PRICE FIVE CENTS

OVERWHELMING MAJORITY FOR MACDONALD

TISDALL DEFEATED BY 4,160--LORNE CAMPBELL SCRAPES HOME BY NINE VOTES

M. A. MACDONALD RETURNED BY AN OVERWHELMING MAJORITY

GOVERNMENT REPRESENTATIVE SHOWED UNDER BY OVER FOUR THOUSAND VOTES--CONSERVATIVES ARE STAGGERED--CAMPBELL SCRAPES THROUGH IN ROSSLAND

Vancouver, Feb. 27.—A heavy vote was recorded in the by-election. The final results were:
M. A. Macdonald, Liberal... 9,592.
C. E. Tisdall, Conservative... 5,432.
L. D. Taylor, Independent... 194.
Spoiled ballots... 138.

Majority for Macdonald 4,160
There were 15,356 votes polled out of a voters' list of 35,417.

Rossland
Lorne A. Campbell (Con)... 331.
Mayor Willson (Liberal)... 322.
W. W. Lefeaux (Soc)... 49.

Majority for Campbell... 9.

The first figures received by The Daily News on Saturday evening gave Mr. Macdonald a majority of 4,570 and later returns placed it at 3,939.

Mr. Tisdall's Statement.
"I was defeated by a combination of circumstances, a combination of hard times and a desire to have an opposition in the house. If the people of Vancouver desire to elect a lawyer to represent them instead of a trained business man, I will cheerfully bow to the will of the people."

Mr. Macdonald.
Mr. Macdonald said, "Needless to say, I am gratified at the results of the election, not for partisan support, but for an honest expression of opinion on the political evolution in the province. It was given emphatically by men of all parties. I do not regard it of course as a personal victory, any more than Mr. Tisdall need regard it as a personal defeat. However, in so far as it expressed confidence in me, I hope to justify it in the future."

The returns in the Vancouver election, which were received by The Daily News about 8:30 on Saturday evening, came as a great shock to local Conservatives who never imagined for a moment that the Hon. C. E. Tisdall would be defeated.

The figures were received with a degree of skepticism by the Liberals at first and The Daily News asked for a repeat from Vancouver before it made the result public. When confirmation was received there was great jubilation in the Liberal headquarters on Second Avenue, where an impromptu meeting was arranged.

Short speeches were delivered by Fred. Stork, G. R. Naden, L. W. Patmore, Mayor McCaffery, F. H. Mobley, A. M. Manson, Dr. W. T. Kergin, H. F. McRae, Olof Hanson, Walter Shaw and several others, the intervals being occupied in vociferous cheering.

Each speaker dwelt upon the significance of the great victory and hailed it as an index of the feeling of the people throughout the province.

PADDED PAYROLLS OF THE ROBLIN BUNCH

Winnipeg, Feb. 26.—In its report on the road work of 1914 in the constituency of the Roblin, the committee of the Legislature on public accounts today declared that certain pay sheets were extensively padded in that a great many signatures were forged.

It adds that large sums were stolen by persons whose identity has not been established. A royal commission to investigate the whole question in detail is recommended.

FOUR HALIBUT BOATS WITH MODERATE FARES

Four halibut boats came in over the weekend all with moderate catches. There is plenty of halibut on the banks, but bait supplies are low. The Gilford had 11,000, which was sold for 7% c., the highest price ever paid here. The Sumner had 17,000, the Madeline J., 10,000, and the Magalese, 4,000 pounds.

L. E. Haslett, the popular teller in the Royal Bank, has accepted a position with the Granby Company and expects to leave for Anyox on April 1st.

Akerburg-Thomson Co. have taken over the agency for the Palmer Gas Engine Co., formerly carried by K. B. Leuty.

GUESTS SLID TO SAFETY DOWN ROPES FROM WINDOWS

The picture shows the American Club as it appeared after the incendiary fire had wrecked it. The ropes down which guests slid to safety are shown. The picture also shows where Mr. Johnson, caretaker of the Merchants' Bank, was standing when he was hit by falling bricks following the first explosion.

KETCHIKAN SCHEME TO BLOCK PRINCE RUPERT

Washington, Feb. 25.—H. G. Strong of Ketchikan, Alaska, who has been here for some time laboring in the interest of the halibut industry, has evolved a plan by which he thinks the endeavors of Prince Rupert, B. C., to get the industry away from the American ports can be blocked. He proposes a tariff revision by which a duty of two cents a pound would be imposed on all halibut and salmon shipped into the United States through foreign territory where the fish have been packed or prepared for transit in that foreign territory.

New England fishing interests, usually prone to oppose anything they think might injure them, are favorable to the bill and Senator Lodge and Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, have given it favorable consideration. Senator Poindexter also has assured Mr. Strong of his friendliness to the measure. It is hardly to be expected that the department of commerce would approve a tariff measure, but it has not opposed it so far. A number of Democratic congressmen to whom the measure has been explained have reconciled their individual tariff views to this proposal.

BRITAIN ORDERS MONSTER AIRSHIPS

London, Feb. 28.—Britain has ordered ten monster airships to fight raiding German aeroplanes.

Verdun Feint.
The French believe that the enemy attack upon Verdun was simply a feint, preparatory to a big attack at other points. The French have given way rather than weaken their line at any point.

The German dead around Verdun form huge dams which are impeding the progress of the River Meuse.

Frightfulness.
Washington, Feb. 28.—Count Von Bernstorff has submitted his latest note today in which the Germans state that they will not change their plans and that the campaign of "frightfulness" will begin on time.

It is reported that Roumania will not take part in the war. Italy will centre all her energies on the defence of Avlona.

The Tory party on board the Prince Rupert thought she had been torpedoed Saturday night, but it was only M. A. Macdonald's majority striking the wireless apparatus.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER AND PREMIER BORDEN COMPARED

GADSBY DESCRIBES THE ATTITUDE OF THE TWO LEADERS ON THE QUESTION OF THE EXTENSION OF LIFE OF PARLIAMENT—LAURIER'S HIGH STANDARD

Ottawa, February 25.—As far as the analysts can make head or tail of Premier Borden's arguments in favor of extending the life of Parliament one year, his reasons were these. "The Liberals so far as I can judge do not want an election and the Conservatives don't know what they want. You both get your wish," and Sir Robert adds truculently, for his temper has not improved under the cares of state, "be hanged to you."

The truth is that Sir Robert knew that the extension was by grace of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his followers in Parliament, because, lacking the unanimous support of the Canadian Parliament, the British government would never grant the power. Sir Robert also knew that to Sir Wilfrid more than to any other one man he would owe the concession. It is no secret now that the Liberal caucus was divided on the support of extension and that Sir Wilfrid, after listening to the various opinions took the matter into his own hands. This is what Sir Wilfrid meant when he said the party had left the matter with him. The matter bating a fair expression of his followers' opinions was always with him—by common consent Sir Wilfrid exercises the powers of high, low and middle justice—and he handled it as a big man might be expected to do. That is to say he refused to play—politics—with it, spurned the "bloody key" of a general election, and acted all the way through as a high minded statesman who had the best interests of Canada and the British Empire at heart. Sir Wilfrid does not belong to the tribe of thimbliggers.

Another thing Sir Robert must have known was that it was quite possible for an ardent autonomist like Sir Wilfrid, the political heir of Baldwin and Lafontaine, to have urged objections to those clauses of the British North America Act which delegate the power of extension to the Imperial Parliament. It is an anomaly of our constitution that the provincial governments can of their own volition extend their lives while the federal government must seek an external authority for such a course. This resolution of Sir Robert's is the frankest admission in fifty years that Canada does not govern herself and in more peaceful times one can conceive that lovers of home rule could put up a strong argument against these antiquated parts of the British North America Act.

But Sir Wilfrid and his followers rose above these constitutional wrangles. Or rather Sir Wilfrid rose and his followers copied his example, for, even with the war going on some of them had to gulp hard to swallow the resolution. Some even came to the House of Commons with speeches ranking in their bosoms but when they heard The Chief, saw the lofty plane on which he was putting the question, and listened to his burning words of patriotism and loyalty, they forgot their speeches and were convinced.

By the way those were noble passages in which Sir Wilfrid lauded England's part in this war for humanity and pointed out the blessings that would accrue to the unity of the races in Canada as the result of a struggle in which "Englishmen were dying for France." When the next series of school readers is being built up the editors could not do better than select a few of these uplifting messages from Sir Wilfrid and other Canadian statesmen who have adorned Hansard from time to time. Thus will the little red school house get a taste of their quality and a body of national opinion be gradually formed which will respond to oratory hereafter.

If none are for the party and all are for the state Sir Robert Borden owes it under Providence to Sir Wilfrid Laurier more than to any other single personal influence in Canada. In this crisis he is a rock of Gibraltar on which paltry party politics break in vain. That being the case, Sir Robert Borden's take-it-or-leave-it speech came with mighty poor grace from a man who was seeking a favor to the one who was granting it. And a favor it was, you can take it from me, because the position of the Borden government will not be what you might call improved in October, 1917, with eighteen months more national debt to provide taxes for. Premier Borden knew that Sir Wilfrid would take it because he had told him so beforehand and because he is above all things a patriot. He likewise knew that Sir Wilfrid would not leave it because, as Sir Wilfrid very well put it, the ensuing election would then be not on the issues of the war—paper shoes, foundered horses, profiteers—but on the wicked position which refused an extension when the Empire was in danger. You will observe that in this crisis, one party is not quite as anxious to avoid party politics as the other. You have one guess as to which party it is.

Premier Borden coupled his threat—or was it a promise—of a general election as the alternative. (Continued on Page Two)

VANCOUVER SPEAKS

Vancouver has spoken, and, in no uncertain voice, has intimated that the reign of Bowserism is at an end. Mr. Macdonald's sweeping victory is infinitely more than a personal or party triumph, and means much more to the government than merely the defeat of Mr. C. E. Tisdall. Mr. Tisdall was not the issue. The sole question was one of boss rule versus freedom, and the people declared most emphatically for freedom, as they ever must. It was not Tisdall, but the government, which stood at the tribunal of public opinion on Saturday and received sentence, and had it been a Liberal government, guilty of the same political crimes, the verdict would have been the same. Mr. Macdonald is to be heartily congratulated upon his being returned to the legislature with such a large majority, but still more are the people of Vancouver to be congratulated upon their return to a sane view of the affairs of the province. To the everlasting honor of the people of British Columbia, men of all shades of political opinion set aside party feeling and helped to break the bonds which have been steadily throttling the province. All honor to Mr. Parker Williams and the leaders of the Labor party who cast aside all party interests and worked tirelessly for the defeat of government by Bowser, and the return of true representative government.

What Vancouver said on Saturday will be repeated with emphasis in Victoria on March 4, when Mr. H. C. Brewster will be elected by an overwhelming majority, and Mr. A. C. Flumerfelt will be relegated to the political obscurity from which he will sincerely wish he had never emerged. The government held over the Victoria by-election for a week in the hope that the result in Vancouver would strengthen the position of Mr. A. C. Flumerfelt, whose chances were admitted to be slim, but the boss must now be wishing that he had had the courage to take his medicine in one stiff dose rather than in installments.

In Rossland, Mr. Lefebvre, whoever he may be, did his work well and made it possible for the government to claim a "victory." Mr. Campbell will today be rather sorry that he did not have a straight fight, taking his defeat now rather than having the ordeal postponed for a few weeks. He must feel very much like a man who is under sentence of death, with the date of execution a little uncertain, but the grim fact nevertheless sure.

Within the space of ninety days there will be a Liberal government in power in British Columbia and during that period there will be an inglorious rush for cover amongst those who have camped around the Bowser table picking up the crumbs. The Brewster administration will be largely composed of men who are comparative strangers to the legislature, but, with men of the calibre of H. C. Brewster, "Honest" John Oliver and Parker Williams to lead the way, and the shameful record of plunder left by the McBride-Bowser bunch to serve as a warning against the pitfalls of office, it will set to work wholeheartedly to clear away the mass of debt incurred by its predecessors, and will ultimately place the province of British Columbia on the highway to real instead of imaginary prosperity.

A Five-Cent Breakfast in five minutes! What a boon to the busy housekeeper! tive to a refusal with a more or less deliberate insinuation that the Redistribution Act had provided him with the material for an incendiary fire. His reasons for asking for an extension, outside of the state of public opinion which is the real reason, were rather trifling. British precedents of course—precedents dating as far back as Queen Anne's reign for extension to be promptly capped by precedents for the usual elections as recent as the Napoleonic wars. Sir Wilfrid did not urge these precedents as evidence in rebuttal, but merely to show that he was giving up a strong legal case for the defence at the call of patriotism. Sir Wilfrid believes that the real tribunal is not British precedent but Canadian sentiment which shows a greater disposition at every general election to displace external authority on these matters.

Another reason urged by Sir Robert was that the war is not half through yet. According to LAND REGISTRY ACT.

Notice Under Section 36.

TAKE NOTICE that an application has been made to register Olaf Hanson, of Prince Rupert, B. C., as the owner in Fee-simple, under a Tax Sale Deed from the Collector of the City of Prince Rupert to Olaf Hanson, bearing date the 10th day of September, A. D. 1915, in pursuance of a Tax Sale held by said Municipality on or about the 9th day of September, 1914, of all and singular certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying, and being in the City of Prince Rupert in the Province of British Columbia, more particularly known and described as:—Lot ten (10), Block eighteen (18), Section six (6), Map 923.

Your attention is called to section 36 of the "Land Registry Act" and amendments, and especially to the following extract therefrom which relates to the above notice.

"And in default of a caveat or certificate of his pendens being filed before the registration as owner of the persons entitled under such tax sale, all persons so served with notice, or served with notice under subsection (6) of section 155 of the 'Municipal Clauses Act, 1906,' or section 293 of the 'Municipal Act,' or section 130 of the 'Assessment Act, 1903,' or section 253 of the 'Taxation Act,' in cases in which notice under this Act is dispensed with as hereinafter provided, and those claiming through or under them and all persons claiming any interest in the land by virtue of any unregistered instrument, and all persons claiming any interest in the land by descent whose title is not registered under the provisions of this Act, shall be forever estopped and debarred from setting up any claim to or in respect of the said land, and I shall register the said Olaf Hanson as owner in fee.

him the big drive will not begin before the spring of 1917. On what information he bases these conclusions he refuses to tell. Several times he mentioned conversations with the War Office, and once when he ran his fingers through his hair with a characteristic gesture the House sat up, thinking he was about to untangle the secret. But no. He was as mysterious about it as he was about the Dreadnaughts. All the House got from him was that on the same figures and calculations as the British House of Commons asks for an extension until next September, the Canadian House asks for an extension of a year from next October.

A side argument was that the government would need time after the war to transport "from 150,000 to 300,000" soldiers back to their homes. These figures tell a tale. Even with the expected wastage they do not approximate the authorized five hundred thousand. It smells like a bluff. Be that as it may the government wants as few voters as possible out of the country when the election comes on.

Another of Premier Borden's reasons was that many Liberal papers and several Liberal statesmen had expressed opinions adverse to a general election in the spring of 1915, just about the time the Hon. Bob Rogers was anxious to appeal to the democracy. From these opinions which the Liberal newspapers and Liberal statesmen held then and hold now, the Premier quoted at great length, his object no doubt being to prove that the government wouldn't have an election because the Grits didn't want it. The premier rather overdid it. That is to say he read one quotation too many. It was to the effect that the government should be granted the extension with its full

A neighbor advised me to try 'Fruit-a-tives'. I did so and to the surprise of my doctor, I began to improve and he advised me to go on with 'Fruit-a-tives'. I continued this medicine and all my Indigestion and Constipation was relieved. I consider that I owe my life to 'Fruit-a-tives' and I want to say to those who suffer from Indigestion, Constipation or Headaches, try 'Fruit-a-tives'. power to do mischief—or words to that effect—unimpaired as likewise its "ultimate responsibility to the people." Mark those words "ultimate responsibility"—the rod in pickle which the government seeks to make as ultimate as possible.

The last reason urged by the premier was perhaps the most futile, namely that the poor cabinet ministers had been so over-worked for the last eighteen months that they would like eighteen months longer to complete the ruin of their health. Imagine here fifteen weary Atlases trying to look uncomfortable under their load of care, but not losing flesh at it.

Such were the reasons urged by Premier Borden, reasons rather beneath the intelligence of a deliberation assembly. Not so Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He lifted the discussion to the higher plane of public opinion, the Empire's danger, the duty of all good citizens to lay aside party strife and work with an eye single to the rescue of civilization. He walked on the mountain tops, as one Conservative admirer put it, and he never came down.

It was in sober truth a great speech and after the Liberals heard it they said, "O King live forever!" Which indeed the King intends to do. He has ten years hard work in him yet and after that a long period of slipped ease and studious retirement. Never has his health been better, his eye brighter, his mind clearer, his spirit more buoyant. Premier Borden consorts with gloom, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier is all hope and fire. The reason is natural enough. Sir Wilfrid has fourteen years the advantage of Premier Borden. Sir Wilfrid is seventy-four years young, while Premier Borden is Sixty years old.—H. F. Gadsby.

CITY OF PRINCE RUPERT

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that an application will be made in the Legislative Assembly of the Province of British Columbia at its next session on behalf of the City of Prince Rupert for an Act containing provisions which are shortly stated as follows:—

(1) To authorize the changing debentures issuable under the bylaw in this clause mentioned, from the Sinking Fund plan to Annuity Instalment or Serial Bonds and the terms of years as herein stated:

No. of	Bylaw and Object	Amount	Term of years.
			pres. pro.
97	Local Improvement Section 1	$600,000	50 30
59	Hydro Electric	550,000	50 30
63	Government Debt	115,000	50 30
11	Telephone Plant	40,000	20 10
29	Electric Light Plant	66,000	15 10

and authorising the collection of instalments under such bonds with power to sell such bonds at a discount, and to use the Sinking Funds already collected towards reducing the debt; and power to raise any deficiency on sale of bonds by the issue of further bonds. Such changes to be made without submission to the ratepayers.

(2) Validating Bylaw No. 243 of said City; being "a bylaw for the purpose of authorising the renewal of certain treasury certificates and for issuing an additional amount of such certificates," and authorising the issue of bonds on the said Annuity Instalment or Serial plan for the $100,000 mentioned in Bylaw 243 for a not more than 30 years and also to ratify Bylaw 245, relating to such debentures; both without submission to the ratepayers.

(3) To provide for temporarily financing all said bonds by authorising the issue, renewal or reissue of temporary notes for not more than five (5) years from the date of such issue, renewal or reissue, pending the sale of the bonds heretofore mentioned and making provision for the payment of any loss which may be made on the sale of such temporary notes, renewals or reissue thereof.
