr. Clements' interests are in Vancouver and Mr. Clements is an enemy and a knocker of Prince Rupert.

VOTE: VOTE EARLY: VOTE FOR ROSS AND RECIPROCITY.
