King C. Gillette Benefactor to Man kind—Put His Idea Over

The difficulty of trying to shave with a dull, straight-edged razor inspired King Camp Gillette, who died near Los Angeles Sunday, to do something to make that daily task easier and safer.

He studied the problem constantly and finally there came to him the idea of the thin, sharp, double-edged razor blade that could be manufactured so cheaply that it could be discarded when it became dull.

How to use the blade was another matter that occupied the attention of Mr. Gillette for five years.

QUITE UNNECESSARY

The fishermen's strike should have been quite unnecessary. Three weeks of a short season has been lost and much needed money allowed to pass by our doors just because the two parties to the fishing industry failed to agree.

We are not now blaming anyone although we believe that either party would have been better off by giving way right at the first. What we blame is our method of handling these matters. A strike of that kind is harmful to the community and therefore should not be allowed. The fishermen should have their fair share of the proceeds of the fisheries and the canners should have theirs. A strike of that kind would not be tolerated in Russia or Italy.

THE WORD "IMPERIAL"

The word "Imperial" used in reference to the forthcoming economic conference at Ottawa is an unfortunate one because there is nothing Imperial about it. The conference will deal with matters of mutual interest to members of the British Commonwealth of Nations, each nation being represented as well as each of the crown colonies of Great Britain. Trade matters will be discussed and possibly defence but there will be nothing about it which smacks of Imperial aggrandizement. Possibly we may some day invent a new word more suitable to describe that which has to do with the British Commonwealth.

Proud to show visitors our spotless factories

YOU like to know that the foods you eat are made under sanitary conditions. That's why we are always delighted to have people see "where Kellogg's Corn Flakes are made."

We have thousands of visitors, every year, who take home with them a picture of sunlit kitchens, gleaming machinery, employees in fresh white uniforms . . . of cleanliness and care for quality. If you ever come to London, Ontario, we hope you'll stop and see us.

You'll know then why W. K. Kellogg makes this unconditional guarantee: "If you don't think Kellogg's the best and freshest corn flakes you ever tasted, return the empty red-and-green package and we will cheerfully refund your money."

during which he worked out the plan and finally perfected the model for the Gillette safety razor. The device eventually made him a wealthy man and his face one of the best known in the world, for his likeness was printed on the wrapper of every Gillette blade, the sales of which mounted to more than 1,000,000,000 a year.

Slow to Take Hold

Like many inventions, the safety razor was slow gaining popularity. It was first placed on sale in 1903 and during that year 51 razors and 14 dozen of blades were disposed of. The next year these figures increased to 90,000 razors and 100,000 dozens of blades. In 1926 the company sold 15,000,000 razors and more than 50,000,000 packages of blades, in all parts of the world.

Mr. Gillette was born at Fond du Lac, Wis., January 5, 1855. His father, George Wolcott Gillette, was a descendant of the first governor of Massachusetts and an inventor. His mother, Fanny Lamira Camp Gillette was the author of the "White House Cook Book," one of the most popular volumes of its kind.

The son was educated in Chicago, to which city his parents moved when he was five years old. After working for a hardware company in Chicago two years, Mr. Gillette became a travelling salesman. He was sent to England by one company to establish a branch of the business and upon returning to the United States joined the sales force of a bottle stopper company.

In 1901 he was placed in charge of the latter company's London office, but remained abroad only three years when he resigned. By that time he had perfected the idea of his safety razor and returned to America to devote all his time to it.

Father E. M. Leray, O.M.I. of Stewart left on yesterday afternoon's train for a trip to Edmonton. He will return in the course of the next few weeks via Vancouver.

It is generally believed that only one of Christ's apostles, John, escaped martyrdom.

Twenty Years Ago

In Prince Rupert

July 11, 1912

Land sports and water sports were featured this year in the most ambitious Dominion Day celebration ever staged in the history of Prince Rupert. Generous prizes were offered.

The steamer Prince Rupert had three honeymoon couples on board on her arrival from Vancouver. They were Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Forster, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Cambie and Mr. and Mrs. George Little.

Norman Griffiths, M.P., states following a recent visit to British Columbia, that the mineral wealth of the northern part of the province is as yet untouched and the greatest known coalfield lies dormant in the Ground Hog country.

PRINCE GEORGE

The board of school trustees has decided not to re-engage C. A. Scott, principal of the high school, Mrs. L. Dixon of the high school teaching staff and Miss E. Milligan of Connaught public school. Miss Milligan has been engaged in teaching in Prince George for approximately twenty years.

The Dominion Day celebration here included a full program of aquatic events such as swimming races, diving contests and motor-boat sprints. There were also field sports and football game between McBride and Prince George.

Pioneer Knight Of Key Subject Of Biography

S. G. Lawrence, genial telegraph operator at Stewart and the town's consistent booster, was a visitor to Vancouver early last month for the first time in more than a decade, says a biographical sketch in the magazine section of the Vancouver Province. He has watched Stewart boom, run through a depression and boom again, and he is sure that she will be on top of the world again when prices of silver and lead improve.

Four years ago there were forty-six mining companies operating in Stewart district. Now the number of profitable mining operations there is down.

Mr. Lawrence visions a splendid future for Stewart as an outlet to a huge country east and north of Portland Canal. He wants the government to put in a road from Stewart to the Northern Cassiar. Cassiar district itself covers almost one-third of British Columbia and is full of mining properties which could be extremely profitable if an outlet could be secured for their output.

MUSSALLEM CARRIES ON

Arrangements Made for Continuation of Grocery Business at Old Stand

Announcement is made by the Mussallem Cash & Carry that it will carry on at the old stand, on Third Avenue, arrangements to that effect having been made.

Mr. Mussallem says he hopes to serve his old customers as heretofore. His firm was the one instrumental in bringing down grocery prices and he plans to continue to give his old customers the best possible prices on a cash and carry basis.

His store on Third Avenue has for several years been the Mecca for those who looked for high values at low prices. This policy will be continued and the store will endeavor to do even better than in former days.

The Cash and Carry will handle first-class groceries, fruit and vegetables and will give free delivery to those purchasing to the amount of two dollars or more at one time.

Out-of-town orders will receive his usual prompt attention as he is in a position now to handle these as previously.

QUEEN CHARLOTTE ISLANDS

(Prepared by a Resident of Long Standing)

RESOURCES

The Queen Charlotte Islands have the last and only great stand of Sitka Spruce in the world.

The Queen Charlotte Islands have the largest stand of Cypress or yellow cedar in the world. This timber for railroad ties will outlast treated or creosoted ties as three to one. There are millions of yellow cedar poles on the Islands and it is believed by many that a very high grade of turpentine can be extracted from the trees; also oil for mining and flotation purposes.

Queen Charlotte Islands have very large red cedar timber stands. When recently examined by Japanese experts it was pronounced to be the toughest and best in the world. Large quantities of this timber are suited for piling, which when treated with creosote will outlast fir four to one. There are millions of feet of alder on the Islands for which there is said to be a ready market in Japan.

Queen Charlotte Islands have over 100 miles of gold-bearing sand on the east and north coast beaches.

Extensive copper deposits and gold-bearing quartz are known to exist. Also antimony, iron and other ore showings have attracted considerable attention.

For many years oil prospectors have been attracted by oil seepages at various points. There are extensive oil shale beds and evidences of natural gas. Coal is known to underlie a considerable part of the country.

SPORTSMAN'S PARADISE

The Islands are a sportsman's paradise. Black bear are numerous, and there are also plenty of deer, wild cattle, ducks, geese, pheasants and quail. King salmon can be caught with a trolling hook.

Pink salmon abound in countless numbers and Chums run up the creeks in the proper season.

The Islands have fine razor clams and scallop clams, said to be the only extensive beds in the British Empire. The scallop, a rival to the oyster, has not yet been introduced to the world's markets. They are found in the neighborhood of Naden Harbor, Rose Spit, Tow Hill and Skidegate Inlet.

Crabs abound in the waters adjacent to the mouths of streams on the north and east coast of Graham Island.

Other commercial fish found in the adjacent waters include grey fish, sable, various varieties of flat fish, herring and sardines.

THE CLIMATE

The climate of the Islands is mild and tourists who wish to get out of the beaten paths will find it a wonderful change from usual routes of travel. There is a great field for archeological and natural history studies, for mining ventures, for timber industries, for oil speculation, for sport or just as a place to loaf and enjoy life.
