Served For Twenty-Two Years as Ambassador at Washington—Was Friend of Presidents

PARIS, July 18.—Jean Jules Jusserand, aged 77, who served for twenty-two years as French ambassador to the United States, died this morning.

Jusserand's long term as French Ambassador to the United States established a record for the longest continuous assignment in the history of the Washington diplomatic corps, of which he likewise was dean for an unparalleled number of years.

M. Jusserand was a diplomat of the old school. Because of his unassuming manner and quiet methods, unofficial Washington can point to few brilliant accomplishments by him, but his friends say the station he reached in world affairs provided a fitting measure for the attainments and abilities recognized so readily by those with whom he came in contact.

He devoted himself first of all to avoiding friction of any kind in all of his official relations, and permeating his whole life was a

CONDITION DANGEROUS

LOS ANGELES, July 18:—The physician to Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton announced yesterday that the Foursquare Gospel evangelist was suffering from an extensive basal fracture of the skull and that her condition was critical, with possibility that slightest excitement or shock might bring about death.

Mrs. Hutton suffered the injury a week ago when she fell in a faint after hearing the news that David Hutton had lost in a breach-of-fidelity case brought against him by Mirtle St. Pierre.

Followers of the evangelist engaged in mass prayer for her recovery yesterday.

Presence of Mind of Stanley Baldwin Averts Panic Sunday Night Aboard Great Steamship

MONTREAL, July 18:—A minor blaze, started by a fused electric wire in a room of the steamer Empress of Britain Sunday night as she was steaming Canada-ward from England, threatened to create a flurry of excitement which was avoided by the presence of mind of Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, head of the British delegation to the Imperial conference and one of the passengers on board the great ship.

Towards the end of the usual Sunday night concert aboard the ship, a wisp of smoke was seen curling near the stage. Mr. Baldwin, who was presiding over the concert, announced quietly: "That ends the program."

The crowded room was emptied without disorder and the fire was soon extinguished.

Enormous Waterway Project Will Involve Expenditure Of No Less Than $800,000,000 In Eight Years

Pact is Endorsed By Stimson For United States and Herridge For Canada—Will Have to Be Approved By Legislative Bodies of Both Countries

OTTAWA, July 18:—The St. Lawrence seaway treaty was signed in Washington this morning by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson for the United States and Hon. W. D. Herridge, Canadian minister to United States for Canada. The gigantic project, second only from an engineering standpoint to the Panama Canal, calls for the development of a 180-mile stretch from Welland Canal for which $128,000,000 is allowed.

The actual net capital cost to Canada is brought down to $38,701,000 by means of $67,000,000 paid by Ontario to the Dominion on account of power work on the international section.

The total net cost to the United States is $243,000,000.

The figures given do not include the cost of installing power house, machinery or equipment for the development of power as this is financed independent of the treaty—in the case of Canada by Ontario.

The treaty deals only with that section of the St. Lawrence River which constitutes the boundary between the state of New York and the province of Ontario, known as the international section.

"The national or Quebec section of the river," Premier Bennett stated today, "will be developed by the Dominion with Canadian labor and materials. No control or supervision, direct or indirect, will be exercised by the United States over this national undertaking."

"As Canada and the United States both possess rights in the international section of the St. Lawrence River," Premier Bennett added, "the development of the river for the combined benefit of navigation and power can only be undertaken by agreement and co-operation between the two countries. It is, therefore, necessary to have a treaty defining the basis of co-operation."

The net new capital cost to Canada is $38,701,000. Canada has received credit for the expenditures already made, including the new

LINER IN COLLISION

Empress of Britain and Tramp Steamer Had Impact Today in St. Lawrence River

MONTREAL, July 18:—The palatial Canadian Pacific Railway ocean liner Empress of Britain was in collision with the tramp steamer Briarwood near Red Island in the St. Lawrence River near the mouth of the Saguenay River about 8 o'clock this morning, it was reported to head offices of the company here.

Damage was not serious, but two vessels continuing on to Quebec. It is presumed that the fog, which had been delaying the Empress, was the cause of the accident.

The Briarwood is a British vessel of 4,000 tons.

British delegates to the Imperial Conference were on board the Empress of Britain.

SOLDIER IS DEAD

Lord Plumer, Who Won Distinction in Both Boer and Great Wars, Passes at Age of 75

Colorful Career

Great British Military Leader Was Well Known and Popular With Canadians

LONDON, July 18:—Field Marshal Lord Plumer, one of the greatest English soldiers, commander of the Fifth Corps at the opening of the Great War and later of the Second Army, died Saturday at the age of 75.

There are many Canadian veterans, both of the Great War and of the war in South Africa, who will remember Field Marshal Lord Plumer with feelings above mere respect. When he commanded the Second Army of the British Expeditionary Force in France, the earlier Canadian divisions under his leadership were involved in some of the most eventful operations on the Belgian Front. The Field Marshal, indeed, had Canadian troops with him throughout almost the whole time he was in France. Lord Plumer always had a good word for these troops, and whenever they scored one of the first telegrams of congratulation would invariably be forthcoming from the rugged veteran in command of the Second Army. In the final advance, when two Canadian divisions accompanied the Second Army across the Rhine, General Plumer took the salute of the First Division on the Suspension Bridge at Cologne, while the Second Division marched past.

Jones, provincial minister of finance and member of the legislature for South Okanagan, and Mrs. Jones paid a brief visit here last evening enroute to Anxoy and Stewart and will be here again tomorrow on their way south.

Mr. Jones explained that the trip was entirely in the nature of a holiday for the purpose of getting a brief rest from his public duties which have been arduous enough of late. He did not have any statement to make for publication.

The minister of finance was met by Mayor Cyril H. Orme and other local friends.

STRIKE IS NOW OVER

Rivers Inlet Fishermen Have Resumed Their Activities

There was no change in the strike situation at Rivers Inlet at the end of the week, according to word brought here from down the coast by the steamer Catala last evening. Only a few fishermen were at work although there were hopes for an early settlement of the dispute over the prices for salmon.

The provincial police here were advised this morning that the strike had been settled and that all the boats went out last night.

certain and definite plan to ever cement closer the friendly connections between the great republics of the old and new worlds.

M. Jusserand had enviable relations of personal friendship, particularly with the American presidents from Roosevelt to Coolidge. Early in the administration of Roosevelt, the Ambassador, then newly arrived, developed an intimacy with the chief executive seldom equalled in diplomatic annals. He became a partner of Mr. Roosevelt in the latter's many rigorous pastimes, almost daily competitor in the games of the "tennis cabinet," and a companion in the trying pedestrian feats in which Mr. Roosevelt so often indulged.

Only high American officials of those days are able to properly calculate the effect of this intimacy on the delicate negotiations for transfer of the French rights in the Panama Canal to America.

The good footing established by the ambassador continued through the administration of Taft, Wilson and Harding, and through more than a year of the presidency of Coolidge.

Recalled to France

It was in 1924, at the moment France was making her first overtures toward payment of her war debt to the United States, that the newly-constituted Herriot regime at Paris appointed Emile Daeschner as Ambassador to Washington. M. Jusserand, who had held the post since 1902, through vicissitudes which included the grave difficulties of a world war, was a much disappointed man; but he remained philosophically loyal to his government.

It was the judgment of official Washington that the highest faculties of Ambassador Jusserand were shown in his manner of handling the grave and delicate problems that cast a warning shadow over Washington before the United States entered the World War. Questions arising from the entente blockade in the waters of the North Sea were among the most trying he had to meet and solve without alienating the friendship of the American government.

Doubtless his unflinching tact was a great contributing factor to the decision of America to enter the world war on the side of the Allies.

During the period of his service at Washington the embassy was a bright spot in capital society. At many social functions, it was shown how universally he was regarded by other diplomats. At these gatherings Mme. Jusserand, who was Miss Elise Richards, a woman of American birth, always played a prominent part. The Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand had been married in Paris in 1895.

Born in Lyons, on February 18, 1855, M. Jusserand entered the diplomatic service soon after he attained his majority.

His first important diplomatic assignment abroad was as minister to Denmark, where he served from 1898 until his appointment to Washington four years later.

Imperial Oil Co.'s tanker Imperial, Capt. Geddes, arrived from Ioco last night with a cargo of package goods for the company's local station. After discharging, the Imperial will sail this afternoon on her return south.

Sweeter, More Fragrant in Your Pipel

As he came closer—as he took her in his arms—again she noticed "B.O.!"

The Man Who Threw Away LOVE

"Let me go," she cried. "I cannot marry you. I never should have promised."

ANOTHER romance ended—all because of "B.O." Had he only been more careful! Only realized how important it is to guard against "B.O."—body odour. Our pores are constantly giving off odour-causing waste—a quart daily. Yet we quickly become used to an ever-present odour and don't notice it in ourselves—don't realize how it may be annoying others. For of all unpleasant odours, the one most disliked is "B.O." in somebody else!

Don't risk offending

A hint of "B.O." may easily ruin our chances with the girl we love—the man we want to impress in business. Don't run this risk—ever. Keep pores clean and deodorized by frequent bathing with Lifebuoy. Its creamy, abundant, penetrating lather goes deep into the pores, purifies them of every trace of unpleasant odour—leaves you gloriously, satisfyingly CLEAN. Lifebuoy's pleasant, extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you, "Here's an end to 'B.O.' danger."

And remember too, harmful germs lurk on things we touch. Our finger prints leave them on food we eat and so they get into our system. Frequent washing in Lifebuoy's rich, antiseptic lather renders germs inactive—keeps us safe.

Watch complexions freshen

When complexions look dull and cloudy, it's generally because the skin is only half-cleaned. Get rid of pore-deep dirt and impurities with nightly Lifebuoy "facials". Work the pure, bland lather well into the pores; then rinse. See how quickly dull skins freshen and glow with clear healthy radiance.

Pacific Does the Impossible

When Pacific Milk began its experiments toward packing milk in vacuum cans, experts said it was impossible. Dry foods, yes; but milk could not be handled like a dry product. But knowing how vacuum processes retain dry food flavors we were anxious to attain that perfection for Pacific. And we have done the "impossible." Pacific Milk is vacuum packed.

SOLDIER IS DEAD

Lt.-Gen. Sir Arthur Currie on the bridge at Bonn.

Plumer, who was born in 1856, joined the York and Lancaster Regiment in 1876, and saw his earliest active service in the Soudan. His first important appointment was in command of troops in the Matabele Rebellion of 1896. Plumer had—outwardly—some of the idiosyncrasies which used to make the army officer a butt for music-hall comedians. He was a dandy in dress, he wore a monocle, and he pronounced his "R's" as "W's." But those of his command who tried to take advantage of his supposed weaknesses found themselves speedily discomfited. Plumer was a martinet, but he was always eager for the well-being of his men.

In Great War

On the opening of the Great War Plumer went out to command the new Fifth Corps on the Ypres Front and in May of the following year succeeded Sir Horace Smith-Dorrien at the head of the Second Army. In June 1917 he proved his ability as a leader when he fought and won the Battle of Messines with small loss, although he took 72,000 prisoners. He was in France again in 1918, after taking an army to Italy, and in meeting the great German attack, again displayed his consistent mastery in difficult circumstances.

For a short period after the war he commanded the Army of the Rhine, and then became Governor and Commander-in-Chief of Malta. He held this post until the end of 1924. In 1925 he was appointed High Commissioner for Palestine, in succession to Sir Herbert Samuel. Lord Plumer held this appointment for three years.

In July 1919 Plumer was made a Field-Marshal and received a peerage with a grant of £30,000. He was appointed High Commissioner of Trans-Jordania in April 1923, but held the office only a short time.

REAPS HER WILD OATS

Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery Stars of "Letty Lynton" at Capitol Theatre

The "wild oats" sowed by youth form the structure of the screen play "Letty Lynton," featuring Robert Montgomery and Joan Crawford, at the Capitol Theatre the first of this week. Based on the famous novel by Marie Belloc Lowndes, the picture moves through colorful revels in South America and romance beneath tropic skies and then catapults the hero and heroine into the midst of grim reality in New York in a swift shift of dramatic trend.

Miss Crawford plays the part of an heiress who, spoiled and petted by society and wrecking men's hearts with every whim, is finally gripped in the trap of her own indiscretions to face the choice of prison or a wrecked reputation. It is a glamorous role and Miss Crawford gives one of the most effective performances of her fine career.

Montgomery, as a flippant young American, who turns fighter when the happiness of the girl he loves is menaced, makes the most of an excellent role and scores another hit.

Nils Asther, the Swedish screen star with newly mastered English, is a fascinating villain. Lewis Stone is a compelling district attorney and May Robson, famous stage star, contributes a strong performance as the stern old mother.

Secure Cash During Hard Times

The Classified Ads.

Many people have something in the house they would like to sell which could be turned into money if they knew of a customer. Try a classified advertisement. Most people read the classifieds. For about fifty cents you can let them know about it and it may prove a profitable transaction.

Renting the House

There are a number of houses in the city not rented yet and many people make little effort to secure a tenant. Others who are wise to their opportunities try a classified advertisement in the "For Rent" column and often get results. As one satisfied customer said recently: "Those little ads certainly do bring results."

Some Like Reader Ads.

Some people after trying other kinds of advertising decide to try a reader among the locals and personals. Then they have got results. The cost is a little higher but they have been well satisfied. When conditions are like they are today the newspapers can often help. The price is not very high. Do not lie down and bemoan your hard fate. Try a different kind of advertisement and if that is not successful try again.
