KING VISITS BRITISH TROOPS IN THE TRENCHES

RUSSIAN GENERAL RENNENKAMPF SUPERSEDED--GERMANS LOSE MANY THOUSANDS AT LODZ

DELAY OF RUSSIAN GENERAL ALLOWS GERMAN ARMY'S ESCAPE

BECAUSE OF THIS FAILURE HE WAS SUPERSEDED—CZAR IS ABOUT TO PAY A VISIT TO THE MEN AT THE FRONT.

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, Dec. 3.—The Morning Post says it understands that General Rennenkampf has been superseded because he was two days late in taking the position which the German armies in Poland would have been hemmed in. This failure robbed Grand Duke Nicholas' scheme of its strategic scheme of its full success and entailed a week of heavy fighting.

The arrival of the Czar at the front was to have been the occasion for the declaration of the good news of the completion of the Grand Duke's strategic plans.

HOW RUSSIANS WON THE VICTORY

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, Dec. 3.—A dispatch describing the recent fighting at Lodz says the town was closely besieged by the Germans on three sides when the Russians rallied from a difficult situation. The battle began on November 19 and it became evident on November 22 that the Russians had gained a victory. The Germans were outflanked and pushed from the rear but made supreme efforts to pass Lodz to the east and south. This effort cost them heavily and they lost ten thousand men.

WHY DODGERS FAIL.

Have you ever stood around in the postoffice the day after some local merchant decided to do his advertising through the mails. If you have you must have noticed how dodgers and "personal letters" strew the floors. Go a little farther and watch the dodger which is sent broadcast over the town or stuck behind the knobs of each door. Invariably this form of advertising, too, meets destruction. It is torn up or thrown to the winds. There is a reason or it. The mails are flooded with cheap circulars and the people got the habit of doing quick work with them. The newspaper, on the other hand, has a legitimate place. The people want the news and incidentally they read the advertising. Don't waste your money on dodgers. Put your advertisements in The Daily News.

WATERFRONT PROBLEM AGAIN TO BE DISCUSSED

R. H. Thompson, consulting engineer for the provincial government is here to make a report to the government on a possible settlement of the waterfront. The government holds some of the most valuable waterfront property in the city and on several occasions an attempt was made to get them to loosen up. The last attempt was made about eighteen months ago, when the Minister of Lands was here, and he agreed to attempt to solve the problem. The government, however, like some people in Prince Rupert, thought this property was going to be a mint right away and consequently wanted to hang on to it. Perhaps the present strenuous times will bring the government to its senses about their value of this property and enable the local people to get what they need without having to give all the money in the world for it.
A meeting is being held in the Board of Trade rooms at 3:30 o'clock today, being a consultation between the council of the Board of Trade and Mr. Thompson. All members of the Board are invited to be present.

CHANCELLOR SAYS GERMANY WILL FIGHT TO LAST BREATH

MOST OF SPEECH TAKEN UP WITH ATTACK ON BRITAIN—HE SHOWS GERMANY REALLY FEELS SHE HAS ONE FOE—BRITAIN.

(Special to The Daily News.)
Speaking in the Reichstag today, Bethmann Von Holwegg, the Chancellor, said that Germany would persist to her last breath in the war which had been forced on the German nation.
He declared he had written proof of Belgium's guilt in being willing to surrender her neutrality to France but not to Germany. Part of his speech was an indictment of the British policy being morally responsible for the war.

The Reichstag was adjourned to March 2.

BATTLE IN POLAND IS STILL UNDECIDED

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, Dec. 3.—The increasing number of guns in the vicinity of Ypres and the arrival of wounded at Bruges leads to the conclusion that there has been greater activity in Flanders in the last few days than official reports indicate. Reports agree that the battle in northern Poland is still undecided and fiercely contested.
The Russian forces are reported to be within ten miles of Cracow while the Austrian situation in Przemyel is desperate.

KRUPP'S WORKS WERE BOMBARDED BY AVIATOR

London, Dec. 3.—Berlin reports say the Krupp's factory at Essen was bombed by an aviator yesterday. Bombs were dropped on half the buildings, and the aviator escaped unhurt. The extent of the damage is not reported.

FIRST CONTINGENT OFFICERS RETURNING

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, Dec. 3.—Sixty unattached officers of the Canadian contingent, who were not needed with the first contingent, are sailing for Canada shortly to join the second contingent. They are doing this in preference to joining Kitchener's army.

KING IN THE TRENCHES

London, Dec. 3.—King George, who has been four days with the British troops, went out on the firing line today. Yesterday he spent some time in the trenches conversing freely with the men and questioning them. He found them cheerful and with a determination to stay with it until the Germans were thoroughly beaten.

BELGRADE EVACUATED ON MONDAY NIGHT

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, Dec. 3.—A dispatch in The Mail from its correspondent at Belgrade says as a result of the Servian concentration on a new defensive line Belgrade became isolated and being ill-prepared to stand a siege was evacuated by the garrison on Monday night.

SITTING OF SUPREME COURT IS RESUMED

The sitting of the Supreme court resumed this morning at 10:30 o'clock.
Foreman Pattullo reported that the Grand Jury found true bills in the three cases before them:
Rex vs. May—Murder charge.
Rex vs. Morris—Attempted murder.
Rex vs. Harris—Theft.
Before making recommendations the Grand Jury wished to visit the public buildings in the city.
The court decided to hear the attempted murder case first.
The prisoner, Sam Morris, a young negro, is accused with having, on July 15 last, shot Rod McDonald, G. T. P. section foreman, near Telkwa, with intent to kill or alternatively shot with intent to inflict grievous bodily harm.
On hearing the indictment the prisoner admitted the shooting but claimed it was in self-defence. He stated he had no money to employ counsel so the Court appointed Mr. A. M. Manson to represent him.
The jury was chosen as follows: James J. Walsh, John A. Edwards, Douglas Sutherland, Philip McDonald, Arthur Spurr, Clyde Rogers, A. H. Silversides, O. J. Kirkpatrick, F. W. Renworth, Hal Peck, Lachlan McDonald and Walter Clayton.
The trouble arose out of McDonald's objection to the way the negro worked. He employed the man on his section gang, tamping ties, and noticing him doing his work badly one morning took the shovel from him and showed him how it should be done. Morris without any discussion asked for his time on the spot but agreed to work to the end of the day.
On settling up in the evening a dispute arose regarding the cost of board and was eventually compromised by Morris paying a dollar and a half. Morris was apparently still dissatisfied and, after the gang had gone to work next morning helped himself to McDonald's automatic revolver and started west with it, thinking he would be even with his board bill that way.
McDonald returned at noon and, missing the gun, set out on a handcar with his gang to inform the police at Smithers. About ten miles from camp they overtook Morris and he asked for a lift. As he jumped on the car at the rear McDonald jumped off the front and made for him, intending to take the gun from him. The negro was very much excited and, drawing the gun, warned

AUSTRIANS FAILED TO CUT OFF MONTENEGRINS

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, Dec. 3.—A semi-official dispatch from Cetinje says that in the past five days the Austrians have made continuous efforts to cut off the Montenegrin army from the Servians. The Montenegrins repulsed and then took the offensive and forced the Austrians to retire. The Austrian losses were 600 killed and wounded. The Montenegrin losses were 33.
him to stand back but, almost at the same instant, fired. He claims that he fired at the ground the first time, as a warning, but that the following four shots were in self-defence. According to the evidence he was backing into the bush all the time he was firing. He was arrested the following day at Byatt's ranch, about three miles from the railroad.
Dr. Eggert gave evidence as to the serious nature of the wounds inflicted; also Dr. Wallace, of Telkwa, who first examined the injured man.
The following witnesses were examined and told practically the same story of the affair: Nick Randoumös, D. J. Boetsis and Nick Stomoulos.
Constables Fairbairn, Russell and Doolittle gave evidence regarding the arrest.
The address to the jury had not been made when the Court adjourned for luncheon.

PRINCE RUPERT CLUB WON MOORE SHIELD

The last game of a six-game tournament between the Prince Rupert and the Wanderers clubs, played last night in the homes of the Prince Rupert club, was the most for the Moore shield, which the Prince Rupert club won and held for a year.
The team representing the Prince Rupert Club were: Brandt, McMorrie, Foster, McMorrie, Wallace, Sweet, Palmer, McMorrie and Pattullo.
For the Wanderers there were: Macas, Howe, Melville, Hilditch, Stalker, Pettigrew, Beak, Turner and Raymond.

SAME OLD STORY

(Special to The Daily News.)
Paris, Dec. 3.—(Official.)—There was a lively artillery exchange yesterday at Nieuport and Ypres; also a violent bombardment west of Lens. The German attacks in the Argonne were repulsed.

CHIEF CENSOR WILL NOT HIDE BAD NEWS

London, Dec. 2.—In the discussion which arose in the House of Commons relative to the censorship, Sir Stanley Buckmaster, director of the Official Press Bureau of the War Office, said that the censorship should have no concern with politics and should not in any circumstances be used for coloring opinion in favor of the government. If that were done, he said, the government would abuse the confidence of the nation and be guilty of a very base action.
Sir Stanley declared that he had no sympathy with the view that bad news should be prohibited. It was possible, however, that there might be circumstances in which a full disclosure of events might not be desirable and might even prove disastrous.
The government accepted amendments to the defence of the realm bill, defining the powers of the government with regard to action that could be taken in matters relating to the publication of news.

HOW MILITARY CONTRACTS HELP SOME CANADIAN FIRMS

BELIEVED THAT PATRONAGE LIST OF THE GOVERNMENT IS LETTING CONTRACTS—LARGE FIRMS SAID TO BE INVOLVED.

Ottawa, Dec. 2.—For various reasons it would seem to be expedient that war contracts should be distributed among as many firms as possible. By so doing every point in the Dominion would benefit; industries now struggling for an existence would be enabled to keep their wheels turning, and their employees working, while in addition equipment would be provided as quickly as possible. It cannot be denied that complaints are registered from time to time to the effect that this course is not being pursued, and that many reputable firms are not receiving their share of contracts awarded, while others are reaping a harvest. The government declines to give out for publication information concerning the contracts let by the sub-committee of the cabinet, the chairman of which is Hon. Dr. Reid, Minister of Customs, and whose membership includes Hon. Frank Cochrane, Hon. Louis Coderre, Hon. C. J. Doherty, and Sir George E. Foster, who, as Minister of Trade and Commerce, has a vital interest in the stimulating of industry. Just how far politics enter into the question is not known, but certain it is that the patronage list is often consulted when contracts are let.

wear, caps, socks, etc. Stanfields, Ltd., Penman's of Paris, the Monarch Knitting Co., the Kingston Knitting Co., the Renfrew Knitting Co. and others have participated in these.

The Ford and the Russell companies have figured extensively in contracts for motor trucks and autos, while Woodstock and Brantford wagon companies have supplied heavy contracts in vehicles.

It is difficult to procure information concerning the British contracts, and those from the other allied countries, as these are attended to by their own agents. Mr. Fred Stobart is the British agent with headquarters at Montreal and Winnipeg. The clothing, boots, saddlery and harness purchased by the latter are roughly estimated in value at between five and six millions with promise of more to come if first orders are satisfactorily filled. In addition, the Russian and French governments have placed orders for saddles and harness to the number of nearly thirty thousand. These have been divided pretty well among all the saddlery firms of the Dominion.

More definite information as to the extent Canadian industries are being benefited by the heavy army contracts which, and are still being placed by the Dominion and the allied governments, is not ascertainable here at present. It is not considered to be the part of wisdom or expediency to make public official particulars of the amounts of contracts given, nor the names of the firms who have secured them. It is contended that to do so just now would cause jealousy among the various firms and would result in very considerable worry to the members of the government to whom the task of letting contracts has been entrusted.

Some idea of the money which is being spent in Canada as a result of the war may be gained by estimating the cost of equipment of the men who are leaving for the front, having consideration for the fact that all of this equipment is manufactured in Canada. It is estimated that it costs $150 to equip a soldier with clothing, boots, ammunition, rifle and kit. Canada now contemplates having under arms, at the front and in the Dominion, 108,000 men by the New Year. To equip these men alone it would therefore cost $16,200,000, not taking into account their maintenance afterwards. This does not include motor trucks, wagons, tents, tarpaulins and the thousand and one other details necessary for the full equipment of an army division. Altogether it is calculated that Canada's war expenses will approximate $100,000,000 per year.

A large proportion of this, it is to be noted, will be spent in Canada. As a matter of fact, it is conceivable that a good percentage of the pay of Canada's soldiers will be spent in the Dominion.

The heavy contract of supplying tents for Valcartier Camp fell to the Woods Co., of Ottawa, of which Col. James Woods, of the Governor-General's Foot Guards, is the head.

The privilege of supplying rubber goods, consisting of tarpaulins, capes, rubbers, top boots etc., fell to various companies, including the Gutta-Percha and Rubber Co., of Toronto, the Dunlop Tire Co., of Toronto, the Canadian Rubber Co., of Montreal, and others.

There have been further heavy contracts for knitted goods of various sorts, including underwear, caps, socks, etc. Stanfields, Ltd., Penman's of Paris, the Monarch Knitting Co., the Kingston Knitting Co., the Renfrew Knitting Co. and others have participated in these.

RESERVIST TALE OF HORRORS.

Germans Bridged River With Corpses of Own Dead.

Montreal, Dec. 2.—Eugene Geanniene, a Belgian reservist, has arrived back home here, having been injured in action in Flanders. He fought at Antwerp and in several other engagements. He was kicked in the chest by a German charger on the Ripell River. Geanniene possesses as souvenirs of his fights a dum-dum bullet, which he says was fired by the enemy, and a German belt with the legend of "Got Wit Us" on it.

From Antwerp, Geanniene says he was sent to Lierre, and the most of his fighting he saw in the series of battles about the Rupell and Nethe Rivers. At Wave-St. Catherine, on the Rupell River, 20,000 Belgians, supported by a British naval brigade, held off 85,000 Germans for days.

The Germans, says Geanniene, were endeavoring to cross the river by a pontoon bridge. When the bridge was crowded with Germans, a British officer whistled. That was the signal. Then the artillery opened fire, and in a few seconds the bridge and those on it were swept away.

Three times the Germans rebuilt the bridges and repeated the same tactics. Three times the Allies wiped out the advancing hordes. After the third attempt, the little river was so choked with dead men and debris that the German troops were actually unable to march across on the top of the corpses. In the struggle that followed and after he had killed two Germans, Geanniene received his wound.

Geanniene claims to have sure evidence of the reported German atrocities on women and children.

EDITORIALS

A number of people are writing letters to The Star and to other daily papers in this city denouncing the Literary Digest and the Saturday Evening post and urging that these publications be excluded from circulation in Canada.

But as a people we in this country are partisans in regard to this war and do not want to be anything else. It makes a man fighting mad to read in the Literary Digest some of the articles reproduced from German newspapers, or the article by Professor Dernburg in the Saturday Evening Post. Most people do not want to read such stuff at all, do not want to know what the German newspapers are saying, nor with what line of reasoning. Professor Dernburg tries to make a bad cause seem good to the American public. There are Conservatives who would not let The Globe inside their doors, and there are Liberals who would not pick up The Mail and Empire unless they had a pair of mitts on.

We understood that the Ottawa government has received similar urgings, but does not feel warranted in resorting to the extreme measure of excluding the journals mentioned. In this we believe the government takes the right view, as it did also, we think, in deciding to exclude from this country certain publications that were started for no other purpose but to disseminate views favorable to the enemy.

Yet newspapers cannot be suppressed for such reasons, nor would it be wise to apply Prussian rigor to American publications entering Canada. They are not British journals. Most of them are, however, pretty strongly with us in this war, and we should not rashly spoil a situation that is, on the whole, extremely gratifying.

As for the two American weeklies, The Digest and The Post, we are as familiar with them as anybody can be. They are merely doing what they have done for years. The change is not in them; the change is in the Canadians who read those papers, and who are now deeply stirred by this war. The Digest is doing what it has always done. It is not proffering opinions of its own—it is reproducing from newspapers at home and abroad all kinds of views on the war. The Post is doing what it always did. It is featuring the biggest interests of the day in special articles and in fiction.

Nothing would, perhaps, please Professor Dernburg more than to think that he had provoked Canada into taking hostile action against American journals that circulate all over the States.—Toronto Star.

Royal Standard The Home Industry Flour

Over a hundred families in this province are supported by the British Columbia industry of making Royal Standard Flour. If YOU use Royal Standard Flour you are helping to maintain that payroll in British Columbia. Also if you use Royal Standard Flour you know there is NO BETTER flour made. So you know you are not only getting good flour, but you are helping to keep over a hundred men in employment. That means a hundred less applicants for the job your husband may need soon.

The more Royal Standard Flour that is consumed in British Columbia the easier it will be for your husband to hold his job or to get another.

Every dollar you spend for British Columbia products is a dollar contributed to a patriotic fund—the one that keeps industry going at home.

Of course if Royal Standard Flour were not as good as other flours we would have no right to ask you to buy it on any grounds, but we know it is good and it is a home industry.

OWES HER LIFE TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Cured Both Stomach Trouble and Headaches

PAUMIDSTON, ONT., JUN 20th, 1913.
 "I really believe that I owe my life to 'Fruit-a-tives'. Ever since childhood, I have been under the care of physicians and have been paying doctor's bills. I was so sick and weak that people on the street often asked me if I thought I could get along without help. The same old stomach trouble and distressing headaches nearly drove me wild. Sometime ago, I got a box of 'Fruit-a-tives' and the first box did me good. My husband was delighted and advised a continuation of their use. Today, I am feeling fine, and a physician meeting me on the street, noticed my improved appearance and asked the reason. I replied, 'I am taking 'Fruit-a-tives'. He said, 'Well, taking 'Fruit-a-tives' are making you look so well, go ahead and take them. They are doing more for you than I can'."

HUGHES IS SARCASTIC.
Marauders May Raid Canada, But Only the Saloons.
 Montreal, Dec. 2.—That he had been called a murderer for suggesting prior to the outbreak of war that Germany had hostile intentions, was the announcement made by Major General Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, to the Canadian Club. The accusation came in one of many critical letters he had received for his attempt to place Canada in a state of preparedness for war. He said the Canadian government before the war actually broke out asked Britain what she wanted, Sir Robert Borden offering 19,000 men. Six weeks after the order to mobilize was received, 32,000 men left Canada.
 Dealing with the talk of an invasion of Canada by German-Americans the major general remarked:
 "I was told by the chief magistrate of Toronto with sober mien—I mean his, not mine—that 47,000 hunting licenses had been taken out in Maine by men intending to invade Canada. The only place marauders from the States was likely to raid was the saloons. There were only 1,314 licenses taken out in Maine this year, and any freebooters who put foot on a Canadian soil would get a very warm reception."
 The speaker contended there were hundreds of United States boys with the first contingent, and hundreds more would be with the second, willing to fight for liberty.
 He said Britain felt confident of the outcome of the naval aspect of the struggle, and any German ships left on the top of the water after the war would be distributed among the Allies.
 In Brussels a belt conveyor transfers barrels of flour from a mill to a railroad station through a tunnel under a ship canal.
 It is reported that a number of British officers and men have had their feet frozen. No doubt many thousands of the Germans are also suffering from cold feet.

GENERAL DE WET'S REBELLION--
OPENED CAMPAIGN BY SPEECH
COMPELLED LOYAL MAGISTRATE TO ATTEND AND HEAR HIM
ORDERED MERCHANTS TO OPEN STORES AND GIVE HIM SUPPLIES.
 English newspapers have made public a dispatch from the Governor General of South Africa giving an account of General De Wet's announcement of his rebellion. The account is as follows:
 "At 4 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, October 28, General De Wet entered Vrede with about 150 mounted men, of whom half to two-thirds were armed. After passing through the town gate a chase ensued after a postoffice clerk, who had been posted on the outskirts of the town to form an estimate of De Wet's force as they approached. The clerk, mounted on a bicycle, managed to retain the lead from a number of horsemen, in spite of their threats to shoot him. He was, however, overtaken in front of the postoffice, from where he shouted the information he had gleaned to the postmaster, who was waiting at the instrument to despatch the news to the Transvaal. The postmaster succeeded in getting his message through before the men had time to burst the doors and prevent him. As soon as they got into the office they smashed up the instrument, knocked down the postmaster and kicked him. The rest of the troopers galloped through the town in all directions, ordering the inhabitants to assemble at the monument in front of the Dutch church, they being promised a sjambok if they disobeyed."
 "General De Wet had meantime taken up a stand on the monument and ordered that the magistrate should be brought to him. Two men were despatched to the magistrate's office to order the latter to attend the meeting. On entering the office one of the men (De Wet's son) extended his hand to greet the magistrate, who told him he would not give his hand to a rebel, and when ordered in the name of General De Wet to attend the meeting he replied that he was not going to attend a meeting held by the enemy. This message was brought to De Wet, who was furious, and sent six men to bring him (the magistrate) by force, and, if necessary, to enter the resident magistrate's office and laid hands on him, pulling him out of his chair. The resident magistrate thereupon said that if they were going to take him by force he would go, and walked with them. He faced De Wet with a defiant air.
 "General De Wet, after employing some abusive language to the magistrate, addressed the meeting as follows: 'Ladies, Gentlemen and Burghers,—I have asked you here to explain to you my position.' Then turning to the magistrate, he said: 'Magistrate, I want you to get a shorthand writer to take down every word that I am going to say, because whatever I may do in the future I can never commit a greater act of rebellion than I have already committed. I am going through to Maritz, where we will receive arms and ammunition, and from there I am going to Pretoria to pull down the British flag and proclaim a free South African Republic. All those who side with the government I will regard as my enemies. I signed the Vereeniging Treaty and swore to be faithful to the British flag, but we have been so down-trodden by the miserable and pestilential English that we can endure it no longer. His Majesty King Edward VII has failed to protect us but he promised to do so, and allowed a magistrate to be placed over us (he is one of the pestilential English) who is an absolute tyrant, and has made it impossible to tolerate it any longer. I was charged before him for beating a native boy; I only hit him with a small shepherd's whip; and for that I was fined 5s.'

 "Here the magistrate interrupted De Wet and asked him whether he did not plead guilty. He admitted that he had pleaded guilty, and ordered the magistrate to keep quiet and he would allow him to say as much as he liked when he had finished speaking, and if he would not hold his tongue he would make him hold it."
 "But," continued De Wet, 'after the magistrate had delivered judgment, instead of reprimanding the boy and ordering him in future to be obedient and do his duty, he looked at the native as if he would like to give him a kiss. The magistrate was a brother-in-law of a man for whom he had the greatest respect, and who was very dear to him (President Steyn) and for that reason he would give him another chance; otherwise he would have taken him prisoner and gone and handed him over to the Germans. The magistrate's father was one of the staunchest pillars of the Church, and if he were alive today he would be heart and soul with him in this movement and condemn the dastardly act of robbery which the government was going to commit. The ungodly policy of General Botha has gone on long enough, and the South African Dutch were going to stand as one man to crush this unholy scandal. Some of his friends had advised him to wait a little longer until the English people had received a bigger knock, but it was beneath him and his people to kick a dead dog.'
 "Proceeding, De Wet said: 'England has got her hands full enough. I hate the lies that are constantly being spread to the effect that thousands of Australians, Canadians and Indians can be sent to fight us. Where could the English get them from? She has not enough men to fight her own battles. I am going through the town to take the following six articles, namely, horses, saddles, bridles, halters, arms and ammunition, and if anybody should refuse to hand my men these articles, if they should be found in their possession, I will give them a thrashing with a sjambok. I now order the storekeepers to go and open their shops, and I will select men to go round and take whatever I require apart from the above articles and they will give receipts for what they take, and if they do not open their shops willingly I will open them in another way.
 "My advice to you English is to remain quiet in your houses and not interfere with my men. If you do not, beware when I come back. I have got my eight sons and sons-in-law here with me, and the only people left on my farm are my wife and daughters. Anybody can go and see if you like, and request the magistrate to give them any help they may require, if they will do so.'"

GENERAL DE WET'S REBELLION--
OPENED CAMPAIGN BY SPEECH
COMPELLED LOYAL MAGISTRATE TO ATTEND AND HEAR HIM
ORDERED MERCHANTS TO OPEN STORES AND GIVE HIM SUPPLIES.
 English newspapers have made public a dispatch from the Governor General of South Africa giving an account of General De Wet's announcement of his rebellion. The account is as follows:
 "At 4 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, October 28, General De Wet entered Vrede with about 150 mounted men, of whom half to two-thirds were armed. After passing through the town gate a chase ensued after a postoffice clerk, who had been posted on the outskirts of the town to form an estimate of De Wet's force as they approached. The clerk, mounted on a bicycle, managed to retain the lead from a number of horsemen, in spite of their threats to shoot him. He was, however, overtaken in front of the postoffice, from where he shouted the information he had gleaned to the postmaster, who was waiting at the instrument to despatch the news to the Transvaal. The postmaster succeeded in getting his message through before the men had time to burst the doors and prevent him. As soon as they got into the office they smashed up the instrument, knocked down the postmaster and kicked him. The rest of the troopers galloped through the town in all directions, ordering the inhabitants to assemble at the monument in front of the Dutch church, they being promised a sjambok if they disobeyed."
 "General De Wet had meantime taken up a stand on the monument and ordered that the magistrate should be brought to him. Two men were despatched to the magistrate's office to order the latter to attend the meeting. On entering the office one of the men (De Wet's son) extended his hand to greet the magistrate, who told him he would not give his hand to a rebel, and when ordered in the name of General De Wet to attend the meeting he replied that he was not going to attend a meeting held by the enemy. This message was brought to De Wet, who was furious, and sent six men to bring him (the magistrate) by force, and, if necessary, to enter the resident magistrate's office and laid hands on him, pulling him out of his chair. The resident magistrate thereupon said that if they were going to take him by force he would go, and walked with them. He faced De Wet with a defiant air.
 "General De Wet, after employing some abusive language to the magistrate, addressed the meeting as follows: 'Ladies, Gentlemen and Burghers,—I have asked you here to explain to you my position.' 100,000 MEN IN U. S.
WILLING TO ENLIST
 Ottawa, Dec. 2.—One hundred thousand men in the United States have offered to enlist in Canada for service in Europe, according to Major General Hughes, Canadian Minister of Militia. He made the statement here in reply to questions regarding the theory that Germans in the United States might attempt a raid across the border.
 Major General Hughes said he was in favor of accepting the men who had offered themselves.
 With so many discarded LL.D.'s, D.D.'s and Sc.D.'s lying about in Europe, it seems a pity that Americans should still have to work four long years for a mere A.B.—New York Evening Post.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR MISS E. M. THOMPSON

On Eve of Her Departure for Victoria She Receives Hearty Reception.

Last evening Prince Rupert excelled itself in wishing Godspeed to one of her own special particular young ladies, Miss E. M. Thompson, on the eve of her departure to join her fiance, Mr. G. C. Emmerson, in Victoria. Miss Thompson and Mr. Emmerson will be married shortly after her arrival in the Capital, and we may be sure the good wishes and greetings of Prince Rupert's contingent will not be one whit less hearty than those accorded Miss Thompson at the surprise party hastily organized by her friends under the guidance of Mrs. Skipper Roberson and Mrs. Norman MacIntosh. The party met at 9 p. m. on Fifth Avenue, and proceeded en masse to Mrs. McMillan's house. When their errand had been explained the rooms were hastily denuded of their rugs and furnishings and the floor prepared for dancing, games and cards. Mysterious parcels were collected from each arriving guest. Pails and baskets found their way into the kitchen and in an incredibly short time the boys and girls made the most of their opportunities. Dainty and appetizing refreshments were served and then everyone assembled in the drawing room expectantly as Mr. W. E. Fisher took the floor and declared the court opened. He wished Miss Thompson and Mr. Emmerson, on behalf of the assembled company and absent friends every kind of happiness. At the conclusion of Mr. Fisher's speech the assembled company broke into, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." Mr. C. T. Heward stepped forward and asked the bride-elect to accept a queer looking bundle. All gathered round as the bundle was opened and the mysterious parcels disclosed. Willing hands helped untie the little ribbon bows and handed Miss Thompson a dainty mouchoir from each lady guest. The gentlemen contributed serviceable kitchen and other household articles. "Tipperary" and "The Soldiers of the King" were played many times during the evening. Midnight chimed before the party broke up. Among those present were noticed the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Norman McIntosh, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ward, Mr. and Mrs. S. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Mustard, Mr. and Mrs. Parkin, Mr. and Mrs. Ling, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. C. Brown; Mesdames McMillan, Roberson, Cade, Tremayne, Philpott, Clancy; Misses Elliott, Drummond, Jenns, Sylvia Jenns, Ivy Jenns, Carss, Beckwith, Saunders, Curtin, Ray; Messrs. W. E. Fisher, H. P. Wilson, J. P. Roche, A. H. Tomlinson, Heward, W. Blane, H. W. Tooker, Goldsmith, Howitt, Barnsley.
