Porcupine Junction has been completely wiped out with the exception of the railroad station.

LOS ANGELES TOURIST DROWNED AT KETCHIKAN

A Los Angeles tourist named Macdonald, who was making the Alaskan trip on the Princess Sophia, lost his life under sad circumstances while the Sophia was at Ketchikan on the way south. With some other passengers he was seeing the sights and, in crossing a stream on a plank, fell into the water and was carried over the rocks and drowned. It is believed that in falling he struck his head on a rock as, when the body was recovered, his face was covered with blood. The body will be taken south on one of the American boats.

J. DAY BELL KILLED ON WESTERN FRONT

Word reached town last night that J. Day Bell, who went from here with one of the later battalions, has been killed during tunneling operations on the western front. Mr. Bell was an enthusiastic cricketer and footballer, and was one of the promoters of football in Prince Rupert, while he was also a member of the Prince Rupert Cricket Club from its inception.

WAR ANNIVERSARY

The procession committee for the demonstration commemorating the Second Anniversary of the war, held a well-attended meeting at the mayor's office today, when plans were fully gone into. These assure a very large turnout. All organized bodies, trades unions, lodges, clubs, and associations, civic and government employees, will be represented, and the citizens in general are expected to be on hand at the City Hall promptly at 7:30 in the evening, and join in the march to the Westholme Theatre, where the meeting will be held.

It is urged that the different organizations will attend as distinct units in the procession, if at all possible.

All the citizens are particularly requested to be on hand at the time stated, so that there will be no delay in starting the procession.

Admission to the theatre will be free, but a voluntary collection will be taken up to defray the cost of the theatre, and all money received over will be handed to the Red Cross Society. Doors at the theatre will not be opened until after the procession, which will march directly into the building.

SAM'S WAR BABIES START HOLLERING

Ottawa, July 29.—The appointment of F. B. McCurdy, M. P., as Under-Secretary of Militia, is taken here to mean that Sir Sam is to be "eased out." The time has come for disappearing. All Sam's war babies have been left on his doorstep at once. It is expected that Sam's visit to England will give the public time to forget and that Under Secretary McCurdy, who is as mild a mannered man as Sam is brusque, and as silent as Sam is loquacious, will not aggravate remembrance.

Mr. McCurdy has evidently been chosen because he openeth not his mouth. Sam opened his mouth too much and every time he opened his mouth he put his foot in it. And Sam has no small foot at that.

Under Secretary McCurdy has a gentle and equable disposition. Sam is a high explosive, and even more dangerous to his friends than to his enemies.

The three war babies that are causing Sam the most trouble are the Bertram Shell Committee, Camp Borden and the Ross rifle. Camp Borden is the first of the war babies to make a holler.

As centralization capps go, Camp Borden is equal in size to the rest of Sam's pet schemes. It is high ground, sandy, dusty and a lot of other things which the soldiers have found out. The chief objection to it is the dust—but the dust is part of Sam's vain glory. The soldiers had to eat the dust because Sam wanted to boast over in England that he took a wilderness and made it into a camp in two months. If Sam had left the soldiers where they were another month, the concrete road for heavy traffic, which will relieve the camp area of dust, would have been finished, the ashes and dust where the brush was burned on the manoeuvring ground would have settled down, the headquarters staff would have completed their organization, the camp ovens would have been provided with bakers, the commissariat would have had things in shape and Camp Borden would have been livable.

But that did not suit Sam's book. He was due in England and he wanted to tell them all about it at the Savoy and the Ritz, swell his reputation as a hustler, which he couldn't do if there were no soldiers in Camp Borden. So all raw as it was, Camp Borden was filled with soldiers to sweat in the sun and eat dirt to make Sam's holiday. The soldiers signified their disapproval, some by rioting and others by taking French leave. At this writing there are more than one thousand illegally absent and workers on the moving picture theatres say that not a day passes that they don't get offers of thirty dollars and more for their working clothes from soldiers who want to get rid of the khaki and Camp Borden at the same time.

Not only was there rioting, but the Minister of Militia himself suffered the indignity of being booed by certain of the mutinous battalions and when he was leaving at the station he was surrounded by a crowd of kickers who frightened him with their baleful eyes. Brave though he is, Sir Sam retired to a prepared position on the observation platform of his private car from which he addressed a jollying speech to his "boys." This speech was received with mingled sentiments—cheers, (ironical) and hisses unmistakable. After Sam got away the kickers took it out on the ice cream, and other dainties awaiting cartage on the station platform. That little speech of Sam's gauged by its weight in ice cream, cost $1,800, that being the damage assessed on the battalions which took part in the demonstration. All the incidents related here were witnessed by this writer.

A fortnight from now Camp Borden will be the same camp, but it will be with a new lot of soldiers. Sam's hurry to give himself and his friends a rare show has given the camp a black eye in the meantime and has done a lot to stop recruiting. The government is solving the problem Sam's impetuosity got them into by sending the present occupants of Camp Borden overseas in large drafts, ten units at a time. Under Secretary McCurdy's policy is in Petrograd, July 31.—General Letchick has renewed operations south of the Dniester which were brought to a halt a fortnight ago by freshets. New blows are being struck south of Kovel in the drive on Lemberg, which, coupled with the taking of Brody, opens the way for the main attack upon Lemberg.

Between Kovel and Lemberg, the Austro-Germans are fleeing in disorder. Seventy thousand prisoners have been taken in the last eight days.

T.D. PATTULLO RETURNS FROM PRINCE GEORGE

T. D. Pattullo, Liberal candidate for Prince Rupert district, returned from Prince George last evening from which point H. C. Brewster and M. A. Macdonald continued their tour south to Ashcroft by automobile. Mr. Pattullo states that throughout the interior there is the same dissatisfaction with Bowser and Bowserism that there is here. The people are anxiously looking for a change and, everywhere, the Liberal leaders were given an enthusiastic reception. Both Mr. Brewster and Mr. Macdonald made hosts of friends and there is no doubt that Mr. Brewster is looked upon as the leader who is to lift this province to a higher political level and to a new start on the road to prosperity.

CHANNEL TUNNEL

The driving of a tunnel under the English Channel from Dover to Calais has long been a subject of debate both in England and France. In 1876, it was agreed to make a start on the project and work was actually commenced, but a formidable opposition to the scheme was set up in the British House of Commons. The leader of the opposition was the late Lord Wolsley, who in a fighting speech, in which he dwelt upon the danger of invasion from France through the proposed tunnel, launched the famous phrase "splendid isolation" and said he did not want "an invasion of England." He carried his point for the British prejudice against the French was at that time still strong.

The question has again been raised by the French, and there is not the slightest doubt that, if the project could be carried through in quick time, it would receive the heartiest support of every Britisher. Such a tunnel would be of inestimable benefit in the transporting of troops and supplies to France and Flanders. The distance from Dover to Calais is only twenty-one miles and in a few hours munitions trains and troop trains could be landed in the heart of the battlefield, without the slightest delay or danger from German submarines.

It will take many years to build such a tunnel, but, after the war, there is a big possibility that the scheme will be approved by both nations and proceeded with. It would undoubtedly be a great commercial asset both to Britain and France and would do away with the dirtiest steamer voyage on the coasts of Britain.

LEMBERG

The capturing of Brody by the Russians is the most important event on the eastern front for many weeks, as it heralds an early attack upon Lemberg which already has been in Russian hands since the outbreak of the war. It is certain that the enemy will put up a desperate fight at the crossing of the Bug River, but nothing can stop the Russian advance, as the Czar's armies are much better equipped than the Austro-Germans and that Lemberg will again be in Russian hands at no distant date is as certain as anything can be in war.

From Lemberg, with its four railroads, the attack will lead on to Przemyśl, the scene of many weeks of fierce fighting in the earlier stages of the war. Przemyśl was so badly shattered by the Russians in their first long attack that they found it impossible to defend it against the counter-attacks of the enemy. The Germans have had ample time to throw up, or rather dig down, up-to-date and strong defences, but, with their big new guns and copious supplies of ammunition, there is nothing to hinder the Russian occupation of Przemyśl after a comparatively short bombardment. Even if the Russians get no farther this fall, they have done splendid work and should have no difficulty in holding their new positions throughout next winter. On the other hand, there is a big possibility that they may go much further and may bring Austria completely to her knees within the next two months.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The Germans have executed a British skipper on a charge of turning his vessel, the Brussels, against a German submarine. Berlin will no doubt hail this as another "naval victory."

Seventy thousand Turks are on the plains of Hungary. If reports emanating from Hungary are authentic, they would be infinitely more comfortable in Constantinople, which is no rose garden at that.

"SCANDAL" SHOWING AT WESTHOLME THEATRE

"Scandal," the five-act drama at the Westholme tonight and tomorrow, is the first picture of its kind to be shown in Prince Rupert. It is an intensely dramatic picture which teaches a lesson. Mr. and Mrs. Smalley play the leading parts and their work is great. Mr. Wright, a business man, takes his stenographer, who has sprained her ankle, home in his car. Neighbors' tongues get wagging and the trouble is on. Gossip leads to divorce and no end of complications, culminating in shooting. "Scandal" has created a sensation wherever shown and the Westholme management, who have run the picture over, say that it is great. There are also two good comedies and special music. Mr. Harvey playing "Humoresque" by request.

full swing. He is getting rid of the kick by removing the kickers. He is in hopes that those who take their places will find a camp ready to live in and will be more amenable to discipline.

Whether the policy of centralization camps in the wilderness, far from the maddening crowds and pleasurable distractions of big cities will be continued after the war is another problem. Canada does not intend to maintain a standing army. What then is the purpose of these great centralization camps holding anywhere from thirty thousand to fifty thousand men? Canada is not a military country. We have to give volunteers special inducements in times of peace to leave their ordinary occupations and do ten-day summer soldiering in camps conveniently in touch with all the resources of civilization. Are camps like Borden and Valcartier such an inducement; that is the question.

The Ross rifle trouble has also come to a head. The weight of evidence is that the Ross rifle is a good target rifle but not strong enough for active service conditions. The British War Office reported to this effect to the Militia Department more than a year ago, but the report was pigeon-holed. Even General Alderson's famous letter failed to draw it out. This report indicated among other things that the Ross rifle jammed, that its barrel was over long, that its breach was weak, and that it heated up when in use like a hot stove—but outside of that it was all right. The British War Office believed so thoroughly in its own report that Canadian soldiers were relieved of their Ross rifle in England and provided with Lee-Enfields before being sent to the front. In spite of all this the Ross rifle continued to be the Canadian service arm and every fresh contingent sailed away with these useless weapons in their hands. When the war began there were probably sixty thousand Ross rifles in stock. Since then three hundred thousand have been issued. This represents a sheer waste of nine million dollars.

At all events the Minister of militia did not act on the British War Office report, so there was only one thing left to do—the British War Office acted on it itself. The latest word is that the Canadian soldiers are being armed with the new type Lee-Enfield rifle. The government lets itself down easily by making a statement to the effect that the new Lee-Enfield embodies many of the best features of the Ross rifle. This is a good excuse as far as it goes but it doesn't go far enough to explain nine million dollars blown in on a rifle that had long ago demonstrated that it was not up to active service conditions.—H. 2,000,000 Belgians Depend on us for Bread!

Since shortly after the German invasion, the Belgians have depended for food entirely on the "Commission for Relief in Belgium". Their own store of food, even if not destroyed or pillaged, would last only three weeks—they have had no chance to raise more—and the ruthless Germans refuse to supply them!

Backed by the

so generously contributed in the British Empire and the United States, the neutral Belgian Relief Commission has imported enough wheat, flour and other foods to feed the whole nation so far. The great majority of the 7,000,000 Belgians left in the country have been able to pay for their daily allowance of bread—but a steadily growing number have no money left.

Unless we are willing to let these hundreds of thousands of women, children and old men starve, they must be fed at the expense of the Belgian Relief Fund. To make this possible someone must contribute nearly $3,000,000 a month—every month—all this winter!

No people under the Allied Flags are as well able to contribute generously as we Canadians! No cause has ever been more deserving of help! In the name of Justice and Humanity—for the sake of our own self-respect—let us give all we can to help our martyred Allies!

Three Mighty Forces Close Linked

Have you ever noted how an audience yawns in the face of an uninspired speaker?

On the other hand, have you noted how an audience will lean forward and grasp the chair arms when the speaker reveals enthusiasm?

Enthusiasm is the buoyant expression of truth. To impart belief in anything, a man must believe it deeply himself. We call such a man an enthusiast.

This applies to the written word also—particularly to advertisements. When the manufacturer really believes in his wares, his enthusiasm will almost inevitably find expression in Advertising. And enthusiasm will be contagious—his audience—the readers of the newspaper—will, figuratively speaking, "lean forward and listen intently."

To be convincing an advertisement must convey an unmistakable impression of enthusiasm. This it will only do when the article advertised has inherent worth.

Thus we have:

Sincerity -- Enthusiasm -- Advertising:
Three mighty forces, close-linked.

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper. If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of those will be furnished, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumsden Building, Toronto.

Production and Thrift

"To win the war with the decisiveness which will ensure lasting peace, the Empire will require to put forth its full collective power in men and in money. From this viewpoint it is our true policy to augment our financial strength by multiplying our productive exertions and by exercising rigid economy, which reduces to the minimum all expenditures upon luxuries and non-essentials. Only in this way shall we be able to make good the loss caused by the withdrawal of so many of our workers from industrial activities, repair the wastage of the war, and find the funds for its continuance. It cannot be too frequently or too earnestly impressed upon our people that the heaviest burdens of the conflict still lie before us, and that industry and thrift are, for those who remain at home, supreme patriotic duties upon whose faithful fulfilment our success, and consequently our national safety, may ultimately depend."—SIR THOMAS WHITE, Minister of Finance.

PRODUCE MORE, SAVE MORE.

MAKE LABOUR EFFICIENT.

SAVE MATERIALS FROM WASTE.

SPEND MONEY WISELY.

LET US PRODUCE AND SAVE—

The war is now turning on a contest of all forces and resources—men, munitions, food, money. The call to all is to produce more and more. It may be necessary to work harder. The place of those who enlist must be taken by those at home, men and women, old and young. The more we produce the more we can save. Produce more on the farms and in the gardens. Save more and help to win the war.

LET US NOT WASTE OUR LABOUR—

In this war-time all labour should be directly productive or should be assisting in production. Make it as efficient as possible. If your labour is on something that can be postponed, put it off till after the war and make your labour tell now. Making war is the first business of all Canadians. Efficiency in labour is as important as efficiency in fighting.

LET US NOT WASTE MATERIALS—

Begin at home. The larger portion of salaries and wages is spent on the home—food, fuel, light, clothing. Are any of these things being wasted? $20.00 a year saved from waste in every home in Canada will more than pay the interest on a war debt of $500,000,000.

LET US SPEND OUR MONEY WISELY—

Are you spending your money to the best advantage? What do you think of extravagance in war time? Tens of thousands of Canadians are daily risking their lives for us at home. Is it not our duty to be careful and economical? Canadian dollars are an important part of the war equipment. Make them tell. Have a War Savings Account. Buy a War Bond.
